SPECIAL TO OUR READERS.

As the design of THE CANADIAN GROCER is to benefit mutually all interested in the business, we would request all parties ordering goods or making purchases of any description from houses advertising with us to mention in their letter that such advertisement was noticed in THE CANADIAN GROCER.

OUR THIRD VOLUME.

With the present issue THE CANADIAN GROCER AND GENERAL STOREKEEPER enters upon its third volume. Its progress during the past year has been marvellous. Over two thousand new names have been added to the list of subscribers in the past eight months. The paper is now to be found in the hands of the leading merchants all over Canada. It is satisfactory to know that both subscribers and advertisers are more than pleased with it. During the present year we will endeavour to make it still more valuable to both. A new dress of type has been ordered, and with it the general appearance of the paper will be materially improved.

THE BUSINESS SITUATION.

Business in Canada during the year just closed has been quite satisfactory, both as regards volume and net profits. At the same time it has been a very trying year. There have been numerous failures; large quantities of bankrupt stocks have been thrown on the market and profits have been hard to get. The honourable merchants have had a hard struggle to keep their business on a paying basis. The large advance in the prices of wheat and barley in the early autumn revived trade very considerably and, for a time, quite an active business was done. The farmers, however, were not content with the high prices, but, as usual, wanted more. These most of them did not get, and there is now every probability that values will not again, this season, touch the high point reached in the early part. Latterly business has been quiet, but as soon as snow falls and deliveries of grain again commence, a more active trade is looked for. This will be warmly welcomed, especially by the country trade, who have still a larger quantity of staples on hand than usual at this season. There are numerous complaints on the scarcity of money. The only excuse given is, that farmers not having sold their grain cannot meet their obligations.

CANNED GOODS PACKERS.

Mr. W. Boulter, of Picton, has received a letter from Mr. Wm. Ballinger, President of the Western Packers Association, inviting him and through him the other Canadian packers and manufacturers of packers machinery to attend the meeting of the Western Packers' Association, to be held in Chicago, Feb. 13. It is likely that a number of Canadian packers and manufacturers will attend the meeting. Arrangements have been made with Messrs. Norton Bros. of Chicago to provide a building with ample space for the exhibition of all kinds of machinery used or intended to be used in canning factories.

TO BE WOUND UP.

The Rising Sun Canning Co., of Hamilton, as stated last week, is to be wound up. This course was rather unexpected by many of those interested. They thought there would be no difficulty in effecting a compromise. Among the shareholders are a number of market gardeners, several of whom are said to have invested their entire savings in the now insolvent corporation. It is whispered that a competing firm which suffered a good deal from the reckless way in which the Rising Sun people had cut prices, induced one of the principal creditors not to agree to a compromise of any kind.

COMMERCIAL TRAVELLERS.

WESTERN ONTARIO TRAVELLERS.

The Western Ontario Commercial Travellers' Association is in a flourishing condition. President Samuel Munroe, in his address at the annual meeting, said that the net gain for the year, after the payment of every claim, is $2,012, which is much larger than in any previous year in our history. In addition to this amount we have written off $385 on our Dominion Savings Society stock, bringing it down to par value. Had this not been necessary, the gain for the year would have been $2,400. Four years ago we had a membership of but 412; now it was 739—an increase of 327, or 80 per cent. The reserve fund four years ago was $6,300; now it was $12,300—an increase of $6,000, or 100 per cent. The benefits paid to members or beneficiaries during these four years were nearly $12,000, and the amount of the mortuary benefit guaranteed by the Reserve Fund, to date, was $300,000; 400 members, at $600—$240,000; and 300 members, at $200—$60,000.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE ONTARIO ASSOCIATION.

The annual meeting of the Commercial Travellers' Association of Ontario was held here last week. The following are now the officers of the Association:—

President—A. A. Allan, Toronto.

First Vice-President—John Burns, Toronto.

Second Vice-President—C. C. VanNorman, Toronto.

Director for Toronto Board—Joseph Kilgour, R. J. Orr, H. S. Davidson, James Haywood, Joseph Devaney, John Orr.

Directors for Hamilton Board—W. G. Reid, E. A. Dalley, F. A. Ashbough, George E. Hamilton, H. G. Wright, R. F. Steele, J. S. Reid, J. H. Herring.

Directors for London Board—M. T. Lester, P. J. Watt.

Director for Brantford Board—J. S. Hamilton.

The Secretary read the annual report, which stated:

The directors have much pleasure in calling the attention of the members to the fact that the close of the present financial year finds the Association in possession of a surplus of $152,729.63. Early in the history of the Association it was determined to forego insurance until the funds amounted to $50,000. This point was reached in 1882. The report of 1885 marked a second period: the surplus amounted to $100,000, and was a matter of much congratulation among the members; upon attaining to the third $50,000, the present directors are glad to be able to report continued improvement in the resources of the Association, despite the heavy mortality bills which have been met during the past two years.

The receipts amounted to $27,232; interest, $7,016; balance carried to capital amounts to $16,138.26, being an increase over last year's balance of $513.71. The membership also shows an increase, the total now being 2,718.

Under the provisions of by-law 67, the annual benefit allotment was ascertained as being $16,704.94 for 1888, and the maximum mortuary benefit fixed at $1,200.

The total sum paid under the insurance by-laws amounted to $12,614.66. The amount received for interest on investments was $7,016.52. These figures are placed in contrast for the purpose of giving prominence to the soundness of the policy pursued hitherto of steadily aiming at increasing the interest-earning power of the Association, thereby ensuring stability to its insurance plans, augmenting the security of certificate holders, and placing the permanent position of the Association itself beyond the possibility of danger.

The calls upon the relief, or charitable fund have been more frequent than last year, although the directors have been able to grant assistance in every deserving case before them.

Our relations with the transportation companies are harmonious, the privileges being continued upon the basis of the settlement approved of by the adjourned annual meeting of May 12.

The maximum mortuary benefit for 1889 has been placed at $1,200.

Some discussion took place on railway privileges, but no action was taken, the matter being left to the directors to deal with.

A proposal to erect a large Association building fell through.

CUSTOMS DECISIONS.

The Board of Customs rendered the following customs decisions in December:—

Acorns, 3 cents per lb.

Berean leaf cluster, 6 cents per lb. and 20 per cent.

Rawhide rope, 25 per cent.

Steel file blanks, 30.

Silk pulpit hangings for churches, 30.

Silk altar frontals for churches, 30.

Steel cut to shape for the manufacture of shovels and spades, to be rated as blanks at $1 per dozen and 25 per cent.

Silver soap and pumice soap, being the same or similar material as soap powder, 3 cents per lb.

VENISON IN REFRIGERATORS.

A petition is being numerously signed in Ottawa by influential citizens for presentation to the Ontario Legislature, praying that wholesale and retail dealers in fish and game may be allowed to keep venison in their refrigerators from the commencement of close time until the sitting of the Dominion House of Commons.

BOARD OF TRADE DRY GOODS SECTION.

A private meeting of the dry goods section of the Toronto Board of Trade was held Wednesday afternoon. The meeting was well attended and remained in session for two hours. Mr. Stapleton Caldecott, the chairman, was very reticent when asked for information regarding the business, but admitted that cordial unanimity prevailed. The discussion was chiefly on matters connected with terms and dating of invoices. It was agreed to call another meeting soon.

ALL ABOUT TEA.

There are peculiarities connected with tea, the trade and consumers that are interesting to note. Under the head of Green teas come Hyson, Young Hyson, Gunpowder and Imperial. Hardly any of these teas are sold anywhere else except in the West, Northern New York and Northern Vermont and New Hampshire. There are certainly none, or none to speak of, sold either in Boston or its vicinity. In fact, green teas are being less used every year. The variety of green tea known as "Gunpowder" is still farther known as "Pea Leaf." This tea comes in grains, about as large as a kernel of corn, produced by rolling the leaves into a sort of oblong shape. These teas are colored with different ingredients, such as Prussian blue. In the preparation of Gunpowder teas it is said that large quantities of gypsum are used; however, this tea well deserves its name, for at a casual glance it has about the same greasy-glazed look that gunpowder has, except that the tea is green instead of black. These teas when "drawn" deposit a sort of oily, rank-looking substance around the edge of the cup, and its flavour is strong and heavy, possessing what is known as an "earthy" taste. Hardly any of this "Gunpowder" tea is sold, but wherever there is a settlement of French Canadians, or a gang of French Canadian workmen, it is always sold; and, indeed, these people will take no other if they can get this variety.

Japan teas are becoming less used than in former years, and in Northern Vermont and New Hampshire probably not 10 per cent. of the teas sold now are Japans; whereas a few years ago nearly 33 1-3 per cent. were Japan teas. In fact, in the towns about Boston: Lawrence, Lowell, Lynn, Beverly, Haverhill, and so on, where Japan teas are sold at all, they are invariably used to mix with Formosa and other Oolong teas. Formosa and Amoys are Oolong teas, the first a high grade and the second a low grade Oolong.

To speak farther of the sale of Japan teas, it is safe to say that there are not so many by 10 per cent. sold at the present time as there were five years ago. This is looked upon with favour by the grocers and handlers of tea, as they are anxious to educate the trade to the use of the finer grades of teas.

A good story was related to the writer which illustrates the obstinacy of human nature. A grocer from Northern Vermont came to one of our large wholesale houses; and among his wants were a line of teas. Of course he called for the green variety of Japan, which was about the only kind that his customer would buy. The salesman of our grocery house showed him a black, natural leaf Japan tea, and explained to him how this is dried and cured upon bamboo nettings, while the other is cured in copper kettles, and the coloring matter sprinkled on in the process of curing; that this natural leaf would draw exactly the same flavors as the green, and that at the same time it was better, and possessed a richer, finer flavor. The customer was so much pleased with it, after seeing both drawn together, that he concluded to take it, and said that "that was the kind of Japan that he was going to get his customers to use." After he got the tea home a lady came into his store and he showed her the tea, and told her about it. "That ain't Japan tea," said she; but the grocer went on to explain how it was cured on bamboo netting, and was the natural leaf, while the green was cured in copper kettles, etc.; and after he had spent all his breath talking the woman said: "Well, I'll take the Japan." Notwithstanding this, the Japans are being less and less used by the country consumers.

Here we might say that Young Hyson is simply the ordinary Hyson tea leaf, picked while young.

These teas, familiarly known as "English Breakfast" teas, are simply high grades of Congous and Souchongs; and are so called because they principally go to England, and are particularly liked and consumed by the English people, who take more of them than of any other tea. They are a "high toned" tea, and are not much sold here except to the wealthy or fashionable class, who prefer them, probably because they are "English." So "English Breakfast" is only a name for them; and, indeed, they are never so spoken of by the importers, who call them by their true names—Congou and Souchong. They of course know that these teas are known as "English Breakfast" among the trade. During the past season many of these teas have been imported from England, and they are every season.

We have been enabled to obtain information about tea that is probably more exhaustive, more accurate in detail, and gives more real knowledge about tea, as well as information useful to every grocer, than anything that has ever before been published in any paper:—

Tea, Thea, is a genus of shrubs of the natural order Ternstraemiaceae, very nearly allied to the genus Camellia, and distinguished from it only by the not deciduous calyx, and by the dissepiments remaining connected in the centre of the capsule after it opens. The genus seems to derive its importance entirely from a single species, the dried leaves of which are the tea of commerce, one of the most important articles of the world, and yielding the most esteemed and extensively used of all non-alcoholic beverages. This species, the tea shrub or Chinese tea, T. Sinensis, is 20 to 30 feet high, but in a state of cultivation only five or six feet high, with numerous branches or lanceolate leaves, which are from two to six inches long. The flowers grow singly, or two or three together in the axils of the leaves; and are rather large, white and fragrant, with five-parted calyx, having six to nine petals, and many stamens. By cultivation for many centuries, numerous varieties of this plant have been produced in China, some of which have been reckoned as distinct species, particularly T. iridis, formerly supposed to yield green tea, T. Bohea, formerly supposed to yield black tea, and T. stricta. Of these, the first named has the longest, and the last the shortest leaves. The Assam tea, which has been called T. Assamensis, appears also to be a mere variety of the same species.

The cultivation of tea is chiefly confined to the region between north latitude 24-35 deg. and east longitude 115-122 deg. Tea for domestic use is, however, cultivated both in more southern and more northern regions. The plant is to be accounted sub-tropical, but bears a tropical climate well.

In the neighbourhood of London it often endures all the frost of winter without protection. In few of the countries into which it has been introduced, however, is the flavour of the dried leaf such as it is in China. The use of tea is said to have been introduced into China itself from the Corea about the fourth century of the Christian era, and to have extended to Japan about the ninth century. The Chinese cultivate it chiefly on the northern slopes of hills. A new plantation is made by sowing the seed in holes at proper distances, two or three seeds being put in a hole to secure a plant. The first crop is obtained in the third year, when the shrub is by no means full grown. When about seven years old it yields only a scanty crop of hard leaves, and is cut down, when new shoots rise from the roots and bear fine leaves in abundance. This is repeated from time to time till the plant dies at about the age of thirty years.

All that can be affirmed regarding the early history of this beverage is, that it appears to have been used for ages in China, where it is believed by the natives to be indigenous. It first became known to Europeans at the end of the sixteenth century, though some writers referred to it as a product of both China and Japan. The first reference to it by a native of Britain is in a letter dated June 27, 1615, written by a Mr. Wickham, which is in the records of the East India Company; and it is curious to observe that both Portuguese and English writers referred to use their own rendering of the native name, which is tcha. A writer named Maffel called it chia, and Mr. Wickham called it chau. From about this time it became gradually known to the wealthy inhabitants of London, in the form of occasional presents of small quantities from India, obtained from China, or by small lots in the markets from time to time, but always exorbitantly dear, bringing sometimes as much as $50 per pound, and never less than $25. A rather large consignment was, however, received in 1567; this fell into the hands of a thriving London merchant, Mr. Thomas Garray, who established a house for selling the prepared beverage; and that house, under the name of "Garraway's Coffee House," is still a famous establishment in that city. From 1660 until 1689 a duty was levied on the drink made with tea at the rate of $2 per gallon; but from the latter date a duty of $1.25 per pound, with an addition of 5 per cent. ad valorem was levied. For many years the duties, although occasionally changed, were always very high, and were levied on both customs and the excise. The expiration in 1883 of the charter of the East India Company, which had held a complete monopoly of the tea trade, produced a change; the ad valorem duty was abolished, and differential duties of 1s., 6d., 2s., 2d., 3s., per pound were substituted; but they worked badly, and and were abandoned in 1836 for one uniform rate of 2s., 1d., per pound, to which, in 1840, was added an additional 5 per cent. From that time to the present, several changes, always reductions, have taken place, until now when the duty is only 6d. per pound.

Much mystery and error for a long time existed upon the subject of the species producing the tea of commerce. By many it was said that the qualities known as black teas were produced by the species known to botanists as Thea Bohea, and the green teas from T. iridis. Others held that only one species was used to make both the black and green varieties, and that the difference arose from the method and time of preparation.—New England Grocer.

NEGLIGENT BOOKKEEPING.

We have occasionally called attention to a possible source of loss in retail stores through neglect to charge items to the account of customers. A correspondent of the New Jersey Trade Review, referring to this subject, suggests a plan which might serve as an effectual check to such errors, and at the same time simplify the posting of the account books. He says:

In a recent conversation with a retail merchant who has been engaged in business for over half a century, I asked him what he considered the biggest leak in the majority of retail grocery stores. He replied: "It is my opinion that the most money is lost by a large part of the retail grocery stores in this country, not by failure to collect the pay for credit sales, but by the neglect to enter or charge them in the books." I found many of them to hold the same opinion. They claimed that the omissions to charge credit sales by the clerks were much more frequent than was supposed; that it was not intentional by the clerks, but usually occurred during a rush, the clerk depending on his memory.

I notice that many grocers are adopting a checking system or device whereby each clerk always makes it a rule to give a bill with every credit sale, or itemized bill. In making out this bill he necessarily makes a duplicate, which he finds in his hands. After giving or sending the bill with the goods this duplicate bill is regarded as cash and must be placed in the money drawer as cash. This is found in practice to be an effectual means of always charging credit sales, as the bill is regarded as cash, and must go in the till before the clerk waits upon another customer.

I have enquired of several grocers who are using such a system as to their methods of bookkeeping, and find that they have discarded the order book, day book or journal, and only use a ledger, posting direct from the slips or duplicate bills in the money drawer, using, of course, a cash book to record the amount of the daily sales. They claim that it is a great saving of time, as not more than five minutes is required to make up or balance cash at night.

THE WEEKLY PAYMENT OF WAGES.

The evils of the system of monthly payments adopted by many large employers of labour, are forcibly depicted by the Northwest Trade as follows:—

"The cause of a retail grocer's failure the other day was said to be (as usual) outstanding accounts, collectible but not accessible in time to meet pressing obligations. It seems that the customers of this store were largely families of labouring people, and the bread winners of these families were paid by the month. . . . This merchant has learned by experience just what many of our subscribers had learned before him, and that is that monthly payments tend to extravagance on the part of the customers. It is so easy to order goods during a month, and before it is expected, either by the customer or the merchant, the bill has run up into good sized figures, which it is not so easy to pay, as the incomes of the families are limited. It is so easy to buy what the housewife knows she cannot afford except by skimping somewhere else, which she often makes up her mind to do, but never or seldom does. And then again, the husband often forgets about his grocery bill on his way home from being paid off, and takes a drink or two at the expense of the grocer, whom he thinks makes a fortune off him any way, and can afford to be stood off another month. When any considerable number of a grocer's customers think this way, and it seems a great many did in the case of the grocer who failed the other day, why the result must be disaster, especially when the grocer is trying to sail very close to the wind. The Northwest Trade reiterates what it has said before, that it is better for the customer, better for the manufacturer and wholesaler, and better for the community that wages should be paid weekly. Labour organizations recognize that it is better for their members and a certain check to intemperance, and we think they should be seconded in their laudable attempts to induce corporations to pay weekly instead of monthly. And what right has a corporation to the use of its employees' money for a month anyway? They don't pay their help interest for its use."

THE EFFECT OF "FIRING" ON TEA.

Certain investigations have lately been made in Japan into the chemical effects on tea of the process called "firing," which it always undergoes. This is a kind of roasting, the tea being worked by the hands in pans or bowls heated from below. It takes place prior to packing for shipment, and usually under the superintendence of the foreign tea merchant, and is said to be necessary to preserve the tea on the voyage. The process, according to the investigations referred to, diminishes the capacity of the leaf to absorb moisture, the proportion of theine, and the quantity of tannin in solution when warm water is poured on the leaf. The latter is rendered less stringent, and on the whole, "firing," so far from producing deterioration, is pronounced a beneficial process, as it strengthens the aroma, diminishes the astringent quality of the leaf, and, by decreasing the quantity of theine—which is said to be to tea what alcohol is to liquors—decreases the effects of tea-drinking on the nervous system. The colour is also improved in consequence of the employment during "firing" of certain colouring matter. When the latter is a preparation of indigo it is quite harmless, while Prussian blue is deleterious, and is said not to be used now for the purpose. The consumers insist on having tea with a certain colour on the leaf, and it is solely to please them that the colouring matter is employed. The investigators—two chemists—say that tea is very rarely coloured with any fraudulent intent, and they quote the remarks attributed to a Chinese Minister in Washington, to this effect:—"Our producers will give you tea with all the colours of the rainbow if you wish. But why will you drink coloured tea—what is the use of the colour? Be reasonable, like us Chinese; we use uncoloured tea, and we know why." The suggestion in the last sentence, say the chemists, is not correct. Tea is coloured because the consumers will have it so, not because it is of any advantage to the merchant or producer.

THE CENTAL SYSTEM.

The establishment of the cental, or hundredweight as the standard measure for grain, as recommended by the National Board at both this and last year's meetings, is most desirable. At present grain measures differ so widely the world over that this very fact confuses and falsifies the popular estimates. Even in this country we have two standards—the 60-pound bushel this side of the Rockies and the 100-pound cental the other. Going across the water, we find the quarter in England, the hectoliter in France and adjacent territory, the meter centner in Germany and Austro-Hungary, the chetwert and pud in Russia, and goodness knows what other measures in grain further removed. All this is very confusing and a detriment, both directly and indirectly, to the trade. If we cannot hope to reform Europe in this regard, we can at least reform ourselves. Perhaps by such a measure we should be able to get rid of the distinction between weighed and measured crops which is now always so troublesome.—Northwestern Miller.

SOAP.

The manufacture of soap in Canada is developing fast. A few years ago all, or nearly all, of our fine soaps were imported from the United States, England and France, but now Canadian manufacturers seem determined to capture the trade both in the high and low grade articles. The latest large soap factory to be established is in London. Mr. H. J. Long, who has been doing business in that city for some time, has organized a company, which, judging from its personnel, is likely to push business energetically. These gentlemen applied for and obtained the charter: Messrs. Hiram Walker, distiller, Walkerville; Andrew Cleghorn, of Edward Adams & Co., wholesale grocers, London; W. J. Reid, of W. J. Reid & Co., wholesale crockery merchants, London; and J. K. Clarke and Chas. H. Elliott, also of London. The subscribed capital is $25,000, all of which is paid up.

The company will be officially organized at their first annual meeting, to be held on the second Tuesday in January. Mr. Long will be elected managing director, and plans for largely extending the present factory will be submitted.

SOME INTERESTING ARTICLES.

In sending in his subscription to The Grocer, Mr. A. E. House, Nicola Lake, B.C., says; "I find some excellent articles, and consider every man in the trade should subscribe."

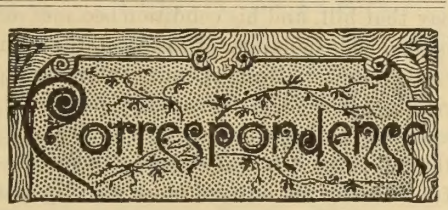
THE CROCER LONDON NOTES.

The holiday trade in London has been very good, especially among the grocery trade, all of whom claim to have had a good trade, but, if we had known, it would have been better.

At Wednesday night's meeting of the City Council it was decided to inaugurate at once the bulletining on the local market of prices in surrounding markets.

The London grocers are complaining that the biscuit manufacturers raised the price of biscuits one cent a pound owing to an increase in the cost of flour some time ago, but flour has dropped 50c. to 75c. per bbl. in two months, and there is no change in biscuits yet.



THE GEORCETOWN CREAMERY.

Publisher Canadian Grocer, Toronto:

Dear Sir,—I noticed in last issue of The Grocer that a Scotchman from the Old Country purposed endeavouring to reorganize the Georgetown Creamery, at least so I understood it.

You will pardon me for offering unsolicited advice, but I should certainly not advise him to start the creamery business there, as it is too near the city, where farmers, at many times of the year, can realize a higher price for choice dairy butter than a creamery man could possibly pay for cream. Then should, say only one-fourth or one-third of his patrons desert him it would be ruinous to his business.

I have managed a creamery here for the past four years and know some of the trials and troubles in connection with this business.

I am, however, strongly in favour of establishing more creameries in the country, but should be sorry to see any one fail therein, as it then only deters others, where creameries are needed, from starting.

The Ontario Creameries Association will have a convention at Picton on either 9th and 10th or 10th and 11th of January, when I would advise your friend to be present and learn more of the business than I judge he now knows.

Wishing you the compliments of the season and an increased subscription list, I remain, Yours truly,

Dec. 26th. A Creamery Man.

Valencia oranges were cabled from Liverpool yesterday 2s. higher. The supply there is small.

W. P. Clay's grocery stock in Galt was damaged by fire to the extent of $4,000. It was insured for $2,000.

Ward, Carter & Co.'s wholesale grocery, Montreal, was damaged to the extent of $4,000 by fire on New Year's Day.

A Liverpool cable says the market for apples is depressed owing to heavy arrivals and the prospects are unfavourable.

The insolvent estate of C. W. Laker, grocer, 740 Yonge Street, was sold yesterday to Lasker & Flynn, grocers, Yonge St., for a lump sum equal to 46 cents on the $.

The general stock of F. S. McCall & Co., West Lorne, has been sold at auction to Geo. W. Ellis, of Niagara Falls, at 55c. on the dollar. The stock is valued at $2,297.

The Monetary Times have got out a unique envelope opener made of celluloid. It will prove a useful article to the friends and patrons of that enterprising journal who receive one.

Local daily newspapers contain an advertisement enquiring for a wholesale grocery warehouse near the corner of Yonge and Front Streets. The question agitating the trade is who is the enquirer?

Mayor Seldon, of Ingersoll, has shipped 29,300 barrels of apples to Europe, representing an outlay of $37,000 for apples, barrels and packing this season. This is the largest shipment made by any single individual in Ontario in one year.

The Hamilton Commercial Travellers' ball was a thoroughly enjoyable affair. Every one present is looking forward with pleasure to the next one. When Hamilton people undertake anything they do it perfectly and to the satisfaction of every body.

Frank Smith & Co. have received a shipment of Pantelliera raisins. They are grown on an Island near Sicily and are put up in barrels of 230 lbs each. They are like Malagas both in appearance and flavour and will, it is said, keep better than Valencias. They are quoted at 5¾c. per lb.

Mr. Abraham Lalonde, a merchant of Morrisburg, Ont., has been arrested on a capias at the instance of E. K. Greene & Sons, furriers, of this city. The amount involved is about $9,000, and it is alleged that Mr. Lalonde has been secreting his goods, and that he owes over $20,000 to different parties in Montreal.

HELPING THE GROCER.

A suggestion is offered the readers of the Christian Union which, if followed, will materially lessen the burdens of the retail grocer's life, to wit :--

When ordering groceries do not forget nearly one-half of the goods you need, and thus make the grocer's clerk trot to your house twice, when by a little thought on your part you could have saved him the journey. A good plan is to have a slate hung up in the kitchen on which to enter such goods as are needed. It saves you trouble and assists the grocer in getting your order promptly and properly.

PROMPT PAYMENTS.

A paper by Mr. F. B. Thurber on the subject of "Cost of Doing Business," was read before the Wholesale Grocers' Association, of New York, a fortnight ago. Some points in the paper have a wider interest than the audience addressed, and touch the retailer and his customer as well. One of these points is the question of excessive credit to retailers and its results upon the wholesaler, retailer and customer. At first glance we might be tempted to say that indulgence in granting large or long loans to retailers would be only a help to them, but a little consideration will show strong arguments against this view. As we all know, bad debts are constant dangers to the wholesale dealer, but this element of loss to the wholesale grocer is indirectly bad for the honest and prosperous retailer, too. In the first place, both must earn a reasonable profit, if both are to be prosperous. If one trade is not earning enough, the other will, sooner or later, be affected injuriously. Then bad debts against the wholesaler come many times through retailers who are chronic cutters or dead beats, and those are the greatest enemies with which the honest retailer has to contend. The reason why a "cutter" cannot pay his bills is because he has needlessly given away his profits, and, therefore, his capital to his customers. If he is held to a strict accounting for his bills he is brought to a realizing sense of what he is doing, and at least the mischief to his fellow grocers is made smaller than if he was allowed an indefinite credit. Every retailer who is anxious to do a fair and profitable business himself, and who takes a pride in paying every penny justly due from him, should lend his moral support to any association of wholesalers which tries to limit the credit of the chronic cutter and his power for doing mischief.

Then, too, a prompt settlement of bills keeps a retail grocer mindful of his own business, and it is often an act of kindness to have the idea suggested to him by a dun that if he cannot pay his bills, then there may be something seriously the matter with his method of doing business. Our nerves hurt us when we are pricked by a pin, but were it not for our nerves, which by this pain call our attention to the fact, our lives would be in danger every hour from some cut reaching a vital organ without our knowing it. So with duns ; a grocer is annoyed at getting a statement of his account overdue, but if he cannot pay that bill, and his condition becomes no better, he is in danger of losing all through bankruptcy. Most of our enterprising retailers feel so about prompt payments, and thank the wholesaler who demands them. From a recent sketch of a successful retailer in our columns we clip the following :

He buys his goods at a large jobbing house in this city, and says that the large jobbing house is the place for the small retailer to trade, for the reason that they require a business-like observance of payments, thus keeping the retailer within bounds, and preventing his overstocking or being too free in granting credits. "The one-horse concerns," he says, "allow accounts to run two or three months, and thus provoke bad habits and a careless way of doing business on the part of the retailer."

The longer we study the movements of trade the more are we convinced that prosperity must be general to be permanent. "Live and let live" is a great and true principle. The attempts of the wholesale grocer to avoid the losses which come from bad accounts result indirectly to the advantage of every retailer who wishes to do a fair business at reasonable profits.—Am. Grocer.

THE CANNED GOODS LAW.

Her Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate and House of Commons of Canada, enacts as follows ;—

In this Act the expression "package" means every can, tin or package in which articles or goods are put up for sale, and which are closed by being hermetically sealed. 48-49 V., c. 63, s. 1.

Except in the case of goods packed previously to July 20, 1885, every package of canned goods sold or offered for sale in Canada, for consumption therein, shall have attached thereto or imprinted thereon a label or stamp, setting forth in legible characters the name and address of the person, firm or company by whom the same was packed, or of the dealer who sells the same or offers it for sale.

Every such package containing goods prepared from products which have been dried previously to being so prepared, shall, in addition, be labelled or stamped with the word "sealed," which word shall be plainly printed diagonally across the face of the label in large, legible type at least half an inch in height and three-eights of an inch in width.

Every person who sells or offers for sale any such goods in violation of any provision of this section shall, on summary conviction before a justice of the peace, for a first offence incur a penalty of two dollars for each such package, and for a subsequent offence a penalty not exceeding twenty dollars and not less than four dollars for each such package in respect of which any such provision has been violated. 48-49 V., c. 63, s. 2.

Every person who places on any package any label, brand or mark which falsely represents the quantity or weight of the contents of such package, shall, on summary conviction before a justice of the peace, incur a penalty of two dollars for each package on which the quantity or weight is so falsely represented : provided always, that a variation under the rate of three per cent. shall not be deemed a violation of the provisions of this section. 48-49 V., c. 63, s. 3.

Every person who places on any package any label, brand or mark which falsely represents the date when the article or goods contained therein were packed, shall, on summary conviction before a justice of the peace, incur a penalty of two dollars for each package on which such date is falsely represented. 48-49 V., c. 63, s. 4.

INSTRUCTIONS TO SHIPPERS.

TO SHIPPERS OF DRESSED POULTRY.

Shippers would best consult their own interests by observing the following instructions in shipping goods to Canadian markets :—Abstain from feeding poultry 24 hours before killing. Bleed thoroughly and pluck clean, leaving on the head and feet, as well as the feathers on wings and tail. Do not draw the entrails nor scald the birds. The last process is readily detected by buyers, who will not pay within one or two cents per lb. of the prices they will give for dry-picked goods. Before packing, poultry should be thoroughly dry and cold. Pack neatly in nice clean cases holding from 100 to 200 pounds each. Each bird should have its head and legs placed under the wings and secured firmly, giving the bird a neat, plump appearance, and fill the packages as full as possible to prevent shifting about whilst in transit. Avoid putting more than one kind in a package, as mixtures of geese and ducks, or chickens and turkeys, are more difficult to sell. Mark each case with the correct number of birds contained, so that proper delivery may be cared for.

TO SHIPPERS OF DRESSED HOGS.

Now that the season for marketing dressed hogs has fairly set in, country shippers should pay special attention to the shipments thereof to this market. After they are properly dressed, too much care cannot be bestowed upon their selection, it being desirable that hogs of nearly equal weight and quality should comprise each lot ; they ought then to be placed in clean cars, with a sufficient layer of straw at the bottom to prevent their being marked. Well-fatted, even, clean and bright-looking lots command a sale at top figures when buyers will not look at mixed and uneven lots, although they may be well-fatted. Each hog should have its weight neatly and distinctly marked upon it, and a list of weight of every shipment should be forwarded by mail as early as possible, so that no trouble may arise upon the arrival of the goods here. If shippers to this market will attend to the proper selection of light and heavy weights of good and proper qualities, they will be amply repaid for their trouble on the receipt of net proceeds of their consignments.

TO SHIPPERS OF ROLL BUTTER.

A practice that should be abolished by country shippers is that of working low grades of packed into roll, and packing them in with fresh made roll, with the intention of palming it all off as fresh-made. The deception is always detected, and such lots are invariably sold at same prices that low grades of packed command. Regarding packages, new tubs or hardwood boxes are the most desirable, and half-barrels or kegs will do equally as well, and these only should be used. Care should also be taken before putting the butter in packages, that all the sides and ends of the packages be lined with new white muslin, thus keeping the butter from defacement by touching the wood. A bad practice is putting the butter up in paper ; this should not be done, as the paper sticks to the butter and damages the appearance. Each roll should be separately placed in a piece of new muslin cloth, washed in warm water to take out the starch, and thoroughly wet in good brine. The rolls should be of moderate size, and not too large. Then, again, the rolls should be of uniform colour, not packing the light and fresh-made with other that has been colored. Mark plainly on each package the correct tare (the gross weight is easily obtained), as it ensures quick returns after sale is made.

THE MARKETS

TORONTO.

January 4, 1889.

Trade during the past week has been more active than usual at this season of the year. None of the orders have been large, but have been of a small sorting up character. The travellers have all been at home. In the wholesale warehouses they have been busy stocktaking and closing up the year's business. There has been no change of importance in prices. Money is a little stiff on call loans, but rates for commercial paper are unchanged at 6 to 7 per cent. Exchange, both sterling and on New York, is slightly easier.

GROCERIES.

No change to note in price. There is but little doing in any department. A London cable of Saturday says: "In the Mincing Lane Markets beet sugar is quiet but firmer; cane and refined are quiet, with a small business doing. Coffee is unchanged. Rice and spices are dull and inactive." The New York Commercial Bulletin sums up the grocery situation as follows: "Coffee in a speculative way awaits the January flowering of the Brazil crop, which, as it may prove large or unimportant, must carry values, while on natural, legitimate trade wants holders of all kinds of coffee are expecting well of the market. Molasses is depressed in tone on present stocks consisting mostly of domestic, and very uncertain on new crop Cuba, as boilers refuse to negotiate or even name a price to arrive, and offerings from primary points are indifferent. Trade in straight sugar syrups is more or less paralyzed by the cheapness of molasses and extreme low cost of mixtures, but production is small and stock not accumulating. Rice is firmly held on calculations of considerable shortage in domestic crop, and similar conditions on foreign grades, to which this market is accustomed. Spices are in a very undetermined position, with appearance of weakness, though many holders anticipate a gain after the turn of the year has fairly set it. Sugars are on a declining scale under the influence of liberal present receipts and no compensating distribution of refined, though the general statistical position for the world is strong. Teas are generally in excellent hands, and, with the encouragement of favourable foreign advices and strong statistics, owners are very confident. In pretty much all cases the information at hand from primary sources indicates moderate accumulations of desirable supplies, and a filling out and renewal of assortments is among the calculations for the incoming month."

CANNED GOODS.

There is very little to be said under this head. Occasionally a whisper is heard on the street of the doings of the alleged combination on tomatoes, but it is not believed that it will have any important effect upon the market, at least for some time to come. A few orders have come forward for fish, chiefly salmon, which are moving at $1.70.

TEAS.

There is very little demand, but an active trade is looked for soon. The feeling is generally firm, and improved prices are looked for. While many retailers have purchased more freely than usual this season, there are many whose stocks are low, and these will have to commence buying at an early day.

COFFEE.

The local market is steady and unchanged at quotations. Stocks of all kinds are light and holders are asking full prices.

SUGAR.

The demand for sugar is very dull, and values, though nominally unchanged, are weaker and inclined to go lower. Yellows are held at 5½c. to 6½c. for dark to bright. A few orders have been placed for new Porto Ricos and samples of new Demeraras are being shown. Local stocks of raws are about nil.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Dull and unchanged. A few small lots of syrups are going out at the recent decline.

NUTS.

A fair inquiry has been heard at steady prices. The market is without special feature.

DRIED FRUIT.

Currants are dull and unchanged. Dates are very firmly held; the better grades of new are selling at 6c. to 6½c. Figs are steady and in fair demand; the finer sorts are scarce. Prunes dull, attracting but little attention; Bosnia are offered, in kegs, 5⅝c. to 6c., and in hogsheads, at 4¾c. to 5c. Raisins are steady; prime Valencias are selling at 6c. to 6¼c., but ordinary can be bought at 5½c. Sultanas are selling at 7¾c. to 8½c. Malaga fruit is quiet; Black baskets are offered at $4.50; Blue baskets, at $5.50, and London layers at $3.65 to $3.75.

GREEN FRUIT.

The comparative quietness which exists in almost every branch of business after the holiday season is noticeable to some extent in the green fruit trade, although the movement cannot be said to be slow and is quite up to the average of previous seasons. Trade, however, while not so brisk as has been the case for a time past, is not at all slow, and business altogether can be considered in a quite satisfactory condition. As regards prices, the business transacted has not been spirited enough to warrant any change, and they remain the same as in last reports. In oranges, stocks of Jamaicas are almost run out, and now new shipments are being received. For those on hand, however, a very good sale exists at $6 per bbl. Floridas are now taking the place of Jamaicas, and are arriving quite plentifully enough for the demand, which, on the whole, is fairly active. They are quoted at $3.50 per box, and $3.25 per box in lots. For Valencias a good demand exists, and probably the fine condition in which they are received here stimulates the enquiry. They sell at $5 per case. Good lemons meet with a ready sale, but poor fruit is disposed of with difficulty. Messinas are the only variety offered at present. They are moving at $4.50 per box for good quality, and $3.50 per box for the inferior qualities. Malaga grapes, of good quality, have suddenly become scarce, and are now quoted at $8 to $10 per keg. There are no new shipments being received. The quantity of these grapes imported into New York this season are 230,658 bbls., 3,406 half-boxes, and 78 boxes. A few pineapples have been received, and sell at 40c. to 60c. each. A shipment of Florida strawberries have arrived in New York, and are quoted at $2 per basket.

WE have much pleasure in informing our customers and friends that the fire which occurred on Monday evening, Dec. 24, in our sample room has not in any way impeded our business.

Orders were taken and shipped as usual without interruption.

DRESSED HOGS AND PROVISIONS.

Packers are still pegging away at the dressed hog market, endeavoring to depress prices, but there is still a good buying demand and values are steadily maintained. Montreal is a free buyer. In addition to this, larger numbers than usual are being packed at country points by local butchers and provision merchants. Small lots arriving daily by rail are being taken by the packers at $6.75 to $7 as to quality, and cars have been sold at $6.75 f.o.b. Chatham points. Smoked meats are quiet. Hams are dull, offering at 11c. to 11½c. In mess pork there is nothing doing. Long clears are offering in cars ; 9c. and 9½c. to 9¾c. is asked for small lots. Lard in good demand at steady prices ; packers are selling up pretty close.

The Cincinnati Price Current says : "Packing returns for the week indicate a further decrease in the number of hogs compared with last year. Fifteen prominent points have handled 280,000 hogs for the week, compared with 310,000 last year. The approximating packing for all points has been 320,000 for the week, against 360,000 last year, and a total of 2,870,000 since November 1, against 3,575,000 a year ago—decrease, 705,000. The movement of hogs the past week has hardly been up to expectations. A few houses have closed temporarily, expecting to start again after the first of January. The week's business has been interrupted with holiday observances. The provision markets maintained a good front until yesterday, when considerable of a break occurred in Chicago, attributed at least partly to the severe decline in wheat. Thus the improvement gained in provisions earlier in the week was lost, and the close was slightly lower than a week ago. With the weakness buyers withdrew from the market, and the situation is unsettled, but hogs are being maintained, closing generally a little higher than a week ago. The weather is now quite mild. Domestic distribution of product has been fair, and exports for the week were liberal, of both lard and meats, exceeding corresponding week last year in each particular."

The Chicago Bulletin says:—The future course of the market is regarded with considerable uncertainty. The returns of the packing of the West to date show a decrease of 705,000 hogs in number, but the improved quality of the hogs this season will probably reduce this deficiency to 580,000 to 590,000 hogs. This is regarded as quite a large decrease for the first half of the packing season, and the conundrum now is: Will the deficiency be made up during the last half of the season? There is little doubt among operators but the receipts of hogs will be moderately free during January and February—possibly in excess of the supply for the corresponding time last season. Farmers are a little independent in their views, and are not disposed to accept less than $5.00 for their hogs, but their holding back may result in a glutted market at some time before the close of the season. Stocks of all kinds of products are moderate—the year closing with smaller supplies than usual—and the accumulation is very gradual. Manufacturers are pursuing a very conservative course, and the speculative and shipping branches of the trade appear to be somewhat divorced from each other, and each operated on an independent basis. The foreign demand for hog products was only moderate during the past week. Some orders for lard and bacon were received from the English market, and a fair proportion of them were provided for. Buyers, however, generally insisted on further concessions in prices. Orders from the Continental markets were fair for heavy weight bacon, and some purchases were made. Stocks abroad are comparatively light, but merchants are not disposed to enlarge them until after the holidays. The export movement continues quite liberal, fully up to that of last season, but it is almost exclusively of products previously purchased. Advices from Liverpool indicated a weaker feeling in that quarter, and quotations were reduced 3d. on lard, 6d. on hams and 1s. on bacon. The domestic demand for hog products was considerably curtailed during the week just closed. Merchants in the principal distributing markets were not inclined to purchase, as they have moderate stocks on hand, and fair purchases made for near future delivery. Orders from the South were lighter, and chiefly for short rib sides, shoulders and small lots of smoked meats. The demand from the Eastern markets was only fair, and almost exclusively for mess pork and lard for the seaboard. Interior points accepted small quantities of meats for the consumptive trade. Some inquiry from the Canadian markets, but mainly for barreled products to supply the wants of the lumber and fishing interests. Trade with the Pacific Coast markets was light, and for special articles. Demand from the South-Western markets was meagre. Orders from the North-Western markets and the mining districts were small.

HIDES, SKINS AND WOOL.

HIDES—Are dull and unchanged. Cured are offering freely in car load lots at 6c. Green are unchanged at 3¼c. to 5¼c.

SKINS—Sheep and lamb skins are firm and in good demand, all offering being readily taken at $1.10 to $1.25, but mostly at $1.25.

TALLOW—The market is quiet and the supply plentiful. Prices are unchanged, but the feeling is easier. Dealers are buying rendered at 6c. and selling at 6½c. Rough is unchanged at 2½.

WOOL—The market is unchanged. Demand is quiet. Letters from American dealers say they may be able to take a little more combing at 22c. f.o.b. here in a week or so. There is, however, no enquiry. No movement in small lots. Fleece steady at 20c. to 21c. for good merchantable, the top price being for round lots. Quotations are:—

Fleece, ordinary	$0 20	to $0 21
Fleece, clothing	0 23	0 24
Pulled super	0 21	0 22
Pulled combing	0 18	0 19
Pulled extra	0 25	0 27

THE CANADA SUGAR REFINING CO'Y [LIMITED],
MONTREAL,

Offer for sale all grades of REFINED SUGARS and SYRUPS of the well-known brand of

Redpath

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,
MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday's yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

JOHN BAKER EDWARDS, P.L.D., D.C.L., F.C.S.,
Public Analyst for the District of Montreal, and Professor of Chemistry.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY, MEDICAL FACULTY, MCGILL UNIVERSITY,
MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have taken and tested a sample of your "EXTRA GRANULATED" Sugar, and find that it yielded 99·88 per cent. of Pure Sugar. It is practically as pure and good a Sugar as can be manufactured.

Yours truly,

G. P. GIRDWOOD.

The Markets—Continued.

SALT.

Liverpool quiet and unchanged with sales of a very few small lots at 68c. to 70. Canadian has sold at steady but unchanged prices, or 60c. for one car of bagged coarse and 85c. for three cars of barrelled. with a half car of dairy in 209 lb. sacks at $1 on track. Small lots of barrelled coarse quiet at 90c.

FISH.

The fish trade still continues dull on account of the mild weather, though at this time of the year the demand is always slow. Smelts have been received and are meeting with good sale at 5½c. per lb. Fresh supplies of ciscoes are arriving and find fair sale at $1.25 per 100. British Columbia salmon still sell fairly well at 15c. per lb. Lake Winnipeg whitefish are still in demand at 7½c. per lb. Blueback herrings are offered at $2.26 per 100, but sell slowly. The supply of steak cod is hardly enough for the demand. Lake Winnipeg pike find fair sale at 5c. per lb. Oysters are a little dull on account of mild weather. They are quoted at $1.15 for best standard and $1.60 for select.

FLOUR AND GRAIN

Flour—Steady and unchanged. Extras offered at $4.65 to $4.75, and straight rollers at $4.90 to $5.

Bran—Scarce and in demand. Sellers are asking $16.75 to $17 on the track, and local millers are holding for $18 to $19 at the mill in small lots.

Wheat—There is a little better demand for wheat. No. 2 fall would sell on the spot at $1.05 to $1.06, and outside at $1.03 to $1.04. No. 1 Manitoba hard is moving at $1.25. No. 1 frosted is held at $1 and No. 2 at 88c.

Barley—The market is quiet and steadier. There is not much demand, nor is there much offered at the moment. No. 1 is the only grade enquired for. It has changed hands at 68c. There have been sales of No. 3 extra at 61c. f.o.c.

Peas—Are dull, with buyers of lots at outside points at 58c. and sellers at 59 to 59½c.

Oats—Steady and in fair demand at 36c. to 37c. on the track for good to choice mixed.

Street receipts have been light. Wheat is selling at $1.03 to $1.04 ; barley at 60c. to 67½c. ; peas at 63c. to 64c., and oats at 38c. to 39c.

VISIBLE SUPPLY.

The following is a comparative statement of the visible supply of grain in the United States and Canada, as prepared by the secresecretary of the New York Exchange :

	1888. Dec. 29. bush.	1888. Dec. 22. bush.	1888. Jan. 3 bush.	1887. Jan. 3. bush.

DAIRY PRODUCE.

Butter—The market rules steady and unchanged. There are a good many rolls coming forward, but there are not many choice quality among them. They are selling chiefly at 16c. to 18c. Choice dairy tubs are firm and in demand at 18c. to 20c. Mediums are dull. Local bakers are taking a few lots at 15c. to 16c., but shippers will not pay over 13c. to 14c.

Cheese—Dull and unchanged. Late summer makes are moving at 10½c. to 11c. but for finest September 11½c. to 12c, is asked.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

Apples—Moving slowly at $1.50 to $2. Foreign advices are unfavourable.

Beans—Dull and unchanged. Small lots are selling out of store, at $1.65 to $1.75.

Dried Apples—Dull and weak. There are not many coming forward, and there is very little demand. Commission houses are selling small consignments at 3½c. to 4½c. per pound. Evaporated are dull and unchanged at 6½c. in car lots, and 7c. to 8c. for cars.

Eggs—Fresh are scarce and in demand at 21c. to 23c. Limed are unchanged at 17c. to 18c.

Hay and Straw—The market is heavily overstocked with hay, and the feeling is weak on both timothy and mixed. Timothy is moving at $14 to $15.50 on the track as to quality. Mixed is quoted at $12.50 to $14. Straw steady and unchanged at $8 to $9.

Business Changes.

The creditors of J. D. Miller have refused his offer of 25 cents, and the estate will be wound up.

George W. Weston, wholesale dealer in builders' supplies, 48 Adelaide street west, is in difficulties and the bailiff is in possession.

The Nicoll, Sutherland & Jefferies affair has at last been settled by the acceptance of an offer of 62½ cents cash, instead of 70 cents on time.

An attempt was made to force Isaac Staton, livery stable keeper, Yonge street, to assign. The assignment was not made, however, and the bailiff will sell out the estate.

At a meeting of the creditors of Dunning Bros. & Co., held in G. M. Gardner's office, an offer of 25 cents was accepted, and if the Central Bank liquidators, who were not represented, agree to it, the settlement will go through.

J. W. Macadam, the well-known boot and shoe dealer of Queen street west, is asking the indulgence of his creditors. He began business three years ago with little or no capital, and has been fighting his way uphill ever since. Lately the creditors have been pressing and he has been compelled to ask an extension. He claims a surplus.

This morning the creditors of Mrs. and Mr. Samuel Greenfield, liquor merchants, of Parkdale, held a meeting at E. R. C. Clarkson's office. On the face of the statement the liabilities were shown to be about $5,000 and assets nominally the same, but the devisable assets will be less than half the amount and will realize very little to the unsecured creditors.

The creditors of A. Ross & Co. met Monday afternoon in the office of Messrs. Blackley & Anderson, No. 53 Front street west. A large representation of the creditors was present. A motion was made and carried confirming Mr. George Anderson, jr., as assignee. Mr. Ross made an offer of 45 cents cash on the dollar on his liabilities, which was accepted, and the meeting recommended the acceptance of the same to the creditors not present. This is the same offer as made by Mr. Ross through his solicitor, Mr. Parkes, and no doubt would have been accepted at a previous meeting, had not the representatives of one of the largest creditors forced the assignment by issuing a writ.

The following assignments were reported: D. McNab, general store, Beaverton; B. Curtis, milliner, Sandwich; W. H. Bosbridge, harness, St. Thomas; J. L. Hanes, hotel, Utterson; M. H. Fanteau, dry goods, Montreal; R. H. Peters, general store, Enterprise; W. W. Saunders, general dealer, Bridgetown: Ross Bros., general dealers, Shawville; Ballantyne & Boyd, tailors, Atwood; Thomas Menzies, books and stationery, Peterboro'; Geo. Buck, boots and shoes, Whitby; J. D. Brunet, tailor, Valleyfield; W. R. McClung, boots and shoes, Galt; A. S. L. Bond, cigars, Hamilton; Robert Wilson, harness, Norwood; A. M. Bunnell, fruits, Ottawa; John Sprague, general store, Ameliasburgh; Wilson & Weir, confectioners, Windsor; Bazile Barbeau, hats and furs, James Corbeil, grocer, Montreal; Peter Dillon, machinist, Sherbrooke.

DOMINION BREWERY.

To my Patrons:

On account of the large demand for my export ale, popularly known as the WHITE LABEL BRAND, I am compelled to cancel and refuse further orders until next January. Having only manufactured a limited quantity, I find that the demand is now so great that I cannot fill the orders coming in, and must ask your forbearance for a short time. I am now completing an extensive addition to my buildings, the vaults of which will be largely used for maturing this special brand, which has justly been pronounced the finest and purest Ale in Canada. After the 1st of January I will be able to fill all orders. My India Pale and Amber Ales and XXX. Porter are in fine condition, of which I have a large stock on hand. Thanking you for your past liberal patronage,

I am, yours respectfully,

ELECTRIC SUGAR REFINING.

The most exciting feature of the week in grocery circles has been the unexpected developments in connection with electric sugar refining. We published from time to time the reports of the secret experiments being made in New York, so that many of our readers are familiar with the history of the affair. Dr. Freund, a German electrician and sugar refiner, claimed to have a process for refining sugar by electricity. A company, with a capital of a million dollars, was organized to carry on the business of electric sugar refining. The process was a secret, but it was to be communicated to the company when the refinery had been completed and was in thorough working order. A building was leased in Brooklyn for the refinery. A portion of it was made burglar-proof, in which the secret experiments were conducted. The shareholders paid over $350,000, of which $185,000 was paid the professor for machinery alone. Before the work was completed he died, but his wife and her relatives carried on the work. A private exhibition was given to the shareholders, but they were not allowed in the secret rooms. They saw the raw sugar go into these rooms, and it came out two floors below a few minutes later a most beautiful refined sugar, different from any other kind of sugar ever before seen. This fact seemed to convince them that there was no fraud about it. On Jan. 1, 1889, Mrs. Freund was to have communicated the secret on receipt of $75.000. She did not, however, and absolutely refused to give the officers of the company any information. Fearing that there was some fraud about it, they went to the refinery and burst open the secret rooms. Instead of finding the peculiar machinery which had cost them so much, there was practically nothing. The raw sugar they had seen go in to be refined was still there. So also were several barrels of refined, which had been treated in some way to make it a solid mass. There were some ice-axes in the room, which had evidently been used to break up the sugar. It was then passed through sieves and into the public room where it was seen by the shareholders. The whole thing is now believed to be a gigantic fraud, similar to the Keely Motor. The directors admit that they have been duped to some extent, but claim that they will be able to get the secret for the production of the fine sugar shown as the result of the electric refinery process. It is also pointed out that Mrs. Freund still holds over 6,000 shares in the company, which she could have sold at $400 each had she been so disposed.

DRY GOODS CREDITS.

It would look as if the wholesale dry goods trade of Toronto have at least decided to take active steps to remedy some of the abuses which have for so long been allowed to exist in this branch of commerce, a source of anxiety and loss to merchants. At the meeting of the dry goods section of the Board of Trade on Thursday last, the following resolutions were unanimously passed :—

Resolved,—That it is desirable in the interests of the legitimate dry goods trade, that an agreement be arrived at, to the following effect: That the trade agree not to name or expose the cost price of any line of goods, or agree to sell the same at any named advance upon such cost.

Resolved,—That it is expedient to curtail credit for dry goods to four months, as the longest term of credit upon any line of goods.

This section strongly urge the trade to adopt the following as outside and best terms, viz. : All orders taken for fall trade to take date from October 1st. For spring trade to take date from April 1st, and for assorting trade. All parcels delivered between the 20th of one month and the 20th of next, to date 1st of following.

Retailers do not object to long credits.

They will take them as long as they can get them. But they do object to the system which gives one merchant four months to pay for a bill of goods, while his next door neighbor buys the same goods and does not require to pay for them for nine months. What retailers want is uniformity.

THE YEAR'S FAILURES.

The total number of failures in Canada this year was larger than for any year since 1881. Beyond that date we have not the figures at hand. At the same time, the assets showed up well when compared with the liabilities, being 46 per cent. against 49 in 1887, 47 in 1886, 41 in 1885, 53 in 1884, 56 in 1883, 49 in 1882, and 54 in 1881. The following statement shows the number of failures, with the assets and liabilities, for the past eight years:—

Year.	No. of Failures.	Actual Assets.	Actual Liabilities.
1888.....	1,730	$7,178,744	$15,498,242
1887.....	1,350	8,407,060	17,054,000
1886.....	1,186	5,566,474	11,240,425
1885.....	1,286	4,201,831	9,210,334
1884.....	1,563	9,074,000	17,126,000
1883.....	1,464	12,367,000	22,155,000

1881.....	607	3,278,000	6,122,000

WEAKNESS IN EGGS.

The egg market has developed a decided weakness this week. As we noted last week, new-laid were beginning to arrive freely. The receipts during the past few days have been quite liberal, and are far in excess of what they were a year ago. Prices are consequently lower. The consumption, however, has not yet increased to any extent. Consumers do not appear to know that they can get strictly new-laid at reasonable prices. New York has also declined, owing to the arrival of large quantities of new-laid Southern eggs. To-day a despatch was received from Chicago, offering new-laid Southern eggs, cases included, at 20½c. laid down here. Stocks of held, but more especially of limed, are pretty large, both here and in New York, and unless colder weather interferes holders are likely to lose money.

THE FRENCH-CANADIANS.

Hon. Mr. Drummond's reference to the French-Canadians at the Board of Trade dinner, which appears in another column, was very opportune. The disgruntled portion of the Ontario press has for a long time past endeavored to show that they are a dangerous element in the community. The applause with which Senator Drummond's remarks were received proves conclusively that no such opinion exists among the people of Ontario. No English-speaking Canadian is better able to express an opinion of the French-Canadians. He knows them as workmen to be industrious, and as business men careful and honorable in all their dealings.

BOARD OF TRADE DINNER.

The Toronto Board of Trade dinner on Friday night was a big success. About 600 members and their friends sat at the tables, and the galleries were filled with ladies. The speech of the evening was that of Hon. George E. Foster, Minister of Finance, who spoke of the wonderful progress Canadian trade had made since Confederation. He made the important announcement that the Government would spare no expense in establishing a line of steamers, second to none crossing the ocean, to run between Canada and Great Britain. He said he could see no reason why the currency of Canadian banks should not pass at par in any part of the Dominion. The matter lay in the hands of the bankers themselves. Another speech that was listened to with a good deal of interest by the business men was that of Hon. George A. Drummond, President of the Canada Sugar Refining Co., and the newly appointed Senator. Mr. Drummond is well-known here by reputation, and there were a good many anxious to hear him, especially as he is looked upon as the leading financier of the country. He responded to "Sister Boards of Trade." He said:—

"The Board of Trade of Montreal, of which I am the representative on the present occasion, has been enabled in my presence to partake of your splendid hospitality. The motto which you placed in connection with the toast is very appropriate, because it speaks of the union which exists between the Boards of Trade of the Dominion. No more appropriate text could be got to express the manner in which to-day the city of Toronto is held by the Board of Trade of the city of Montreal. I look back over my official connection with that body, which has extended now over a period of several years, and I can say with truth that no petty jealousy has ever entered into our relations with you. Anything that has existed can only be called a pleasing and healthful rivalry in which we all hope we have been successful. (Hear, hear.) The Board of Trade of the city of Montreal dates back practically to the year 1826. It was incorporated in the year 1842, and it now embraces between 1,200 and 1,300 members, who are the great representatives of the mercantile community of Montreal. We have to look to the enterprise of the Board of Trade of Montreal to see what has been achieved by the trade of the city during recent times. Some speakers who preceded me referred to a feeling of jealousy which entered into our relations. I must disclaim that entirely. Montreal is too far removed from Toronto that any jealousy between the two cities should be spoken of with respect to either class of our commercial community. The French merchants represent a large and important element in our board, and no more respected element exists in our city. As merchants they are distinguished for astuteness, uprightness and sincerity of dealing—(applause)—and I may say here in passing that as long as I have lived in the Province of Quebec I have been impressed by the fact that no peasantry in the world can exceed the peasantry of the French portions of the Province of Quebec. (Applause.) They are the descendants of the great men of Champlain's time, who carried civilization into this continent when it was overrun with savage tribes and held great untravelled woods and waters, over which nothing ever passed larger than the bark canoe. (Applause.) I think, gentlemen, that in the present year, which has been begun with such a splendid record by the city of Toronto, I should say that the citizens of Montreal as a body look to the grand progress of Toronto, as evidenced by the recent census, with no feelings of jealousy because we have not been depleted by your gain, but, on the contrary, with feelings of admiration and amiable rivalry only. (Loud applause.)

CHRISTMAS GIFTS.

The agreement entered into by the Retail Grocers with regard to presents during the holiday season, was, we are glad to say, faithfully adhered to.

From enquiries made we find great satisfaction was experienced in carrying out the arrangement, and that except in a very few instances customers have not this season been looking for donations.

The work of the past three years in fighting this Christmas box system is bearing fruit, and we feel sure that the results will be looked at with much satisfaction, and at the same time be an evidence of the value of concerted action against all such grievances.

A city traveller representing a prominent wholesale grocery house, was surprised by a present from some of his constituents at Christmas. A nicely corded package came to Front Street, and when opened in the sample-room was found to contain a herring decorated with ribbons, a piece of bacon, a turnip, an onion, a carrot, a parsnip, and a cabbage. It is needless to say the clerks of the warehouse have made the most of the event. There are various surmises as to the meaning of such a gift, but the most prevalent opinion is that it came from the fair daughter of one of his customers, who, believing him to be growing a confirmed bachelor, thereby warned him of the hard road he had to travel.

COMPROMISES.

A correspondent, in another column, in referring to a recent failure, touches on the question of compromises. This is a matter to which altogether too little attention is given by the trade. Creditors make a compromise without giving the matter any serious consideration or thought as to what the results will be. They agree to a compromise with an undeserving, not to say disreputable, dealer and refuse to do so in the case of an honourable and fair-dealing merchant. The latter seldom, however, want them. Is it not the case that there are numerous instances where a compromise is detrimental to the trade? A case in point occurred a short time ago. A retailer, in a town not far from here, could not meet his obligations. It was his third failure. They were all due to the reckless way in which he did business. It apparently made no difference whether he made a profit as long as the goods were sold. By so doing he cut up the trade of his competitors in the same town. Knowing this, it was thought that the creditors would not agree to any further compromises. Strange to say, however, he had no difficulty in getting off by agreeing to pay about thirty cents on the dollar. He has again resumed business, and is cutting prices now the same as before. This mode of doing business may be satisfactory to a wholesale merchant, no doubt he loses money, but he has the bank to fall back upon, and it has in most instances to see him through. The real sufferers, however, are the retailers who compete with this regularly-recurring insolvent. How can they do so with a trader who practically gets his goods at seventy cents, in the long run, less than they do? Many of them have come to the conclusion that insolvents who have become so through recklessly cutting prices should be dealt with in the same way as those who have not their stocks insured when fire overtakes them; that is, they can get no discharge.

PRUNES.

The new crop Turkish prunes in casks this season have not moved with the freedom of previous years, notwithstanding the low prices that importers have shown a disposition to accept for some time past. The inaction is due to several causes, prominent among which is mentioned the competition of domestic fruit, though more particularly dried and evaporated apples; but undoubtedly the relics of the syndicate have had much to do in lessening the demand for new crop. The New York Commercial Bulletin says: At the opening of the present season it is estimated that fully 15,000 casks of old crop prunes remained upon the market to be distributed. At the prices demanded abroad early in the season for the new crop, an excellent opportunity was afforded the holders of old to market their stocks, and at very satisfactory figures; for at a difference of a quarter to a half cent per pound the trade of the country were disposed to give them favourable consideration, which they did, though paying particular attention to the sound goods. By this means the sale of old prunes was quietly pushed, and new crop dragged along in a very indifferent manner. As the season advanced the market in Trieste began to feel the absence of the accustomed demand, and the result was a yielding tendency was promoted which subsequently settled down to a steady decline. As the value receded however, and the price here eased off to correspond, the holders of old managed to keep up the relative difference in value, and continued to find a regular outlet for their stocks. The umbrella being held up for them to this time, they have succeeded in disposing of the greater portion of the large quantity they opened the season with, and they are enabled to look back with considerable pleasure at the opportunity offered and embraced to find a sale for the aged goods. As the importations of new in casks have been light this season, the stock to-day is small; but in the face of this holders find it a difficult matter to advance the market to a point that will enable them to secure prices that will net a profit upon their season's ventures. As a comparison, we submit the following statistics of the importations during this and last season to Feb. 1st, this to include the two vessels now out and due previous to that date:

	Casks.	Bags.	Boxes.
1888-89.....	6,525	39,070	151,812

The total weight of above is placed at 35,013,505 lbs. during the season 1887-88, and 23,864,760 lbs. during the present season, or equivalent to 26,934 and 18,357 casks respectively; thus showing a deficiency for the season of 1888-89 of 8,577 casks.

ALL ABOUT TEA.

The eminent botanical traveller, Mr. Robert Fortune, has, however, entirely set the question at rest, by investigating the matter on the spot. He found that in the Canton district, where black teas alone are prepared, only the T. Bohea is grown; whilst in the province of Che-kiang only T. Viridis is grown, and green teas made. But the cultivation of the latter plant he also found to be absolutely universal in the Fokien district, though the inhabitants make only black teas. The tea farms are mostly in the north of China, and are usually of small size and require much attention, for the plant will only thrive in well matured or very rich soil, and the spaces between the plants, which are four feet apart, must be kept in good order, and free from weeds. The farms always occupy the hill-sides, where the soil is deep and well drained.

Although an evergreen, the leaves can only be gathered at certain seasons; the first is in April, when the new leaves begin to burst from the buds; and some of these in their most tender state are gathered and made into Young Hyson of the finest quality, so fine, indeed, that once it was rarely brought to Boston, because it is said to lose flavor by the sea voyage. Much is every year sent overland to Russia, where it fetches an exorbitant price. The ordinary picking begins just after the summer rains are over, at the beginning of May; and later in the season a third picking takes place, the produce of which is inferior, and used only by the poorer classes of the country. The later pickings are more bitter and woody than the earlier, and yield less soluble matter to water. The leaves, when freshly plucked, possess nothing of the odor or flavor of the dried leaves, these properties being developed by the roasting which the leaves undergo in the process of drying. Moreover, different qualities of tea are prepared from the same leaves, which may be made to yield green or black teas at will.

In the process of drying, the leaves are roasted and scorched in such a way as necessarily to induce many chemical changes in them: the result of such changes being to produce the varieties of flavor, odor and taste by which the different kinds of tea are distinguished; and secondly, that the different colors of green and black teas are due to the mode in which the leaves are treated. For green teas, the leaves are roasted in pans almost immediately after they are gathered. After about five minutes roasting, during which they make a cracking noise, become moist and flaccid and give out a good deal of vapor, they are placed on the rolling-table and rolled with the hands. They are then returned to the pans and kept in motion by the hands; in about an hour, or rather more, they are well dried, and their color, which is a dull green, but becomes brighter afterwards, has become fixed. The essential part of the whole operation is now over, nothing more being required than to sift and refine it. For black teas the leaves are allowed to be spread out in the air for some time after they are gathered; they are then further tossed about until they become flaccid; they are next roasted for a few minutes, and rolled, after which they are exposed to the air for a few hours in a soft and moist state; and lastly, they are dried slowly over charcoal fires till the black colour is fairly brought out. Hence the dark colour and distinguishing flavor of black teas seem due to the long exposure to the atmosphere in the process of drying, and the oxygen of the air acting rapidly upon the juices of the leaf, and especially upon the astringent principle during this exposure. For the purpose of giving special scents to different varieties of tea, numerous odoriferous plants are employed in different parts of China, the cowslip-colored blossoms of the sweet-scented olive (olea fragrans) communicate an especially fragrant scent to tea.

The adulteration of tea, when the duty was very high, was probably carried on to a great extent, but notwithstanding the terrible tales of alarmists, it may be asserted that very little adulteration of tea is now carried on in this country. In China, spurious teas have been prepared and sent to this country under the name of "Lie teas," but they had no sale, and of course were discontinued. The Chinese give an artificial coloring to the green teas sent to Europe, and some claim that the coloring matter is very innocuous, and is never produced by heating over copper plates. Prussian Blue, in very minute proportions, and a species of native indigo and gypsum are the real materials employed for giving the face, as it is called.

In 1836, the cultivation of tea was attempted on a large scale in India, under the direction of the able and indefatigable botanists, Dr. Royle and Dr. Falconer; and after some difficulty a good supply of plants was introduced to the districts of Kumaon and Gurhwal; and in the meantime plantations formed at an earlier period in Assam were making great progress. From these sources a steadily increasing supply is received.

The quality, too, is superior to many of the Chinese teas, a fact which is certified by the large quantity of Indian teas now used. Japan and Java export teas to Australia. In the Brazilian high lands, tea of a most excellent quality is produced in large quantities. A little has recently been grown in New Zealand and in Sicily, near Messina.

The varieties of teas are very numerous and the following are those usually found in the stores of our cities and country:—

Green teas—Chinese—Gunpowder sorts, viz.: Shanghai, Ping-Suey or Pin's Head, Moyune, Imperial Moyune and Canton. Hyson sorts, viz.: Shanghai Young, Moyune, Moyune Young, Canton Young, and Twankay, or Imperial Hyson. Japanese—Gunpowder and Young Hyson. Java—Gunpowder.

Black teas—Chinese—Congo sorts, viz.: Foo-chow-foo, Hung-muey, Oopack, Kaison and Oonam. Pekoe sorts, viz.: Plain Orange, Foo-chow, Scented Orange, Flowery Pekoe, Oolong and Souchong. Assam—Congo, Orange Pekoe and Souchong. Java—Congo and Imperial. The latter is made up with little balls about the size of a pea, and is rather scarce.

The use of the infusion of the leaves of tea as a beverage is general in the south-eastern parts of Asia, and has become prevalent among the British—at home and in their colonies—the Americans and the Dutch. In Scandinavia tea is also much used by all who can afford it. In other parts of Europe the use of tea is much less general and is chiefly confined to maritime districts, towns, and the wealthy.

The importation of tea overland through Russia is inconsiderable, and the sea trade is chiefly to Britain and North America.

The substitutes for tea, in countries where it is difficult to obtain it, are of two sorts: those which contain theine, and which consequently have some stimulating effect; and those which are destitute of that principle, and only resemble the true tea in flavor or smell, or which possess some other stimulating principle. Of the former class are mate—Guaranan; so rich is this material in theine that it has lately been used in this country for obtaining that principle; and it has been introduced into Austria and France as a powerful medicine; coffee-leaves, which are occasionally prepared as a substitute in the West Indies; they would be more generally used were it not for the disagreeable smell of the infusion; kola-nut, the active principle of which some years ago was ascertained to be theine.

The second class, or those which do not possess that principle, are very numerous; but only a few can be said to be of any importance from being in general use in the countries producing them. These are the Siberian tea—leaves of Saxifraga crassifolia; the Appalachian tea—leaves of Prinos glabia; the Labrador tea—leaves of Sedum buxifolium; the Chilian tea—leaves of Engenia ugni; Trinidad pimento tea—leaves of Eugenia pimento; and the leaves of the partridge-berry, which are used in some parts of North America. The Faham tea of Mauritius, and a great many more, should be regarded in the light of medicines rather than as ordinary beverages; although they are generally classed with the substitutes for ordinary tea.

We invite correspondence from readers in every section on subjects pertaining to the trade, and shall be pleased to answer questions of general interest in this department. We require with each letter the name and address of the sender, not necessarily for publication, unless agreeable to writers, but for our own protection.

THE RISING SUN FAILURE.

TORONTO, Jan. 4, 1889.

Editor CANADIAN GROCER:

SIR,—In the issue of your esteemed journal of this date I notice a few editorial remarks on the winding up of the Rising Sun Canning and Pickling Company of Hamilton. There was no doubt an impression prevailing amongst the gentlemen composing this company, that they would be able to secure a compromise with their creditors; others no more worthy had succeeded in doing so and why not they?

But, sir, while this was undoubtedly true, the fact remains that this company has not the slightest just claim upon the indulgence of their creditors or the sympathy of the trade. During their brief career in the canning and pickling business the managers of the company appear to have deliberately set at naught the commonest and most essential principles supposed to govern the conduct of business men. How could a company burdened with a President, a Manager, a Secretary-Treasurer and a Processor, as well as other salaried officials, and not burdened with too much capital, expect to succeed in a limited market, already fully occupied ? It would seem however that such trifles light as air, did not apparently for one moment disturb the security of these very ambitious gentlemen ; other firms in the same line of business were no doubt doing a good trade and reported to be making money, and why should not they be equally successful—why not indeed ?

One of the first operations of the new company was to lay in an immense stock of raw materials. This of course was easily done—much more easily than paying for the same. The next act on the programme was also an easy one ; they simply sold their goods at any price they could obtain for them. This of course was great fun for them, but quite the opposite for their unfortunate competitors, and as the result has proved for their too-confiding creditors.

I am not aware, Mr. Editor, to whom you refer where you mention a supposing competitor who is supposed to have used his influence over a large creditor to prevent the Rising Sun Company securing a settlement, but on the light of the foregoing facts I am sure you will agree with me that the reputed action of the suffering individual was eminently right and proper. Such men as the Rising Sun insolvents, if they obtain a settlement, are simply placed in a position to prey upon the commerce of the country, and worry and harass those manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers who are endeavouring to conduct their affairs in a business-like way, and pay one hundred cents on the dollar ; the canning and pickling industries have already of late suffered enough in this way. One of the greatest evils prevailing to-day in commercial circles is the facility with which undeserving insolvents manage to effect settlements, and every man who has the interests of his country at heart is I take it called upon to assist in stamping out this crying evil.

Thanking you for space in so valuable a medium as THE CANADIAN GROCER, and complimenting you for your well-directed efforts to serve the interests of the grocery trade. I remain, yours truly,

X. Y. Z.

The calendar issued by Messrs. S. Davis & Sons, manufacturers of the "El Padre," "Madre e Hijo," "Cable" and "Mungo" brands of cigars, is the finest that has reached THE GROCER office this year. It is a very handsome one. See it.

TRADE ITEMS

It is reported that a Toronto buyer bought 300 tons of hay in Quebec at $10, equal to $12.50 on the track here.

London mail advices say that Hallowee dates are getting dearer. Sairs are unsatisfactory, and shippers are afraid to quote.

The Postmaster-General has issued an order that money orders and savings bank business will be transacted on all holidays until 11 a.m.

The total stock of sugar in all the principal countries according to latest mail and cable dates is 760,726 tons, against 953,131 tons last year.

Fire destroyed the general store of Boyes Bros., at Charing Cross, together with all the contents. The building was insured in the Royal Canadian for $350.

The Great English Salt Trust is in communication with Canadian and American producers. The Trust wants to control the entire salt production of the world.

A London cable says that although Valencia oranges are high at the moment, there is a large quantity to come forward and prices are not likely to be maintained at the present range.

Jas. A. Skinner & Co., Hamilton, have put on the market an article that fills a long-felt want in the shape of a coffee-pot. A child can make a good cup of coffee with it. See their advertisement for cut and description. It is an article that should sell well.

We have received a copy of Wm. Rennie's Seed Catalogue for 1889. It contains over seventy pages descriptive price list of select vegetable and flower seeds, beautifully illustrated. There are also valuable tables which will prove of great use to those interested.

Action will probably be taken in regard to the construction of a cable between Canada and England within the next two or three weeks. A prospectus giving all the necessary information upon the subject, which was drawn up in 1859, has been forwarded to an English company interested in the project.

S. Davis & Sons, the well-known cigar manufacturers, Montreal, never forget the Editor. Last year he received a box of their most exquisite cigars. This year it is a very neat solid silver match box, nicely engraved. They have the Editor's sincere thanks. It was just what he wanted.

There has been some enquiry for cars of white beans here this week.

A London cable says :—In the Mincing Lane markets there is a better demand for beet sugar at a small advance. Cane is inactive. Refined is unchanged. Coffee is in good demand at firmer prices. Jamaica has advanced 1 florin. China tea is unchanged. Indian is slightly improved.

Frank Britton made a good run in the local aldermanic contest, but was defeated. The reason is, no doubt, because he is not sufficiently well known. He made many new friends who will support him next year. It is said that the way in which dead and bribed voters turned up for one of his opponents was something marvellous, and an investigation is not improbable.

The Fishermen's Union on the Columbia River have fixed the price for salmon the coming season at $1.25 per fish. This is the same as was established last year and strictly adhered to throughout the season by the men engaged in the industry. Taking this as a basis for the canned goods, it is hardly probable that any lower prices will be named by the packers than was made at the opening of last year.

"Ta-ka-kake" is the name of a new cereal sugar corn flour manufactured by the Boston Cereal Manufacturing Co. of Boston, Mass. The manufacturers claim that it has no equal for sponge corn cake, sugar corn rolls and griddle cakes. It is packed in cases containing 48 1¾ packages. One package will make forty Ta-ka-kake gems, and cooks in fifteen minutes. Lucas, Park & Co., wholesale grocers, Hamilton, are sole agents for Canada.

Mr. E. D. Manchee, who has been manager for H. A. Nelson & Sons, for the past seven years, was presented, on the occasion of his severing his connection with that firm, with a handsome gold locket and address, by the employees of that firm, with whom he was a general favorite. Mr. Manchee goes into business for himself under the style of Manchee & Wilson, manufacturers' agents. Fancy goods will be the principal lines they will carry.

A burglar, early on Sunday morning, broke into O'Malley Bros.' grocery store at 596 Queen Street west, and stole the cash box containing $310. As he was departing by the back way, he made noise enough to disturb the O'Malleys, who were upstairs. Andrew O'Malley pursued him through a lane to Robinson Street, where the two grappled and a scuffle ensued. When the burglar saw another of the O'Malley brothers approaching he dropped the plunder and escaped.

INSTRUCTIONS TO SHIPPERS.

TO SHIPPERS OF DRESSED POULTRY.

Shippers would best consult their own interests by observing the following instructions in shipping goods to Canadian markets :—Abstain from feeding poultry 24 hours before killing. Bleed thoroughly and pluck clean, leaving on the head and feet, as well as the feathers on wings and tail. Do not draw the entrails nor scald the birds. The last process is readily detected by buyers, who will not pay within one or two cents per lb. of the prices they will give for dry-picked goods. Before packing, poultry should be thoroughly dry and cold. Pack neatly in nice clean cases holding from 100 to 200 pounds each. Each bird should have its head and legs placed under the wings and secured firmly, giving the bird a neat, plump appearance, and fill the packages as full as possible to prevent shifting about whilst in transit. Avoid putting more than one kind in a package, as mixtures of geese and ducks, or chickens and turkeys, are more difficult to sell. Mark each case with the correct number of birds contained, so that proper delivery may be cared for.

TO SHIPPERS OF DRESSED HOGS.

Now that the season for marketing dressed hogs has fairly set in, country shippers should pay special attention to the shipments thereof to this market. After they are properly dressed, too much care cannot be bestowed upon their selection, it being desirable that hogs of nearly equal weight and quality should comprise each lot ; they ought then to be placed in clean cars, with a sufficient layer of straw at the bottom to prevent their being marked. Well-fatted, even, clean and bright-looking lots command a sale at top figures when buyers will not look at mixed and uneven lots, although they may be well-fatted. Each hog should have its weight neatly and distinctly marked upon it, and a list of weight of every shipment should be forwarded by mail as early as possible, so that no trouble may arise upon the arrival of the goods here. If shippers to this market will attend to the proper selection of light and heavy weights of good and proper qualities, they will be amply repaid for their trouble on the receipt of net proceeds of their consignments.

TO SHIPPERS OF ROLL BUTTER.

A practice that should be abolished by country shippers is that of working low grades of packed into roll, and packing them in with fresh made roll, with the intention of palming it all off as fresh-made. The deception is always detected, and such lots are invariably sold at same prices that low grades of packed command. Regarding packages, new tubs or hardwood boxes are the most desirable, and half-barrels or kegs will do equally as well, and these only should be used. Care should also be taken before putting the butter in packages, that all the sides and ends of the packages be lined with new white muslin, thus keeping the butter from defacement by touching the wood. A bad practice is putting the butter up in paper ; this should not be done, as the paper sticks to the butter and damages the appearance. Each roll should be separately placed in a piece of new muslin cloth, washed in warm water to take out the starch, and thoroughly wet in good brine. The rolls should be of moderate size, and not too large. Then, again, the rolls should be of uniform colour, not packing the light and fresh-made with other that has been colored. Mark plainly on each package the correct tare (the gross weight is easily obtained), as it ensures quick returns after sale is made.

TORONTO.

January 11, 1889.

Trade continues dull and featureless. The first signs of returning activity are beginning to show themselves in the way of enquiries from the country. The week has been broken into to some extent by the municipal elections. They are now over and business men are gradually getting into the regular routine of daily work once more. The want of snow has retarded lumbering and other seasonable work, and bad roads have kept farmers at home. On the other hand the mild weather has permitted the continuation of building and other outdoor work. A generally healthy tone prevails and trade is in a prosperous condition. Payments are better and are regarded as satisfactory. There has been no important change in values during the week. Cheese has advanced in Liverpool. Dressed hogs and provisions are a shade easier. Poultry has improved a little. Eggs are increasing in supply. Good butter is very scarce. The grain markets are dull. Money on call is stiffer at 4½ to 5 per cent. but loans on commercial paper can be got at the same prices as before, namely 6 to 7 per cent. according to the class of security offered.

GROCERIES.

CANNED GOODS.

In tomatoes there is a steadier feeling ; for the better brands $1.10 is asked, but inferior packs can be bought readily at 90c. ; some enthusiastic holders are firm in the belief that the market will touch $1.25. Later returns place the Canadian pack for this season at 73,000 cases ; this together with the stock of last season's on hand brings the total stock at the moment to about the same amount as a year ago. There has been a fair demand for peas at $1.10 to $1.25, and for corn at $1.05 to $1.20. Fruits are moving fairly well; for 2 lb. peaches $2.10 to $2.25 is asked, and for 3 lb. $2.85 to $3.10 ; plums are quoted at $1.25 to $1.50.

TEAS.

Not much doing. Demand is for small lots. Values are steadily maintained all along the line.

COFFEES.

Green continue firm. Rios have been easier but are again firm, prices being steady at the top ; late advices say the new crop promises to be larger than was anticipated ; local holders are moving small lots at 17½c. to 20c. Mild grades are very firm and scarce. Javas are selling at 23c. to 26c. ; cables from Rotterdam quote a higher market ; prices of the far months are higher than near ; present figures show an advance of about 4c. over those of a few months ago. Mochas are very scarce, and held at 28c. to 30c.

SUGARS.

There is no change to note in this branch of trade this week. The refiners have shut down for repairs, but the market is abundantly supplied. There is an easy undertone in the market for whites, but prices are unchanged. It is likely that granulated and all whites will be reduced ½c. on Saturday morning. Yellows are moving as before, at 5¾c. to 6¼c. In raws there is but little doing ; Jamaicas are offered in cars at 5¼c. to 5½c. Samples of new Demeraras are being shown, but the trade is not yet in a buying mood.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Demand is light, and prices are steady and unchanged.

DRIED FRUIT.

Currants—Are quiet at 5⅜c. to 5¾c. for barrels and halves of Provincial and Filiatras on the spot ; cables report a higher market abroad on freer purchases by the French. Reports of failures in the foreign markets have been received. This was not altogether unexpected as heavy losses have been made this season. A Patras letter of a recent date says : "The extreme decline in prices has resulted in the ruin of many growers who have not covered the expenses which they advanced in the beginning of the season for the cultivation of the vines. We therefore look for a reduced cultivation for another season on account of the great difficulty owners will have in raising the necessary funds."

Dates—Are firmly held. Old are moving at 4½c. to 5c., and new at 5¾c. to 6½c.

Figs—There is a fair movement in ordinary Elemes at 10½c. to 11c., common stock slow.

Prunes—Some dealers report a better enquiry. Bosnia have sold in hdds. at 5c. to 5½c. ; fine cases at 7¾c. to 8c. ; the latter are cabled steady at full figures.

Raisins—Are steady. Valencias are quiet and firm ; ordinary off-stock is offering at 5¾c. to 6¼c. ; selected are cabled from London at 24s. cost and freight. There are only 60,000 boxes left at Denia, and London letters say that the market for ordinary fruit may be considered as closed. Sultanas unchanged ; but there is an enquiry for round lots. There is nothing doing in Malagas, but they are firmly held.

GREEN FRUIT.

There is no change in the green fruit trade from last week. All lines remain dull. There is only a fair supply of all fruits. In oranges, Valencias have a good demand, while the supply is very small, and are quoted at $5.25 to $5.50 per case. Floridas are quoted at $3.50 to $3.75 per box, and are meeting with a fairly active sale. Jamaicas are about out of the market. A fair trade only is being done in lemons. Messinas are quoted at $3.50 to $3.75 for 300's and $3.50 for 360's. There are, it might be said, no Malaga grapes in the market. What few there are are spoiled and unsalable, and are quoted at $6 to $6.50 per keg. There are none in the New York market, and no more arrivals are expected.

CRANBERRIES.

Demand is dull and will probably remain so until the weather gets colder. Prices are unchanged at $3 to $3.25 per case and $8 per bbl.

APPLES.

The trade transacted in apples lately has been of a very limited nature. With the exception of Greenings and Northern Spies, and for these the demand does not begin to be active, there seems to be absolutely nothing doing. Stocks in the hands of dealers are very large; and it looks as if they were going to remain so. Prices for the packed fruit are kept up to $1.50 and $2 per bbl., but intending purchasers seem to want apples below these figures. An offer was made to one dealer for first-class packed fruit at $1 per bbl., but was refused.

FISH.

The continued mild weather is proving very unfavourable to the fish trade. The supply is quite sufficient to meet all demands, and the prices remain unchanged. Ciscoes have a fair sale at $1.25 per hundred. Lake Winnipeg whitefish, 6½ to 7c., and pike, 5c., have only a fair demand. British Columbia salmon are moving slowly at 15c. per lb. The supply of steak is barely enough for the demand. Oysters are dull also on account of mild weather. They are quoted at $1.15 for standard, and $1.60 for select.

GEESE—Still scarce and in good demand; prices are firm at 6c. to 7½c. and 8c.

TURKEYS—Ordinary stock is moving about 7c. to 9c., but a few fancy bright clean birds bring 10c. per lb.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER.—Arrivals have not been so large. There is a good demand for fine, and it is getting scarcer. Receipts are mostly medium and common grades. Dealers are pushing these out as rapidly as possible, so as to prevent any accumulation. Rolls form the bulk of the offerings; they are moving in a small way at 14c. to 17c. for common to good, and a few choice at 18c. Dairy tubs rule from 14c. to 19c. for common to choice; extra brings 20c. There is a fair local demand for medium at 14c. to 15c. There is also an inquiry for shipment, but buyers cannot pay over 13c. while holders ask 14c. Creameries are quiet at 22c. to 24c.

CHEESE.—Quiet, but firmly held at 11c. to 11½c. for good August and September. Liverpool has advanced 1s.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

DRIED APPLES—Dealers are bidding 3½c. delivered here for good new stock. Small lots are not wanted, but are offering at 4c. to 4¼c. Stocks are accumulating. Evaporated dull. Cars can be bought at 6½c., and dealers are asking 7c. to 8c. for small lots.

EGGS—The market is easier. Fresh are arriving more freely. Mixed lots of new laid and held fresh are 20c. to 21c. Limed are moving at 16c. to 18c., though 19c. is asked for fine qualities.

HAY AND STRAW.—Timothy is plentiful and easy at $14 to $15.50 on the track. Mixed steady at $13 to $14.50. Straw unchanged at $8 to $9.

HOPS—Dull and nominal at 20c. to 23c. for new and 13c. to 16c. for yearlings.

ONIONS—Slow. Good many held here. Selling at $1.40 to $1 50 per bbl.

POTATOES—Quiet and easy. Cars are offered to arrive on track at 35c., and smaller quantities out of store at 40c. to 50c.

SEEDS—Dull. The soft weather has checked receipts. Dealers are paying $7.50 to $8.50 for prime to choice alsike; common to prime sold at $6 to $7.50. Timothy is nominal; receipts are nil.

WOOL—There has been no further export business reported and the market has been generally quiet. Dealers are offering fleece in round lots at 22c., but they find no demand. Canadian millers are buying a few pulled at 22c. for super. Extras are quoted at 27c. Prices are: Fleece, ordinary, 20c. to 21c.; fleece, clothing, 23c. to 24c.; pulled super, 21c. to 22c.; pulled combing, 18c. to 19c.; pulled extra, 25c. to 27c.

SALT.

Has shown very little change. Liverpool coarse has sold in small lots at 68c. to 70c.; Canadian, bagged, has changed hands by car at 60c., and dairy, in 200-lb. bags, at 90c., both on track. Canadian barrelled quiet at 90c.

HIDES, SKINS AND TALLOW.

HIDES—The market is very dull. Green are offered freely. Dealers reduced prices ¼c. yesterday; quotations now being 3c. for No. 3; 4c. for No. 2, and 5c. for No. 1, inspected. Cured have sold at 6c., and more are offered at that price. Tanners, however, are holding off in anticipation of lower prices.

SKINS—Calfskins are nominal. Sheep and lambskins are in demand; present take-off are a ready sale at $1.30 to $1.35, but lighter woolled skins can be bought as low as $1.

TALLOW—Dealers are buying rendered at 6c., and occasionally 6¼c., and are selling at 6½c. to 6¾c. Demand is good and prices are firm. Rough is worth 2c. to 2½c.

COAL OIL.

The market is steady at previous quotations. Demand is good. Prices are as follows: Canadian refined, 15c; Carbon safety, 17; Water White Home, 20c; Water White American, 25c.; Photogene, 26c. to 27c.

DRESSED HOGS AND PROVISIONS.

Dressed hogs have sold a little lower this week. Rail receipts have not been large. Choice quality in small lots have been taken by packers, mostly about $6.75, but a few fancy lots sold at $7 to $7.25. Big heavy fat sold at $6.50. Quite a number of cars have changed hands in the west. The prices in most instances appear to have been about $6.62½ to $6.80 f.o.b. at Chatham points. One sale of two cars on Montreal account was reported at $6.50. The soft, wet weather was unfavorable, and farmers stopped killing, and offerings later in the week fell off in consequence. Reports still vary as to the future of the market. Some say that the bulk of the hogs have been marketed, while others maintain that much lower prices may be expected. The latter is hardly likely. Reports received by THE GROCER from a number of interior points say that local dealers are cutting up a much greater number of ho s this season than last. A considerable portion of the product is going into barrels. Reports from Chicago say that the foreign demand for hog product has only been fair during the past week. "Merchants in the English markets were inclined to purchase fair quantities of bacon, and also accepted several lots of lard. Orders from the Continental markets were for heavier weight bacon, and some purchases were made. Stocks abroad only moderate for the season of the year. The export movement continues quite liberal—somewhat in excess of the returns of last season. Advices from Liverpool indicated a weaker feeling in that quarter, and prices declined 5s. 6d. on lard, 2s. on bacon, 4s. on Cumberland sides, and 3d. on hams. The domestic demand for hog products was comparatively light during the past week. Some orders were received from the South, mainly for short rib sides and small quantities of smoked meats. Merchants are depending to some extent on property to be delivered on January contracts. The inquiry from the Eastern markets was fair, and almost exclusively for mess pork and lard for the seaboard markets. Interior points purchased small lots of different kinds of Products. Inquiry from the Canadian markets fair, and chiefly for barreled products. Very little doing with the Pacific coast markets. Trade with the South-western markets light, and the orders from the North-west restricted to the jobbing trade."

On this market there is an easy feeling on everything excepting lard, which is steadily held.

MESS PORK—Is dull, and is offered lower at $17 to $17.50 per bbl.; family mess is nominally the same.

BACON—Quiet and easy: long clear can be bought in cars at 9c., and smaller lots are held at 9½c.; Cumberland is nominal; none is being made.

LARD—Steady and in demand at 11c. for Canadian in tubs, and 11½c. in pails.

SMOKED MEATS—Are quiet and unchanged; hams are offering at 11c. to 12c.; rolls at 10½c. to 11c., and backs and bellies at 11c. to 11½c.

The Cincinnati Price-Current says: A moderate number of hogs has been handled by Western packers the past week, apparently falling a little short of corresponding time last year. The packing at fifteen prominent points was 175,000 hogs for the week, against 180,000 last year. All points packed approximately 215,000, against 225,000 last year. Total packing since November 1st, about 3,085,000 hogs, against 3,800,000 a year ago, implying a shortage of 715,000 to date. Not much change in prices of hogs. In some instances the quality is reported as hardly up to previous offerings, but for the most part is well maintained, and the weight heavy. The weather has continued unusually favourable for feeding operations, and it is believed that the supply to come forward the next few weeks will be fully up to corresponding time last year.

In the provision market, values at Chicago were well sustained during the week until yesterday, when a break occurred, more marked in lard than other product, this article having been in a strained position for some time past. The sharp decline in lard probably helped more than other influences in occasioning the depression in meats and pork. The exports for the week were liberal of both lard and meats, considerably exceeding corresponding time last year. The situation abroad and the feeling entertained by dealers encourages the view that British markets are likely to need more liberally than last year of American hog product, and as soon as our markets become more settled, or manifest a tendency to higher values, the foreign demand will undoubtedly be fairly active.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

FLOUR.—A quiet trade is reported, with prices about steady at the recent decline. Extras can be bought at $4.60 to $4.65, and straight rollers at $4.90.

BRAN. — Dull and easier. Cars are worth about $16 on the track. Local millers are holding small lots at $17. Sellers are offering cars at $15.25 outside, with same freight eastward as Toronto, or at $14 at Paris. Middlings are offered at Paris at $17.

WHEAT—Continues quiet. Up the Northern and Midland No. 2 red, fall and spring have changed hands at $1.04 to $1.05. On the spot there is an enquiry for these grades at $1.08 to $1.09. Manitoba wheats unchanged. No. 1 hard is worth $1.25 on the spot or delivered at Ontario points, and $1.23 to arrive on track. No. 1 frosted is held at $1 to arrive on track, and 95c. is bid. On the street $1.03 is being paid for red and white; $1.04 for spring, and 85c. to 85½c. for goose.

BARLEY.—The market continues dull, and the feeling weak. No. 1 is the only grade for which there is any call; it is worth 68c. on the spot. No. 3 has changed hands at 54c. and 55c. There is a weaker feeling in the lower grades. Street receipts are fair, and prices have been steady at 62c. to 67½c.

PEAS.—Dull and unchanged. Holders are firm at 58c. f.o.b. outside. On the street they are worth 62c. to 67½c.

OATS.—Weaker. Considerable quantities of light are offering. Mixed are moving at 35½c. to 36½c. on the track. Five cars heavy wheat sold outside to-day at equal to 37½c. on the track, and two cars sold outside at equal to 32½c. here. They are easier on the street at 37c. to 38c.

Offer for sale all grades of REFINED SUGARS and SYRUPS of the well-known brand of

Redpath

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,
MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday's yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

JOHN BAKER EDWARDS, P.L.D., D.C.L., F.C.S.,
Public Analyst for the District of Montreal, and Professor of Chemistry.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY, MEDICAL FACULTY, McGILL UNIVERSITY,
MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have taken and tested a sample of your "EXTRA GRANULATED" Sugar, and find that it yielded 99·88 per cent. of Pure Sugar. It is practically as pure and good a Sugar as can be manufactured.

Yours truly,
G. P. GIRDWOOD.

GROCERIES.

For the season the grocery trade has been fairly active, but has contained little of interest. The bad weather and the consequent wretched condition of the roads has greatly retarded the development of business, but under the circumstances there has been a fair distribution in most staple lines. Payments have been fairly well met.

SUGARS, ETC.

There has been a good enquiry for refined sugar, and the market has been fairly active and steady. Granulated has changed hands at 7½c. to 7⅝c., and yellows at 5⅜c. to 6¼c. as to quality. In molasses business has been quiet, there being little demand at present, but the market has ruled strong and prices have advanced all round, last sales of Barbadoes being reported at 42½c., Antigua at 35c., and Trinidad at 32c. to 33c. Syrups have been quiet but firm at 3¾c. to 4½c.

FRUIT.

In raisins there is no new feature to note, except that a firmer feeling has prevailed and prices are somewhat better. The demand has been quiet, and few sales have been effected. Valencias 5c. to 5¾c. There has been decided weakness in currants lately, and prices have declined considerably, but late advices from abroad are stronger, but this has had no effect here yet. We quote 4¾c. to 5¼c. Rice has been moving freely for this season, and prices are firm at $2.60 to $3.75.

TEA.

Considering the bad roads, there has been a fair enquiry for teas, and a fairly active business has been accomplished at firm prices. Advices from New York have been strong, and report sales of large lines of low grades.

CANNED GOODS.

The market for canned goods has been quiet, and business dull. Retail dealers, both here and in the county, have a good assortment on hand. Stocks of all kinds in packers', jobbers', and wholesale grocers' hands are large, and the market has an easy tone. Lobsters have ruled weak and declined to $6 per case. Mackerel has been all bought up, and there is none on the market for sale. Tomatoes, in small lots, have changed hands at $1, but round lots could be bought at much lower prices. Owing to the large offerings of corn, prices have declined to $1.15 and $1.20 for Erie & Aylmer brands, and $1.35 for Hoeggs. Peas have also eased off to $1.25. Canned fruits have remained quiet but steady.

FLOUR AND GRAIN

GRAIN

Was dull and nominally unchanged. We quote: Canada red winter wheat, $1.18; Canada white winter wheat, $1.18; No. 1 hard Manitoba (new) $1.20 to $1.22½; No. 2 do, $1.20; No. 1 Northern (new and old), $1.20. Corn (in bond), 52c. to 53c. Peas (per 60 lbs.), 75c. to 76c. Barley, 70c. Oats, 36c. in car lots.

FLOUR.

Demand was slow, with offerings large and buyers holding off in anticipation of lower prices. Patent winter, $6 to $6.50; patent spring, $6 to $6.05; straight roller, $5.75 to $5.95; extra, $5.50 to $5.75; superfine, $4.50 to $5.15; strong bakers', $5.50 to $5.75: superfine, bags, $2.40 to $2.50; extra, bags, $2.55 to $2.75; city strong bakers', 140 lb. sacks, $5.50 to $5.75; oatmeal, standard, bbl., $5.70; oatmeal, granulated, bbl.. $4.50.

PROVISIONS.

HOG PRODUCTS.

Quiet and unchanged; Canadian short cut, per bbl., $17 to $17.50; mess pork, Western, per bbl., $16 25 to $ 6.50; short cut, Western, per bbl., $16.50 to $17; hams, city cured, per lb, 12½c. to 13c.; hams, green, per lb., 9c.; flanks, green, per lb., 9c.; lard, Western, in pails, per lb., 10c. to 10⅛c.; lard, Canadian, in pails, 10c.; bacon, per lb., 11c. to 11½c.; shoulders, 6½c.; tallow, common refined, per lb., 6¼c. to 6½c. Dressed hogs in large supply with trade quiet.

POULTRY AND GAME.

Steady and quiet; turkeys, 8c. to 9½c.; geese at 5c. to 7c.; ducks, 8c. to 9½c.; chickens, 5c. to 7c.; partridges, in fair demand at 45c. to 50c.; venison, scarce at 11c. to 12c.

Who would have thought it was left for Toronto to produce the greatest the world ever knew? But such is the case. Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder is the most wonderful ever invented. It makes the most elegant biscuit ever eaten. Sold by grocers.

Business Changes.

Mrs. P. Gagne, general dealer, North Ham, and S. H. Frigon, general dealer, St. Tite, Que., have assigned.

G. W. Weston, dealer in builders' supplies, 52 Adelaide Street West, in whose store the bailiff has been for a few weeks, is now offering to compromise.

James S. McCracken, lumber dealer, Gladstone Avenue, assigned to E. R. C. Clarkson. The liabilities are $4,600 and the assets nominally the same.

The wholesale firm of Lowden, Paton & Co., 55 Front Street West, dealers in drugs and druggists' sundries, are offering 50c. on the dollar. The creditors have not yet come to a decision.

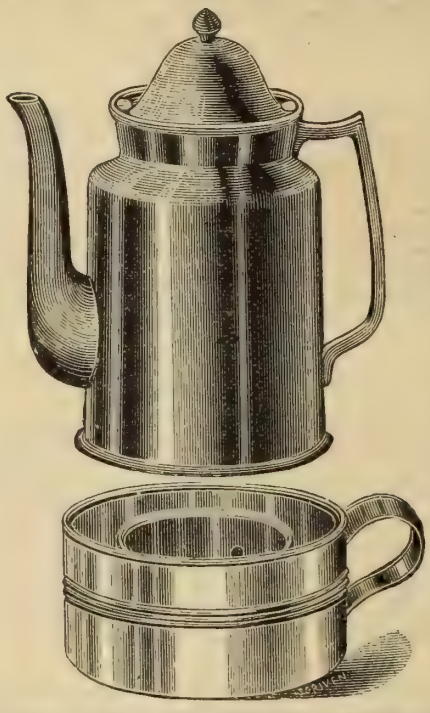
A year ago when Messrs. J. W. Gale & Co., wholesale dry goods merchants, Wellington Street, failed, they effected a compromise on their liabilities of $179,000 at 89 cents on the dollar. The last composition note fell due this week, and Mr. Gale cabled to the principal creditors in the Old Country to protect all maturing bills, as he would be unable to meet them. He has not yet ready a statement of his affairs.

Benjamin H. Smith, gents' furnishings, Parkdale, has assigned to Townsend & Stephens. The sheriff has been in possession for a week on a judgment for $820 obtained by the insolvent's brother, W. H. Smith, but this assignment will allow him to walk out. After the rent, taxes and expenses are paid there will be little or nothing left for the creditors, who are all local firms. His assets are estimated at $2,100 and his liabilities at $3,000.

The following assignments are reprted this week: Stirling & Co., general store, Arnprior; Eby Bros., manufacturers, Berlin; James Strachan, general store, Dunedin; Angus C. Graham, furniture, Dutton; Wilkinson & Smith, builders, Galt; C. J. McColl, milling, Leamington; M. Leblanc, boarding-house, Blue Bonnets; Alex. Tyo, grocer, Dundee; Mrs. A. Contu, dry goods, Louisville; Geo. Gillespie, grocer; Hector Leblanc, books; Geo. Woolley, upholsterer, Montreal. O. Rheaume, grocer, Valleyfield; G. C. Clarke, merchant, Peterborough; E. J. Paybus, sadler, Newmarket; T. J. C. Rodden, drugs, Port Arthur.

Neil Gardiner, confectioner and baker, 266 King Street East, corner of Sherbourne, has left the city, leaving a number of unpaid debts. He formerly carried on the bakery only, and did very well with it, but a couple of years ago began the manufacture of candy, in which business Gardiner lost money steadily till a few months ago, when he had to shut down this branch of his establishment. He continued his bakery, but did not pay much attention to it, and a week ago quietly left for the States. It is not thought that he took much money with him. A bailiff was put in the store for rent, and the wages of a boy, amounting to $65, and he offered to sell the entire contents of the shop for that sum. The liabilities are estimated at about $1,000, of which $250 is due Swan Bros., grocers, King Street East. The other creditors of Mr. Gardiner are A. V. Delaporte & Co., Jas. Park & Son and R. & T. Watson.

GROCERS!



IT is well known that everywhere in France one can get a good cup of coffee, and it is also an established fact, that the reverse is the case in Canada. Many blame the coffee, but the true cause is simply this. "Not one cook in a dozen knows how to make coffee properly." The above cut represents a new invention which is very simple in construction, and any child can make a good cup of coffee with it. You simply fill the tin can with boiling water, then set the pot on top, put the requisite amount of coffee in the bag inside the pot, then pour a sufficient amount of boiling water into the pot and let it stand on the stove for 3 or 4 minutes, when you will have a first class cup of coffee.

This coffee pot is the simplest, cheapest, and best article of the kind ever invented, and the low price makes it within the reach of all. They are packed 1 doz. in a barrel. Price $6 per doz. Send $6 for 1 doz. as a sample, and you will find it all that we recommend it to be.

SPECIAL TO OUR READERS.

As the design of THE CANADIAN GROCER is to benefit mutually all interested in the business, we would request all parties ordering goods or making purchases of any description from houses advertising with us to mention in their letter that such advertisement was noticed in THE CANADIAN GROCER.

THE COMBINATION ON PICKLES.

There is a good deal of dissatisfaction in the retail trade over the price at which Crosse & Blackwell's pickles have been put by the Wholesale Grocers' Guild. At the old price, they were able to sell them at 30c. per bottle, now they cost $3.25 per doz. or 27c. each. To sell at 30c. would give them but little profit, and 35c. is too high; and with as much cutting as there is now in the trade, it would be difficult to get that figure. The trade, with few exceptions, does not object to the wholesaler getting a good profit, but they do think that when this profit is being arranged the retailer should be considered. In the present case it would have been better for the retail trade if the cost price had been 30c. The selling price would then be 35c., and they would have a fair profit. It is stated that many members of the Guild were in favor of this, but that Crosse & Blackwell did not want to advance the cost to the consumer to over 30c. As it is, the retail trade keep Crosse & Blackwell's goods hidden away and only bring them forth when no other brand would be acceptable.

COMPROMISES.

We publish in our correspondence column a letter from a well-known Western Ontario merchant, which we most respectfully commend to a number of wholesalers and manufacturers. The writer makes some suggestions that are worthy of consideration. If they were carried out there would be a material decrease in the number of failures. Creditors, as a rule, seem inclined to get an estate off their hands as soon as possible. They care not how it goes as long as they can get rid of it. A little reflection would convince them that much could be done to remedy the existing state of affairs.

SUPPLY THE HOME MARKET.

Dr. Fream, in his report to the British Government on Agriculture in Canada, strongly urges Canadians to supply the home demand for first-class butter before trying to compete in the British markets. This is the view THE CANADIAN GROCER has been putting forth all along. There is never enough good butter to supply the home demand, not to say ship it. At the present moment it is very difficult to get really choice butter on this market. When our butter-makers learn how to make good butter then we may look to the British markets.

THE TEA MARKET.

The past week has developed no new feature in the tea market. Prices of all grades remain firm with a hardening tendency. The statistical position is very strong. Last advices from Yokahama state the shortage in Japans as being over two and a half million pounds. Young Hysons are now certain to be two and a half million pounds or more short, and it is believed Oolongs will be from two and a half to three and a half millions short. Offerings from London continue to shew advancing prices.

The local market has not shewn any material change, though there is a disposition on the part of dealers to sort up their stocks, and a fair business has been done, chiefly in medium grade Congous, at from 18c. to 20c. A few Gunpowders have changed hands at good figures. Greens and Japans have been neglected, with only a few transactions.

Values of teas in this market are below New York. A tea merchant from there, who has been looking at teas here this week, say that we are 1c. to 1½c. lower than they are there. Some Japan teas have sold on that market at nearly fifty per cent. above what they were offered at some months ago.

THE DRY GOODS TRADE.

Wholesale dry goods houses are busy preparing for the spring trade. Business on the whole, as compared with the same time last year, is more active, and taken altogether, quite a satisfactory trade is being done. The travellers on the road report very fair orders. A great many wholesale merchants appear to be dealing in a more conservative manner than has been the case heretofore. More care and caution is exercised, and with less liabilities stocks are also lighter than usual. The demand at present is principally for staple goods, prints, grey and white flannels, shirtings, and goods of this description. Business in the country has been somewhat hampered by the weather, which has been unfavorable.

As regards prices, the whole dry goods market may be said to have advanced, and a very firm feeling prevails in all lines. Silks, cottons, woollens and linens are all firmer, and so on throughout the list. Linen goods cannot now be procured in the Old Country at former prices. French and German dress goods record an advance of 15 per cent. All kinds of worsted and woollen goods are 15 per cent. dearer. There have been advances in all Canadian manufactured goods. Tweeds purchased from the mill at 60c. are now costing 67½c., and all above this price have advanced at about the same ratio. A list is also out for blankets, showing 12½ per cent. advances. Everything in Canadian-made cotton goods is higher, such advances being from 5 to 12½ per cent., with the mills indifferent about getting orders even at the higher figures. The other lines manufactured in Canada, hosiery and knitted underwear, having been sold last year at about the cost of production, are partaking of the advance with other goods, and prices are reported from 7½ to 15 per cent. higher. These advances should also reach retail dealers, but any jobbers having stocks on hand will, as usual, be afraid to ask the increased rates, fearing that they will be undersold by rival houses similarly situated. We would advise the retail trade to buy for actual requirements, and do it at once.

The open weather lately without snow has put roads in the country in a bad condition, and the dry goods trade, like every other branch of business, is feeling this in slow collections. Then, again, this is always a time of year when payments are not very liberal. They are reported, however, to be considerable of an increase over the same period in 1888, and not at all bad for the season. The 4th of February, the great settling-up day of the year in the dry goods trade, is drawing near, and while some merchants speak in a very hopeful strain of the prospects for good payments on that day, it is yet rather early to get reliable information of how things will turn out.

ENCOURAGE COFFEE DRINKING.

We have several times urged retailers to aim at the cultivation of the tastes of their customers for the better grades of coffee, or more properly we should say for coffee, for there is very little pure and unadulterated coffee used. Most of the roasted coffee now sold on the market is a compound of coffee, chickory, and peas or rye. One can seldom enjoy this mixture, and the result is a decreased consumption. On the other hand, pure coffee properly prepared is a most enjoyable drink. The result is increased consumption. Once a consumer acquires a taste for good coffee he will use it constantly, and we might say increasingly. Retailers should learn to grind their own coffees, or better still, their customers to get a family grinder. Let them grind the beans fresh every morning. There is a good deal in the way coffee is prepared. However, there can be no excuse on this score, since the introduction of the improved pots made specially for the preparation of coffee.

IMPROVEMENT N GRANULATED SUCAR.

One of the results of the agreement entered into between the sugar refiners and the members of the Wholesale Grocers' Guild, has been the very great improvement in the quality of granulated sugar. Before an agreement was arrived at prices of sugars were cut to such an extent that refiners had to turn out an inferior article to pay even the cost of production. This was most unsatisfactory to both the wholesale and retail merchant. The latter oftentimes found himself loaded up with inferior sugar, and there was a bitter fight between he and the wholesaler as to who should bear the loss. Now the granulated sugar turned out by the Canadian refiners is second to none, and is giving complete satisfaction. The competition between the refiners compels each to keep the sugar up to the highest state of perfection.

TOMATO AND CORN PACK.

The American Grocer has published its annual report of the pack of canned corn and tomatoes. It estimates the pack of tomatoes in the United States and Canada for the year 1888, at 3,319,437 cases, against 2,817,048 in 1887, and an average annual pack for five years, 1883-88 of 2,315,912 cases. Canada's pack for 1888 is put at 73,900 cases against 52,000 cases in 1887. The former is as near the actual facts as it is possible to get, but we think that the estimate for 1887 is considerably below the mark. The estimate made by the trade here is 75,000 to 85,000 cases. The total pack of corn is placed at 3,491,474 cases against 2,311,424 in 1887, and an average of 2,147,452 in four years. The Canadian pack is estimated at 54,814 cases in 1888. We regret that want of space prevents the republication of our contemporary's excellent review, as it contains much that is of interest to trade in general. Next week we hope to be able to publish a portion of it.

THE PARCEL POST WITH ENGLAND.

The Post Office Department has issued a circular to all postmasters in Canada specifying the conditions upon which parcels may be mailed at any Canadian post office addressed to any post office in the United Kingdom or Newfoundland. They vary little from the existing regulations applying to the limited parcel post which has been in existence between Great Britain and Canada during the past year. The limit of weight is four pounds, and of a size two feet long by one foot wide or deep. Postmasters are enjoined to caution all persons to whom closed parcels are addressed from the United Kingdom, Newfoundland or any place beyond the limits of the Dominion of Canada, that such parcels can under no circumstances be delivered until all custom duties to which the contents may be liable have been paid.

CHANCES IN THE ENCLISH SUCAR MARKET.

The following extracts from an article in recent issue of London Grocer are in accord with previous information, and may prove of special interest just at this period of new crops: "A subject of frequent comment among the trade for weeks past has been the extreme smallness of the stock of raw sugar at the port of London. to the time when the quantity on hand was so scanty as it is now, the 'memory of man runneth not,' except it was in 1855-56, when, with only a month or two's deliveries in reserve, the stock was quite as diminutive as it is at present; and then it must be remembered, prices were very much higher than they are in 1888—so much so, indeed, that the lowest retail figures were 5d. to 6d. per lb." After showing that stocks then began to increase, and by 1865 had reached 106,000 tons, the Grocer finds a gradual shrinkage following with present supply in round numbers only 28,500 tons unrefined sugar, and comments thereon as follows: "No wonder that a dearth of good useful grocery and refining sugars is so much complained of just now, as no other inference can be drawn from a comparison of the foregoing figures, and this is, at the same time, the reason that both grocers and refiners look more and more to beet products to satisfy all their requirements. It is evident that the chief product of the sugar cane is shut out from our market as completely as if one portion of it were entirely prohibited and the other under the imposition of high protective rates of duty, for neither from the East or West Indies, nor from colonial and foreign countries, do we get the full benefits of the rich crops that are grown there, and whether these are large or small appears to matter little while there is enough beet sugar imported from the Continent to meet the current wants of the day. . . . The few statistics which we have collected make it pretty clear that during the last quarter of a century or so an astonishing change has been wrought in the imports and stocks of sugar in London, and it is not unlikely that the same revolutionary movement may be going on in the outports of the United Kingdom, as the tendency of the trade in sugar at the moment is to concentrate itself more than ever on the kinds manufactured from beet, and it is merely a question of time how long it will be ere the greater part of the sugar sent to this country will consist almost exclusively of beet."

TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

The regular monthly meeting of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association was held in Philharmonic Hall, Monday evening. Mr. Wm. Mara, the retiring President, escorted Mr. Berwick, the new President, to the chair, amidst the applause of those present. Mr. Mara expressed the pleasure it gave him to have the honor of doing so. He complimented him on the excellent picture of him published in THE CANADIAN GROCER. He said it was a better portrait of him than that of Mr. Barron, the worthy Vice-President. It flattered Mr. Barron, and he believed that the latter must have got a younger brother to sit for a picture to be published in THE GROCER. He hoped that during Mr. Berwick's term of office they would have a large increase in membership, and he wished him every success in filling the chair. Replying, Mr. Berwick thanked Mr. Mara and the members for the honor conferred upon him. He could not understand why he had been elected to the position. It had been stated that it was because he got on well with everyone, and did not quarrel. He pleaded guilty to this, as he always endeavored to keep on the best of terms with everybody. He would do his best to fill the position satisfactorily.

AFTER THE CIVIL SERVANTS.

Mr. D. W. Clark, who had given notice that he would move that a memorial be sent to the Provincial Government and the City Council, asking that these bodies deal with those of their employees who did not pay their honest debts, said he was not ready to go on with his motion. He had written the Provincial Secretaries of Manitoba and Quebec, and had not yet received a reply.

THE GROCER'S WAGON.

Mr. Booth, for the committee appointed to make arrangements for the giving of a prize for a grocer's wagon, said that owing to one of the members having been exceptionally busy, they had not done anything.

INCREASING THE MEMBERSHIP.

Mr. Mills said that owing to the holidays and the pressure of other work, the committee which was to deal with the collection of dues and the working up of the membership in the various wards had not done anything. He thought something should be done at once.

On Mr. Booth's suggestion, the matter was left in the hands of the Executive Committee.

THE ANNUAL DINNER.

The committee appointed to consider this question had not met. Some discussion took place on the question of whether the affair should take the form of an "at home," to which the ladies would be invited, or an annual dinner.

Mr. Clark believed that it would be a good idea to have something to which they could take their wives. They were interested in the business, and would like to be acquainted with other grocers' wives.

Mr. Hargrave also favored an "at home." So did the President.

At Mr. Booth's suggestion the names of Messrs. McCulloch and Smith from the east end were added to the committee.

KINGSTON GROCERS.

A letter, published in another column, was read from Mr. Gilbert, Secretary of the Kingston Grocers' Association. The Secretary was instructed to acknowledge the receipt, and express the pleasure it gave them to hear of the efforts being made by the Kingston brethren.

A COLLECTION AGENCY.

Letters were read from two collecting agencies, offering to serve the members of the Association. Neither of them were received with much favour, and two others were named and spoken of very highly. Mr. Mara favored the appointment of a committee to see the various mercantile agencies in the city, and ascertain which was the best, and with which they could make the most satisfactory arrangements. He thought that all those who had bad debts to collect would send them in to these agencies rather than to the Association. The members did not care for their competitors to know that they had been duped by any one. This is why the delinquent debtors' list had never been a success. He moved that a committee composed of the mover and seconder, and Messrs. Britton, Mills, Berwick, and Barron be appointed to carry out this suggestion.

Mr. Clark was in favor of this scheme, and seconded the motion. He said such a plan was working successfully in Philadelphia. When he was Secretary of the Association he was approached by two Americans, who offered him a large number of shares in a collecting company if he would allow his name to appear as President. He refused to agree to this, and advised the committee to steer clear of such concerns.

The motion was adopted.

BOOK-KEEPING FOR GROCERS.

Mr. Mills said that he had been very busy since the last meeting, and he had not time to prepare as good a paper as he would have wished on Book-keeping for a small grocery store. He therefore asked that the reading of it be postponed until next meeting, so that he might have more time on it. Was agreed to.

UNLICENSED PEDDLING.

Mr. Williamson took up the question of house to house peddling by farmers and produce dealers, to which attention was drawn some weeks ago by THE GROCER. He pointed out that these people do not pay a license, give false weights, poor quality, and furthermore had no interest at stake in the city. They went about the city cutting into the trade of the regular merchants, who have to pay high taxes, rents, and so on. He strongly condemned the inaction of Inspector Awde and his staff. He believed that these peddlers should be compelled to pay a double license fee. They worked so far away from the market that they had no fees to pay. He moved for the appointment of a committee to consider the matter. Mr. Gibson did not think that the city council could compel them to pay a license fee. The License Department were certainly not doing their duty. Besides allowing a large number of unlicensed peddlers to operate, they did not see that full weight was given. In the case of fruit, the packages were "topped up," good quality being on top and inferior below.

Mr. Mills, in seconding the resolution, agreed with all that the others had said. They often found it difficult to compete with these peddlers, because they cut prices. They were enabled to do so because they gave short weight. It was by giving short weight that they made their profits. When Mr. Fisher was in the License Department the goods of these peddlers were being constantly seized, but the present Department did nothing in this direction.

Mr. Mara wanted to know if Mr. Awde, the Inspector of Licenses, had power to seize.

Mr. Gibson said that they had power in Hamilton, and he was quite sure they had here. He spoke very highly of the Hamilton authorities for the business-like way in which they seized and confiscated every thing of short weight and inferior quality.

Some discussion took place as to the legal weight of a bag of potatoes. Mr. Williamson said the law required 90 lbs. to the bag.

Mr. Booth remarked that if Toronto grocers wanted to see how a market should be run, they should go to Hamilton. It was a pleasure to see the way they did things there. No huckster business was allowed. Mr. Clark said that when the matter came up before, some time ago, they found that a change would have to be made in the Act to enable the city council to advance the license fee.

Mr. Hargrave said there was no doubt as to the fact that there were 90 lbs. to the bag of potatoes.

The motion was agreed to and the President appointed the following committee to deal with the matter: Messrs. Gibson, Hargrave, Mills, Booth and Clark.

WANT THE TREASURER'S PORTRAIT.

Mr. Mara remarked that Mr. Williamson, the new Treasurer, looked tip-top in the Treasurer's chair; while Mr. Barron insisted that he was "putting on airs." Several of the members present insisted that his portrait should be published in THE CANADIAN GROCER.

THE COMBINATION.

Mr. Mills, on behalf of Mr. Partridge, who it was learned with regret was confined to his house with illness, wanted to know why the members of the Association should not be permitted to buy white sugars from Lumbers, who was offering them at less than they could buy from members of the Guild.

Mr. Booth said that this brought up the old story that Lumbers was barred because he sold to consumers. The members of the Guild had agreed not to do so, but he knew some of them who were not sticking to it as they should.

Mr. Gibson said that Lumbers was in the combination on everything excepting sugar, and that he could get into that if he only paid up his dues.

Mr. Mara said that Crosse & Blackwell's pickles were in the combine, and he did not think they should handle them. This firm had put the price so that retailers cannot get a profit. He was in favor of retailers refusing to sell these pickles. For his own part he always kept them in the background.

Mr. Gibson also referred to the combination on baking powder.

After some further discussion the matter dropped, and the meeting adjourned.

Among those present at the meeting were: Messrs. Berwick, Barron, Thackray, Williamson, Mara, Clark, Mills, Hargrave, Roberts, Lindsay, McMillan, Black, Gibson and Booth.

KINGSTON RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

The following letter has been received by Mr. J. F. Thackray, Secretary of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association, from Mr. John Gilbert, Secretary of the Kingston Association, and speaks for itself:—

DEAR SIR,—I take pleasure in sending you a few lines, to tell you that our newly formed Association has met with unexpected success. We have only one or two grocers who are not quite sure whether they should join us or not. In following the footsteps of our sister Association, we have carried every resolution except getting a fixed price on granulated sugar. We think it wise to leave prices alone at present. We have our cards printed telling customers that no Xmas or New Year presents will be given.

I am looking forward to the time when these Associations will work together as one. There are no reasons why it should not become a powerful one. There are many grievances to get rid of, and one particularly which is ruinous, viz., that of giving prizes with tea and other commodities. I would be in favor of trying to get an Act of Parliament passed to do away with the system. I give prizes because there is a tea store here monopolizing the trade, and the only way to get even is to do the same, although averse to it.

Yours truly,
JOHN GILBERT, Secretary.

LONDON NOTES.

Ald. John Moule, one of our leading grocers, was returned at the head of the polls last week, and things affecting the grocery trade that may come before the council will receive his best attention.

Fitzgerald & Scandrett, grocers, had a pyramid of dried fruit in their window. On the top was a keg of prunes with the staves off. The warm air of the store loosened the fruit, and the keg fell through the large plate glass window. It made a good advertisement for the firm, but was a rather expensive one.

Mr. Duncan McMillan, of lot 10, con. 9, East Nissouri, called at the Advertiser office on Saturday, and complained that a dealer on the market had tried to "shave" him in a petty way. He alleges that this is the real cause of the unpopularity of the London market, but admits that where one buyer tries to do a farmer, seven treat him very fairly. On Saturday he brought eight pigs and some butter in. An East ender bought the pigs, and he took them out to his place. The dealer's wife weighed them and said there was 1,013 pounds in the lot, less the customary deduction of two pounds per pig. He claimed that his pigs were thoroughly cleaned, and not subject to deduction. The woman said in that case he would have to wait for her husband to come. He waited nearly two hours, and in the meantime the woman offered to buy his butter. He had eighteen pounds, but she said there wasn't eighteen in it; that the rolls were short in weight. Then the husband arrived, and he offered to buy the pigs with eight pounds off. Mr. McMillan finally got tired of all this, reloaded his wagon, drove back to the market, sold his pigs to another buyer, who allowed him 1,018 pounds instead of 1,013, and made no deduction at that. Then he took his butter to a neighboring grocery, and they told him it was over instead of under weight. It is treatment such as he received that Mr. McMillan says has made London market unpopular.

COMPROMISES.

EXETER, 14th Jan., 1889.

Editor of CANADIAN GROCER:

SIR,—In your issue of last week I notice some remarks on the winding-up and compromising business, but it does not go far enough, for I do think that it is the very worst evil that we have prevailing in our country to-day, and unless stamped out financial ruin will be the result to every merchant that tries to do an honest business; for, as your statement of failures with assets and liabilities from 1880 to 1889 shows, the evil is growing every year worse and worse. Then, I ask, what are we to do? Are we going to just sit still and allow this style of business to go on and at last wind up in failure, too, for surely with every city, town and village over run with bankrupt stocks, or stocks that have been compromised at from 30 to 50 cents on the dollar we cannot possibly sell our goods and pay one hundred cents on the dollar. Then it seems to me that the only thing left for us is to all go into the bankrupt stock business, too, and slash and slaughter the goods, and make all we can, for there will be plenty of stocks to be had. There are numbers of merchants now dealing in them, and the trade is growing largely that way at a fast rate. Then, what would be the result? Why, the wholesale trade would undoubtedly go under, and their stocks in turn would be on the market at a rate on the dollar. Now, sir, in my opinion the only way to stop this terrible cut-throat business is for the wholesale trade to take the matter in hand, and stamp this bankrupt stock business out entirely. When a failure takes place, let the largest creditor of dry goods take back the dry goods at a rate on the dollar. The grocer the same, and so on; put the stock in their warehouses, and sell it back to the solvent merchants at a percentage to pay them, and in quantities not over, say, 25 per cent. of their purchases ; then they would all be distributed throughout the country, and every merchant is ready to grasp bargains of that kind. In this way stocks would be handled only by the merchants ; then wholesalers would be more particular who they sold to for fear that they would some day have to take back the stock. Then we could buy and sell, and not be afraid of a bankrupt stock opening out alongside of us and selling for about half what our stocks cost, as it is at present. Then the wholesalers would do less importing, and run off the surplus stock, for as it is now there is as much stock imported each year as this country requires for two years. There is the great difficulty to-day. The imports are greater than the demand. So that if the wholesaler will not take the matter in hand, I predict that before one year you will see the retailers organized throughout this country to buy up and deal in bankrupt stocks, and as I said before it would be only a matter of time until the wholesale dealers would either try to protect the retailers or go under themselves. For instance, we suppose that A, B, and C, merchants in the same town, are buying their goods from the same houses. A wants to act dishonestly, for as it is now there is a premium on dishonesty. He lays his plans for a compromise, and in most cases succeeds at 30 to 50 cents on the dollar ; he at once opens out, and sells his stock at 60, 70 or 75 cents on the dollar. I ask how are B and C to hold out and pay a hundred cents on the dollar? They can't do it, but in turn must do the same as A did. Now, sir, this style of business is going on every day, and is growing right along, and the wholesalers know it right well, yet they continue to grant compromises just the same ; so that it looks very much like as though they did not care who went under, so long as they came out all right.

Under those circumstances they cannot blame the retailers for demanding protection from them, or looking out for ourselves, letting the chips fall where they may. We are moving in the matter here, and would be pleased to hear from every town in the country on this most important question. I remain, yours truly,

MERCHANT,
Exeter, Ont.

TRADE ITEMS

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Grocers and general merchants will oblige the Editor by sending to this office for insertion in these notes any item of news pertaining to the Grocery business that they think would be of interest to the Trade generally.

The Kingston Grocers' Association is completing a dead-beat list.

The $1,500 stock of B. H. Smith, Parkdale, has been sold to French & Ramsay by the Trustees, Townsend & Stephens.

It is believed that nearly all the northern dressed hogs to be sold this season have been already marketed.

Thieves broke into Chas. Ashford's grocery store, at 312 Queen Street west, on Thursday night, and stole a quantity of canned goods.

Smith & Keighley are offering Pantelliera raisins in boxes at 7½c. for selected, and 8½c. for extra selected. The quality is much finer than selected Valencias.

Mr. J. A. McCrae, Guelph, one of Davidson & Hay's western representatives, who had his shoulder dislocated some time ago, has sufficiently recovered to resume his regular trips.

We have received a very tasty show card issued by Churchill & Co., manufacturers of the Breadmaker's Yeast and Breadmaker's Baking Powder. We have added it to our collection.

In the International Series Counter Check Books, manufactured by Morton & Co., 3 and 5 Adelaide Street East, Toronto, merchants are guaranteed in their use by letters patent. Samples are furnished free of the best check book yet introduced. Thousands now in use.

Mr. S. Fenton, Jr., Manager of the Erie Preserving Co., St. Catharines, was in the city on Saturday on his way to St. Catharines. He spends the winter months at his home in Brooklyn. He made the trip from New York by way of Halifax and Montreal.

Says the Chicago Grocer:—In England you often see over a shop the sign, "Established in 1772," or earlier or later as the case may be. An Englishman came to Brooklyn and put up the sign, "Established in 1804," and rather prided himself on the antiquity of his establishment. The next day his Yankee rival across the way burlesqued his sign in this style: "Established yesterday; no old goods on hand."

Mr. W. M. Milligan is one of the most pushing business men in the city. Not content with two large retail grocery stores he has taken over F. P. Brazill's business in St. Lawrence Market. New plate glass windows are being put in, and the place is being handsomely fitted up. Mr. Milligan informs THE GROCER that he intends to make it a model grocery store in every respect.

The packing of the West is now about 700,000 hogs less in number than the estimated returns of the corresponding time last season. There is very little prospect in the opinion of the provision trade that this deficiency will be made up during the balance of the season—in fact, the trade has virtually settled down to the conviction of a shortage of about 750,000 hogs for the winter season. The increase in weight, however, is a very important factor, and some parties estimate that it will be equal to about 350,000 hogs of last year's average weight. This would make a deficiency in the winter's packing equal to about 70,000,000 pounds of product.

"Ta-ka-kake" (take a cake) is a new cereal sugar corn flour which cooks in fifteen minutes, and makes griddle cakes, gems and rolls. A package sent us was taken to our boarding house and put into the hands of the "missus," along with an order to make griddle cakes for breakfast. She did so, and their popularity was at once established among the boarders. She now tells us that owing to the rush for accommodation in her house we will have either to "pay our rint," or "git" We have paid up, and will remain as long as she makes those griddle cakes. Lucas, Park & Co., Hamilton, are the sole Canadian agents for Potter & Wrightington, Boston, Mass., the manufacturers.

Another robbery was committed Wednesday in Hamilton, and was carried out in a daring manner. Alex. Campbell, an elderly man, who has kept a grocery store at 54 York Street since 1852, was the victim to the extent of $120 or $130. The job was done by two men, who had evidently observed that Mr. Campbell put his money in a desk at one end of his counter. When the storekeeper stepped next door to deliver a lamp chimney which had been ordered, one of the thieves followed him and engaged him in conversation about some plants in his store window, and detained him, while his confederate slipped into the store and abstracted the amount stated from the desk, where a larger amount than usual had been deposited, with a view to paying an account. The thieves escaped.

CANNED SALMON.

The question of what stock of salmon remains in the country to-day is agitating the minds of many in the trade, both here and in the West. The total Pacific Coast pack the past season did not vary far from from 1,000,000 cases, and from recent San Francisco advices the quantity shipped to England was about 350,000 cases. Of the remaining portion, Australia and Canada are credited with absorbing 100,000 cases, thus leaving in round figures, say 500,000 cases for consumption in the United States. Following the first deliveries of the new pack the demand was of satisfactory volume, and the attention then met with continued up to about the opening of October, after which time the interest subsided and the market assumed a dull appearance to the end of the year. What the consumption amounted to during the six months referred to it is impossible at this time to state correctly, though conservative authorities are willing to concede 150,000 to 200,000 cases as the probable quantity of all kinds consumed, and if these estimates can be relied upon there would still be remaining unsold in the various markets of the country from 300,000 to 350,000 cases. There is a hesitation shown by some holders to make known the quantity that remains in their hands, hence it is difficult to gather statistics that can be thoroughly relied upon as correct.

INSTRUCTIONS TO SHIPPERS.

TO SHIPPERS OF DRESSED POULTRY.

Shippers would best consult their own interests by observing the following instructions in shipping goods to Canadian markets :—Abstain from feeding poultry 24 hours before killing. Bleed thoroughly and pluck clean, leaving on the head and feet, as well as the feathers on wings and tail. Do not draw the entrails nor scald the birds. The last process is readily detected by buyers, who will not pay within one or two cents per lb. of the prices they will give for dry-picked goods. Before packing, poultry should be thoroughly dry and cold. Pack neatly in nice clean cases holding from 100 to 200 pounds each. Each bird should have its head and legs placed under the wings and secured firmly, giving the bird a neat, plump appearance, and fill the packages as full as possible to prevent shifting about whilst in transit. Avoid putting more than one kind in a package, as mixtures of geese and ducks, or chickens and turkeys, are more difficult to sell. Mark each case with the correct number of birds contained, so that proper delivery may be cared for.

TO SHIPPERS OF DRESSED HOGS.

Now that the season for marketing dressed hogs has fairly set in, country shippers should pay special attention to the shipments thereof to this market. After they are properly dressed, too much care cannot be bestowed upon their selection, it being desirable that hogs of nearly equal weight and quality should comprise each lot ; they ought then to be placed in clean cars, with a sufficient layer of straw at the bottom to prevent their being marked. Well-fatted, even, clean and bright-looking lots command a sale at top figures when buyers will not look at mixed and uneven lots, although they may be well-fatted. Each hog should have its weight neatly and distinctly marked upon it, and a list of weight of every shipment should be forwarded by mail as early as possible, so that no trouble may arise upon the arrival of the goods here. If shippers to this market will attend to the proper selection of light and heavy weights of good and proper qualities, they will be amply repaid for their trouble on the receipt of net proceeds of their consignments.

TO SHIPPERS OF ROLL BUTTER.

A practice that should be abolished by country shippers is that of working low grades of packed into roll, and packing them in with fresh made roll, with the intention of palming it all off as fresh-made. The deception is always detected, and such lots are invariably sold at same prices that low grades of packed command. Regarding packages, new tubs or hardwood boxes are the most desirable, and half-barrels or kegs will do equally as well, and these only should be used. Care should also be taken before putting the butter in packages, that all the sides and ends of the packages be lined with new white muslin, thus keeping the butter from defacement by touching the wood. A bad practice is putting the butter up in paper ; this should not be done, as the paper sticks to the butter and damages the appearance. Each roll should be separately placed in a piece of new muslin cloth, washed in warm water to take out the starch, and thoroughly wet in good brine. The rolls should be of moderate size, and not too large. Then, again, the rolls should be of uniform colour, not packing the light and fresh-made with other that has been colored. Mark plainly on each package the correct tare (the gross weight is easily obtained), as it ensures quick returns after sale is made.

THE CANNED GOODS LAW.

Her Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate and House of Commons of Canada, enacts as follows ;—

In this Act the expression "package" means every can, tin or package in which articles or goods are put up for sale, and which are closed by being hermetically sealed. 48-49 V., c. 63, s. 1.

Except in the case of goods packed previously to July 20, 1885, every package of canned goods sold or offered for sale in Canada, for consumption therein, shall have attached thereto or imprinted thereon a label or stamp, setting forth in legible characters the name and address of the person, firm or company by whom the same was packed, or of the dealer who sells the same or offers it for sale.

Every such package containing goods prepared from products which have been dried previously to being so prepared, shall, in addition, be labelled or stamped with the word "soaked," which word shall be plainly printed diagonally across the face of the label in large, legible type at least half an inch in height and three-eights of an inch in width.

Every person who sells or offers for sale any such goods in violation of any provision of this section shall, on summary conviction before a justice of the peace, for a first offence incur a penalty of two dollars for each such package, and for a subsequent offence a penalty not exceeding twenty dollars and not less than four dollars for each such package in respect of which any such provision has been violated. 48-49 V., c. 63, s. 2.

Every person who places on any package any label, brand or mark which falsely represents the quantity or weight of the contents of such package, shall, on summary conviction before a justice of the peace, incur a penalty of two dollars for each package on which the quantity or weight is so falsely represented : provided always, that a variation under the rate of three per cent. shall not be deemed a violation of the provisions of this section. 48-49 V., c. 63, s. 3.

Every person who places on any package any label, brand or mark which falsely represents the date when the article or goods contained therein were packed, shall, on summary conviction before a justice of the peace, incur a penalty of two dollars for each package on which such date is falsely represented. 48-49 V., c. 63, s. 4.

TORONTO.

January 18, 1889.

GROCERIES.

There has been a fair business doing in general groceries, but, taken on the whole, trade since the first of the year has been very quiet. Payments have been satisfactory. The only important change in prices since last review has been the decline in white sugars. Other staples are unchanged, though dealers are talking firmer on teas. A London cable says :—"In the Mincing Lane markets sugars are quiet. Little business has been done. Beef is rather weaker. Coffee is dull. Congou tea is more active and firmer. Indian sold with fair spirit, considering the large quantity offered. Rice is inactive."

CANNED GOODS.

There is a fair movement. Corn, peas, beans, apples and blueberries are being pushed off. Tomatoes are moving at $1.10 for best brands, and holders are pretty firm at that price ; common brands can be bought at 90c. to $1. Salmon is moving slowly at $1.70 to $1.75. Lobsters quiet; a few small lots of Crown brand have sold at $1.95.

TEAS.

There is a fair retail demand for teas, but the market may be called as quiet, but steady, with a firm tendency. Reference is made to the situation in another column.

COFFEES.

Firm and unchanged. Rios are easier abroad, but there has been no important variation in price during the past few days. Holders appear to have confidence in the situation, believing that there is barely enough of the present crop to do. Good grades are moving on the spot at 19c. to 20c. and common at 17½c.

SUGARS, SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

The Canadian market is weak. Outside markets are the same. The decline prophesied last week in white, took place on Saturday, and it is not improbable that a further decline will be recorded to-morrow, as refiners have been selling at ⅛c. less. Yellows are also lower and weak. Refiners are offering to sell ⅛c. to ¼c. below their asking price at the beginning of the week. Retailer's lots of granulated and other white sugars declined 3-16c. Saturday, and yellows are offering ⅛c. lower. Holders are asking 5⅜c. for a dark (branded) yellow.

No change to note this week in syrups and molasses. The demand is light and prices steady.

DRIED FRUIT.

Currants—Are easy here, though foreign markets are improving on account of French purchases. On the spot good Provincial and Filiatra stock is moving at 5½c. in barrels and occasionally at 5⅝c.

Dates—Are unchanged. Old have been selling at 4c. to 4¼c., and new at 5¾c. to 6½c.

Figs—Are quiet. Fourteen ounce Elemes are offering freely at 8½c., while larger boxes are quoted at 9½c. up. A few naturals in taps are selling at 4c.

Prunes—Are in fair demand, and sales of Bosnias have been made in hogsheads at 4¾c. to 5c. Fine Bosnias, in cases, are quoted at 7¾c. to 8c., but there is not much enquiry.

Raisins—Are unchanged. Outside markets are firmer on Valencias, but here they are selling as before. Sultanas are moving at 7¼c. to 8c. for ordinary, but 15c. is asked for finest Caraburno. Blue fruit is steadily held.

GREEN FRUIT.

Shows no activity, though it cannot be called dull. Oranges are probably the most active. Valencias have been arriving more freely, and are quoted at $5.50 to $6 per case for large cases. Dealers feel sure that the price of Valencias will be higher, and the next shipment will not be sold at above figures. Floridas are quieter and are unchanged at $3.50 to $3.75. Lemons are not very brisk ; the movement very slow. They are quoted at $3.50 to $4 per box of 300 ; 360's are not in the market. What few good Malaga grapes are held by dealers are quoted at $7 per keg, the majority of the grapes are unfit for use.

NUTS.

There is a fair demand for nuts. Some inquiries are reported for round lots. Walnuts are cabled easier; on the spot, Grenobles are moving at 15c., and Bordeaux at 10c. to 11c. Cables received this week report an advance of 1s. in Messina for filberts, they are moving at 9½c. to 10c. Almonds are quoted at 15c. to 16c. for soft, and 12c. for hard shell.

FISH.

There is little improvement in the fish trade over that of last week. Mild weather has kept everything back, and prices remain unchanged. Blue back herring are entirely out of the market, and are replaced by sea herring from St. John, N.B., and are meeting with fair sale at $1.30 to $1.40 per 100. Halifax herring have quite a good sale at $1.75 to $2 per hundred. Smelts have fair sale at 7c. per pound. The demand for Finnan haddie has increased the past few days, and is quoted at 7½c. to 8c. per pound. Trout and whitefish have a very good sale at 6c. to 6½c. for trout, and 6½c. to 7c. for whitefish. A carload of Halifax and one of St. John herring is expected in next week. Oysters have fairly good sale at $1.15 to $1.60 per gallon.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

FLOUR.—The market has been very dull during the past few days. There are very few enquiries. Extras are offering at $4.60, and straight rollers at $4.85 to $4.90.

BRAN.—Quiet and unchanged. Cars can be bought on the track at $15 to $15.25, and millers are asking $16 for smaller quantities.

WHEAT—Dull and lower, with prices weak at the decline. On the spot there is an enquiry for No. 2 fall and spring at $1.06 f.o.c., and for No. 2 red at $1.08. No. 2 appears to be worth $1.04 up the Northern and Midland, and it is offering on the Grand Trunk west at $1.03. Manitoba wheats, quiet; No. 1 hard sold at $1.25. No. 1 frosted is worth about $1, and No. 2 about 87c. to 90c. Wheat is selling at $1.03 for No. 2 fall and red; $1.04 to $1.06 for spring, and 83½c. to 85c. for goose.

BARLEY.—The market is very dull and values easy. A few sales are being made at outside points on a basis of quotations. Street prices are 60c. to 67½c.

PEAS—Dull and easy. Buyers and sellers are apart. Buyers are bidding 56c., and holders are asking 58c. Street receipts are light, and quotations are about nominal at 63c. to 64c.

CORN—Lower at 43c. to 46c.

OATS—Weak and lower. Good mixed have been selling on the track at 35c., and on 'Change they were offered at 35c. with 34c. bid. Sales have been made on the street at 37½c. to 38c.

OATMEAL—Unchanged. Small lots of standard are selling at $4.25; granulated, $4.50; rolled at $4.75.

VISIBLE SUPPLY.

The following is a comparative statement of the visible supply of grain in the United States and Canada, as prepared by the secretary of the New York Exchange:

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—Stocks are beginning to run low. All desirable grades are getting sc rce. Really choice are hard to get at any price. Choice dairy tubs would find ready buy rs at 20c. to 21c, and 22c. would not be unwillingly paid if buyers could get a satisfactory quality. Best rolls sell about 18c to 19c. The b lk of the su ply is moving about 16c. to 18c. for rolls and 17c. to 19c. for tubs. Medi ms and low grades are pretty well cleared out. There have been several enquiries for lots from the east. Buyers have offered 14c. for good yellow mediums, but the market is about bare of them. Creameries are scarce and held at 22c. to 24c.

CHEESE—The market is very firm, in sympathy with the advance in the British markets, which is 1s. so far this week. For good fall makes 11c. to 11½c. asked and 12c. for finest.

HIDES, SKINS AND WOOL.

HIDES—The market keeps dull. There is no demand. Cured have sold at 5¾c., and more are offering at that figure without takers. Tanners are full up. A few stray offers have been received by dealers at 5½c., but they are not disposed to accept that figure. Green unchanged at 3c., 4c. and 5c. as to grade. Prices are exceptionally low SKINS—Offerings are light. Demand good and prices are firm at $1.10 to $1.35, as to quality. Calfskins are nominally unchanged.

DRESSED HOGS AND PROVISIONS.

DRESSED HOGS—Farmers are delivering much more freely than they were in the West Cars are offering at $6.65 to $6.75 f.o.b cars Chatham points. There have not been many purchases reported on local account during the past few days. T ey have been mostly at $6.75. Rail receipts have been fair, and the most of them have been aken by local butchers at $6.75 to $7, and sometimes $7.25.

PORK—Is quiet, without much demand, at $17 to $17.50 for dress. Family is about the same.

LARD — Is steady and in fair demand at 11c. in tubs ; 11½c. in pails, and tins quiet at 11c Nothing doing in tierces : some enquiries, but do not amount to anything.

BACON—Is easy. Cars are held mostly at 9c., but some sales have been made at 8¾c. for long clear. Small lots are worth 9¼c. to 9½c. Cumberland is about the same.

SMOKED MEATS—In fair demand. A lot of 100 hams sold at 11¼c. to-day ; rolls are moving at 10c. to 10½c. ; bellies and backs at 10½c. to 11½c.

Very full returns of the winter packing in the West have been received by the Cincinnati Price Current, which are herewith given in detail, excepting for some minor points. The details represent places which packed over 96 per cent. of the total last winter. The full returns now at hand confirm the approximate accuracy of the previous calculations based on partial information. Operations the past week show that fifteen prominent points have fallen 35,000 short of corresponding week last year, other places showing no important variation in the aggregate The entire packing appears to be about 750,000 hogs short of corresponding date last year.

A feature of the present investigations of special interest is the reported indication of the entire season's packing, as now expected. The estimates suggest the following, as compared with last year's returns :

	1888-9.	1887-8.
Fifteen prominent places	4,430,000	4,918,727
Other places reported	690,000	780,515
Remainder, estimated	200,000	222,939
Total, season	5,320,000	5,921,121

These exhibits imply a final shortage of about 600,000 hogs for the season, or a out 150,000 smaller deficiency than shown at this date, compared with last year. On this basis the comparison for the past and future of the season would be as follows :

	1888 9.	1887-8.
To date	3,380,000	4,130,000
Remainder of season	1,940,000	1,791,000
Total, season	5,320,000	5,921,000

The estimates of fifteen prominent points suggest that their packing will gain 110,000 during the remainder of the season, and all other places 40,000, compared with last year. Of course it is to be understood that present calculations for the larger points are susceptible of considerable modification, partly by errors of judgment as to available supplies, and partly by influences which may arise later, calculated to change the time of marketing stock, with reference to a period previous to or subsequent to March 1. But the estimates now submitted furnish the best possible indication which can be reached at this juncture. The indicated packing in number is about 10 per cent. less than last year, and 13½ per cent. less than an average for five winter seasons previous to last year, and if the number does not exceed the estimate it will be smaller than any winter since eleven years ago. The season has been an especially favorable one for fattening hogs, and the average weight will be considerably heavier than last year, the average now being 18 to 20 pounds heavier than for the entire season last year. This will probably be somewhat modified by reduction in weight hereafter. but 15 to 18 pounds gain per hog is not unlikely, or about 7 per cent. Therefore it is not likely that the season's product will fall essentially short of last winter, especially in view of the fact that the percentage yield is higher, which, with the gain in weight, will probably represent nearly 10 per cent. The total packing in the West during the past week has been about 295,000 hogs, against 215,000 the preceding week and 330,000 for corresponding time last year. In various localities the stock of old hogs is now closely marketed, and the current movement more largely made up from last spring's pigs. The quality, however, is well maintained. Prices of hogs are without much change.

THE CANADA SUGAR REFINING CO'Y [LIMITED],
MONTREAL,

Offer for sale all grades of REFINED SUGARS and SYRUPS of the well-known brand of

Redpath

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,
MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday's yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

JOHN BAKER EDWARDS, P.L.D., D.C.L., F.C.S.,
Public Analyst for the District of Montreal, and Professor of Chemistry.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY, MEDICAL FACULTY, McGILL UNIVERSITY,
MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have taken and tested a sample of your "EXTRA GRANULATED" Sugar, and find that it yielded 99·88 per cent. of Pure Sugar. It is practically as pure and good a Sugar as can be manufactured.

Yours truly,

G. P. GIRDWOOD.

The Markets—Continued.

POULTRY AND GAME.

Not much coming in, and most of the old stuff has been cleared up.

TURKEYS—Steady. Good, bright stock is worth 10c. and mediums 8c. to 9c.

GEESE—Very scarce, and there is a ready sale for them at 7c. to 8c.

CHICKENS—Are firm and higher, at 50c. to 75c.; some scalded sold to-day at 60c. a pair.

DUCKS—Are wanted; only a few coming in, and all are taken at 60c. to 75c. for ordinary, to $1 for good, bright ones.

PARTRIDGES—Are steady, at 50c. to 60c. a pair.

RABBITS—Dull and slow of sale, at 10c. to 20c. a pair.

PRODUCE.

APPLES—Easy and quiet. Greenings are moving at $1.75 per bbl., and Spies at $2.

BEANS—Quiet; not much demand. Prices are getting easier. Good quality are offering at $1 60 in small lots on the spot.

CRANBERRIES—Are moving at $3 to $3.25 per case, and $7.50 to $8.

DRIED APPLES—There is very little business in either dried or evaporated. Quite a number of lots are offering, but there is no demand for them. Small lots of dried can be bought at 4c. to 4½c. and dealers are paying about 3½c. for trade lots, but some of them do not seem inclined to pay even that. Evaporated are nominal at 6½c. in cars; smaller quantities are quoted at 7c. to 8c.

EGGS—The market is very weak. Fresh eggs are coming forward freely, stocks of held and limed are quite large. Demand very dull. Dealers are selling less than at any time since last March. The best limed are offering at 17c. though some special brands are held at 19c. Discoloured stock can be bought much lower, some lots having changed hands at 10c. to 12c. New laid are moving at 20c. to 21c,, and lots of 2,000 to 5,000 can be bought at 19c.

HAY AND STRAW—The stock of hay on the track has been pretty well cleared up, holders having put it into store. The market is a little steadier. Good to choice timothy is offering at $14 to $15 on the track, and mixed at $12 to $13. Straw is unchanged; wheat can be bought on the track at $8 to $8.50, and oats at $9 to 9.50.

HOPS—Dull and slow of sale. New are offering at 20c. to 25c. as to quality in single bales. A New York report says: "The arrivals here continue large and the exports are liberal, with not a few hops going through on direct shipment from primary points to London. It is estimated that 1,500 bales will be shipped this week. The continued heavy shipments to Europe, together with the rather peculiar position of the London market and the periodical purchases by exporters at prices considerably above what can be realized on home trade business, make a combination of circumstances that is rather puzzling."

ONIONS—The feeling is weak. There are a good many offering. Natives are moving at $1.40 to $1.60 per bbl. Spanish are offering at 75c. to $1 per crate, as to quality.

POTATOES—Values continue low. Cars are offering to arrive on the track at 33c. to 35c. and sales have been made at even less than these prices. Dealers are selling out of store at 45c to 50c. per bag.

SEEDS—Alsike is a little firmer on a better demand. Dealers are now paying $9 for choice, with low grades running $2 to $3 lower than this as to quality. Red clover steady, dealers paying $5 to $5.50 per bushel as to quality. Timothy in good jobbing demand at $2 to $2.25 per bushel for prime to choice; no local stuff offering. Flax-seed has become scarce and dealers have had to advance prices for good to choice recleaned to $1.60 to $1.75; large quantities have been shipped to the other side.

MONTREAL.

January 17, 1889.

GROCERIES.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been no improvement in canned goods. The demand has been slow and the market quiet, with only a small jobbing trade at steady prices. Lobsters have ruled easy at the recent decline, and small lots have changed hands at $6 per case. Mackerel are very scarce and wanted. Salmon have been quiet and steady at $1.70 to $1.75 per dozen. A fair jobbing business has been done in tomatoes at $1 per dozen, but round lots could be bought much cheaper. Corn has ruled steady at $1.15 to $1.20, and pease at $1.25 per dozen. A fair volume of business has been transacted in canned meats at former quotations.

TEAS.

Owing to the continued bad condition of the roads for the want of more snow few orders have been received from the country during the past week; in consequence the market has ruled quiet with little business.

SUGARS, SYRUP AND MOLASSES.

In sugars a fair volume of business has been transacted but the market has ruled weak and prices have declined ⅛c. to ¼c. to 7⅜c. for granulated, and 5 7-16c. to 6c. for yellows.

The demand for syrups has been slow, and the market has ruled quiet but steady at 3½c. to 4½c. The market for molasses is firm owing to small stocks. There has been little inquiry, and trade has been of a jobbing character. Barbadoes molasses is at 42½c.; Trinidad at 32c. to 33c., and Antigua at 35c.

DRIED FRUIT.

The market for fruit has been quiet but a somewhat firmer feeling has prevailed owing to the fact that good fruit is scarce, and that all the old stock has been bought up. Some choice lots of Valencia raisins sold at 6c., while lower grades are quoted at 5c. to 5½c. The demand for currants has been slow and the market has ruled quiet with little business. Some choice lots of currants have sold at 6¼c. while lower grades were quoted down to 4¾c. to 5¾c.

FISH.

In salt fish business has been quiet, buyers having filled their wants for the present and no improvement is looked for until the Lenten season commences. Labrador herrings have sold at $5.50 in round lots. Cape Breton herrings are scarce and firm at $6 to $6.25. No. 1 green cod has sold at $5 to $5.25. Salmon has been quiet and steady at $14 for Labrador, and $13 to $14 for British Columbia. There has been an active demand for fresh fish, and large lines of haddock and cod have sold at 3½c to 4c. Fresh herrings are plentiful and selling freely at $1.20 to $1.25 per 100.

OILS.

There has been no change in oils to note. Prices are firm all round, with a limited demand. In petroleum a brisk business has been accomplished, and some large lines have changed hands at 14½c., with smaller quantities at 16c,

The creditors of J. McAdam, boot and shoe dealer, are disposed to accept a compromise, and will meet next week to give McAdam a chance to make the highest possible secured offer.

Mrs. F. P. Hammond, milliner, 104 King Street West, has made an assignment to E. R. C. Clarkson. The liabilities will not exceed $2,000, the creditors being local firms.

The Central Bank, one of Dunning Bros.' largest creditors, have refused the firm's offer to compromise at 25 cents on the dollar, and, consequently the estate will be wound up. Dunning Bros. conducted a canning factory on Dundas Street.

The boot and shoe manufacturing firm of Damer & Son (Mrs Susan and William A.) have been in trouble for some time, which culminated Tuesday in a meeting of creditors. A statement was submitted showing that the liabilities were $18,000 and assets nominally equal. One member of the firm offered to assign, but to this step the other partner strongly objected. No decision was arrived at, and the meeting adjourned in order to allow the firm to make an offer to compromise. D. W. Alexander and Charles Parsons & Co., are, with a number of other local leather firms, the creditors.

GROCERS!

IT is well known that everywhere in France one can get a good cup of coffee, and it is also an established fact, that the reverse is the case in Canada. Many blame the coffee, but the true cause is simply this: "Not one cook in a dozen knows how to make coffee properly." The above cut represents a new invention which is very simple in construction, and any child can make a good cup of coffee with it. You simply fill the tin can with boiling water, then set the pot on top, put the requisite amount of coffee in the bag inside the pot, then pour a sufficient amount of boiling water into the pot and let it stand on the stove for 3 or 4 minutes, when you will have a first class cup of coffee.

This coffee pot is the simplest, cheapest, and best article of the kind ever invented, and the low price makes it within the reach of all. They are packed 1 doz. in a barrel. Price $6 per doz. Send $6 for 1 doz. as a sample, and you will find it all that we recommend it to be.

SPECIAL TO OUR READERS.

As the design of THE CANADIAN GROCER is to benefit mutually all interested in the business, we would request all parties ordering goods or making purchases of any description from houses advertising with us to mention in their letter that such advertisement was noticed in THE CANADIAN GROCER.

THE TRADE SITUATION.

Trade has begun to show signs of a revival from the usual dulness which always succeeds the Christmas and New Year's holiday season. There has not been much done so far, but there are are more inquiries and retailers show more inclination to do business. Prospects for trade have not been brighter at any time for many years. In some districts the farmers are a little hard up in consequence of poor crops. However a shortage in one product has been more than made up for by the large increase in some other. It is estimated by a competent authority that there are 70,000,000 more bushels of cereals and roots in Canada this year than last. Prices now obtainable for many products are not quite so high as they were a few months ago, but they are still satisfactory. Wheat is worth a great deal more than it was a year ago. The increased value this year will make a very handsome profit for the farmers. Payments are good and. in comparison with last year, are much better, while money is one to two per cent. lower than it was then. The only trades which are complaining are those which depend largely on the cold weather, such as dry goods and furs. The mild, open winter has been a bad one for them. It is now too late to hope for much, if any, improvement. There are, at the most, only two months more of cold weather, and their customers will suffer from the want of warm and seasonable goods, rather than purchase so late in the year.

EXPORTS OF EVAPORATED APPLES.

The Americans have been shipping a few evaporated apples from New York to Great Britain. It occurred to some of our readers who are packers and dealers in evaporated apples, that there might be an opening for Canadian stock in Great Britain, especially as prices were so low here. To learn what the chances were we wrote Messrs. Smith & Crouch, Liverpool, extensive commission merchants, and have received the following reply:

Editor CANADIAN GROCER, Toronto:

SIR,—We have your favor of 17th ult., and have to say in reply that the demand for dried or evaporated apples in this country is exceedingly limited, the immense majority not knowing that such an article is prepared for sale and use. For some few years past choice, white evaporated apple rings have been sent from New York State, and the demand is steadily but slowly increasing. They have realized from 7c. to 10c. per pound. Experimental shipments have also been made of dried apples, which have, however, turned out to be almost unsalable.

We can only recommend consignments of very finest clear white rings, packed in small boxes containing say 30 to 35 pounds each, and packed in as clean and attractive a manner as possible. Yours truly,

SMITH & CROUCH.

12 Great Charlotte Street, Liverpool, January 3rd, 1889.

USE THE TELEPHONE.

In a former issue we referred to the use of a telephone by city merchants. The view is generally expressed by the retail trade that it has not been the means of making any material improvement in the amount of the trade done but the facility with which wholesale houses and manufacturers can be reached repays the amount expended in the lease of the telephone. This is a feature which out of town merchants do not seem to sufficiently realize. We know of several, however, who do, and their number is daily increasing. Let us mention a case that came under our notice this week, in a local wholesale house, to show the advantage of it. The telephone rang. On answering it was found that a firm in a town 122 miles from here was at the other end of the wire. They wanted several commodities including currants, sugars, prunes, raisins, teas. In all they ordered 63 barrels besides a number of boxes, and the entire order was shipped that afternoon. It took about ten minutes to complete the conversation. The buyer asked for quotations, and in the dickering that followed succeeded in getting pretty close figures on several lines. The wholesale man also sold a few articles that the buyer had not inquired for, but which when offered to him he found he could handle. After the conversation had been shut off the wholesale man figured that the retailer had saved about $15 by using the telephone, and getting close prices instead of writing for quotations and sending his order by mail. At the same time the wholesaler made a larger sale. The saving of time must also be taken into consideration.

TEA.

The past week has shown more activity than for a long time past. There has been an increased demand from the wholesale trade for all kinds excepting Japans. Sales have been principally in Blacks, at from 12c. to 19c., with a few purchases of better grades at from 24c. to 35c. Seconds and First Young Hysons have also been sought after, and whenever good value has offered merchants have evinced a disposition to buy. Japans still continue neglected by the wholesale trade, but stocks in hands of dealers are light on this market, and inquiry is certain to come about for all grades of Japs soon. Foreign markets continue to rule firm with an upward tendency. Last auctions in New York showed good results, with Oolongs at higher prices. The London market shows much higher prices on all Greens than are ruling on this side of the water, though last advices report an anxiety on the part of the importers to dispose of their better grades of Chingwoos and Panyongs (Kaisows), which are being pressed for sale.

INFORMATION FROM CREAMERY MEN.

A subscriber in the North-West writes that the people in his district are about to erect a creamery, and would like to receive any information as to the cost and management of the same.

Can any of our readers answer the question?

LONG CREDITS.

In our last issue we referred to the fact that at a very largely attended meeting of the wholesale dry goods men of Toronto, it was practically resolved to extend no longer credit than four months from the time of purchasing. The CANADIAN GROCER, commenting on this determination, remarks that "Retailers do not object to long credits. They will take them as long as they can get them. But they do object to the system which gives one merchant four months to pay for a bill of goods, while his next door neighbor buys the same goods and does not require to pay for them for nine months. What retailers want is uniformity." These observations very fully explain the situation which the Toronto dry goods men have still further emphasized by the recommendation that all orders for fall trade take date from October 1st. For spring trade they should take date from April 1st, and for assorting trade, all parcels delivered between the 20th of one month and the 20th of the next, date the 1st of the following month.

In New York it is to be noted that the old grievance of long dating is receiving attention, and it is believed that, without any long delay, definite results may be expected. There it is pointed out that many goods sold as far back as early in the month of July have only just been paid for, and that the continuance of the evil will some day precipitate a panic that will shake the dry goods trade to its foundations, while with the heavy duties that have to be paid and the largely increased capital required, this system of doing business cannot fail eventually to send some of the best men to the wall. In Canada not a few collapses have been caused in this way, while not a few houses, for the very same reason, are merely hanging on to an apparently prosperous business, which on account of this source of weakness may, at almost any moment be seriously, if not irreparably prejudiced. Long credits are the curse of almost every line of commerce, for they obtain everywhere.—Montreal Trade Review.

CANNED GOODS.

The following remarks from the American Grocer are in a line with the views THE CANADIAN GROCER has been constantly urging on its readers: The most that canned goods packers have to fear is themselves. It is a common cause of complaint that many will sell for future delivery all that they possibly can, or as large a quantity as they dare take chances upon. Having filled their contracts, they keep on packing, and thus become competitors of their own goods, besides contributing to overstocking the markets and making it unprofitable to all in the trade.

Notwithstanding the fact that there has been a very heavy supply of canned tomatoes and corn, there has not been a sufficient pack of goods of high quality. The complaint is general that it is very difficult to find an extra lot of corn or tomatoes. If money is to be made by packers it can only be secured by improving the quality of their goods. Those who are spending time and money for a reputation are those who are not making complaints, and who are quite well satisfied with the season's work.

The trade has, and probably will, continue to experience more or less trouble from the competition of inexperienced packers and from the large number of farmer packers. The only way to rise above this competition is by surpassing them in quality and making brands so well known throughout the country that consumers as well as dealers will become acquainted with their merits, and give them preference at a marked difference in price.

We beg leave to acknowledge our indebtedness not only to packers, but to commission men, brokers, brother editors and correspondents in all parts of the country for their prompt and generous assistance in gathering and forwarding information. We desire to impress upon packers that the details of the work at the different factories are kept confidential. The few who anxiously inquire for this information should be made acquainted with the fact that the average packer objects to making public the quantity of goods put up. Our faithful observance of this matter we regard as one reason why we have commanded the confidence of the trade which has co-operated so generally with us in our endeavor to place before it reliable information. We trust packers will seek to improve their methods of cooking; strive for a higher average quality; endeavor to regulate the supply to the known requirements of the country, doing which we feel sure will bring to them prosperity.

Canned goods never were more popular than at present. Consumers appreciate their value, thanks to good quality and low prices. They believe with Dr. Cyrus Edson, of the New York City Board of Health, that "there is no more wholesome food than canned goods properly put up."

Certainly the diet of the masses has been greatly improved since the advent of canned goods, which now furnish during the winter season, at reasonable cost, a much needed supply of anti-scorbutic food, and it is fair to assume that to this improvement in the variety and quality of the diet is due in some degree the average increase in longevity, which is shown by the vital statistics to be about two years more than it was a generation since.

FOR BUSINESS MEN.

"It is not what a man intends to do, but what he is doing that helps him along the road to success," said an old book-keeper the other evening as he wiped his pen and laid it carefully away. "After many years of experience I have observed some things which, if I could begin a commercial life again with the opportunities I have had, would undoubtedly attain for me the height of success. A young merchant starting in business looks about him for comparisons, and by the aid of these beacons he expects to steer clear of the breakers that have attended the efforts of others in his line. The result of his observations among other business men is usually a set of resolutions promulgated by the best intentions of course. But I am sorry to say they are made to be broken. Young men think if they make resolutions it is very flattering to their prospects. They are so pleased with the idea that they forget the most important feature of the resolutions, i. e., keeping them. You will observe that the man who is continually making resolutions is continually breaking them, and the man who talks most of what he intends to do in the future is the very fellow who is lagging far behind the schemes and improvements he proposed to make last year. I have always observed that it is the man who says nothing, but "saws wood," who makes the best progress in the commercial world. Theory is a splendid thing, and it should have an important place in every man's mind who expects to push his business, but how often do we see men being led beyond their depths by the exercise of too much of it. Men often wonder how our German friends, in their unpretentious business way, accomplish so much. The secret of their success lies in the fact that they put theories immediately into practice, and do not reconcile their shortcomings with good intentions for the future. They recognize the present only as far as real value is concerned, and I think if grocers and merchants generally would quit counting their good intentions as part of their capital, they would help their business materially."

HOUSE AND TRAVELING SALESMEN.

The art of selling goods must be the same the world over, one would suppose, but we often hear of difference between those salesmen who travel and those who receive customers at home, which shows the effect of a different set of circumstances. It does, indeed, make a great difference in many lines of business whether the customer seeks you or you the customer. The one that stays at home and awaits the coming of the other has a certain advantage at the start. This advantage is indeed more than offset by other disadvantages in the case of retailers who do not travel. The retailer pressed by business is sometimes inclined to be gruff with the salesman who offers his samples, but it is a policy distinctly discourteous and bad in its ultimate results upon the storekeeper who does indeed get valuable information from the "drummers." The traveling salesman acquires the knack of approaching merchants in the way which will lead the soonest to easy discussion of purchases. Courtesy has been well defined as a study of small things and their effect upon our friends. This is a prominent feature of the traveling salesman.

On the other hand the house salesman finds himself in the reverse position. He is at home, and the retailer comes to him to make his purchase. If a level-headed man, the house salesman easily falls into the habit of treating his customer as to a certain extent in his power. If it is bad policy for a retailer not to treat the traveling salesman as a friend, it is far worse for a house salesman to assume such position. How many wholesale houses make the cheerful greeting of the customer at the first entrance, a regular part of their plans? And yet nothing so hurts the pride of the average man as to enter a salesroom, wander around trying to find somebody, and finally ask some one (the wrong man of course) to receive a gruff "Don't know anything about it" or "Ask that man at the other end," when he should have been met at the door by some one specially appointed, who sees that he is directed to the right window or desk, or calls for the proper salesman. A bad impression at the very door, an impression of the lack of hospitable feeling toward him, will remain with that customer and colour his future course.

This, we need not say, is a wrong to the customer, and very bad policy too. It grows in a measure out of this mistaken feeling that the house salesman has an advantage over the brother who travels. Such a feeling is a snare, and has destroyed many a bright future. The home salesman or merchant makes a great mistake when he relies upon his little advantage of position. Thorough courtesy and kindness is the only sure rule in all cases.—American Grocer.

A GROCER'S PROFITS.

The causes of mercantile failures, in the retail grocery line at least, have been repeatedly treated of in the trade press, but rarely if ever, has allusion been made to the fact that retail grocers make less money than their dry goods, butcher or baker contemporaries. It is a fact we believe, that there are no A. T. Stewarts, John Wanamakers or Macys in the retail grocery trade, and while we have met several retired retail bakers and butchers, we never yet saw a retired retail grocer. He may exist, but if so, he is a very rare bird. Besides, the complaints of inability to make a fair living are much more common among grocers than among retail merchants in any other line of business. The fact referred to is certainly not due to a deficiency of items handled. The retail grocer's stock contains generally as much if not more articles than even the retail dry goods store; certainly far more than the bakery or butcher's establishment. The trouble would seem to be located in the matter of prices, which are placed too low to give a living profit, so that a largely assorted stock may be a weakness because of allowing of more numerous opportunities of losing money than a stock comprising but a few of the best paying goods. An utter stranger to the business, pausing in front of one of our well-equipped city groceries, would certainly get the impression that the business was exceedingly lucrative, and that retirement on a snug compensation awaited the fortunate proprietor within a few years, but only those engaged in the actual struggle for existence as grocers can form an idea of the fallacy of the assumption. Of course some grocers make money, but not to the extent that the variety of articles they handle would appear to warrant, and the great majority of the retail grocers barely make a good living. If the cause is rarely due to low prices, the organized retailers should take a leaf out of the book of the wholesalers, and inaugurate a movement to raise the price of staple groceries to a profit-level. No doubt the wholesalers will aid them in every possible manner, because they cannot but share in the prosperity of their customers. At all events, the plan is worth considering, and nothing is to be lost by giving it a trial.—Merchant's Review.

HOW TO DISPOSE OF OLD GOODS.

Do not keep old and shop-worn goods upon your shelves. Nothing deteriorates more rapidly in value; fashions and styles continually change and what is salable this year, next year will be comparatively worthless. Do not allow remnants, odds and ends and slightly soiled articles to accumulate. Put a large counter or show case near the front of your store which every customer will have to pass who come in. Place all the odds and ends that you can find in your establishment on or about this show case marked in conspicuously big figures with the price at which they are to be sold. Something is sure to catch the eye of almost every customer who comes in, and if the prices shown are slightly lower than they have been accustomed to paying, many things may be disposed of without any effort upon the part of the storekeeper, and what he receives for much that is sold in this way be counted as clear profit. Another very good scheme is, to issue handbills, distributing them liberally about the town and surrounding country, announcing that the entire stock will be offered for cash at a certain per cent. below regular prices, which sale is to be continued for five or ten days as the case may be, during which time no credit whatever will be given. This is sure to draw a large amount of custom, and by taking advantage of the situation and prominently putting forward all of the most undesirable goods with the prices marked upon them in conspicuous figures, a vast amount of old and unsalable stock may be worked off. In some instances these sales have been so successful that merchants have realized enough from them to almost buy a new and complete stock of goods. Another good plan is to advertise liberally in the local paper, setting forth the project in full in a conspicuous column. Merchants who find themselves overstocked, who have bills maturing and an insufficiency of funds wherewith to meet them, can, by adopting this advice. not only make money enough to meet their obligations, but to restock their stores with fresh, fashionable and desirable goods as the next season opens. This is a method much adopted in Chicago dry goods and other stores after the holiday rush is over, and a great many who have unfortunately overstocked themselves with holiday goods are enabled to make a fair showing in the season's profits, rather than to find that they have done business at a loss.—Grocer's Criterion.

ALL ABOUT TEA.

On submitting the ordinary commercial tea to analysis we find that it contains, first, a volatile or essential oil; second, theine or caffeine; third, a nitrogenous compound analogous to caseine or gluten; fourth, a modification of tannin; besides gum, sugar, starch, fat, woody fibre, salts, etc.

The volatile oil gives to tea its peculiar aroma and flavor. The proportion in which it exists is about 0·79 per cent. in green, and 0·6 per cent. in black tea. It may be obtained by distilling the tea with water, and is found to exert a most powerfully stimulating and intoxicating effect. In China tea is seldom used until it is a year old, on account of the well-known intoxicating effect of new tea, due probably to the larger proportion of essential oil which it usually contains. The headache and giddiness of which tea-tasters complain, and the attack of paralysis to which, after a few years, persons employed are found to be liable, are due to the action of this oil, which does not exist in the natural leaf, but is produced during the process of drying and roasting.

The theine or caffeine, an alkaloid of weak basic properties varies considerably in different kinds of tea. It ranges from 22 to 41 per cent. in ordinary green teas, while very rarely it amounts to 6 per cent.; whereas from other authorities it appears that not more than 2 per cent. is usually contained in the ordinary teas in our market. It may readily be obtained by the following simple experiment: When dry, finely powdered tea leaves, or a dried watery extract of the leaves, are put on a watch crystal covered with a paper cover, and the whole is placed upon a hot plate, or exposed to the heat of a spirit lamp, a white vapor gradually rises and condenses on the interior of the cone in the form of small crystals, which consist of theine. As it has no odor, and only a slight bitter taste, it obviously has little to do with the taste or flavor of the tea from which it is extracted; it is, however, to the presence of this ingredient that the peculiar physiological action of tea on the animal economy is due. This substance is remarkable for appearing in plants very unlike each other, and growing in remote countries, which have by instinct been selected by different nations for the purpose of yielding a slightly exciting and very refreshing beverage. From numerous experiments it appears that the introduction into the stomach of a small quantity of theine, such as three or four grains, which is the quantity contained in an ounce of good tea, has the remarkable effect of diminishing the daily waste of the bodily tissues. "So," says Dr. Johnston, "by the consumption of a certain quantity of tea, the health and strength of the body will be maintained in an equal degree upon a small supply of ordinary foods." Tea therefore saves food—stands to a certain extent in the place of food—while at the same time it soothes the body and enlivens the mind.

It is usual to judge of the quality of tea by its aroma, and by the flavor and color of the infusion which it yields; but to these tests should be added the determination of the amount of soluble matter which it readily yields to boiling water. Our ordinary tea contains about 45 per cent. of soluble matter; but boiling water seldom extracts more than one-third of the weight of dry tea. Good tea should not yield more than 5 or 6 per cent. of ash when incinerated; and a portion of this is probably due to the coloring matter which the Chinese add to the green teas prepared for the foreign market. For this purpose they used to employ a mixture of Prussian blue and gypsum, and probably do so now, to some extent, although indigo is more commonly used, and is probably harmless.

Drinkers of green tea who wish to know which of these adulterations they are swallowing may easily determine the point by the following simple experiment: If a portion of the tea be shaken with cold water and thrown upon a bit of thin muslin the fine coloring matter will pass through the muslin and settle to the bottom of the water. When the water is poured off the blue matter may be treated with chlorine or a solution of chloride of lime. If it is bleached it is indigo; if potash makes it brown and afterwards a few drops of sulphuric acid makes it blue again, it is Prussian blue.

Much has been written regarding the dietetic and medical uses of tea. Often its value has been overpraised. But it certainly has a decidedly stimulative and restorative effect on the nervous system. It is a most useful article of diet, and cold tea is often preferred to any other drink by men engaged in laborious work in hot weather. As a general rule tea is very prejudicial to young children, and it is not a suitable drink until growth is completed; and adults of irritable constitution often suffer from its use. Those with whom tea does not agree will generally find cocoa the best substitute. Old and infirm persons usually derive more benefit and personal comfort from tea than from any other corresponding beverage.

Tea is nearly as powerful an antidote in case of opium poisoning as coffee; and very strong tea has been the means of preserving life in cases of opium-poisoning, the tannin being, in this case, the active agent.

PASS BOOKS.

Mr. E. B. Cox, treasurer of the New York State Association of Retailers, in an interesting letter to The Merchants' Mail, defends the pass-book system. "The pass-book," says Mr. Cox, "is dear to the heart of every first-class dealer who has the patronage of the wealthy class." That class of people have not the time nor inclination to shop for themselves daily, nor do they want to give cash to their help and look after the change every time, therefore the pass-book becomes a convenience, a necessity, and an economical system. The family can easily see how many pounds of butter, sugar, tea, eggs, etc., are being used, and so detect extravagant use. The quality must always be the best, or complaint is made, and the price must be reasonable or else the grocer is dropped or called to an account. The pass-book is not a "curse;" it may be an evil. The pass-book is to be deprecated only when the evil of its use is true to your conclusions—being used by the consumer to run up bills that prove an "inconvenience to the payer." People who can meet a bill promptly every pay day, say every thirty days, are the very best customers some people in trade have. They are more desirable than cash-down-paying customers. The latter wander about, divide up. The pass-book is loyal every time until they are obliged, in self-defence, to place their accounts elsewhere. A man, justly appreciating the value of good accounts, sees to it that such orders are always treated in a conscientious and business-like manner.

How to Make Good Bread.—Royal Yeast is of such a character that it never fails to make the lightest, whitest and sweetest bread. It is made of pure, fresh material and retains its strength one year or longer. It is also very cheap, as one package will make from 60 to 70 large loaves of delicious and healthful bread, the very kind needed by dyspeptics. This celebrated yeast is manufactured by the well-known house of E. W. Gillett, of Chicago. Owing to the large increase of business in Canada the firm was obliged to establish a factory in Toronto three years ago, where 36,000 cakes of this yeast are made daily. The extensive system of free sample distribution adopted by this firm is immediate guarantee of the purity and superiority of Royal Yeast. It has no poisonous ingredients in it whatever, and the strictest analysis will fail to discover anything injurious in its composition.

MODERN BUSINESS METHODS.

Competition in business matters leads to many innovations upon former practices in selling goods. The newspaper which wishes to rise to a commanding position in circulation resorts to the premium business, in various ways. The soapmaker, with perhaps inability to make progress against well established competitors, resorts to offers of watches or other articles of supposed value, to be distributed proportionate to the quantity of goods disposed of. The retailing house announces that goods sold will be delivered in city or suburb. This practice has been carried so far that certain eastern parties have held out as an inducement the delivery of goods anywhere within the state—and rivals have beaten this by making the delivery anywhere in the United States. An instance of such rivalry occurred in this city recently, on the occasion of a resident of a suburban town, fifteen or sixteen miles distant, calling upon a renovating establishment to have some pillow feathers overhauled. When asked as to how the feathers should be sent in, the reply was that the establishment's wagon would call for them and also deliver them. The bill was moderate, about a dollar, fairly covering the service rendered exclusive of the calling for and delivery of the goods.—Exchange.

MARKED IMPROVEMENT.

The Canadian Grocer has started in on its third volume. Its improvement is very marked.—Buckeye Grocer (Cleveland).

A PROFITABLE INVESTMENT.

Mr. Joe Clementson, Broadview, Assa,. N.-W.T., in a letter to The Grocer, says: "I would say your paper is a welcome visitor, and cannot imagine $2 more profitably invested than in The Canadian Grocer."

A NEW WASHING POWDER.

The introduction of the celebrated laundry requisites manufactured by the firm of J. Picot, Paris, France, marks an epoch in the Canadian grocery trade. They are in great demand throughout Europe, particularly the Lessive washing powder (see advertisement in this issue), which has a high reputation for its many excellent qualities, and commands a large sale in Great Britain and other countries outside of France, where the annual consumption is about twenty million pounds alone. The Phenix Lessive was first placed on the market in 1879, by M. M. Jore & Picot, since which time M. Jore has retired enormously wealthy. As a mark of superiority of this firm's productions, the Phenix Lessive has earned gold medals at Bordeaux, Toulouse, Rennes, Havre, Boulogne-sur-mer, besides other honours. This extensive manufacturer is also a large producer of Starch, Parisian Blue, etc., etc., which will be offered to the Canadian trade during the year.

PICKLED EGGS.

Editor GROCER.

Sir: Can you or any of your readers answer the following question, and give me a remedy:

I packed a lot of eggs last summer in a brine of salt and lime. They came out in first-class condition, excepting that the yelk of some is hard or gummy. What causes the yelk to harden?

London, Jany. 18th. EGGS.

We would infer from your question that your solution was too strong. There was too much lime in it, and the eggs being put in too soon after it was made they were practically cooked. This is the trouble which most inexperienced picklers encounter. To give you a remedy would be to give an accurate receipt for pickling eggs. This it is difficult to do, as each of the leading picklers has one of his own, which he generally believes is better than all others, and he consequently refuses to impart any information. With all picklers water, salt and lime are the ingredients used. Many, however, add other compounds. Cream of Tartar, for instance is a common addition to the salt and lime. The usual course followed by picklers is to make a pickle of such strength that an egg placed in it will sink deep enough into the solution to be covered and not go to the bottom. To a barrel of this solution then, add a pail or two of water. Perhaps some of the picklers could improve on this receipt.

TRADE ITEMS

James Wilson's oatmeal mill, Fergus, has been burned to the ground.

Mr. R. Maxwell, who represents Perkins, Ince & Co., having been on the sick list for the past few days, is able to be around again.

Valencia raisins are firm. A cable received from Denia, a few days ago, says that stocks there are very light, and prices have advanced 1s. Currants are higher abroad. Common provincial fruit is cabled at 14s. 6d. c. and f. New York.

The egg business, including buildings, teams, wagons, etc., at Crediton and Strathroy, belonging to the estate of the late David Hill, have been sold to D. D. Wilson, of Seaforth, for $14,000.

We draw attention to the advertisement, in another column, of Messrs. Rowat & Co., of Glasgow, Scotland, manufacturers of pickles, sauces, vinegars, and essences. It is now an old established house, and these goods come well recommended.

She (tenderly(—Do you believe, Mr. Waffles, that "in the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love?"

He—Well, no, Miss Maude, my thoughts don't. They lightly turn to thoughts of the fish business. The spring is our busy time.

London (Eng.) exchanges say that a meeting was to have been held last week to arrange for an agitation for the removal of the duty on dried fruit.

Mr. Hugh Blain was the most regular attendant at the meetings of the Council of the Board of Trade last year. There were 21 meetings, and he attended 20.

The wholesale dry goods stock of A. Ross & Co., of Front Street West, will be sold in lots to suit purchasers by Suckling, Cassidy & Co., at their warerooms, corner of Yonge and Melinda streets, on Tuesday and Wednesday next.

A London cable says:—In the Mincing Lane markets best and refined sugars are steady. Cane is inactive. Ceylon coffee is firm. Other grades are little changed. China tea is quiet. Indian and Ceylon are slightly dearer. Burmah rice is very firm.

The bankrupt stock of books and stationery of T. Menzies was sold to C. M. Taylor & Co., of Toronto, at 55½c. on the dollar, and the book debts to C. W. Sawers at 4c. The stock was valued at $10,149, and the book debts at $4,475.

The following is an exact copy of an order for goods received by a New England grocer: nouns of clove and all spice to pound of risons 1 pound cury 6 c worth of sriten 2 pounds of brown sugger n yeast poud.—New England Grocer.

Mr. Geo. Bengough, agent for the Remington Typewriter, has moved to more commodious quarters at 45 and 49 King Street East. He has reserved a large room for the repairing of these machines; also rooms for his pupils.

We have received a sample package of "Boston Brown Bread Mixture," manufactured by the Boston Cereal Manufacturing Co., of Boston, Mass. It is largely consumed in the New England States, and should find good sale here. Lucas, Park & Co., Hamilton, are the sole Canadian agents. Write them for prices.

The Kingston Grocers' Guild intend bringing a collector from the West to gather in bad debts. He will be dressed in a uniform and drive a rig which shall be covered with placards. He will call on the debtors daily, and stand at their doors for from fifteen to twenty minutes each day and until the bills are paid.

The usefulness of trade papers has been tried and tested; they have been weighed in the balance and not found wanting; and look where you may, when you find a man in the front rank of his calling, gradually drawing away from his fellows, opening up new sources of supply, searching out and creating new fields of demand, there you will find a man who is availing himself in fullest measure of the possibilities of success that the "class" journal brings to his command.—The Timberman.

R. S. Gallagher, Colborne Street, has received two car loads of fine sea herring. He is offering them at $1 per 100.

Mr. Ferguson, of the Delhi Preserving Co., was on the market this week offering jams and jellies.

Much sympathy is expressed for Mr. J. C. Conlin, of Messrs. J. W. Lang & Co., in the loss of his wife. The funeral took place Friday last, and was attended by many of the men from the warehouse.

J. Cleghorn & Son received the other day a car of Riverside oranges direct from Griffin & Skelly (formerly of Oakville, Ont.), of Riverside, Southern California. It took the car just ten days to reach here, arriving before the last cold spell in first-class condition. The fruit is of very fine quality.

St. Peter—"So you were a grocer on earth?"

New Spirit—"Yes, Saint Peter."

St. Peter—"Did you always give full weight?"

New Spirit (proudly)—"Yes, Saint Peter."

St. Peter.—"When people asked for Momaja coffee did you always deliver Momaja?"

New Spirit—"Great Scott! if you are going to be as particular as that I might as well give it up. Where's the entrance to the sulphur slope?"—Exchange.

The insurance idea is probably only in its infancy. The day may come when the retail merchant will be able to insure himself not only against loss by fire and by death in his stable, but against the depredations of dishonest clerks, the delinquent debtor and the loss incurred in his stock by depreciation in value of perishable goods or articles that have gone out of style. There are some merchants, however, who are so far behind the age that they do not take advantage of the existing insurance facilities. Such a tempting of fate invites disaster, and when it comes the sufferer deserves no sympathy.—Merchant's Review.

The London Free Press:—The question of compelling hucksters doing business on the market to pay a substantial license fee will probably engage the attention of the new City Council at an early session. An Alderman-elect expressed himself in very emphatic language in reference to the matter. He thinks that it is an injustice both to the citizens generally, and the storekeepers in particular, to allow these people, who with one exception do not pay a cent of taxes in the city, to come in and compete with heavily-taxed ratepayers. They have no running expenses to bear, and they can consequently afford to undersell a regular storekeeper. They purchase up almost everything as soon as it comes into the market, and the citizens are compelled to pay them a higher figure for it than they would if they purchased from the farmers' waggons direct.

TORONTO.

January 25, 1889.

GROCERIES.

Trade is still quiet though there are signs of more activity. There is no important change in prices. Yellow sugars are weaker, while whites are unchanged. Teas are selling more freely and prices are firmly maintained. Dried fruits are quiet, but the market is steady on all good grades.

CANNED GOODS.

The market is flat with prices nominally unchanged. Any movement reported this week has been in small lots and at former quotations. No transaction reported in round lots of any kind, though it is said tomatoes are being looked for. Salmon is quiet at $1.70 to $1.80; the next season's pack promises to be larger than this, as there are a number of additional canners in the business.

COFFEES.

The market on all grades of green coffee is firm and unchanged. Demand is fair. Rios are moving at 18c. to 20c.; outside markets are strong; holders express considerable confidence in the situation. Rio cables are higher, and say that all good grades are getting scarce. Javas are firm at 25c. to 27c. on the spot, though higher prices rule abroad. Purchases made at Rotterdam on local account this week have been at an advance of 2c. on the price of six weeks ago.

SUGARS.

Very much to the surprise of everyone in the trade, no change was made in the prices of white sugars on Saturday morning last. It was so generally believed that prices would be dropped an eighth of a cent that a large number of orders were booked by the wholesale merchants, to be filled on and after Saturday. In fact, some orders were taken by refiners at Saturday's price. Granulated and all whites are therefore the same as they were a week ago. Yellows are quoted lower on low grades, owing, to some extent, to the fact that the Nova Scotia refinery has placed some very dark grades on the market which can be sold at 5⅜c. The demand for all kinds is light. Raws are scarce. Perkins, Ince & Co. are offering a few Jamaicas at 5¼c. in hdds., but these appear to be the only raws on the market.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

No improvement is noted in the demand for syrups. Prices are unchanged. A few Barbadoes molasses have been selling at 37½c. in hhds. to 40c. in barrels.

DRIED FRUIT.

Currants are a little higher abroad, but the improvement is believed to be of only a temporary nature. It is not thought that prices will go any lower, but it is not believed they will advance either this season. On the spot values are if anything easier. Demand is light, and ordinary provincials have been selling at 5¼c. to 5½c. in barrels. In New York the demand is reported to be more active, and prices there are firmer.

Dates—Are also higher abroad. Mail advices from Liverpool report an advance of 1s. on the better grades. There is a fair local demand at 5¾c. to 6c. for prime new, while old can be bought at 4c. to 4½c.

Figs—Are slow. Reputed pound boxes are selling at 8½c., while large boxes rule at 10c. to 12c. for ordinary Elemes, to 17c. for choicest selected. Cooking figs are selling in taps at 4c. to 4½c.

Prunes—Unchanged. There have been a few sales of Bosnia in cases at 8½c. to 9c. for 100 to 105; 9c. to 9½c. for 90 to 95; and 9½c. to 10c. for 80 to 85.

Raisins—Are quiet. Valencias are selling at 6c. to 6½c. for prime to choice off stock, while common, not guaranteed, can be bought at 5¼c. to 5½c. Sultanas are steady at 7¾c. to 8c. for good quality. Malagas are firm at unchanged prices. W. E. Bevan & Co., writing from Malaga Jan. 1 says of Malagas: "There remain here about 28,000 boxes in all, consisting of 10,000 boxes layers, 1,000 currant loose, 7,000 3-crown, 3,000 4-crown loose, and the remainder is made up of half and quarter boxes and 3,000 boxes clusters; all of which, and much more, will be needed for the European and South American trade before the next crop comes to market next September, say eight months.

PEELS.

Quiet and unchanged, with lemon at 16c., orange at 18c., and citron at 25c. Under date of the 1st inst., a communication from Leghorn says: "Candied citron remains neglected, and in consequence of a decline in the price of raw fruit sellers can now be found for prompt and early delivery at the parity of 57s. per cwt., f.o.b., while for June to August 58s. is demanded. Candied orange and lemon peel is active, and fully 1s. 6d. per cwt. higher, say 33s. 6d. and 30. 6d. f.o.b. respectively."

GREEN FRUIT.

There is no improvement in green fruit, all lines being comparatively dull. Oranges are the most active. Small lots of Jamaicas are still on the market and are quoted at $7 to $7.50 per bbl. Valencias firm at $5.50; fruit now on the way here will probably be quoted higher. Floridas are arriving wasting and have to be repacked, and also the lateness of the season have advanced the price to $4 per case. Californias are now on the market, and of very fine quality. They are two months earlier than last year, and are quoted at $4.25 to $4.50. Lemons are very low on account of the slight dew and Messinas are quoted at $3 to $3.50 per box. Extra fancy Palmero's is worth $4.50 per box. This price is for very fine fruit. A few dealers still hold Malaga grapes of first class quality, which they hold at $7.50 per keg. Pineapples are arriving more freely and are very cheap for the time of year. They sell at $2.50 to $3 per dozen.

NUTS.

Peanuts are scarce and higher, with an upward tendency. Other varieties unchanged. A Malaga letter of January 1 says of shelled almonds: In all this Province there remain about 9,000 boxes, say 1,000 boxes Valencias, 4,000 boxes of Jordans for the United States, and the same quantity for England; but these being in many and strong hands will not be sold cheap. Also, it is necessary to observe, that England will probably require many more almonds, as there have been shipped there this year only about two-thirds as many as in 1887.

FLOUR AND GRAIN

FLOUR—Is dull and easy. Extras are offered at $4.60 and rollers at $4.80. It is reported that dealers are pretty well filled up in the East.

BRAN—Dull. Not much demand. Local millers are holding small lots at $16, but cars could be bought, delivered on the track, at $14.50.

WHEAT—Demand is dull and values are lower. In the West No. 2 is selling at $1.02 to $1.03, while $1.04 to $1.05 is asked for Northern, with buyers at $1.03. There is not much doing in Manitoba; No. 1 hard is moving at $1.22 to $1.23 on the spot; No. 1 frosted is held at 98c. to $1. On the spot No. 2 Ontario is worth about $1.06 to $1.07. Street receipts are very light and sales are made at $1.02 to $1.03.

BARLEY—No sales have been reported on the spot for some days and quotations are purely nominal. Some dealers say No. 1 is not worth over 63c. with other grades in proportion. In the absence of actual transactions we make our quotations on a basis of 65c. to 66c. for No. 1. Sales on the street have been made at 59c. to 66c.

PEAS—Quiet, with a fair demand at 56c. to 58c. outside. A round lot of 16,000 bushels sold Monday for export at 56c. outside.

CORN—No. 3 is offering at equal to 45½c. duty paid.

OATS—Are weak and lower. Offerings are large and the demand dull. Prices range from 31c. for light to 35c. for heavy, with sales at these figures. A car of light sold for May delivery at 31c. It is reported that the Quebec and Maritime Province crop is much larger than was expected. Street prices are 59c. to 65c.

OATMEAL—Dull and lower. Sales have been made to arrive at $3.90 for standard ; $4.25 for granulated ; $4.40 for roller, and $4.60 for rolled oats to arrive on track.

DRESSED HOGS AND PROVISIONS.

Packers have not been buying during the past few days and under liberal offerings from farmers prices have declined about 30 per cent. since last report. At the moment sellers are asking $6.20 to $6.30 (f.o.b.) at Chatham points for good straight cars of 200 lb. average hogs. Local receipts by rail are fair. For choice quality and good weights $6.75 to $7 is paid. Heavy, however, are slow and lower, sales having been made at $6.25 to $6.50 and in one instance as low as $6.

PROVISIONS—Are easy. Demand is very light in the face of the depressed condition of the Chicago market.

BACON—Long clear bacon is moving a small way at 9c, but lots are offering at 8¾ c. Cumberland nominal.

MESS PORK—Dull, with sales at $16.50.

LARD—Inclined to be weak ; 50-lb. pails are selling at 10¾ c. and 20's at 11c.

SMOKED MEATS—Dull and unchanged ; with hams at 11c. to 11½c. and rolls at 10c. to 10½c.

The Cincinnati Price Current says : The past week has shown an enlarged and fairly active movement of hogs, with a total of 335,000 packed in the West, against 295,000 the preceding week, and 260,000 for corresponding time last year, or 75,000 gain for the week, as compared with a year ago, reducing the deficiency from 750,000 hogs to 675,000 for the season. November 1 to date, for which period the total packing is now 3,715,000 hogs, against 4,390,000 a year ago. With the weakening in the markets for product there has been a reduction in prices of hogs, the decline at most centres being 15 to 20 cents per 100 pounds, the lighter grades being sustained better than heavy stock. The gain in supply is the natural result of the previous holding back policy, to increase the weight of hogs, the weather being favourable and the returns offering a high premium.

FISH.

Is still very quiet. Dealers do not care to make large shipments on account of the changeable weather. The variety also has been getting greater, and purchasers have more to choose from. With perhaps the exception of smelts, the general supply is quite large. Sea herring from Halifax and St. John have been arriving in quantity lately, with the result that prices have declined. A car load of each was received by one dealer to-day. They are meeting with a very fair sale at $1.00 per 100 for St. John, N.B., and $1.40 per 100 for Halifax herring. These fish are likely to engage considerable of the attention of dealers for some little time to come. A few speckled sea trout are in the market, and are moving at 14c. per lb. Steak cod are meeting with a fair sale at 7½c. per lb, and also finnan haddie at 7 to 8c. per lb. Salmon trout and whitefish are in moderately active request at unchanged figures. At present there are no smelts in the market, and they are being enquired for. Oysters show some degree of activity, and are quoted at $1.15 to $1.60.

SALT.

Liverpool rather easier, but more active, with a car of coarse sold at 59c. f.o.b. cars, with sales of lots of 100 bags at 65c. and small lots at 70c. Canadian unchanged in price; a car of coarse in sacks sold at 60c., and a car of dairy in 200-lb. sacks at 90c.; barrelled very quiet at 90c. for small lots.

COAL OIL.

Business is very good and prices are firm. Following are the quotations to day:—Canadian refined oil, 15c.; carbon safety, 17c.; Canadian water white, 20c.; water white home, 20c.; American water white, 25c.; photogene, 27c.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER.—Receipts have been liberal all week, but they have been mostly of low to medium grade rolls. There have been only a few good dairy tubs received. These have been quickly picked up at full prices. For anything fancy as high as 22c. has been paid, while good to choice has been taken at 19c. to 21c. A few lots of medium have changed hands at 14c. to 16c. during the week. On Monday 1,500 lbs. of large rolls sold at 14c. for medium and 15c. for good medium. Creamery slow at 22c. to 24c.

CHEESE—Is firm and unchanged on this market. Septembers in round lots are held at 12c., but August makes have been moving at 10c. to 10½c.

HIDES, SKINS, TALLOW AND WOOL.

HIDES—Are lower with sales at 4½c. Green unchanged at 3c. for No. 3, 4c. for No. 2 and 5c. for No. 1.

SKINS—Firm and in demand at $1 to $1.35. Not many moving. Calfskins slow and feeling weak.

TALLOW—In good demand at 2½c. for rough and 6c. for rendered. Receipts light.

WOOL—No business doing. Prices are nominal at 20c. to 21c. for ordinary fleece and 23c. to 24c. for clothing.

POULTRY AND GAME.

All kinds are very scarce and in good demand.

TURKEYS—Are selling at 10c. for good, bright dry plucked; scalded and frozen are slow at 7c. to 8c.

GEESE—Scarce at 7c. to 8c. per lb.

DUCKS—Very scarce at 60c. to 80c. a pair.

CHICKENS—In good demand at 35c. to 60c. a pair.

RABBITS—Flat at 10c. to 15c.; market glutted; pedlars are selling from house to house at 10c. a pair.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

APPLES—The demand for apples continues of a very limited nature. Stocks of both packed and loose are very large and a good many have gone to waste. On the local market there is a regular glut of loose apples. The few selling change hands at low prices, being quoted at 75c. to $1.50 per bbl. In packed Greenings sell at $1.75 per bbl. and Spies at $2 per bbl., but the sale of both is very slow. Smith & Crouch, Liverpool, write, under date of January 10, as follows: We have to report a continuance of a thoroughly depressed state of our market for Canadian and American apples. The only kinds in demand are strictly fancy, which are readily salable at full rates. This week choice fancy Kings sold at 22s. 6d. per barrel, and this price we expect will continue to be realized for high-coloured, well packed, large Kings. At the same time it is difficult to realize over 7s. for ordinary small Spies, and 9s. for Baldwins and Greenings, but large, good coloured Baldwins would make 12s. easily. Next week we will have again shorter supplies and all good apples will advance in price, but we are afraid common fruit will not share in the advance to any appreciable extent. Should shipments, on the encouragement of advanced prices, again rise to a great extent, the natural result will be a reaction, with, we are afraid, worse results than ever.

BEANS—Quiet and unchanged at $1.50 to $1.65 for white of prime quality. Top prices are for small lots.

CRANBERRIES—Have been quite active the past week, the demand showing considerable improvement. They are quoted lower at $7 per. bbl. and $2.50 to $3 per case.

DRIED APPLES—Trade lots are quoted at 3½c. and retailers' lots at 3¾c. to 4¼c. Demand is very light for both dried and evaporated stock. The latter are offering in car lots on the track at 6c., and for small lots 7c. to 8c. is asked.

DRESSED MEATS—Hindquarters of beef are going at $5 to $7 per cwt., and fores at $2.50 to $4.

EGGS—The market continues very weak at lower prices. Fresh are moving slowly at 18c. to 20c., but the few cases of strictly new laid that are coming forward bring 20c. There is, however, but little demand for any kind. Limed are at 12c. to 16c., as to quality, for ordinary to good.

HAY AND STRAW—Western shippers are offering No. 1 timothy delivered on the track here at $16, and fair to good at $15.50. There are buyers at about 50c. below these figures. Mixed is steady; not a great deal offering; prices rule at $12.50 to $14 on the track.

HOPS—Quiet. Very little doing. No demand for either foreign or domestic. Canadian nominal at 20c. to 22c. for ordinary quality for small.

ONIONS—Weak. Good yellow Denvers can be bought as low as 65c. per bag.

POTATOES—No cars coming and none wanted, whatever. The farmers' supply is sufficient to keep the local market going. Offerings for shipment large at equal to 33c. to 35c. on the track, or 25c. outside. Small lots are selling out of store at 40c. to 45c.

SEEDS—Receipts of alsike have been fair. Prices have ruled somewhat higher owing to local competition, but as outside prices are no better it is doubtful if they will be maintained. Dealers have been paying $6.50 to $8.50 for good to choice, and $9 for extra choice to fancy. Red clover dull. Western markets a little easier, and jobbing prices have been reduced to $5.25 to $5.60. Timothy, nominally unchanged.

THE CANADA SUGAR REFINING CO'Y [LIMITED],
MONTREAL,

Offer for sale all grades of REFINED SUGARS and SYRUPS of the well-known brand of

Redpath

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,
MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday's yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

JOHN BAKER EDWARDS, P.L.D., D.C.L., F.C.S.,
Public Analyst for the District of Montreal, and Professor of Chemistry.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY, MEDICAL FACULTY, MCGILL UNIVERSITY
MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have taken and tested a sample of your "EXTRA GRANULATED" Sugar, and find that it yielded 99·88 per cent. of Pure Sugar. It is practically as pure and good a Sugar as can be manufactured.

Yours truly,
G. P. GIRDWOOD.

The Markets—Continued.

MONTREAL.

GROCERIES.

CANNED GOODS.

The demand for canned goods has continued slow and the market has ruled quiet, with business dull. Lobsters steady at $6 per case. Salmon is unchanged at $1.70 to $1.75 per dozen. Tomatoes have a weak tone, and prices are tending downward, owing to the large offerings, but few transactions have taken place. We quote 90c. to $1 per dozen. Corn has been quiet, but steady at $1.15 to $1.20 per dozen, and peas at $1.25 per dozen. In Armour's canned meats a fair amount of business has been accomplished, and the market has ruled stronger and prices are higher all round.

TEAS.

The tea market has been quiet but a firm feeling has prevailed owing to the strong advices from England and New York; in consequence the general impression among holders here is firm and looking for better prices and a larger volume of business in the near future. Stocks through the country are light, and now that snow has come and the roads are getting in better condition, there will be much more enquiry from all quarters.

SUGAR.

The sugar market has been quiet and steady, with little business doing. Granulated is unchanged at 7⅜c., and yellows at 5⅜c. to 6c., as to quality. Raw sugar is dull at 6c.

FRUIT.

Owing to the stronger advices from abroad and New York the fruit market here has ruled stronger and prices are somewhat higher. The demand for Valencia raisins has been fair and some round lots have changed hands at 5¼c., with better grades up to 6c. In currants there has also been a firmer feeling, but few sales have been made at 5c. to 6c.

SYRUP.

In syrup business has been dull, with prices steady at 3½c. to 4½c.

MOLASSES.

There has been a fair enquiry for molasses and several lots of Barbadoes have changed hands at 42½c. The market has a strong tone and prices are firm.

OILS.

In oils a larger volume of business has been transacted, there being a better demand, and some round lots of Newfoundland cod and steam refined seal have changed hands at firm prices. The market has a strong tone, and higher prices are looked for in the near future. The demand for petroleum has been brisk and the market active, with prices steady at 14½c., and in smaller quantities at 16c.

FISH.

The market for salt fish has continued quiet and little business has been transacted. The stock of Labrador herrings here is estimated at 2,000 barrels, which is considered large for this season of the year. The market has ruled weaker, and sales of some fair sized lots have been made at $5.50 $5.65. Green cod has ruled quiet, and last sales of round lots reported were at $4.75 to $4.85. Finnan haddies have declined to 6½c. to 7c. The demand for fresh fish has been good, and a large volume of business has been accomplished. Haddock has ruled weaker, and sales of large lines have been made at 3½c. to 4c., while cod has remained steady at 3½c. to 4c. Tommycods are easier at $1.50 per barrel. Smelts are scarce and higher at 5½c. to 6c. Fresh herrings have declined to $1 per 100.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

GRAIN — Market has continued slow throughout. Wheat values are not much changed, but peas and oats have weakened. We quote: Canada red winter wheat, $1.18; Canada white winter wheat, $1.18; Canada spring, $1.15; No. 1 hard Manitoba, $1.23; No. 2 do., $1.19 to $1.21. Corn (in bond), 52c. to 53c. Peas (per 66 lbs.), 74c. to 75c. Barley, 60c. to 65c. Oats, 35c. to 36c.

FLOUR—Trade in flour has been light and confined to local wants, but although stocks are ample, prices have ruled about steady. Patent winter, $6 to $6.50; patent spring, $6 to $6.15; straight roller, $5.75 to $5.95; extra, $5.50 to $5.75; superfine, $4.50 to $5.15; strong bakers', $5.25 to $5.70; superfine, bags, $2.40 to $2.50; extra, bags, $2.55 to $2.75; city strong bakers', 140 lb. sacks, $5.80 to $6; oatmeal, standard, bbl., $5.70; oatmeal, granulated, bbl., $4.50.

HOG PRODUCTS.

Lower prices than last quoted have been accepted, and at the decline business has been fairly active. Meats in steady demand. Canadian short cut, per bbl., $16.50 to $17; mess pork, Western, per bbl., $16-25 to $16.50; short cut, Western, per bbl., $16.50 to $17; hams, city cured, per lb., 12½c. to 13c.; hams, green, per lb., 9c.; flanks, green, per lb., 9c.; lard, Western, in pails, per lb., 1c.; lard, Canadian, in pails, 10c.; bacon, per lb., 11c. to 11½c.; shoulders, 6½c.; tallow, common refined, per lb., 6¼c. to 6½c.

DRESSED HOGS.

Weakness has characterized the hog market under liberal offerings and the holding off policy of buyers. Car lots sold at $6.85. We quote $6.85 to $6.90, and jobbing lots $7 to $7.10 per 100 lbs.

EGGS.

Market has ruled weak and lower. Western in barrels, 16c.; Canadian limed, 17c. to 17½c.; held fresh, 18c. to 19c. Strictly fresh scarce.

POULTRY AND GAME.

Poultry has been in good demand and steady. Partridges in good demand, but lower. Turkeys, 8c. to 9½c.; geese, at 5c. to 7c.; ducks, 8c. to 9½c.; chickens, 5c. to 7c.; partridges, 40c. to 45c. per brace.

Business Changes.

M. H. Walsh & Co., millinery, Kingston, have suspended.

J. W. Foster, grocer, of Brantford, is offering to compromise.

Peter Knechtel, manufacturer of felt boots, is offering to compromise.

George J. Cox, general storekeeper, Gravenhurst, is offering to compromise.

Eby Bros., founders and manufacturers of agricultural machinery, Berlin, has assigned.

W. G. McLean has been appointed liquidator of the Sarnia Agricultural Implement Manufacturing Co.

W. A. McKee, shoe dealer, Shelburne, has assigned to Charles Parsons, of this city. The creditors are Toronto firms.

The assets of the Oaklands Jersey Dairy Co. are $23,000, and the liabilities $20,000, so that the creditors will be paid in full.

Julian Martineau, butcher, St. Cunegonde, Que., has assigned, with liabilities of $25,000, of which the Union Bank is in for $12,000, secured.

De Pencier Bros., general dealers, of Merrickville, who assigned some weeks ago, have obtained a settlement, and will resume business.

The sheriff is in possession of the stock of John Henderson, proprietor of the Bay of Quinte Knitting Company, and of an hotel at Belleville.

Last week M. O. David, Sr., tailor, of St. Hyacinthe, asked for a compromise, and now his son, in the same line, is out with a request for an extension.

Nothing has yet been done in the matter of Reid, Birely & Co., cigar manufacturers, Hamilton. Their indirect liabilities amount to $20,000, and the direct to $47,000.

Broom & Co., dry goods, 370 Yonge Street, are in trouble and are offering to compromise at 20c. on the dollar. The liabilities will be about $2,300, and the stock is covered by a chattel mortgage.

Abbott & Watson, builders, Bloor Street West, have failed in completing the terms of their extension, and have assigned to J. B. Boustead. The assets are $20,000, and unsecured liabilities, $12,000.

Damer & Son made an assignment on Saturday to Clark, Barber & Co. Another meeting will be held at an early date, when it is expected that a settlement will be made. The assets and liabilities are nominally equal at $20,000.

James Watson, spice manufacturer, 110 Bay Street, has been in difficulties for some weeks past, and his trouble culminated Tuesday, when he suspended payment. The liabilities are about $12,000. The assets are not known, but will be considerably less.

A meeting of the creditors of George Currie, the Spadina Avenue boot and shoe dealer, was held in Blackley & Anderson's office, when a statement was presented showing the assets to be $2,039, and the liabilities $2,903. An offer of 30c. cash was submitted, but the creditors wanted 45c., and the meeting adjourned after appointing inspectors.

A. E. Nash, boot and shoe dealer, Clarksburg, has left that place and is supposed to have gone to the States. He started business about a year ago, and the sheriff, who is now in possession, finds assets of $500, and liabilities of $2,000. W. B. Hamilton, Sons & Co., of this city, are creditors.

Miss P. Hammond, milliner, King Street West, is offering to compromise with her creditors at 10c. on the dollar. The statement of the estate shows assets $1.270, liabilities $1,399. By the statement it appears that Miss Hammond would be able to pay more than 10c. on the dollar, but most of the assets are covered by preferred claims.

Considerable opposition is developing among those who have become creditors of J. W. Gale & Co. since their first compromise to the acceptance of the offer of 40c. They claim that it is unfair that they should receive only 40c. on the dollar, while the former creditors receive 73c., particularly as the receipts from the sale of their goods went to pay off the settlement.

A meeting of the creditors of Wm. Alexander, the Yonge Street jeweller, was held, when a statement was submitted showing assets of $2,500 and liabilities of $5,000. The creditors are principally in Montreal, local firms only being in for small amounts. No action was taken, and the meeting adjourned. Mr. Alexander has several times had to ask the indulgence of his creditors, and has been fighting an uphill battle for some time.

The creditors of Stanley M. Clapp & Co., shoe dealers, 440½ Queen Street West, held a meeting at which the statement was submitted, showing assets $7,000, liabilities $9,000. Mr. Clapp presented his offer of 60c. on the dollar, but it was not accepted, as all the creditors' names were not appended to the composition. It was agreed that the stock should be sold within a week and the business wound up, but if Mr. Clapp succeeds in the meantime in obtaining the consent of all parties interested to the composition the stock will not be sold.

GROCERS!

IT is well known that everywhere in France one can get a good cup of coffee, and it is also an established fact, that the reverse is the case in Canada. Many blame the coffee, but the true cause is simply this, "Not one cook in a dozen knows how to make coffee properly." The above cut represents a new invention which is very simple in construction, and any child can make a good cup of coffee with it. You simply fill the tin can with boiling water, then set the pot on top, put the requisite amount of coffee in the bag inside the pot, then pour a sufficient amount of boiling water into the pot and let it stand on the stove for 3 or 4 minutes, when you will have a first class cup of coffee.

This coffee pot is the simplest, cheapest, and best article of the kind ever invented, and the low price makes it within the reach of all. They are packed 1 doz. in a barrel. Price $6 per doz. Send $6 for 1 doz. as a sample, and you will find it all that we recommend it to be.

SPECIAL TO OUR READERS.

As the design of THE CANADIAN GROCER is to benefit mutually all interested in the business, we would request all parties ordering goods or making purchases of any description from houses advertising with us to mention in their letter that such advertisement was noticed in THE CANADIAN GROCER.

DRY GOODS.

The firmness which has prevailed in all lines of dry goods lately is still maintained, and there are further advances to report. Linen thread has advanced from $9.32 to $11.16 per gross, and the same proportion applies to thread by the ounce. Cables from Ireland were received yesterday by merchants refusing orders for Hollands and goods of that description except at a marked increase in price. Canadian made cotton goods are firm at the late advances. Shirtings that a short time ago sold at 5c. per yard are not now to be procured for less than 5½c. per yard. The grey cotton manufacturers insist on the full amount of the late advance being paid by wholesale merchants, and orders at slight figures below the fixed rate have been refused. Seersuckers are up fully 1c. per yard from the price established about four weeks ago. Silk goods of all descriptions are firm and advances are asked for all repeat orders. Late advices from France report higher prices demanded for French woollen dress goods, cashmeres, debaizes and jerseys, and it is hard to get deliveries at the increased figures, as the mills in France appear to be pretty well filled with orders. Canadian woollen yarn manufacturers are asking advances of all the way from 2½c. to 4c. per lb., with their production firm at the advance, and it is probable that if wool maintains its present attitude they will go still higher. One traveller, who was given an order for yarns on the 2½c. per lb. advance, refused to accept it until it was ratified by the mill.

Nearly all the trade doing at present is in the hands of the travellers, very few country customers being in the city. The class of goods moving are still in spring fabrics, and on the whole a fairly steady trade is being done. Sewed embroideries are in quite good request at present, and a very fair movement is reported for white and grey cottons and shirtings. Seersuckers are active. For prints the demand is fair, while for the choice qualities of fine sateens there is a very active request. The mills are all reported to be very busy.

The fall of snow lately has been hailed with satisfaction by the dry goods trade. Payments, which have not been up to the mark, are likely to show considerable improvement. It is helping lumbermen all through the country, particularly in the north, where the want of snow was severely felt. It enables farmers to move cedar ties, telegraph poles and cedar for block paving, and thereby gives them the handling of money that they would not otherwise have. They will now be able to move large quantities of produce, which they had before to hold on account of bad roads, and money is likely to be more plentiful in the country. This is likely to be felt just about the 4th of February, and is likely to result in largely increased payments on that day.

THE TEA TRADE.

The market has continued to show considerable activity in the past week, and a fair business has been done in all grades. The chief features has been an awakening in the demand for Japans, and a general enquiry for all grades has set in, as foreshadowed in last issue. The principal transactions for the week have been in seconds and thirds Young Hysons. The trade for Japan Dust has also increased in consequence of the very low prices at which this article is selling, and now that low grade teas of all kinds are advancing, the attention of consumers is turning more to low dusts. Another new feature has been the sale of some fine Japans for shipment to the States, better prices being obtainable over there than on this market; in fact it is a generally accepted opinion that the Toronto and Montreal markets are below other markets in all grades of Japans and Young Hysons. This state of things is likely to cease as soon as holders of these kinds realize that better prices are ruling elsewhere. Last reports from New York advise a strong tone there, with rumours of a large business in Pingsueys. There is said to be a big deal in green teas on the carpet there, which, if carried through, will advance prices one or two cents. At last week's auction higher prices were obtained. The statistical position of all kinds remains unchanged.

The following are the British Board of Trade returns of the imports of tea into Great Britain for the past year, compared with preceding years:—

A CLUTTED EGG MARKET.

The market is fairly glutted with fresh eggs, and prices are lower and weaker. Every house along the street is full up. Many of them have no empties left to send out in reply to numerous demands for them, every one being in use. This is something very unusual at this season of the year. A year ago a large Front Street commission house received seven cases of fresh eggs in a week. Yesterday alone their receipts were thirty-three cases. Besides the large quantity of fresh, there is a superabundant supply of limed that was never intended for this market, but would have gone to the States had not that market gone off.

While the supply has been increasing the demand has fallen off. Some merchants say they are not selling as many now as when the prices were 22c. per dozen.

A COLLECTING AGENCY.

A meeting of grocers was held at Mr. Wm. Mara's last week to discuss the question of establishing a collecting agency in connection with the Retail Grocers' Association. Nothing definite was done as there was not as large an attendance as desired. The matter will come up again at a larger meeting.

COMPROMISES.

The letter published in this issue on compromises is from a prominent wholesale grocer and is a valuable contribution to this question. It shows conclusively that the wholesale trade are quite ready to adopt any measures tending to the protection of the retail customers. We would now like to have opinion of all our readers interested in this matter; especially with reference to the question, "Would you favour an agreement on part of the wholesale trade not to accept any compromises?"

EVAPORATED APPLES.

The following letter has been received from Messrs Smith & Crouch, fruit merchants, Liverpool :

Editor, CANADIAN GROCER, Toronto :

SIR,—Since our last the enormous supplies of fresh apples, and reports of large quantities of evaporated apples to come forward have had an unfavourable effect on the market, and best rings, evaporated apples, are now selling at the equivalent of 8c. per pound.

Yours respectfully, SMITH & CROUCH.

NO ADVANCE IN FOREIGN LEAF TOBACCO.

An article published in the Montreal Trade Bulletin, and republished in The Empire, on the advance in Canadian raw leaf tobacco has caused a good deal of unnecessary excitement in the trade. In Western Ontario many thought the remarks applied to tobacco manufactured from foreign leaf. This, however, is not the case. Only a small quantity of native tobacco is consumed in Western Ontario. The bulk of it is manufactured and sold in Lower Canada.

THE TENDENCY OF TRADE.

A recent issue of the Boston Herald contains the following interesting article upon the subject: It seems to be the opinion of some of the best informed European authorities that what is termed the American system of trade is fast coming into use in all of the civilized countries of the world, and that its development is likely to be productive of great changes in the ordinary methods of business. This American system consists in the keenest sort of competition, brought about by the thorough utilization of every cent of capital employed. This leads to the rapid turning over of stocks of goods, on the theory that quick sales and small profits are to be preferred to slow sales with the chance of large profits; in the enlargement of both mercantile and manufacturing enterprises, so as to reduce by the size of the output the proportionate costs of rent, taxes, insurance and other fixed charges. The effect of all this has been to reduce the price of almost all articles of consumption to their purchasers, and to compel the seller to be content with a fraction of profit which in years past would have been altogether insufficient to make the business a satisfactory one.

Naturally, under such conditions, those enterprises have succeeded best where there has been an abundance of capital or credit to enable the managers to buy whenever the market seemed to justify a purchase without regard to stocks on hand, trusting to exceptionally large sales caused by special inducements in the way of low prices. We are now informed that in European countries, both in retail and wholesale business, competition is producing practically the same results; that is, the consolidation of the manufacture and distribution of products in fewer and fewer hands, in consequence of the considerable reductions in incidental costs that attend large operations, or operations conducted on the theory of quick sales.

It is pointed out that one of the potent causes for the formation of trusts may be found in this evolution of business methods, since the keenness of the competition has been such that often the margin for profits has been entirely swept away, and the interested manufacturers or merchants have considered it necessary to agree among themselves upon a basis which would admit of profits to all included within their combination, the form of trust owing its adoption to the fact that it is the most satisfactory way of insuring good faith on the part of all. Obviously the trust method is in opposition to the direct tendency of business, and, under a system of competition unrestricted by customs regulations, there can be little doubt that in most cases it would not be effective in greatly increasing prices; and, indeed, if its continuance depended upon such increases it could not long exist. An exception may be found in the case of the copper trust or combination. But it is said that here the chief part of the profit which the copper monopoly proposes to obtain comes less from the consumer than from the dealers in copper, who have been able to make disproportionate gains in consequence of the past fluctuations in the price of that metal. That is, the intent of the copper trust is to make money by crowding down the middlemen by more direct dealings with the consumers of copper. Whether this operation will or will not be attended with success by the combination over which Mr. Secretan presides, it is, no doubt, a method which is likely to be more and more resorted to as competition increases in intensity and new economies are found necessary.

The weak and inactive rivals having been driven out of the business, and the trade held by them taken up, the more enterprising and pushing of the business men will be on the lookout for new opportunities of profit. Expenses in the form of salaries and wages cannot be greatly reduced. Indeed, the tendency is directly the other way. But the middlemen, in the form of retail dealers, jobbers, commission merchants and the like, constitute a considerable force, which can from time to time be depleted to the benefit of manufacturers; that is, the nearer he can approach to the consumer and deal directly with the latter the greater the advantage to both parties. This process of elimination may prove a slow one, but it is one which seems inevitable, and the more trade and manufacture are consolidated in a few hands the easier it will be to carry them on without the assistance of those who have hitherto taken an active share in distribution. Commenting upon this change, an English writer says that two big depots for the sales of their wares, one used by the manufacturers of Bradford and the other by those of Lyons, would half ruin every retail dry goods dealer in London. But operations on this scale are in the line of present business development, and, whether we fancy the results or not, there seems to be no other alternative but to submit to them with such grace as we may.

HOW TO PRESERVE EGGS.

Mr. Andrew Carrick, retail grocer and baker, of this city, who preserves a large quantity of eggs every season, says, in reply to the question in last week's GROCER, that he uses one pint of slacked lime; one pint of salt, and two gallons of water; stir up and let stand for twenty-four hours before putting in the eggs. He sometimes finds the same difficulty as our correspondent of last week, in that the yolks of some get hard and gummy. He attributes that to the fact that they are at the bottom of the barrel where the sediment has settled, and that they are consequently cooked. Mr. Alex. Delaporte, who has also packed a good many eggs, uses the above recipe, but after the solution has been standing twenty-four hours, he strains off the liquid, allowing none of the sediment to go into the barrel or vat with the eggs, and he is seldom troubled with hardening yolks.

A CORDIAL WELCOME.

President Ballinger, of the Western Packers' Association, in a letter to the Editor of THE GROCER regarding the coming meeting of that body in Chicago, says: "To all from the Dominion we extend a cordial welcome."

HOW TO TELL CHICORY IN COFFEE.

Chicory can be detected in coffee as follows:—Put a teaspoonful of coffee to be tested on the surface of a glass of cold water. If it is pure coffee it will float for some time, scarcely coloring the water. Chicory, if any is present, will at once absorb the water and fall to the bottom of the glass, giving to the water a reddish-brown tint as it falls.

Another method is to put a tablespoonful of the coffee in a small bottle of cold water, and, shaking it for a moment, if the coffee is pure it will rise and scarcely color the water; if chicory is present it will act same as above.

BUYING TOO MUCH OR TOO LITTLE.

There are three classes of buyers in trade —one who buys too much, one too little, and the other who draws the line between the two, and strikes the happy medium. The first, as a rule, is always burdened with too much stock. Seasons come and go, and his shelves are filled with goods out of fashion and out of season. As a rule he is always short of money, behind with his bills, simply because he buys too much.

The merchant who buys too little or too small a stock lacks knowledge of his trade and loses custom by not keeping a sufficient supply on hand to meet the current wants of his customers. Over-cautiousness in this direction is almost as bad as over-buying. It often gives his competitor the means of supplying his regular customers. The good merchant will note what lines sell best, and consult with his clerks, or those at the head of the departments of his establishment.

We often hear customers say, "We would like to buy of Mr. So-and-So, but he buys such a small quantity of an article that there is no opportunity for selection, so we go elsewhere. Indeed, he is very careful about ordering goods." This class of merchants never build up or do a large trade. They, as a rule, do a small business. Their over-cautiousness and lack of knowledge of the real wants of the trade of their sections prevent them from increasing their sales.

The merchant who knows what to buy and how much to buy is the progressive and successful one. He studies his trade, comes to market often, never overloads, and gets as near a cash basis as possible. When bargains are presented to him he is quick to see a real one and to act accordingly. His trade is sought after. He buys for customers whose tastes he understands, and is regarded by his patrons, as well as by the jobbers, as the bright, keen merchant who keeps abreast of the times. He is in good credit and is a success in his line of trade.

TO FASTEN PAPER TO METAL.

Paper pasted, gummed or glued on to metal, especially if it has a bright surface, usually comes off on the slightest provocation, leaving the adhesive material on the back of the paper, with a surface bright and slippery as ice. The cheaper descriptions of clock dials are printed on paper and then struck on zinc, but for years the difficulty was to get the paper and metal to adhere. It is, however, said to be now overcome by dipping the metal into a strong and hot solution of washing soda, afterward scrubbing perfectly dry with a clean rag. Onion juice is then applied to the surface of the metal, and the label pasted and fixed in the ordinary way. It is said to be almost impossible to separate paper and metal thus joined. Probably metal show tablets might be successfully treated in the same manner.

SIX OFF TEN, FIVE OFF THIRTY.

Have you ever given serious thought to the real effect of a disregard for those familiar words seen on every bill-head? Or have you neglected to study out the actual saving you might have effected by discounting your bills, and paid them net at ninety days? If you have not used your pencil on this problem, just take a slip of paper and figure with us a little. We will suppose you have purchased a bill of $1,000, and have received the invoice on which the terms are given as "Six off ten days; five off thirty days; four off sixty days." We will first remember that discount is an allowance made for the payment of money before it is due, and is equivalent to the interest of the amount of the invoice, $1,000 in this case, during the sixty days. To apply our mathematics to the case in point: If we pay this bill within ten days we will deduct $60 from the invoice, and remit $940. What we have saved equals the interest on $1,000 for one year at 6 per cent. The advantage of doing this is at once very apparent. If we say we will wait twenty days and take off 5 per cent., we had better think a moment, and then not do it. If we should do so, we would pay $10 for the use of $1,000 for twenty days; this is at the rate of 1½ per cent. per month, or 18 per cent per annum! You will at once recognize that no merchant should pay such an exorbitant rate of interest, except in time of great emergency. Let us figure a little farther, and take it for granted that we do not propose to pay the bill untill sixty days have expired, and that we then propose to pay $960. If we do this, we pay $20 for the use of the money for fifty days. A little calculation will show you that this is equivalent to paying about 1 2-10 per cent. interest per month, which is 14 4-10 per cent. per annum! If, now, you do not propose to pay at the end of sixty days, and prefer to pay at three months, and pay the $1,000 net, you will be paying $60 for the use of $1,000 for eighty days, which is at the rate of 2¼ per cent. a month, or about 27 per cent. per annum! If the figures in the previous cases were astonishing these are astounding, and we do not believe that any merchant can say, after reading this carefully, that he can afford not to discount his bills.—[American Storekeeper.

CONDITIONS OF SUCCESS IN BUSINESS.

The more strictly methodical a business is conducted, provided it insures correctness and a proper dispatch, the nearer it will approach success, and the more those engaged in it will become fond of its details; and, as a consequence, the more willingly they will devote themselves to those duties which they feel at the same time promote their pleasure and advance their interests. Another thing:—There is no one subject in which the whole mercantile community have a deeper interest than that of the vast modern increase of the facilities for diffusing and obtaining full and correct information on everything pertaining to trade; so that all can enjoy its advantages; and no man need hope to compete successfully with his neighbour, who shuts himself out from a participation in these facilities. The time has come when it is no longer in the few to monopolize, and every day tends more and more to equalize the condition and advantages of business men, and to throw wide open to all the door to wealth, respectability, influence and honour. This is said notwithstanding the formation of so many trusts, all of which will have their day. Nor is it believed there is any necessity for the frequent failures in the mercantile life, which have distinguished the past. The young merchant who commences on the broad and sound basis of integrity, and nice mercantile honour, and who conducts his business with intelligence and judgment, and without undue eagerness and haste to get rich, will generally meet with success, as he will certainly deserve it. It is true that this is a day of ardent competition; but it is not less true that it is a day when manly, honourable enterprise buckles on its armour under auspices the most cheering, and hopes the most encouraging.—Chicago Commercial Bulletin.

FORM A COMBINE.

Some of our grocers complain that the large stores are gradually freezing out the the smaller ones. They are right in a certain respect. A man of capital and one who buys in large quantities can always buy at lower figures than one whose capital is limited, and whose trade will not admit of his buying in large quantities. The consequence is that the grocers who have means can undersell the smaller on. Now, there is a way to overcome this. Suppose fifteen or twenty of our retail grocers combine together, let them choose a buyer, and then purchase their goods in large quantities. If grapes are worth thirty cents in five basket lots, and can be bought for twenty-five cents in 100 basket lots, the grocers who have formed this combination can have the same advantage the larger dealers have, and can afford to sell as cheaply. Now, this is a suggestion that will bear looking into.—[Denver Retail Grocer.

A PROFIT ON SUGAR.

The Pennsylvania Grocer says:—Selling sugar at a profit has been a theme of earnest discussion in retail trade circles for a long time. As a result of the discussion, some progress has been made, notably in Philadelphia, where earnest men had courage sufficient to grapple the evil and take steps to check it. That it has been a success is not to be doubted, and while perchance there may be hundreds who are travelling in the old rut, yet there are thousands who have been obtaining a profit on sugar. One merchant (and we only cite this instance to show sult), has taken pains to preserve his sugar bills for the past year, and in calculating the aggregate amount finds that, deducting a quarter of a cent per pound for possible loss, his total profits will exceed $700. This is only one case in a city which has five thousand grocers, and, to use the merchant's own language, "had it not been for the association I would have been that much poorer." Like all reforms, the sugar movement takes time to educate men up to the point of seeing wherein lies their own interest.

SOME POINTS FOR DEALERS.

Staple goods are nearly always worth the money paid for them, even if the stock is a little larger than trade demands, but fancy goods and novelties require the best judgment in their selection, as they are more perishable, or more subject to changes of style and fashion. Never buy a large amount of them because they are cheap. The mere fact of their being offered at a very low price should make you buy sparingly of them, for it shows that the reason for the "cut in price" is because they are unsalable, going out of fashion, or are no longer a novelty. Never overstock in any line. It is better to have your customers ask twice for a novelty than to have it on hand and not find ready sale for it.

CLUES FOR MANY PURPOSES.

Soak half a pound of glue over night in a quart of good milk, and boil it the next day. It will dissolve moisture much better than glue dissolved in water.

An adhesive mucilage for labels, suitable for bottles or glass, may be prepared by soaking glue in strong vinegar; then heat to boiling and add flour. This is very adhesive, and does not decompose when kept in wide-mouthed bottles.

The following preparation is very useful for gumming large sheets of paper, which may be kept on hand ready for use: Starch, 2 drachms; white sugar, 1 ounce; gum arabic, 2 drachms; to be boiled with a sufficient quantity of water.

THE GROCER GIVES THE BEST RESULTS.

Mr. G. A. McLaren, Montreal, who handles enamelled letters for windows, which he has advertised extensively all over Canada, is loud in his praises of the CANADIAN GROCER AND GENERAL STOREKEEPER as an advertising medium. It brought him more results than all the others put together. Orders came to him from British Columbia in the west to Nova Scotia in the east.

In the International Series Counter Check Books, manufactured by Morton & Co., 3 and 5 Adelaide Street East, Toronto, merchants are guaranteed in their use by letters patent. Samples are furnished free of the best check book yet introduced. Thousands now in use.

ROOM AT THE TOP.

I heard a young man make some pretty pointed remarks about getting "to the top," that place represented as being so "roomy." "It does not seem to matter," he remarked, "whether I work my best and never take my nose off the grindstone, or whether I take things easy and get along without so much hard work." It is pretty evident that this young man will not get to the top right away, and a pointer or two may help him.

Let the man imagine as far as he can how the matter would seem were he at the top and had charge of everything. From this point of view let the situation be studied, and notes be made of how a young man should conduct himself. If the young man does not see things in a different light, then I shall be mistaken. It will be a good lesson, and if learned will go far to enable the young man in question to advance himself a good distance "toward the top."—Paper Trade Journal.

We invite correspondence from readers in every section on subjects pertaining to the trade, and shall be pleased to answer questions of general interest in this department. COMPROMISES.

Editor CANADIAN GROCER:—

SIR,—I have read with interest the letter of your correspondent "Merchant, Exeter" re Compromises. The remedy he proposes seems impracticable to me. Unless all the wholesalers in Canada agreed to take back their goods it could not be carried out successfully.

Having had some experience in endeavouring to persuade some of the wholesale trade to give up certain practices which are acknowledged to be evils, I venture to say it would be impossible to prevail upon them to act as a unit in the way proposed.

Would it not be better if the wholesale trade would agree with each other not to accept any compromises? Then if a man failed his stock would be sold at auction, and the highest bidder would take it, and there would be one less trader in the town and more chance for the others.

Take for example your correspondent's own town. Suppose a general store fails there; the stock is to be sold by auction at so much on the dollar. It seems to me it would be in the interest of the other merchants of that town to join together, buy the stock and apportion it among themselves. This would prevent a bankrupt stock man getting hold of it and underselling them. If they did not do this their position would be worse than if the insolvent got a compromise. For this reason. The man who bought the stock would only be paying say 50c. on the dollar for the stock, while the insolvent who compromises gets nothing off his stock, but gets a compromise of his liabilities—a very different thing! For example. A. meets his creditors and shows the following statement of affairs:—Assets, $6,000; liabilities, $8,000; deficit, $2,000. Suppose he compromises for 60c. on the dollar. After the compromise his position is:—Assets, $6,000; liabilities, $4,800; surplus, $1,200. Say he sells his stock at 60c. on the dollar his assets are $3,600; liabilities, $4,800, or a deficit of $1,200, and here he is bankrupt again.

Your correspondent seems to imagine, judging by the tenor of his letter, that when a compromise is being effected the creditors, in exercising their judgment as to whether it shall be taken or not, reduce the value of the stock equal to the amount of the compromise. Of course this is not the case. It is the liabilities which are compromised. His assets still stand at 100c. on the dollar. That compromises are often given to men who should not get them is undeniable. The principal reason in these cases is that the creditors think it wise to make the best of a bad job and thus close the matter. That if no compromises were given the just would suffer with the unjust is also plain. The choice in this matter is between two extremes. If you refuse to sign a compromise you are called selfish, grasping, hard-hearted, etc. If you do sign you are told you are injuring the man who tries to pay his honest debts.

I would like to ask your correspondent and all your retail subscribers a question. Suppose any wholesale branch of trade or any one wholesale house took the stand, that compromises being injurious to their customers they must decline to sign any, Would they be supported in this position by the retail trade.

My own firm have debated for some years the advisability of discontinuing the practice of accepting compromises as inimical to the best interests of their customers, but no definite action has been taken, because it was feared that our ideas of our customers' best interests and their ideas might differ very materially. I trust I shall have a large number of replies to my query.

Yours truly, HAMILTON.

HE FINDS FAULT.

Editor CANADIAN GROCER:

DEAR SIR:—In reply to Mr. A. E. Saunders' in the Merchant of the 25th ult., I am glad to see that some one is beginning to enquire, "What is the Association doing?" He surely might give us full credit for what we have done. He as good as acknowledges that the wholesale houses have ceased selling to consumers, but would take that credit away by saying that the houses were ripe for the change. Why, Sir, it is a well-known fact that the coil was growing day by day ; and it is also a fact that considerable difficulty was met in trying to get some houses to sign our agreement. So I think we surely can claim the credit for that desirable change.

Again, what about Christmas and New Year's presents. Some of our members stated in open meeting that it was a saving of a large amount of money to them, as well as getting rid of an annoyance and useless tax. These two objects alone are worth having. But we want to go farther ; and, if I mistake not, we shall succeed. Our Association is now considering a memorial to the Ontario and Provincial Governments to enforce creditors' rights as against Civil Service employees. Another evil which is now under consideration is the peddling from door to door of farmers' produce by unlicensed dealers who call themselves grocers, and escape license fees altogether.

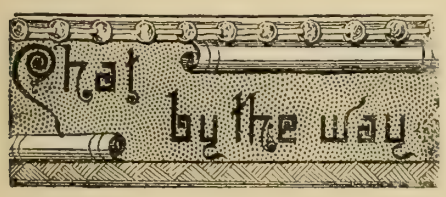
Another matter at present being looked after is the habit of provision merchants and commission houses selling to consumers at the same rate as to retailers. Again, we are considering the best means of hunting the dead beat. Of course we have a black list at present, but we want to go farther and have a proper channel for collecting bad debts.

Now, Mr. Editor, allow me, through you, to extend to Mr. Saunders an invitation to be present at our next meeting to be held on February 11th, and assist us with his advice.

If we show him that we are engaged in a good work he will perhaps throw in his lot with us, and thus help on the good cause.

Yours truly,

SECRETARY T. R. G. A.



Mr. James Playfair, Sturgeon Bay, was in town this week.

The trade in nuts this season in Canada has been lighter than usual.

Mr. R. Ralston, of Ralston & Co., Hamilton, manufacturers of shoe blacking and stove polish, favored THE GRORER with a call this week.

The Hamilton Commercial Travellers' concert and ball netted $300 to the Girls' Home and Home of the Friendless.

Mr. Thomas Doak, of Campbellford, has added a steam candy and confectionery branch to his business, which is proving a marked success.

Mr. Munro, of Munro & Bro., Parkhill, favoured THE GROCER with a call this week, and reports trade good in Parkhill.

Mr. Hugh Walker, of Hugh Walker & Son, Guelph, who has been very sick for the past few weeks, is able to be around again.

Mr. John Baskin, formerly of the firm of McMillan & Baskin, Norwood, who retired some time ago, has again resumed business in his own block, and is doing a thriving trade.

The Ohio Retail Grocers' Association has recommended a Bill to the Legislature amending the exemption laws, so that a man may be garnisheed for the payment of bills for the necessaries of life.

Mr. J. Lutton, of Belleville, has sold out his grocery business in that place to Bennett & Rowe, and will move to Toronto. From what we hear, Messrs. Bennett & Rowe intend to make things hum there.

Mr. T. O. Leonard, Detroit, the genial representative of T. Kingsford & Son's Oswego Starch paid his monthly visit to Toronto last week. He says that since their advertisement appeared in THE GROCER the sales of their starch in Canada have largely increased.

Wm. Ryan, of 72 Front Street E. has received a large consignment of rock salt. There is an increasing demand for salt in this form from the farmers, as they find it more economical for cattle. A 200 pound block of salt will last as long as four or five barrels of ordinary salt.

Mr. Richard Bickle, grocer, of Dundas, left there mysteriously the other night, his wife and family having preceded him early the same evening. Several of the citizens are out of pocket by Mr. Bickle's escape, and are now mourning his absence. It is supposed he went to Philadelphia.

Much interest is taken in the projected Cobourg, Warkworth and Norwood Railway by the business men of West Northumberland. The line, if put into operation, will form a powerful rival to the Grand Junction of G.T.R., who at present charge what rates they please and give very little satisfaction.

A novel idea has been sent us by one of our grocery readers. He advertises the brands and prices of his sugars, teas, ground coffees, spices, etc., by painting on a colored board or heavy paper box cover the signs he wishes to show in glue, on which before it dries, he sprinkles the article which he advertises.—American Storekeeper.

February Outing contains as usual interesting articles on all kinds of sport. Among the contents of this month's are :—"Winter Shooting in South Carolina," "Across Wyoming on Horseback," "Sleighing," "Blades of Steel," "On a Canadian Farm in Midwinter," "A Russian Wolf Hunt," and a weird, pathetic tale of mountain life entitled, "Herne, the Hunter." This is a specially interesting number.

Nasmith & Hughes, general merchants, of Lotus and Newtonville, have dissolved partnership. One takes the Lotus and the other the Newtonville business. Mr. Hughes is one of the heroes of Batoche, having served with the Midland Batt. as Major. He is a brother of J. L. Hughes, P.S.I., of this city, and of Samuel Hughes, of the Lindsay Warder.

Business in the country has been very quiet the past month. Farmers have been holding back their produce for higher prices and good sleighing. The result is that the grocers and general merchants have been unable to collect money due them, and payments have been very slow in all lines of business. But now that good sleighing is reported in all parts of the country we may look for a good trade.

"It is difficult to get some grocers to join associations," said a New York wholesaler, the other day, "but when they get in they stick. They are so much in favor of them, that they remind me of a bull calf up country that they were trying to wean. He was so obstinate that they pulled his ear off trying to make him put his nose in the trough of milk ; but when they once got his nose in they pulled his tail off trying to get him away."

MILLBROOK, Jan, 28, 1889.

CHURCHILL & CO :

Gentlemen,—I am pretty well experienced in baking, and have tried a great many kinds of baking powder, but none have given so much satisfaction as Breadmaker's Baking Powder. I cannot say too much in favor of it. I enclose the paper with five (5) cents on it out of the wrapper, hoping to receive the cook book. I am, yours truly,

The Toronto Retail Grocers' Association will entertain their friends at an "At Home" to be held in Victoria Hall, on Monday evening, February 11. The committee have not completed their work as yet, but first-class local talent are being engaged. Refreshments will be served in ante-rooms during the evening. Payne's orchestra has also been engaged. Tickets, double, $1.25 ; single, $1 ; each extra lady, 50 cents. Programmes, giving full particulars, will be out in a few days.

The Grocers' Mutual and Protective Association, of Detroit, are discussing the advisability of establishing a grocers' exchange for the purpose of having a permanent exhibition of grocers' goods. The plan is to rent a hall around which will be erected a tier of cases reaching to the ceiling. These will be rented to manufacturers for grocers' goods. In the centre of the room it is proposed to have a long table devoted to the various trade journals and price lists. The exchange, if started, will be open day and night for the benefit of city and country retail grocers.

TORONTO.

February 1, 1889.

GROCERIES.

Trade has been quiet with a little better inquiry during the present week. Payments are not so good, but this is attributed to the fact that large payments have to be made next week, and dealers are holding their funds to meet these. The money market is steady and unchanged.

CANNED GOODS.

This market is absolutely without feature. A little better inquiry has been heard for some lines, but the movement is very limited. Prices are nominally unchanged. Some sales of 1887 corn have been made at $1.

COFFEES.

The market on all grades of green coffees remains firm and unchanged. A new lot of Porto Ricos has arrived, and is quoted at 21c. to 23c., according to quality. Rios are becoming rather scarce, and prices are firmer. The latest Rio cables report a steady market. The total receipts of coffee at Rio on the crop, up to the 16th of January, have been 2,702,000 bags; last year same time, 1,087,000 bags; same time in 1887, 2,316,000 bags. One of the strongest points in the present coffee market is the last batch of crop estimates for the crop that is to come. These estimates put the crop of next year, or rather beginning to be received July 1, at about 2,500,000 bags. This is scarcely more than half a crop. The estimates are equally low for Santos, the total being put at 1,500,000 bags. On the spot Rios are held at 19c. to 20c. for good fair stock.

SUGARS.

Sugars continued dull and the feeling easy. Yellows are selling usually at 5⅝c. to 6¼c., but there are a few low grades to be had at 5⅜c. The latter, however, are getting scarce. Whites declined an ⅛c. on Saturday, and have been selling this week on a basis of 7⅜c. to 7¾c. for granulated. Raws are dull and nominally unchanged. Outside markets are easier. New York reports say that the refiners are stocked up with raws, while London mail advices are to the effect that cane is weak owing to the heavy offerings of beet. At the same time the statistical situation is favourable to a stronger market.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

There has been a pretty fair demand for syrups and molasses during the past few days, but prices have been much about the same. Syrups are said to be steadier, as there is only one refinery on the market at present.

DRIED FRUITS.

Steady and without much change in prices; demand light.

Currants are inactive, but there is a steady feeling in the market this week. Barrels are moving at 5¼c. to 5⅜c. for ordinary provincials and Filiatras.

Dates are offering at 5¾c. to 6½c. for new and 4c. to 5½c. for old; demand is light. Figs are quiet, with 14 oz. boxes flat, at 8½c. to 9c., and large boxes at 10c. to 15c. as to quality.

Prunes are unchanged. There has been a pretty good demand for cases at 7½c. to 10c.; in fact the movement in these this season has been much larger than usual. Hogsheads are dull; very little demand is looked for before March.

Raisins are steadily held, especially all good quality. Choice Valencias are from 6c. to 6½c., but inferior can be bought at 5c. Sultanas are unchanged. Malagas are quiet at former prices.

GREEN FRUIT.

The green fruit trade still remains quiet, very little demand for any varieties. Prices remain unchanged. Valencia oranges are in fair demand at $5.50 to $6 per case. The feeling among dealers is that they will go lower. Floridas are arriving freely, but in very bad condition, so much so that in a great many cases they have to be repacked. They are moving in a fairly active manner at $3.50 to $3.75 per box. Jamaicas are still offered, though very few at $6 per bbl. Advices from New York say that oranges meet with very slow sale. Messina lemons, though not very active, cannot be considered slow. They are quoted at $3 to $3.50 per box, and $4 for fancy. A report from New York yesterday states that Messinas are lower, and little doing. There is now a large stock in this city. What Malaga grapes are on the market sell at $6.50 to $7 per bbl.

PEELS.

The market as usual and unchanged at 16c. for lemon, 18c. for orange and 25c. for citron.

NUTS.

Dull and unchanged. The trade done in nuts by wholesale grocers this season on this market has been higher than usual. Almonds are tending upwards on reports of a short crop. New York advices are stiffer, but there is no change here. Tarragonas are quoted ordinarily at 14½c. to 15c.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—Receipts have been rather on the increase, and to meet them there has been heard an active local demand for the higher grades, but no movement in shipments. These however, could have found a sale had not buyers and sellers been apart; but until they can come together medium and lower grades seem likely to remain slow of sale. Choice dairy, that is to say selections, have been firm at 18c. to 19c. with a few tubs going to 20c.; and when all of these available have been exhausted a few small sales of good medium have been effected at about 17c. Generally, however, buyers in default of choice dairy have run on choice rolls, which has sold readily at 16c. to 17c., the great bulk at the inside price, with inferior pushed off at from 14c. to 15c. Common tubs have sold very slowly at from 13c. to 14c. Street receipts small and pound rolls ranging from 20c. for common, to 22c. to 24c. for choice.

CHEESE—Choice has continued to sell quietly and steadily at 10½c. to 11c. for small lots; and some summer make has changed hands at 8½c. to 9c., but this is only in small lots.

DRESSED HOGS AND PROVISIONS.

DRESSED HOGS—Are not offering so freely. Dealers are holding off in the West as the weather is more favourable. Packers say that they will not buy, as they believe prices will be lower. Dealers in Western Ontario who were strong bears a short time ago, now write that they are inclined to be bullish, and are buying and holding for higher prices. At the moment, cars of good average hogs are offering at $6.30 to $6.40 to arrive on the track here, with buyers at $6.25. Local receipts of consigned hogs have been larger. Packers are paying $6.25 to $6.50 for ordinary, but for a few of the choicest local butchers pay $7.

PROVISIONS—Are easy.

BACON—There is a better demand for bacon, and sales of ton lots have been made at 9c. Case lots are quoted at 9¼c. Nothing doing in Cumberland. Packers are holding what they have for smoking purposes.

MESS PORK—Is dull, with sales of small lots at $17.

LARD—Is steady. Canadian is selling at 10¾c. for large pails, and at 11c. for small.

SMOKED MEATS—For smoked meats there is a small local demand. Hams and break-

The Cincinnati Price Current says: Last week's large run of hogs has been followed by a material reduction, the break in prices having done something at checking the movement. For the week the Western packing has been 225,000 hogs, against 335,000 the preceding week, and 240,000 last year. The total from Nov. 1 is 3,940,000, against 4,630,000 a year ago—decrease, 690,000. The unsettled condition of the provision markets has made values of hogs somewhat irregular, and the close is generally lower than a week ago, the most decided difference being in the centres farthest west. It should be borne in mind that the large movement of hogs the preceding week was a result of previous holding back and accumulation, and the stimulating effect of temporary improvement in prices brought them forward. The quality of hogs being marketed is holding up well. Perhaps a more favorable season for fattening stock during winter months has not occurred in the history of packing operations—certainly not for a long period. This has led to the heavy weights, contrasting with the unusally low averages of last year. But with all this there is no present indication that more pounds of product will be made than during last winter, which means, with the influence of low prices now and a probable lighter showing of aggregate stocks of meats on March 1, compared with last year, that the position has decidedly favourable aspects. The strained condition of lard values earlier in the winter, with the condition of hogs favoring enlarged production and the premium in price adding encouragement, has been followed by severe changes, leading to an important depression in prices of this article, which course of events has had its influence upon other products. The past week has witnessed lower values for product than during any previous time this season, the May option at Chicago closing 75c. on pork, 15c. per 100 pounds on lard, and 40c. on short rib sides lower than a week ago—pork being 10c. above the lowest point and lard 15c.; sides closing at the lowest point.

FISH.

There is quite a brisk trade being done in fish, the cold weather of the past few days having put life into it. There is a plentiful supply of every variety, with the exception of smelts. Sea herring from Halifax and St. John have been arriving in quantity lately and prices have declined, though a fair trade is being done in them at 90c. to $1 per 100 for St. John, and $1.50 per 100 for Halifax. A few speckled sea trout are moving at 14c. per lb. Steak cod are meeting with a fair sale at 7½c. per lb. The demand for Finnan Haddie has increased considerably, and good sales are being made at 7c. to 7½c. per lb. Salmon trout and whitefish have a fair demand. Round trout is quoted at 5½c. to 6c. per lb., dressed at 6½c. In British Columbia salmon a brisk trade is being done. Sockeyes are quoted at 12½c. per lb., and large salmon at 14c. to 15c. There are a number of enquiries for smelts, but at present none are in the market. Oysters have been more active the past week, but the prices remain unchanged at $1.15 to $1.60.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

APPLES—Trade in apples is still very slow, the only varieties in demand being Greenings and Spies, and even for these the enquiry is of a limited nature. The price remains the same, being held at $1.75 to $2 per bbl. for packed, in spite of the large stocks on hand. The local market is completely overloaded with loose apples brought in by the farmers. A great bulk of these apples are not reliable, and this, with the poor request, makes prices very low. They may be quoted from 75c. to $1.50 per bbl., but numerous sales have been made at as low as 50c. per bbl. when the holder has been compelled to get rid of his stock.

McKittrick, Hamilton & Co., Liverpool, in their weekly report on the market for apples for the week ending January 19, say: During the past week our market has been only sparsely supplied with fresh stock, and holders of Canadians have taken advantage of the opportunity to clear out the balance of the cargoes ex "Vancouver," "Sarmatian," and "Sarnia." Prices for these showed little improvement, dealers wanting fresh fruit. The "Oregon" brought some good Maine apples and we sold our consignments by her at: Baldwins, 12s. 6d. to 12s. 9d.; sundries, 9s. to 10s., a very sensible rise in values. She brought only a small lot of Canadian, but they were very choice, and our quotations are for these: The stored fruit sold slowly at 6s. to 9s. 6d.; New England varieties sold rather better, and made 7s. 6d. to 8s. 9d. up to 9s. 9d. for one lot. The arrivals from New York were principally Canadians. A moderate quantity of fresh Baldwins, Russets and Kings would now do well, but frosted or wastey fruit will be unsalable.

BEANS.—Dull and unchanged at $1.50 to $1.70 per bush. on the spot.

DRIED APPLES.—Demand is very dull. Small lots are coming forward on consignment, and find a slow sale at 3½c. Dealers are re-selling at 4c. Evaporated show no change; cars can be bought to arrive on the track at 6c. per lb. Dealers are asking 7c. to 7½c. per lb. for smaller lots.

EGGS.—In light demand. Fresh are selling at 17c. to 18c. Limed slow at 16c. to 17c. for real good; but dirty, 14c. to 15c., and probably less. Strictly new laid are selling at 19c. to 20c. Receipts have been large and considerably in excess of the demand.

HAY AND STRAW.—Receipts increasing; demand slow. Stocks here are fairly large. Dealers are paying $14.50 to $15 for choice timothy in small bales on the track, and are selling at $15 to $15.50. Large bales are being bought at $14 to $14.50. Mixed is moving in round lots at $12 to $13, and jobbing on the track at $13 to $14. Straw is moving at $8 to $8.50 for wheat, and $8.50 to $9 for oats. Market is a little easier on larger receipts.

HOPS.—Quiet and unchanged.

ONIONS.—Demand is slow. Offerings are too large. Sales are being made of good natives at $1.50 to $1.60 in single barrels.

POTATOES.—Sales have been made on the track at 30c. to 33c. Small lots are selling out of store at 40c. to 50c.

POULTRY AND GAME.—Receipts are light and demand fair. Any choice day-plucked birds find a ready market at full prices. Turkeys are selling at 10c. to 11c. per lb. Geese are scarce and firm at 7c. to 8c. per lb. There is a good demand for chickens, and they are selling freely at 30c. to 60c. a pair. Ducks are very scarce, and prices are nominal at 60c. to 90c. a pair. Rabbits are quoted at 10c. to 20c. a pair, but there are not many sales at the top price. Pigeons in fair supply, and selling about 25c. a pair.

SEEDS.—Receipts have been very light. A few lots of alsike have been offered and have been taken at $7.50 to $9.50 for prime to extra choice and fancy lots. Red clover has been bought by dealers at $6 to $5.40, with an occasional little lot of fancy at $5.50. Dealers are jobbing at $5.25 to $5.50. Timothy, nominal. Dealers are selling at $2 to $2.25. Flax seed dull at $1.60 to $1.75.

FLOUR AND GRAIN

FLOUR.—Nominally unchanged. Millers are offering extras at $4.50 to 4.60, and straight rollers at $4.80 to $4.85.

BRAN.—Steady, but not any higher. Rather more offering than can be absorbed at the moment. Holders look forward to a better market during February and March. On the spot millers are asking $16 at the mill. On the track $15 to $15.50 is quoted. A lot was offered to-day outside at equal to $14 Toronto freights.

WHEAT.—A weaker feeling prevails on the market for Ontario wheat. Very little business is doing on the spot. On the Northern and Midland Railway points No. 2 white or spring is worth about $1.04, but on the G.T.R. west this grade is offering about $1.03. Manitoba wheats are quiet, and worth about $1.23 for No. 1 hard; No. 2 frosted is offering at 95c., with buyers at 94c.; No 1 frosted is wanted at 96c., while sellers are asking $1 for it at Carlton Junction. On 'Change day No. 3 fall sold at Craigville, a Northern Railway point, at $1.03, and in the elevator at $1.02; it was enquired for at 1.03½ on the spot. No. 2 spring is wanted here at $1.06½, with sellers at $1.08. A lot of 364 bushels No. 1 red sold at $1.08. No. 2 red is wanted at $1.08, and No. 1 Manitoba hard at $1.22.

BARLEY.—The barley market continues very flat. There is a good deal of stuff offered at lower prices, but buyers do not seem willing to take hold at any figure.

PEAS.—are lower and dull at the decline. Sales are being made at outside points at 56 to 57c.

OATS.—Not much doing. Mixed are moving at 33c. to 34c. on the track, and are offering to arrive at 34½c., with 33½ bid.

OATMEAL.—The market continues easy. Standard is selling at $3.90 to $4; granulated, at $4.25 to $4.50; roller, at $4.40 to $4.60; and rolled oats at $4.60 to $4.75.

SALT.

Liverpool has been quiet and unchanged, with small lots selling very slowly at 68c. to 70c. Canadian has sold by car at 60c. for coarse in sacks, and at 90c. for dairy in 200 pound sacks, with quarter-sack dairy and barreled selling quietly in small lots as before.

THE CANADA SUGAR REFINING CO'Y [LIMITED],

MONTREAL,

Offer for sale all grades of REFINED SUGARS and SYRUPS of the well-known brand of

Redpath

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday's yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

JOHN BAKER EDWARDS, P.L.D., D.C.L., F.C.S.,

Public Analyst for the District of Montreal, and Professor of Chemistry.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY, MEDICAL FACULTY, McGILL UNIVERSITY,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have taken and tested a sample of your "EXTRA GRANULATED" Sugar, and find that it yielded 99·88 per cent. of Pure Sugar. It is practically as pure and good a Sugar as can be manufactured.

Yours truly,

G. P. GIRDWOOD.

GROCERIES.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been more enquiry for some lines of canned goods, and the market has ruled more active with a larger volume of business. The feeling however, is weak owing to large stocks and free offerings, which causes some dealers to look for lower prices. Some large holders of tomatoes have closed out their stocks, but it is not stated what profit was realized. The stock of tomatoes is estimated at 15,000 to 20,000 cases, and of cans at 5,000 cases, which is very large for this season. Tomatoes have ruled weak and declined to 80c. to 85c. per dozen for round lots, while small lots still command 90c. to $1. Erie and Aylmer cans have also ruled weak and declined 10c. to 15c., to $1 to $1.10 per dozen. There has been decided weakness in lobsters, and prices have dropped to $5.25 to $5,60. The stock of mackerel is light but owing to the slow demand prices have fallen off $5 per case. Canned fruits and jellies have been quiet and steady with no change to note. A fair volume of business has been transacted in meats.

TEA AND COFFEE.

In tea there has been no important change as the market has ruled quiet and firm. A fair number of orders has been received from the country but only for small quantities, and country dealers are buying on the hand to mouth principle at present. Late advices received indicate that Japans this season will open at much higher prices than last year. There has been a fair demand for coffee, and a good jobbing trade has been transacted at steady prices. We quote Mocha, 28c. to 31c.; Java, 22c. to 27c.; plantation Ceylon, 21c. to 25c., and Rio 16c. to 21c.

SUGARS.

The sugar market has been without interest since our last, the demand having continued slow and business has ruled quiet and of a jobbing character at steady prices. Granulated has sold at 7⅜c., and yellows at 5⅜c. to 6c. as to quality. Paris lumps are unchanged at 8c.

SYRUP.

There has been no change in syrup. The demand has continued quiet, with business of a jobbing character. A few small lots changed hands at 3½c. to 4½c. per lb.

MOLASSES.

The demand for molasses has been fair, and the market has ruled very active with a good business. In Barbadoes a weaker feeling has prevailed, and sales of round lots have been effected at 40c. to 42½c. Trinidad has ruled steady at 32c. to 33c., and Antigua at 35c.

FRUIT.

The fruit demand has ruled quiet and firm. The demand has been slow for Valencia raisins of which the offerings are light, and those who have any stock are firm and holding at 5¼c. to 6c. Late advices from Europe have been strong, and quote and advance of 3c. to 4c. per hundred weight, with the market pretty bare of stock. There has been little enquiry for currants, and the market has ruled quiet with little business at 5c. to 6c. The New York market on currants has ruled strong and advanced ½c. per lb.

FISH.

There has been no improvement in the market for salt fish. The demand has continued slow for Labrador herrings at $5.50 to $5.65. Dry cod has been quiet at $4.75 per 100 lbs. Green cod has ruled steady at $4.75 to $4.85 for No. 1, and $5.25 for No. 2. The movement of salmon has been light at $13 to $14 for No. 1. Lake trout are slow at $5 to 5.50. The demand for Finnan haddies has been good at 6½c. to 7c. In fresh fish a large volume of business has been transacted and the bulk of the offerings have been taken at steady prices. Fresh haddocks and cod have sold freely at 3½c. to 4c., smelts at 5½c. to 6c., and fresh herrings at $1 per 100.

POULTRY AND GAME.

There has been a good, steady trade in poultry at former prices, all the offerings being taken. In game, partridges have improved, with demand good. Turkeys, 8c. to 9½c.; geese, at 5c. to 7c.; ducks, 8c. to 9½c.; chickens, 5c. to 7c.; partridges, 45c. to 50c. per brace.

MANUFACTURER OF THE CELEBRATED ROYAL YEAST CAKES.

Samuel Wilson, cigar manufacturer, of Bay street, is asking an extension, with every probability of getting it. Mr. Wilson has been in business a great many years, and is very popular. He ascribes his present trouble to a long illness, which has prevented him giving proper attention to his affairs. The business is perfectly solvent, the liabilities being only $10,000, while the book debts alone amount to $30,000. Slowness in collections, together with his sickness, has brought on the embarrassment.

SALES OF STOCK.

A Belleville correspondent writes; "The balance of the notorious Balkwill stock has been sold to Mr. Stuart Hovey, of Trenton, at 68½ cents on the dollar."

At Suckling & Cassidy's auction rooms, Tuesday, the stock of boots and shoes of S. M. Clapp, in the store, 364 Queen Street West, valued at $3,754.53, was sold to Blair & Hawthorne for 67½ cents on the dollar. A similar stock in the store at 440 Queen Street West, belonging to the same firm and valued at $3,570 was sold to Mr. G. Clapp for 67½ cents on the dollar.

GROCERS!

IT is well known that everywhere in France one can get a good cup of coffee, and it is also an established fact, that the reverse is the case in Canada. Many blame the coffee, but the true cause is simply this. "Not one cook in a dozen knows how to make coffee properly." The above cut represents a new invention which is very simple in construction, and any child can make a good cup of coffee with it. You simply fill the tin can with boiling water, then set the pot on top, put the requisite amount of coffee in the bag inside the pot, then pour a sufficient amount of boiling water into the pot and let it stand on the stove for 3 or 4 minutes, when you will have a first class cup of coffee.

This coffee pot is the simplest, cheapest, and best article of the kind ever invented, and the low price makes it within the reach of all. They are packed 1 doz. in a barrel. Price $6 per doz. Send $6 for 1 doz. as a sample, and you will find it all that we recommend it to be.

SPECIAL TO OUR READERS.

As the design of THE CANADIAN GROCER is to benefit mutually all interested in the business, we would request all parties ordering goods or making purchases of any description from houses advertising with us to mention in their letter that such advertisement was noticed in THE CANADIAN GROCER.

A DUTY ON FRUIT AND VEGETABLES.

The fruit growers of the Niagara district held a meeting this week, to make arrangements for petitioning and sending a deputation to the Dominion Government requesting the re-imposition of the duties on fruits and vegetables imported from the States. It was decided to ask the Government to re-impose the former duties on fruits and trees, and to increase the duties on vegetables to 30 per cent. Fruits which came from tropical climates, and which are not grown here, are excepted. No doubt such a change would be very satisfactory to the fruit growers, but it is a matter of very great importance to the retail trade and to consumers. Last season most of the fruits and vegetables came in free. A very good trade was done in them, and retailers made better profits on them than they did on the fruit of the Canadian growers later in the season. Arrangements were being made for a much larger trade during the coming season, which the proposed change in the tariff would entirely cut off. Looking at the question from an independent standpoint, we cannot come to any other conclusion than that the growers are pursuing a kind of dog-in-the-manger policy. They say, You must not have American fruit; if you want any you must wait until ours is ripe. It is not ripe for weeks after the imported can be put on the market, hence the latter cannot be said to compete seriously with native fruit. Some American fruits and vegetables can be placed on this market fully three months before the earliest Canadian. These compete in no way with the Canadian. We therefore fail to see where the justice of imposing a duty on these lies. On the other hand, the fruit trade claim, the importation should be encouraged. It is likely that united action will be taken by the trade in opposition to the fruit growers.

BAD BUTTER.

Mr. Wm. Ryan wants THE GROCER to give the country merchants another hint on the necessity of urging the farmers to improve the quality of the butter. He says, and he is corroborated by the rest of the trade, that he never saw so much inferior roll butter coming in as there has been lately. He says some of it is perfect trash. It has neither flavor, grain or taste, and resembles a piece of white putty, and is unfit for human food. It is unsaleable excepting at a low price. Were it of good quality it would all be snapped up readily at 18c. to 20c. per pound, whereas it now goes begging at 10c. to 12c. All this is owing to the poor feeding. Mr. Ryan thinks that if farmers would give their cattle hay and chopped food it would materially improve the butter. While we support Mr. Ryan in his idea of urging farmers to be more careful in feeding cattle, yet we know that in many sections of the country they have not the feed to give them.

THE COMBINES.

MR. WALLACE AGAIN ON DECK.

Mr. Clarke Wallace has given notice of his intention to re-introduce his bill for the prevention and suppression of trade combines. It is in general terms the same measure as the one introduced last year, with certain slight alterations. The first clause declares it to be a misdemeanor to combine for the purpose of granting special trade facilities or denying special trade facilities, for enhancing market prices, for restraining traffic, limiting, lessening or preventing production, and hindering competition, the proposed punishment varying from $200 to $1,000, or imprisonment for from three to twelve months, or both. The second stipulates that any incorporated company transgressing the Act forfeits their corporate rights, and the last clause stipulates that the Act does not interfere with chapter 131 of the revised statutes respecting trades unions.

TORONTO BOARD OF TRADE.

The following are the newly elected officers of the Toronto Board of Trade:—

President, - - - - - - W. D. Matthews.
First Vice-President, - - John I. Davidson.
Second Vice-President, - H. N. Baird.
Treasurer, - - - - - - G. M. Rose.
Secretary, - - - - - - E. A. Wills.

Council.—Messrs. A. A. Allan, D. W. Alexander, Hugh Blain, W. R. Brock, W. Christie, R. W. Elliot, E. Gurney, W. B. Hamilton, Wm. Ince, R. Jaffray, A. B. Lee, S. F. McKinnon, Hon. John Macdonald, Elias Rogers, A. M. Smith.

The grocery trade, it will be observed, is pretty well represented on the new list. First is John I. Davidson, of Davidson & Hay, the First Vice-President. He is apparently very popular, for he was the only officer elected by acclamation, all the other positions being keenly contested. Mr. Hugh Blain, of Eby, Blain & Co., was nominated for the position of Second Vice-President, but much to the regret of his friends declined to run, preferring to remain on the Council to which he was elected by a large vote. Messrs. Wm. Ince, of Perkins, Ince & Co., and A. M. Smith, of Smith & Keighley, are also invaluable members of the Council. Mr. R. Jaffray made his fortune in the retail grocery trade, and is now a wealthy retired grocer. Both Messrs. Ince and Smith are past presidents of the Board, and Messrs. Davidson and Blain are on their way to that chair.

THE HUCKSTER QUESTION.

Toronto is not the only city in which the retail grocery trade is preyed upon by unscrupulous vendors of vegetables and fruits, who have no standard of quantity in a barrel, box, crate, basket or bag. The New York grocers have been fighting them for some time. They recently asked the Board of Aldermen of that city to pass an ordinance fixing a standard for the sale of the same.

The only practicable basis applicable to all the different articles seemed to be that of weight, and an ordinance was passed requiring a standard weight for each style of package of the various kinds of vegetables. This was not approved by Mayor Hewitt, who stated that he would sign the ordinance, provided it was made obligatory for retail grocers to also sell by weight to consumers.

This seems to be a reasonable provision, and we have no doubt it would prove advantageous alike to dealers and consumers to have such an ordinance passed. The farmers, however, and truck growers object to this.

CUSTOMS DECISIONS.

The following decisions were rendered by the Board of Customs during January:

Advertising stickers, as labels, 15 cents per lb. and 25 per cent.

Advertising cards, cut in shapes and illustrated, 6 cents per lb. and 25 per cent.

Nickel-plated zinc, in sheets, 25 per cent.

Onion sets for planting and not for table use.

Paper letters, gummed, plain or colored, in bulk; paper letters, gummed, put up in envelopes with printed description and for special advertising signs or labels, 15 cents per lb. and 25 per cent.

Pop corn, in cakes or balls, a cent and a quarter per lb. and 35 per cent.

Tinned iron kettle ears, 30 per cent.

The Chimes, an illustrated weekly for children, free.

Toy sewing machines, $3 each and 20 per cent.

THE ELECTRIC SUGAR REFINERY.

We have received a copy of a circular sent by the Electric Sugar Company to its shareholders. It is a very lengthy document. Secretary Robertson says in the circular:—

"That there is a process which produces the beautiful and unique sugar which we have received admits of no doubt. It has been the product which has deceived the experts to whom it has many times been submitted, and we in our turn, upon the unchallenged testimony that the sugar was a new and superior product made by a process not known to the refining trade, have been misled. But how this product is made we do not know, nor can we, under the present circumstances, expect to find out. That it is a valuable one we have reason to doubt, for why the fraud? But in this there are several matters which are quite inexplicable at the present time, and it is to unravel them that our whole attention is being given. The process has not been delivered into the factory, nor yet the machinery for operating it. The sugar which is there has not been made in the ordinary manner. It has the appearance, to those able to judge, of being soft sugar, a 'coffee A' sugar, which, by chemical action, has been raised to the highest character of refined sugar, and finer and whiter than any other sugar. The only conclusion which one can deduce is that the sugar has been prepared in some unknown manner outside the factory and and imported into it in such a condition that all that has to be done is to break it up and reduce it by the sieves to the different sizes of granulated and other forms which we have received. The watchman, Jerry, told us that when the hoops were taken off the barrel and the staves came away the sugar stood firm and hard, a solid mass which required to be broken by force into the lumps which were put through the crusher."

Mr. Robertson was asked whether any steps were being made to reconstruct the Company, and whether he considered there was any process that might prove valuable. Both of these questions he answered decidedly in the negative.

AMERICAN HAY.

The unusual sight of American hay was seen on this market this week. Since last fall Michigan and other western dealers have been trying to place some hay here but without success. This week, however, two cars arrived from Chicago. The quality was a fair No. 2 hay, being an upland prairie. It sold for $12 per ton on the track. It is not likely that any more will be sent on. The freight alone cost $8.

LOBSTERS.

Many lobsters are taken from the ocean in this vicinity, the business being pursued in these waters both by islanders and fishermen from neighboring ports. Traps used here differ somewhat in size and shape from those employed on the neighboring grounds. A light frame of pine, from three to four feet in length and from one to two feet in width and depth, is covered by laths or other light slats, placed about half an inch apart. A funnel-shaped mouth, of pointed slats or netted cord, is made at one end, large enough for the ingress of a lobster, and just within and immediately in front of the mouth the fisherman hangs his bait, the head of a cod or bluefish, or part of the body of some other fish of smaller value. The lobster examines the bait and explores the opening with an excess of caution that should, but does not, prevent his entering. But he soon feels entirely satisfied that all is right, when he turns and backs in. He appears to realize at once that he is caught, and endeavors to get out: but, strange as it may seem, although he examines the opening again and again, it never seems to enter his mind to turn and back out as he came in. Captivity seems to rob him of appetite, for it is seldom that he will touch the bait which led him in, and which is now within his reach. Confinement seems to rob him of any power of speech which he may possess, or perhaps, like some human being, he takes a malicious pleasure in seeing others share his misfortunes, for he will give no warning when another, lured by the bait, investigates the opening, and sometimes a dozen or more will be taken by the same trap. Not unfrequently, however, they will so far forget their anxiety to escape as to fight most lustily with their strong claws, which are sometimes wrenched from their bodies; but this does not cripple them permanently, for it is not long before another claw grows just as good as that lost, except that it is a little smaller.

A lobster is supposed to retain his shell until the latter part of his fifth summer, when another shell forms within, cracking and gradually crowding off the old covering. Until this change occurs a lobster is not considered suitable food, and any one can judge by the length of the fish whether he has moulted or not, the change never being made before the animal is nearly or quite ten inches in length. After this, the shell changes yearly. In accordance with this fact, a stringent law has been passed for the protection of the public, forbidding any fisherman to sell or expose for sale any lobster less than ten inches in length, exclusive of the claws. The law is generally obeyed to the letter by fishermen who sell their catches in the shell, but a great many lobsters below the lawful size are carried away by smacks in their salt-water wells, where they can be kept alive for a long time, and sold to canning establishments, whose goods are too much broken up in canning for measurements to be applied with much certainty. Lobsters generally pass the winter in deep water, coming in with the approach of warm weather; the larger, as a rule, appearing first. Early in the season the catch is mainly of large fish, which are so sharply pursued that toward the latter part of July, and later, their numbers are diminished to such an extent that there is great temptation to the fisherman to retain those which the law directs him to return to the ocean.

Many fishes hold lobsters' eggs in high esteem, but the mother lobster will defend them savagely with her powerful claws, and for better protection attaches them to her abdomen, as many as 12,000 having been counted upon a single fish. When hatched, however, thousands of defenceless lobsters are devoured by their enemies; and if man, also, is to be permitted to prey upon them before they are five years old, we can hardly hope that the supply will long remain as abundant as in the past.—Providence Journal.

VISIT TO A SALMON CANNERY.

The canning industry of Canada is of much greater extent and importance than is generally known; and, judging from the progress made during the past few years, it is only in its infancy. British Columbia is known throughout the world more for its canned salmon than for anything else. Among the leading brands are the "Horse Shoe" and "Beaver," which are packed by Messrs. J. H. Todd & Son, Victoria, and which are represented on this market by Messrs. Stanway & Bayley. The Vancouver World has been writing up the industry in that district. It says:—"Few of The World's readers have any conception of the magnitude to which the salmon canning industry has attained in this district, which is the headquarters for the trade in this Province. A few days ago a representative of this journal, in his rambles through the North Arm, paid a visit to the famed Richmond Cannery, on the the island of that name, located on the North Arm of the Fraser River. This cannery is owned and operated by Messrs. J. H. Todd & Son, Victoria.

"The buildings were erected in 1882. The size of the cannery proper is 220x50 feet with a closed-in wharf 25x200 feet. The main portion is two storeys high and has an upper room 30x200 feet, for making and storing cans, nets, etc.

"The machinery and appliances throughout are of the very best description, and everything complete and perfect to enable its enterprising proprietors to put up and pack 1,000 cases per day of the well and favourably known Horse Shoe brand. In connection with this well established cannery is a store, mess house, two China houses, two dwelling houses, charcoal and solder houses, and 24 cabins for their Indian fishermen and families. When the cannery is in full operation it gives employment to from 25 to 50 white men, 130 Chinese, and from 200 to 250 Indians, male and female. A most enjoyable comfort in connection with this cannery, and which in a great measure accounts for the uniform excellence of their fish, is an abundance of the finest quality of pure spring water, brought in by gravitation through 3,000 feet of iron piping from a spring creek in the hills on the mainland side of the cannery.

"The same firm this year built another large and extensive cannery establishment, to be known as 'The Beaver,' at Lulu Island Landing, in the main or South Arm of the Fraser, which, it is claimed, for capacity, convenience and general arrangements, is the model cannery of British Columbia. The main building is 76x150 feet, 36x150 of which is two storeys high, and gives an upper room of that size for cans, nets, etc. In the rear of the building is the bath-room 30x76 feet, and a room 30x36 feet for the boiler retorts, solder and tool rooms, etc., making the total depth 210 feet. On the front and south end is an L, to be used as a fish house, 60x60 feet, and a wharf 136x10 feet. The machinery will be first class and comprise large boiler, retorts, boiling and testing kettles, presses, square sheers, pumps, and a full supply of seamers, fire pots, coolers, trucks, etc., etc., to make it thorough and complete in all its appointments. In connection therewith are 2 large Chinese houses, mess and living house, 1 store, charcoal house, and 20 cabins for Indian fishermen and families. With plenty of salmon the daily output will be 1,200 cases per day, and will furnish employment for 3 or 4 hundred hands during the canning season. This cannery will also use the Horse Shoe brand together with the Beaver. Such enterprise as the Messrs. Todd are displaying deserves more than a passing mention and the greatest measure of success. The World has reason to know that their brands, wherever used and tested, will become very popular, for their general excellence is unquestioned."

DO YOU TAKE A TRADE PAPER?

Credit men are found in every well-regulated wholesale house. They are among the sharpest, most thoughtful and careful men that are employed at the jobbing houses. Their position is one of responsibility, requiring cautious and judicious management in deciding the class of merchants who shall have their goods, to be scattered throughout the West on time, and perhaps in territory where the law does very little but to protect its citizens under all circumstances. The opening of new accounts, or enlarging a credit which has been given to a creditor, brings out many interesting questions by these men to those who are seeking credit.

The above question was asked a certain merchant who wanted to make a change where he was buying. Shortly after we inquired why he put such a question.

He replied "that it was an important one, and that it should largely have its weight in giving credit to any merchant. When I know of a merchant who reads a trade paper, I know that man wants to keep posted, and will make a success of his business with less capital than the one who has plenty of money, and does not keep well read up with the suggestions of a good, live, trade paper. I have more confidence in that man, as I believe he will make a success of his business."

I have watched some of these "Don't-read-trade-journal merchants." What do you find them doing? They carry out their own ideas on a one-horse plan, because they do not read a trade paper and find out the successful ways in which others conduct their business, and win in the mercantile battles to wealth.

WASTE NO TIME.

After allowing yourself proper time for rest, don't live a single hour of your life without doing exactly what is to be done in that hour, and go straight through with it from beginning to end. Work, play, study, rest—whatever it is—take hold at once and finish it up squarely and clearly; then to the next thing, without letting any moments drop out between. It is wonderful to see how many hours these prompt people make out of a day; it is as if they pick up the moments that so many of us lose. And if you ever find yourself where you have so many things pressing upon you that you hardly know how to begin, let us tell you a secret—Take hold of the very first one that comes to hand, in real earnest, and you will soon find that all the rest will fall into file, and follow after like a company of well-drilled soldiers; and though work may be hard to meet when it charges in a squad, it is easily vanquished, if you can once bring it into line.—Bulletin of Commerce.

TORONTO GROCERS.

The Retail Grocers' Association of this city have lots of business on hand for their next meeting, and if the members should help the Executive in carrying out much needed reforms, they should turn out to a man at the next meeting, February 11th.

The unlicensed peddling now going on in the city should be handled vigorously. Civil service employees who forget their creditors should receive a gentle reminder from the Government, and no doubt will if D. W. Clarke's motion is put in force. The matter of collecting agencies should also receive strong support from the membership, and, just a hint here. Why not stir up the Council to repeal the cigar and tobacco license as relating to grocery stores? Here is something which requires attention. Five dollars per year taken out of the pocket of the grocer for the privilege of handling cigars. It is unjust, and the arguments which brought the by-law into existence ought never to have been applied to the legitimate grocery business.

MARRIAGE OF WILLIAM INCE, JUN.

Some time ago THE GROCER hinted that a well-known Front Street grocer would shortly be married. The happy event took place on Tuesday of this week at Trinity College Chapel, when Mr. Wm. Ince, Jr., of the firm of Perkins, Ince & Co., was married to Miss Clara Jones. Miss Jones is the daughter of the late Mr. Frank Jones, of Gananoque, a well-known manufacturer, and she is a niece of Rev. Prof. Jones, of Trinity College. The wedding party proceeded from the house of Rev. Prof. Jones to the chapel, where the ceremony was performed by that gentleman, assisted by the provost of the College. There were no bridesmaids nor groomsmen. The bride was given away by her uncle, Mr. Clarkson Jones. She looked charming in a dress of white tulle and moire, with orange blossoms. She wore no ornaments. After the ceremony the party proceeded to the residence of Rev. Prof. Jones, "Deanside," where they were entertained at an afternoon tea by the aunt of the bride, Mrs. Strachan. Among the wedding gifts, which were very numerous, were many noticeable for their beauty and costliness. The guests were almost entirely confined to the relatives of the two families. Mr. and Mrs. Ince left in the evening on their wedding tour. Mr. Ince is one of the most popular members of the trade among both the wholesalers and retailers, and he received numerous congratulations and wishes of a long, happy and prosperous life.

PHENIX LESSIVE WASHING SOLUTIVE.

Notwithstanding the prevailing dulness of business, the Phenix Lessive is meeting with general favor, shipments to country customers and city trade being greatly in excess of anticipation. It is an article of superior merit, and will soon find a prominent place in every respectable grocer's stock.

In the International Series Counter Check Books, manufactured by Morton & Co., 3 and 5 Adelaide Street East, Toronto, merchants are guaranteed in their use by letters patent. Samples are furnished free of the best check book yet introduced. Thousands now in use.

THE COMPROMISE QUESTION.

Editor CANADIAN GROCER :

SIR,—I have read with interest the letter in last week's GROCER in reference to Compromises, signed "Hamilton." It carries with it the opinion of many other wholesalers, that something should be done in the matter, and no doubt they foresee the difficulty that we are fast drifting into. While I cannot agree with his opinion, I am glad to get it, and I want to hear from as many more as possible on the same subject. As some of the wholesalers very truthfully say, they can do nothing until the retailers organize and make the demands on them. Then they will be in a position to take some steps to remedy the evil. Your correspondent is of the opinion that my scheme is impracticable unless all the wholesalers would agree to such. Well, sir, that is the point, and perfectly true ; but is his scheme not more impracticable? As the number of retailers is much greater, there would be more difficulty in getting a unit with them. Your correspondent seems to think that I do not understand that when a compromise is made that the stock is not reduced, etc. I quite understand that. For example: A. starts in business with $2,000 ; he has his mind made up that he is going to make money some way. He lays his plans. In a few years he meets his creditors, and shows the following statement: assets, $5000 ; liabilities, $11,000 ; deficit, $6,000, and the $2,000 he started with, $8,000 short. Will your correspondent tell me where this $8,000 has gone to? Your correspondent asks the question about signing any compromises. In my opinion that would make matters worse at the present time as it would throw more bankrupt stocks on the market ; but if the proper arrangements can be made, I say, of course, we will stand by them.

I am quite sure that the retailers are willing to accept any terms that will better our present state of trade. I do think that the Boards of Trade should take hold of this great question, and arrange as soon as possible to have as many of the retailers meet together as possible at some central point and discuss it. There is a great deal to be said on the matter, and it will take time to do it. As you have now asked the opinions of all I trust that every one will give their opinions freely, and on the most friendly terms. Trusting that something may be gained from this, I am,

Yours truly,

MERCHANT,
P. O. Drawer 85, Exeter.

COMPROMISES.

TORONTO, Feb. 6, 1889.

To Editor, CANADIAN GROCER :

SIR—The letter from your correspondent at Exeter, with regard to compromises, is on a subject of interest to all honest merchants.

While the cure he suggests for these evils does not seem to me to be practicable, there are surely other means which, if put in force, would tend to lessen the evils complained of and resulting from unfair settlements.

There is certainly too much readiness shown by wholesale merchants to settle with their debtors in any way which may in the meantime result to them (the creditors) with the least loss, and all consideration as to the effects of such a settlement on fellow-tradesmen is left entirely out of sight.

I may perhaps be purchasing goods from the same merchants who have been supplying my neighbour, who has failed, and these merchants come to the conclusion that it is to their interest to give him a settlement. Look, however, at the consequence to me of such an arrangement. If I am anxious to do my business honestly, the amount of goods I shall require to purchase in future will in all probability be much smaller, and not only so, but the prices, and thereby the profits of various articles, will be lessened to such an extent that I also am put in a fair way of going on to ruin, thus perhaps, through no fault of my own, adding another to their already long list of insolvent customers. Thus by every failure and composition the evil spreads ; the unprincipled destroying not only themselves but large numbers of their more honorable fellow-tradesmen, the inevitable result being that those merchants who merely look at their own interests in such settlements as mentioned are undermining the foundation of their own business.

That there is a largely increasing number of failures requires no proof, and that settlements are more easily obtained than formerly cannot be denied. The latter fact accounts for the former. Make settlements more difficult to be obtained and the number of failures would soon diminish. If wholesale merchants can regulate their prices, terms of credit, etc., they can also, if they desire, do something in this matter, and it is high time that they were taking steps to such a desirable end. The question needs to be agitated, for the wrongs perpetrated and glossed over are too glaring to pass unnoticed by the retail trade.

If my competitor is selling goods at prices which I know must result in failure, it need not cause me much annoyance if he is doing this with goods which he has paid for, and which are his own to do with as he sees fit. This course will work its own cure, but if he has been running his business with slaughter prices, furnished with a line of credit to the extent of $5,000 or $6,000 by the honourable merchants with whom I also am doing business, only, after all, to fail and get an easy settlement, then I feel that the man who puts his pistol to my head and politely asks for my loose change should be held in much higher estimation than any man or body of men who countenance such practices.

I am sure that were any house to protest against such easy settlements they would be amply repaid. Men who start business merely to defraud, and there are many such, would give that house a wide berth, and those who were honorably inclined would certainly not be slow in giving it as much of their trade as possible.

A KING ST. GROCER.

Bread has dropped from 7c. to 6c. per loaf at Ingersoll.

Mr. John Morrow, of Musson & Morrow, is seriously ill with typhoid fever.

The price of bread in Toronto has been reduced to 13c. retail and 12c. wholesale.

Canadian onions are not keeping well this year. Holders of stock have great difficulty in preventing them from growing.

Messrs. Eby, Blain & Co. are talking of illuminating their establishment with electric light on what is known as the primary battery system. They are now testing this system, and will have control of it for the whole of Canada if it is as great a success as it is said to be.

Canada packers set a wise and notable example, when, at their recent meeting, they adopted the sizes of cases in vogue here.—The Trade (Baltimore).

Deputations from the dry goods trade waited upon the Ministers of Finance and Customs last week and protested against any increase in duty on woollens.

A Rio cable says that the prospects of the coffee crop are becoming less favourable, owing to the drought. If it continues the damage to the crop will be serious.

It is stated that three persons were concerned in the theft of six hogs from Gunn & Grant's warehouse at Ailsa Craig recently. They are out of sight at present.

The general stock of C. B. Campbell, of Alvinston, invoiced at about $7,000, was sold by auction Thursday afternoon to Mr. W. D. McIntyre, of Alvinston, by auctioneers W. Y. Brunton & Sons, at 65c. on the dollar.

The "At Home" of the Retail Grocers' Association seems to be taking hold on the trade as a very popular idea. Although it does not take place for a couple of weeks there is already a great deal of of talk about it.

The Western Packers' Association meets in Chicago on Wednesday next at the Sherman House. Arrangements have been made for return tickets as far east as Toronto at a fare and a third. Canadians desirous of going should notify the editor of THE GROCER at once.

Mr. Secretary Thackray, of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association, is displaying most commendable energy in handling the affairs of that body. He has most exalted ideas of what the Association should attain. He is fortunate in having a good staff of men about him.

One of the inspectors of the estate of the Rising Sun Canning Co. says that they have made arrangements with the bank to carry the stock until it can be sold at satisfactory prices, instead of sacrificing it on the present market.

The Retail Grocers Association, of Pottsville, Pa., is being sued for libel by a syndicate of debtors who had banded themselves together, assisted by several attorneys, for the purpose of compelling the Association to cease sending out circular letters.

It was stated to-day that a Bowmanville man was about to enter the market to buy 2,000 cases of tomatoes to hold for higher prices, which a good many say are likely to occur between now and the new crop. It is stated that the leading packers talk of agreeing not to pack any the coming season in order to remove the glut.

Mr. J. Nichol, of Waterloo, was in town this week. He says his butter carriers, described by THE GROCER last year, have proved a great success.

J. W. Lang & Co. are putting a new brand of soap on the market. The bar soap they will call "Indian Queen," and the laundry "The Comet."

John Hawley claims to have the best receipt for pickling eggs. It cost him years of experience and many losses before he brought it to perfection. He is very careful of it. He says, however, that times are changing; the difficulty is not now in preserving the eggs, but in selling them. How many picklers there are who will say the same.

It was reported on the street here last week that M. S. Bradt, Welland, and Teskey & Sheppard, of the same place, did not intend to do any canning during the coming season. This is not true. Mr. Bradt writes THE GROCER: "I intend by all means to pack all the goods I possibly can this coming season," while Mr. Teskey says: "The rumour is not correct."

H. D. Johnson, formerly of Toronto, went to Thamesville some time ago and opened a general store on a large scale, purchasing most of his stock from Toronto wholesales. Lately his payments have been made in such an irregular manner that the creditors grew dissatisfied and took aggressive steps. Johnson went to London the other day and assigned to a wholesale dry goods firm that is interested in his estate, and then went away Nobody knows where he has gone, nor has anything been heard of him since. Johnson's liabilities amount to about $9,000, and he has left assets that are nominally equal, consisting of bank debts and stock. He probably wished to avoid the worry of liquidation. With the exception of one or two London firms all the creditors are in Toronto.

LOOK TO YOUR SHELVES.

Doubtless some retail merchants, when taking their annual inventory, which is usually done at this time of the year, will find that there has accumulated on their shelves and under their counters more unsalable stock than is pleasant to contemplate. To get rid of this surplus without too much loss is a problem they will have to solve as best they may, but if it leads to a resolution not to repeat the experience in 1889, the lesson will, perhaps, not be too costly. Of course, in the most carefully regulated store there will always be some accumulation of unsalable goods. This cannot be avoided ; the shrewdest trader's judgment is sometimes at fault, and goods which he thought would go off like "hot cakes" occasionally prove slow sellers. Then, again, purchases sometimes arrive too late for the season trade, and they must lay over for awhile, often to accumulate dust and otherwise deteriorate. A pretty safe rule to prevent overstocking with undesirable merchandise in a general store is to know what your customers want, how much they want, and when they want it. "Bargains," so called, may, and often do prove in reality quite the reverse. It is true that "goods well bought are half sold," but goods which may be a good purchase for one merchant might lose money for another, and what looks cheap in a wholesale house or in the drummer's samples may turn out dear when placed on the retail merchants' shelves. Trade, after all, is a good deal a matter of experience at the best, but he is a good trader who makes one unprofitable lesson a guide to his future operations, and does not repeat his mistakes.—[Grocer and Country Merchant.

TORONTO.

February 8, 1889.

The volume of trade remains much about the same though there are not wanting signs of increased activity in many branches. The month just closed has been more satisfactory than was anticipated in groceries, but in dry goods it was decidedly flat. Payments have been only moderately good, and we have a larger number of business troubles to chronicle than a week ago. Values have not changed much. A steadier tone is noticeable in the sugar market at the moment, but there is an easy undercurrent as demand is dull and refiners have liberal stocks. Hog products are easy in sympathy with the Chicago market, but hogs are steadier again. Prospects are cheerful. Money is unchanged at 4 to 5 per cent. on call, and at 6 to 7½ per cent. on commercial paper to the account.

GROCERIES.

CANNED GOODS.

The market continues dull and prices are unchanged. More inquiries for prices on fruits and vegetables have been noticed during the week, and retailers say they will soon have to make a few purchases of a sorting character. No round lots of any kind are pressing for sale at the moment. Tomatoes are selling slowly at 90c. to $1.10 as to brand; occasionally there are murmurings of speculative buying : a Bowmanville man is said to be looking for 2,000 cases to store until the market reaches a higher level. Those who are talking higher prices say that the leading packers are not going to put up any this coming season in order to clear off the surplus stocks ; no such arrangement however has been made. Corn is steady and unchanged. Peas are moving at $1 to $1.10. Salmon is sluggish ; a few cases are going out at $1.75. Lobsters are steadily held at $1.40 to $1.50 for ordinary brands.

COFFEE.

Green coffees continue firm and unchanged. Rios outside are a shade easier, but mild grades are all steady. On the spot a round lot of good fair Porto Rico sold on the street at 21c. The Rio News : The information that we have gathered as to the 1888-'89 coffee crop (Rio) confirms the estimate we published at the proper time. The crop will reach 5,000,000 bags, a quantity which probably will not all be received in the period of the agricultural year. As to the future crop of 1889-'90, we have the following information : The bloom had awakened hopes, but the weakness of the trees which did not permit an average formation of the beans, the fall of a great deal of the blossom and also the lack of proper cultivation in due season, have been powerful causes for a decrease. In view of all this we do not consider ourselves justified in estimating the coming crop at over 2,500,000 bags. The S. Paulo (Santos) crop of 1889-'90 is estimated at 1,500,000 bags.—Journal de Commercio, Jan. 4. Regarding the estimate of the S. Paulo crop given above, we are inclined to believe that it is very much too low. A great number of the plantations now employ immigrant labour and their coffee orchards are consequently kept clean and well cultivated. Besides this, new plantations are coming into bearing every year, whose out-turn is more than sufficient to meet the estimated decreased production of the old plantations. Still further, the freedmen are working better in San Paulo than in Rio.

NUTS

Are quiet and unchanged.

SUGARS.

Demand has been light. Granulated and all white sugars are unchanged, but yellows are offering easier at 5⅜c. to 6c. Some of the sugars at 5⅜c. are about cost. While a generally easy tone prevails owing to the poor demand and liberal offerings, foreign advices are stronger on beet with prices a shade higher. American advices, however, are dull and unchanged. No movement in raws is reported here.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Syrups are fairly active at 49c. to 65c. Medium are scarce. It is also very hard to get half barrels of darks.

In molasses there have been some sales of small lots of Demerara at 37c. in hogsheads, 38c. in barrels, and 40c. in halves. Porto Ricos have sold at 38c. in tierces and puncheons, and at 40c. to 42c. in barrels and halves.

DRIED FRUIT.

Currants—Are improving outside though locally the market is easy. Ordinary provincial fruit is moving in barrels at 5¼c. to 5½c., and in halves at 5½c. to 5¾c. Filiatra are ⅛c. higher, at 5⅜c. to 5½c. in barrels ; but a large lot could be bought at 5¼c.

Dates—Are dull. Finest Hallawee are held at 6c. to 6½c., and Sairs at 5½c. to 6c. for new. Old can be bought at 4c. to 5c.

Figs—Unchanged. Common are moving at 4½c. to 7½c. as to quality in boxes.

Prunes—Are moving more freely. Bosnia in hogsheads have been taken at 4⅜c. to 4¾c. French plums 60 to 65 have been more inquired for at 15c.

Raisins—Are quiet. Valencias are held at 6c. to 6¼c. for prime stock, and inferior can be bought down to 5c. Denia cables are strong on the little stock now remaining there. Medium Sultanas are moving at 7¾c. to 8c. Malagas are rather easier.

GREEN APPLES.

The apple market continues in much the same state as since last reports. There has been somewhat more activity shown in the export trade, but the local demand is still dull and lifeless. The great crop of apples this year has rendered it necessary for many growers to sacrifice their fruit at almost any figure. Farmers who bring loose apples into the city are disposing of them at very low prices, only 50c. per bbl. in some cases being paid. A great deal of this description of fruit is, however, untrustworthy, and for a good quality of apples from $1 to $2 is paid. Packed fruit for local demand is going off very slowly at $1.75 to $2 per bbl for small lots. In large quantities packed may be had at $1 per bbl, and re-packed at $1.50 to $1.70 per bbl, but it is said that some packed have been sold as low as 85c. per bbl. One dealer is reported to have cleared out his entire stock, about 1,000 bbls., at $1 per bbl. These are intended for shipment to the old country, and consisted principally of Russets, Northern Spies and Baldwins. Liverpool advices to January 24 say: Since our last reports sales of apples have consisted of about 10,000 barrels, principally fresh arrivals, but also including some 23,000 barrels of old arrivals. The fresh stock met with a good demand at from 13s. to 15s. for Canadian Baldwins; Kings, 18s.; Gold Russets, 13s. to 19s.; Spies, 9s. to 12s.; Greenings, 9s. to 11s. Should only moderate quantities continue to arrive these prices will be maintained.

GREEN FRUIT.

The cold weather, if anything, has had rather an adverse effect on the green fruit trade, which is in a somewhat quiet state at present. In both oranges and lemons stocks appear to be pretty well filled and prices have remained about steady. There appears to be a plentiful supply of Valencia oranges in the city and they are meeting with a fair sale. They are arriving in pretty good condition, but in some cases have to be repacked. No large cases are offered and small are quoted at $5.50 per case. There have been no very late arrivals of Florida oranges, which are slow of sale. Those on hand have to be repacked, having been received in poor condition. Stocks are getting low. They sell at $3.50 per box. Reports from New York state that oranges there are steady with only a moderate trade. Jamaicas are in light supply and firmer views are entertained. There are no Jamaicas here. Arrivals of Messina lemons have been so frequent lately that the stock now in the hands of city dealers is on the whole pretty large. The demand is not by any means active, but still a fair trade is doing. The condition of the fruit is first-class. They are quoted at $3 to $3.50 per 300. An advice from New York to-day says that the market there is firm and as the stock is pretty well cleared out prices are likely to go up. For Malaga grapes as high as $7 per keg can be realized for choice quality, but there is so little of that in the market that the above figure can hardly be considered as a selling quotation. Cocoanuts are very slow at $6 per 100.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

BEANS.—There is still but a light demand. Prices range from $1.40 to $1.65 for small lots. No sales of cars reported.

DRIED APPLES.—There is very little to be said of the market. Good stock is offering at 3½c. delivered here in lots. Local houses are selling to retailers at 4c. In evaporated there has been nothing doing beyond the sale of a few small lots at 7c. to 7½c. ; cars are nominal at 6c., delivered here.

EGGS.—The market continues very weak under heavy local receipts and liberal offerings at outside points. All the shipments that have arrived within the past few days have been frozen, and have been sold at lower prices. Fresh have gone 16c. to 17c., and candled held at 15c. Pickled are very slow, and were offered to-day at 12c. in small lots ; no reasonable offering is, in fact, refused for them. The American markets are very weak, and sellers there are trying to get an opening here. They are offering strictly new laid at 14c., laid down here, including the cases, in half-car lots. New York advices say : "The market continues quiet, consumptive demand without improvement, while little disposition is manifested to speculate. Still, with moderate receipts and more favourable weather, holders are inclined to talk a little more hopeful, and in some instances a fraction higher is asked, but to sell, 15¾ is all that can be depended upon, though exceptional marks in barrels might be difficult to find at that. Cases, however, are offered at that figure. Held and limed eggs continue dull, and show little, if any, change, prices being merely nominal."

HAY AND STRAW.—The market for hay continues easy. Receipts are not so large, but holders are anxious to work off old stock. Timothy is moving in small bales on the track at $15 to $15.50, and in large bales at $14 to $14.50. Mixed is dull, the stables here being full ; prices remain at $12 to $14. Straw steady, with wheat quoted at $8.50 to $9, and oat at $9 to $9.50.

HOPS—Dull, at 20c. to 25c. for new.

ONIONS—Are hard to sell. Buyers have the market in their favour. Best are quoted at $1.50 per bbl.

POTATOES.—There is not any improvement, the offerings being in excess of the demand. Cars can be bought to arrive on track at 30c. Small lots are selling to retailers out of store at 45c.

POULTRY AND GAME.—A good demand exists for choice bright stock, and full prices will be paid for any such. Receipts are light, and mostly of frozen and scalded stuff, which sell at lower prices. Turkeys of this class sold to-day at 8c. to 9c., while good, bright birds realized 10c., and in some instances 12c. Geese dull, but firm, and wanted at 9c. per pound. Chickens scarce, and in demand at 50c. to 75c. a pair.

DAIRY PRODUCE.

BUTTER.—The demand for good to choice grades is active, but these continue to grow scarcer and scarcer, while under increased receipts stocks of low grades have begun to accumulate. Dealers, however, are working them off as rapidly as possible at whatever price they will bring. There have been several lots of good rolls cleared out for shipment during the past day or two at 15c. to 16c. Good table butter is firm at 19c. to 20c. Dairy tubs are selling mostly at 17c. to 18c., with medium about 16c.

CHEESE.—Prices have been declining in Liverpool, and the feeling is easier. On the spot finest September is held at 11½c. to 12c. Demand is light.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

FLOUR—The demand is very dull, being of a very retail character. Quotations are purely nominal. Extras are offering at $4.50, though some holders quote $4.10 as a probable buying price.

BRAN—Quiet and steady. Cars are offering on the track at $14.50. For smaller lots out of store about $16 is asked.

WHEAT—Demand from millers has not been so good during the past few days ; most of them are buying enough at their own doors to keep them going. Holders are firmer on more favourable foreign reports. On the Northern and Midland No. 2 wheat is quoted at $1.02, and in the West at $1. Manitoba No. 1 hard is steady at $1.23. On the spot, No. 2 fall is wanted at $1.05, with sellers at $1.08 ; No. 2 spring wanted at $1.06, and No. 2 red at $1.07, with sellers at $1.10 or at $1.08 to arrive on track. No. 1 hard is enquired for at $1.22, and No. 1 frosted at 96c. with one car offered on the track at $1, and 98c. bid for it. On the street fall is being bought at $1.03, red and spring at $1.04 to $1.05, and goose at 83½c. to 84c.

BARLEY—The market has steadied up a little on lighter deliveries in the country and a better demand. No. 1 is firmly held on the spot, with buyers at 58c. No. 2 was reported to have changed hands on the spot at 50c. No. 3 extra sold outside Toronto freight to the Bridge at 45c. On the street sales have been made at 52c. to 59c.

PEAS—Quiet and steady, at slightly lower prices. Sales were made in the West at 56c.

OATS—Steady and unchanged, at 33c. to 34c. for ordinary mixed on the track. Street prices are 37c. to 38½c.

CORN—No. 3 mixed was offered at 47c. on the track and 46c. bid.

THE CANADA SUGAR REFINING CO'Y [LIMITED],

MONTREAL,

Offer for sale all grades of REFINED SUGARS and SYRUPS of the well-known brand of

Redpath

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

JOHN BAKER EDWARDS, P.L.D., D.C.L., F.C.S.,

Public Analyst for the District of Montreal, and Professor of Chemistry.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY, MEDICAL FACULTY, MCGILL UNIVERSITY,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have taken and tested a sample of your "EXTRA GRANULATED" Sugar, and find that it yielded 99·88 per cent. of Pure Sugar. It is practically as pure and good a Sugar as can be manufactured

Yours truly,

G. P. GIRDWOOD.

The Markets—Continued.

SALT.

Liverpool inactive and unchanged at about 70c. for small lots. Canadian has sold as before by car at 60c. for coarse in bags, and 90c. for dairy in 200 lb. sacks, with rather more doing in barrelled at 90c.

HIDES, SKINS, TALLOW AND WOOL.

HIDES—Continue dull and easy. Cured are held at 5⅜c., but sales have been made at 5¼c. Stocks here are pretty large. Green remain at 2¾c. to 4¾c., according to grade. An effort is being made to reduce prices ¼c,, but no action has been taken yet.

SKINS.—Sheep and lamb skins are dull. Dealers are buying at $1 to $1.50. Calf skins are flat; dealers are paying 5c. to 6c. for inspected.

WOOL.—A sale was made to-day of 22,000 pounds choice combing at 22c., for export to the States. Otherwise the market is steady and unchanged.

COAL OIL.

Demand continues good, but prices of Canadian, though unchanged, are tending downwards, owing to a lower market on crude. Ruling prices at the moment are: Canadian, 15c. per gal.; carbon safety, 17c.; water-white home, 20c.; water-white American, 25c.; photogene, 26c. to 27c.

DRESSED HOGS AND PROVISIONS.

There is not much to be said of this market. Dressed hogs are not offering so freely as they were some days ago and the demand has improved, hence values have stiffened a little. Latest sales have been on a basis of $6.35 per cwt. delivered here for average weights. There is a good demand for more at that price. Receipts of consigned hogs have been light; prices are steady at $6.45 for good packing hogs.

BACON—Is quiet and unchanged at 8¾c. to 9c. for long clear; a few lots of light Cumberland have sold at 8½c.

MESS PORK—Is dull at $17 in small lots.

LARD—Unchanged at 11c. to 11½c.

SMOKED MEATS—Unchanged, with hams and breakfast bacon at 11c. to 11½c., bellies at 10½c. to 11c.; rolls at 10c. to 10½c., and backs at 10½c. to 11c.

The Cincinnati Price-Current says: The week's packing in the West has been 255,000 hogs, against 225,000 a year ago; total from November 1 to date, 4,195,000, against 4,855,000 a year ago—decrease, 600,000 hogs. The increased packing in the West during the week, as compared with a year ago, has not been due so much to the enlarged marketing of hogs as to the reduced movement to Eastern markets, which is much smaller than a year ago. Prices of hogs have ruled a little lower, but rallied, and the closing rates do not vary much from a week ago. The markets for the product are apparently in a healthful condition; the export movement for the past week, although much below the exceptionally large outgo of the preceding, exceeded the corresponding week last year in both meats and lard. It is expected in well-informed circles that stocks in Chicago will show an increase of about 20,000 barrels of new pork, and perhaps 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 pounds of short rib sides during the month of January, while there will be a heavy decrease in lard, of possibly 25,000 tierces, stocks of all articles being far below a year ago. Prices in Chicago reached their lowest point on Friday, but there was only a moderate recuperation until yesterday, when there was a pretty sharp advance all along the line.

FISH.

A very fair trade is doing at present in fish, the colder weather seeming to have stimulated business to some extent. The general supply is quite large, and quotations show some slight changes. There are no smelts in the market at all, although there is an active enquiry for them, and no doubt they would realize pretty good figures were there any to be had. The Lower Province shippers seem to be sending all their stock to the States at present, as that appears to be the more remunerative market at present. Only a very few shipments have been received here as yet this season. For sea herring there is an active sale at 85c. to $1 per 100 for St. John, and $1.40 per 100 for Halifax. Some St. John herring are going as low as 80c. per 100, but these are not the best stock. Sea trout are not very plentiful, but for what is offered there is a very good sale at 15c. per pound. Salmon trout, whitefish and British Columbia salmon are all active at unchanged figures. There is a fair demand for bloaters at $1.25 per box of 100. Frozen codfish meet with a fair sale at 4½c. per pound. Oysters continue active at $1.15 per gallon for standard, and $1.60 per gallon select.

GROCERS!

IT is well known that everywhere in France one can get a good cup of coffee, and it is also an established fact, that the reverse is the case in Canada. Many blame the coffee, but the true cause is simply this, "Not one cook in a dozen knows how to make coffee properly," The above cut represents a new invention which is very simple in construction, and any child can make a good cup of coffee with it. You simply fill the tin can with boiling water, then set the pot on top, put the requisite amount of coffee in the bag inside the pot, then pour a sufficient amount of boiling water into the pot and let it stand on the stove for 3 or 4 minutes, when you will have a first class cup of coffee.

This coffee pot is the simplest, cheapest, and best article of the kind ever invented, and the low price makes it within the reach of all. They are packed 1 doz. in a barrel. Price $6 per doz. Send $6 for 1 doz. as a sample, and you will find it all that we recommend it to be.

SPECIAL TO OUR READERS.

As the design of THE CANADIAN GROCER is to benefit mutually all interested in the business, we would request all parties ordering goods or making purchases of any description from houses advertising with us to mention in their letter that such advertisement was noticed in THE CANADIAN GROCER.

THE COMPROMISE QUESTION.

Owing to the deep interest that is being taken by the trade in the question of compromises, we devote considerable space to this matter in this week's issue. It will be observed that the retail trade is unanimous in opposing compromises when it can be shown that the failure resulted from cutting in prices, or from any other reckless business method. The majority seem to favour no compromise on any consideration. No doubt some deserving merchants would suffer but it would be in the interest of the whole trade that there should be no compromises. We shall publish more letters next week.

TEA.

The market has not shown the same activity in the past week as in previous few weeks. The demand for all kinds has been light and few transactions. In the week ending Feb. 6, a good business was done in various kinds, principally in Japans, at from 14c. to 20c., and in low grade Congous.

A fair trade in Nagusaki Japans was also accomplished. The decline in prices for low grade blacks on London market had a depressing effect and has given a temporary check to advancing prices to other kinds of low teas. A feature of the past week has been a sale of 53,000 packages Pingsui Young Hysons in one hand on the New York market to arrive.

The statistical position continues the same viz., in Japans and greens six to seven million pounds short, and Oolongs about three and one half millions short; in face of this higher prices still may be confidently looked for.

PETITIONS FROM FRUIT GROWERS.

Petitions to Parliament are beginning to come in praying for the resumption of duties on fruits, vegetables and nursery stock. Mr. Rykert, on Tuesday, presented a petition from a large number of fruit growers and gardeners of the township of Niagara, in which they point out how their business has suffered by being brought into competition with the early and inferior fruits and vegetables, and the large quantity of nursery stock imported from the United States.

RULES FOR WHOLESALERS.

The President of the Wholesale Grocers' Association of New York, Mr. G. Waldo Smith, suggests the following rules to govern credit clerks in opening and closing accounts with customers:

Do not trust a man who is unwilling to make a statement over his own signature.

Do not trust a man starting anew in business who has not sufficient capital of his own to pay for his stock and fixtures.

Do not trust a man who habitually and continually sells his goods for less than the average cost of doing business.

Do not trust a man who drinks to excess.

Do not trust a man who is a constant better on horse races or is a gambler.

Do not trust a man who lives beyond his means.

A SENSIBLE SOLILOQUY.

The ideas conveyed in the following extract from the Stationer and Printer should be carried out by members of the grocery trade who desire to turn over a new leaf:

"Last year I let my competitors run my business too much. This year I am going to try and run my own business. Last year I paid my bills slowly. This year I am going to pay promptly and save all the discount I can. Last year I gave too much credit. This year I shall give credits more thought and care. Last year the great truth that you cannot get something for nothing, in this world, was more fully impressed upon my mind than ever before—that good goods cost money; that good help costs money; that a man gets just what he pays for and no more, and this year I shall act on this great fundamental business truth. Last year I prided myself on my big business. This year I shall try and add a little more profit to my glory account. I shall consider very carefully indeed whether a smaller business with a larger profit is not better than a large business and a small profit. And, moreover, finally, this year I shall continue in my business the good, old-fashioned notion that square dealing and honesty are first-class investments."

A CLUT OF ECGS.

If there is any truth in the theory held by some people that a hen lays only a certain number of eggs in a year, there is likelihood of a shortage in the egg crop next summer and fall. The poor creatures have been laying at a warm weather rate during the past month, the unusual mildness of the season having apparently deluded them into the belief that winter is over. The receipts from all points at this market have been enormous and there is no prospect of a falling off in the arrivals unless the temperature takes a sudden drop. For the month of January the average daily receipts have been about 70,000 dozen above those of January, 1888, and the price has fallen lower than for 25 years at this dare. The following table gives the price of fresh eggs laid on Jan. 30, 1889, and the same date in the previous eight years:

	Per Doz.
1888	25c.
1887	30c.
1886	23c.
1885	30c.
1884	35½c.
1883	30c.
1882	28c.
1881	50c.

N. Y. Merchant's Review.

MARKED PRICES.

The man who does not use the price label on articles exposed for sale may think he thereby gets people to come into the store to ask about prices, and that once inside the visitor is pretty sure, in the hands of a good salesman, to be induced to buy something.

The only trouble about this argument against posting prices is the fact that only a very small percentage of those who may be interested in an article they see will take the trouble to stop and enter, in the face of the possibility of finding the price one that makes its purchase undesirable. The common run of people do not wish to be thought of as growlers at prices asked, and the man who inquires what a thing is sold at and then walks out is not pleased at the possibility of clerks and bystanders thinking that he is impecunious, or at the possibility of imputing to him an expectation of getting the goods at a very low price. The display of goods with prices attached is much more often successful in attracting people into the store than the opposite plan of eschewing labels altogether. It will not only get more people into the store, but it will save trouble in answering questions. It will give patrons a knowledge of your ability to serve them that they never would get if your stock remained always unplacarded. If you want to sell your goods, and think that a general knowledge in the community of what you can do in the way of furnishing desirable articles at desirable prices would help sell them, why, placard your goods. Half the people in the world will take no trouble to get the very information they ought to have. If you have any information of this kind about your stock, you must force it upon the people. You can't depend upon them to search for it. You must make it impossible for them to be ignorant of prices you want them to know about. And the way to do this is to label everything so that they can't help but see and know.--St. Louis Grocer.

LOANS FOR CLERKS.

A novel system of money lending is being practised in many down-town business houses, and though done on "mutual benefit" plan, the interest levied would put the ordinary pawnbroker to the blush. The employees of a large establishment employing perhaps twenty-five or fifty clerks form a "mutual benefit association." For two months each employe pays to the treasurer one cent a day, and this forms the lending fund on which the whole system is founded,

In the larger houses where salaries are paid monthly, the clerks often find themselves in the middle of the month without the necessary funds to carry them through. Then they borrow from the treasurer, say $5, and until the loan is paid they are expected to hand to the treasurer one cent for every dollar borrowed, and at the same time to give to the treasurer an order on the cashier for the amount of money they have borrowed.

The clerk who borrows the money does not, of course, feel the payment of the small amount of interest which is collected daily, and even when he returns the loan at the end of the month he does not realize that he has paid interest at the rate of 365 per cent. Of course each month the amount of money in the hands of the treasurer increases, until at the end of the year he has much more than enough to cover the demands of the clerks for loans.

Then he sets aside a certain amount as a fund, and the balance he divides into equal parts to be paid to the clerks as dividends. This is done once a year. The result is obvious. The clerk who is saving and apportions his salary to his necessities has no need of becoming a borrower ; that is, in the year he only pays to the association his dues, amounting to $3.65, or one cent a day, and yet he draws as a dividend his share of the exorbitant interest that his impecunious fellow clerks have paid monthly.—Trade Reporter.

SLIPS AS TOOLS OF TRADE.

It is necessary that retailers should acquaint consumers with the merit of their goods and how to use them, if they would secure an increase of business. Nothing is better than neatly printed slips describing some one article and how it should be prepared. These can be placed in packages or delivered with the bill or pass book. They talk without provoking argument or making the slightest trouble. They provoke desire, create talk, and both are factors in securing trade. If the goods are first-class they recommend themselves and attract other business. Slips are admirable for introducing a new article or increasing the sale of articles not in general use. Macaroni is almost an unknown article of diet in thousands of towns and villages. Slips telling what it is, how 'tis made, from whence it comes, the different ways of cooking it ; facts about its dietetic value, would, if judiciously distributed, cause a demand that would grow year after year and create inquiry for other articles associated with macaroni in cooking.

Slips are silent, tireless, trusty toilers for trade that trap many a consumer into purchasing things he had little thought about, possibly never used.—American Grocer.

SELLING GOODS BELOW COST.

There are not many persons in trade, we imagine, who would deliberately attempt to justify the practice of selling leading articles under cost price ; and even among those who occasionally endeavor in this way to stimulate business, there must be an uneasy feeling that they are adopting an unjustifiable expedient. The practice, however, exists on both sides of the Atlantic, though whether it pays in the long run, either here or in the United States, is quite another matter, upon which we do not pronounce an opinion, our object being simply to call attention to some remarks on the subject by an American contemporary, who thinks that the law ought to have something to say about it. "In a national bankrupt law or inter-State commerce law let us have," he says, "a clause giving any licensed dealer the right to go into court and complain that another in the same business is selling any article below first cost ; and if the court is satisfied that such is the case, then the accused shall be required to show cause that he is solvent, and that in selling goods of any kind below cost he is only disposing of what is his own, and is not speculating with what is not paid for, at the risk of others." This may seem a little hard at first sight, but when we consider that the cutting of prices by one person compels all competitors to do likewise, it must be admitted that one has less right than the many whom he injures. . . . If such a law as we suggest existed, there would be no opportunity given to make a case, would be no selling below cost. If a dealer was called unjustly before a judge, there would a very little trouble in proving that he is not selling below cost, if he was right, and in such case the complainant would be in for costs. But if the accused was pushing a leader below first cost, it is due to the entire community in which he dwells, and to all business men who sell to him, to know whether his recklessness is with his own money or that of his creditors. If such a law were in existence the competition in trade would see to its application, even if the rule of self-protection did not make it advisable for the wholesalers to enforce it." This certainly has a very plausible sound, and but little ingenuity is required to make out a very strong argument for interference in all such cases. It would be easy enough to go a good deal further and make out a plausible case for State interference and inquiry in every instance of apparently reckless trading ; so that a man might be pulled up before he had wasted all his own substance and so much of his creditor's as happened to be in his hands. Notwithstanding which, we think things are better as they stand. Creditors must look after their own interests, and in this country we are hardly ready to allow the State to regulate selling prices.—London Warehousemen.

DON'T HIDE YOUR LIGHT.

There is no doubt but what a great many readers of trade journals are possessed of many good ideas that would prove of interest to the trade in general. Now the next question is how to get our store friends to give these ideas to the merchants at large. We would suggest them to write to the editor of a good, live paper, and state in as clear a manner as possible anything of interest, and we can confidently assure them that if there are any mistakes in the article they will be corrected and the article printed with pleasure. It is a well known fact that our merchant friends, who spend every day in the store, have much more of a chance to get new ideas and give them practical tests than the editor, whose duty it is to attend strictly to the paper he represents.

There is but little doubt but what if this plan were adopted more generally and more notice taken of small things, which are not thought to be worth mentioning, that it would benefit storekeepers in all sections greatly, and give many new ideas to work from. The fact is that the majority of readers of trade journals are timid about writing, thinking that their communications would receive no attention; but it can safely be said that if they send a communication to a responsible paper that it will not be overlooked if it has anything in it worth mentioning at all. The main object in these trade journals is to furnish their readers with just such matter, and if you have anything in the way of information that will benefit other readers, it should be your duty to let it at once be known, as it serves in a measure to elevate in every respect the merchant whose advice is thus given gratuitously.—Bulletin of Commerce.

TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

The regular monthly meeting of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association was held in Philharmonic Hall, Richmond Street, on Monday night. President Berwick occupied the chair. Among those present were Messrs. Barron, Thackray, Butcher, Lindsay, Gibson, Mills, Britton, Partridge, Clark, Booth, Mara, Atkinson, Crawford, Calhoun, Johnston, Parkhill, McCollouch, Lauder and Wilson.

THE PRIZE WAGON.

After the reading and approval of the minutes, the President asked for the report from the "Prize Wagon Committee."

Mr. Booth, the chairman, reported progress.

The Secretary—On wheels. [Laughter.]

COLLECTING AGENCY.

Mr. Mills, chairman of the committee appointed to canvass the Wards with a view to getting the grocers not members of the Association to join in the collection agency, reported nothing done. The members of this committee were also members of other committees, and other business being before them they had no time to work at this.

Mr. Gibson suggested that the canvassing be done at the same time the tickets for the annual "At Home" were distributed.

Mr. Britton suggested the holding of an open meeting in this hall, and that an invitation be extended to all the grocers in Toronto to attend it. This would be a good way to get the grocers together, and have the collecting agency matter thoroughly explained. There would be no use of the Grocers' Association starting collection on their own account, but if 200 of the outside grocers joined them it would be a success. He also suggested that the fee to the collecting agency include the fee to the Grocers' Association membership.

THE ANNUAL "AT HOME."

Mr. Britton, chairman of the "Dinner Committee," reported that they had secured Victoria Hall in which to hold the "At Home" on the 25th of this month. They had also contracted with a caterer and had secured musical attractions. The single tickets for gentlemen were placed at $1, the tickets for lady and gentleman at $1.25, and the single tickets for ladies at 50 cents.

MARKET REGULATIONS.

Mr. Mills, chairman of the committee appointed to look into the Market Regulations, read the report, as follows:—

"Your committee appointed to look into the market regulations and the peddling business, beg to report that they met on the 5th inst., there being present Messrs. Williamson, Gibson, Booth, Hargrave and Mills, and that after considering the question they decided to wait on the Inspector of Weights and Measures and the License Inspector. They now beg to report that having done so, they find that there are no regulations made by the Dominion Government regulating the weights or measures of articles sold in the markets other than the regular standard weights of grain, etc., by the bushel, the only exception being as to the size of the apple barrel. They also find that there is no standard laid down by the City Council other than the above. They also find that there is little or no attention paid even to the above, and that there have not been any instructions given to any officer as to quantities or qualities of goods sold. They also ascertained that the License Inspector has called the attention of various committees of the City Council to the unfairness of farmers paying no taxes or market fees, being allowed to peddle their goods from door to door, but cannot report that anything has been done in the matter, or that there is immediate prospect of action being taken in the matter."

Mr. Mills asked permission to further consider the questions.

Mr. Gibson said that Ald. McMillan and Ald. Carlyle, St. David's, both favored the placing of restrictions on these peddlers of farm produce.

Mr. Britton stated that it was out of the power of the City Council to restrict producers. The Legislature gave farmers the right to sell anywhere in the city provided they did not go within 600 yards of the market. The proper way to go about it would be to memorialize the Government to have the evil remedied.

Mr. Gibson said it was quite true that the Government had given the farmers that privilege, but the class of people they wanted to get at were not farmers, but men who called themselves producers and really were not. They bought from the farmers, and peddled their goods through the city.

Mr. Booth moved the adoption of the report, seconded by Mr. Clark.

Mr. Booth recommended the imposing of a license fee on all who peddle goods through the city. Let every one running a wagon be compelled to take out a license, and let the wagon have the license posted on it.

Mr. Gibson thought it best to compel the peddlers to wear a badge. Half a dozen of them might peddle with the same wagon.

Mr. Booth moved, seconded by Mr. Clark, That the report as handed in be adopted, and that the committee thereof continue to take whatever steps they deem necessary to bring about the object the Association had in view.—Carried.

CIRCULAR TO PRODUCE MEN.

Mr. Mills, Chairman of the Executive Committee, reported that nothing had been done as yet with reference to preparing a circular to the wholesale produce men, who were reported to be selling to consumers at the same figures as to the grocers.

THE "AT HOME."

The question of the "At Home" was again discussed. Mr. Mills and Mr. Britton explained that it would be very attractive. The programme would consist of musical and literary selections first, refreshments next, and the whole concluding with a programme of dances. An excellent orchestra had been engaged for the last part of the programme. There was sure to be a good attendance judging from the sale of tickets already. Members of the Association, brother grocers outside of the Association, employees of the wholesale houses and travellers for the houses were all going to be there with their ladies.

BOOKKEEPING.

Mr. Mills read a very interesting and instructive paper on "Bookkeeping in a Retail Store," that was listened to with great attention.

Moved by Mr. Mara, seconded by Mr. Britton, that a vote of thanks be tendered Mr. Mills for his very valuable paper on "Bookkeeping." It could not but prove of the greatest value to those doing a retail trade.

The meeting then adjourned.

We invite correspondence from readers in every section on subjects pertaining to the trade, and shall be pleased to answer questions of general interest in this department. We require with each letter the name and address of the sender, not necessarily for publication, unless agreeable to writers, but for our own protection.

THE COMPROMISE QUESTION.

STRATFORD, Feb. 7, 1889.

Editor CANADIAN GROCER:

DEAR SIR,—As requested I give you my views on compromises. I read with pleasure your sensible articles and the letters in your valuable paper on compromises. I think the Exeter letter hit the nail on the head pretty well. I have been looking at this compromise business with a good deal of interest

I believe the present system is rotten. Now take the case of a merchant who establishes a business in a town, and he commences at once and undersells all his neighbours, slaughtering the goods right and left, all the time pocketing the money. In the meantime his creditors are wondering why he is not paying—well you see he can't pay, for presently he is going to ask his creditors to accept a compromise at say 40c. on the dollar cash, slaughtered money saved up for the job. Now he says to the public, Hurrah, I can undersell all the merchants in town, I have got my goods at 40c. on the dollar. Now you see this is done every day ; and so long as the wholesaler settles by accepting such offers just so long is he injuring his customers who pay 100c. on the dollar. Now I think if those dishonest dealers knew that there would be no hope of any kind of a compromise, they would be more careful in what they were doing, and avoid such reckless selling. There will never be a healthy sound business till compromises are done away with. If a man knew he would be sold out if he got behind he would sit down and consider whether he could hold out from the start. I know a man that has a farm with a heavy debt on it, and he has built a beautiful house on it costing between $2,000 and $3,000 and then found he had no means of building a barn. Could you feel sorry for a man like that if he were sold out. If this slaughtering continues the wholesale men should appoint a couple of men to go and buy up the bankrupt stocks as far as possible and have a warehouse and resell the goods to their good paying customers. This would stop the slaughtering business, and would benefit both the wholesale and retail merchant. If such is done then the retail men should form an association and buy and divide the goods amongst themselves. If the compromise business is not stopped then it means ruin to both wholesale and retail trade. I would be in favour of extension of time as many as man might get over difficulties if he had time, but in no case would I grant a compromise.

I am yours truly,

H. Y. Barker.

St. Catharines, Feb. 9, 1889.

Editor Canadian Grocer :

Sir,—In referring to the question of compromises, if a storekeeper fails fairly and squarely he should have time. The law should be so that he could compromise. But he still owes the debt and should pay every cent. Nine-tenths of the failures in my opinion are bogus. The parties are not honest men and should be knocked out at once unless it could be shown that every dollar was honestly spent. Yours respectfully,

Mike McGuire.

Barrie, Feb. 8, 1889.

Editor Canadian Grocer :

Dear Sir,—I am in hearty accord with the views expressed in last issue of The Grocer by your correspondent "Hamilton," "re Compromises," which I look upon as a most crying evil ; an evil which I in common with every business man trying to do a legitimate trade, have been, and am suffering from continuously. How am I to pay 100 cents on the dollar for my goods, whilst my neighbour, perhaps through an act of dishonesty, obtains his for 40 cents. The fact is, I look upon compromises as a direct premium on dishonesty, and consider the time opportune for the retail trade to insist on its being wholly discontinued, a matter which should be very easily arranged, as it is even more in the interests of the wholesale trade than in that of the retail that it should be accomplished. True, a few honest well-meaning men may have to suffer, but they will be very few indeed, and it will be in the interests of the many if they should have to do so.

I for one am quite prepared to pledge myself not to purchase goods from any wholesale firm which will be a party to any of its customers effecting a compromise.

Yours respectfully,

Jno. M. Bothwell.

London, Feb. 6, 1889.

Dear Grocer,—In answer to your query in The Grocer, "re Compromises," I would say. A strict inquiry should be made into the habits and methods of any insolvent, and if proven to be loose or, which is equally bad, a notorious "cutter of prices," I say, shut them out of doing further harm, but an honest man ought to get a show. Yours truly,

W. H. Sanborn.

Hamilton, Ont., Feb. 6, 1889.

Editor Canadian Grocer :

Dear Sir,—In answer to Hamilton's question in your issue of the 1st inst., I would say the firm or firms that would decline to accept compromises, would be supported by a very large majority of retailers, and I think the majority are men who pay 100 cents on the dollar, but do not want to make up losses made by dishonest or compromising traders.

Yours truly,

Retail Grocer.

Kingston, Feb. 6, 1889.

Dear Sir,—Re Compromises, I wish to say that I am against such. It is one of the greatest evils we have to contend with. I have been commenting on it for some time, and was glad when your paper took up the matter. Yours, etc., J. Gilbert.

Berlin, Feb. 6, 1889.

Gents, In answer to Compromises, I would say that in my opinion the sooner some other method is found the better it will be. I know that if it had not been for this 20c. and 30c. on the dollar farce, we, as business men in the grocery trade in Berlin, would be in a healthier position than we are at present.

Yours, etc.,

A. S. Hallman.

Brantford, Feb. 6, 1889.

Dear Sir,—I think it no more than just that a grocer should be allowed a compromise if it can be proven that his failure is not due to any cause on his part, such as for instance, extravagant living, unnecessary expensive habits, or a too-fondness for out-door sports, which may come under head of neglect of business. But on the other hand if his living expenses are (for a common class of people) as high as is reputed of an ex-grocer, of whom I heard that he spent from five to eight thousand annually, then I think it fair and just to grocers at large that he should be closed out entirely without mercy.

Yours truly,

L. Doeringer.

Owen Sound, Feb. 6, 1889.

Dear Sir,—We are strongly in favor of wholesale houses refusing to sign any compromise whatever, unless in very clear cases where the retailer has lost through fire. It is altogether unfair to business men who are doing a legitimate business and paying 100 cents on the dollar, to have his neighbor lay in a big stock, pay his creditors 50 cents on the dollar, and throw his bankrupt stock on the market- Yours truly,

Grier & Brown.

Beachville, Feb. 6, 1889.

Dear Sir,—In regard to the question of Compromises, I am of the opinion that it would be better for the trade not to grant anyone a compromise. Yours, etc.,

S. D. Thorndike.

Port Credit, 8th Feb., 1889.

Dear Sir,—I am opposed to any combines by wholesale houses. I am also in favor if a retail merchant fails sell him out. No compromise of any kind. When a retail merchant knows he would be sold out, it would make him more conservative and not to slaughter his goods. Yours, etc.,

Jas. Hamilton.

Little Britain, Feb. 6, 1889.

Dear Sir,—I think no compromise the best. Sell stock to highest bidder as stated in your Hamilton letter. I also think any merchants in favor of compromise are weak men financially. T. H. Morton,

P. M. and Gen. Merchant.

Neustadt, Feb. 7, 1889.

Dear Sir,—If upon satisfactory evidence it appears that a man tried to pay all creditors honestly and failed in his endeavors, then a compromise should be signed, otherwise not. Wholesale houses might take back such goods as they saw fit to take, and dispose of the rest the best way they could. They should endeavor by all means to keep down the heavy expenses entailed by the present system of winding up insolvent affairs. We have put the whole matter in a nutshell, as no doubt you will have numerous correspondents enlarging on the subject.

Siegmann Bros.

NEWMARKET, ONT., Feb. 7, 1889.

Editor CANADIAN GROCER :

DEAR SIR,—I have read with much interest the article on Compromises in THE CANADIAN GROCER of the 1st inst. I find that compromises have a very bad effect on the merchant who pays cash for his goods. In many instances he is unable to compete with the man who pays 60, 65 or 75 cents on the dollar, as the man who compromises is able to sell his goods 25, or 40 cents on the dollar less than the wholesale prices, so that the merchant who pays cash for his goods, or in other words 100 cents on the dollar, has either to sell his goods at less than cost or let his business go across the street to the man who has compromised at say 65 cents on the dollar. I am not in favour of compromises of any kind, but should a merchant be unable to meet his payments, I would be in favour of an extension of time without interest. The wholesale houses are very much to blame themselves for a large amount of compromises and failures that have taken place, for they are so anxious to do business that they will sell their goods to Tom, Dick and Harry, a class of men who have no knowledge of business, but have any amount of cheek, and who makes it part of their business to get into the wholesale houses as deeply as they can and then compromise, they are then able to undersell the merchant who pays 100 cents on the dollar. Yours truly,

R. A. SMITH.

THAMESVILLE NOTES.

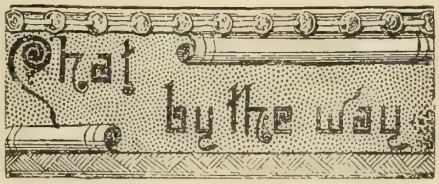
Mr. C. A. Mayhew, of Thamesville, has opened a dry goods and grocery store under very favourable auspices, having the advantage of a good location, large, well lighted premises. Being a young man of good business ability, known to all as honest and upright, with a stock entirely new in every department, success must follow if a determined policy is followed to avoid bad debts and clashing of prices with his fellow tradesmen.

Notwithstanding the many failures and the abominable nuisance of bankrupt stock in the village of Thamesville the past year Mr. D. McFarlane and Messrs. Mayhew & Harnor have held their own, and the drummers are still made happy by large orders to fill their wants. The merchants there have rented every available store in the village, and any one coming there with old stock to slaughter will have to take a vacant lot or the middle of the street, and eggs are only 12c. per doz., and all have a good stock. A word, etc., etc. TRAVELLER.

LONDON NOTES.

The roads around London, especially to the north, are all blocked with snow, and farmers cannot get in and trade is dull.

There is a good deal of anxiety among the grocers who have liquor licenses in London, as there has been a change in the commissioners, and they are afraid that a glass partition will not answer for a separate store for liquor. The axe is expected to drop on two or three dealers.



TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

Secretary's Address:—
474 PARLIAMENT STREET,
Toronto, Ontario.

Steel, Hayter & Co., report large sales of their Kangra and Darjeeling teas.

Davidson & Hay have received a shipment of fine selected Valencias, which they are offering at 7c. to 7½c.

Some Canadian creamery butter was sold readily in the British market about three weeks ago at 95s. to 112s.

A petition has been received by the Minister of Customs from wholesale confectioners and fruit men, asking that the duty on cocoanuts be taken off.

A wholesale house on Front Street, who have a large supply of London layer raisins are quoting them away down ; $3 is what they are asking for them.

Mail advices from Liverpool report the butter market in an unusual position. For four weeks past there has been an active demand for good medium qualities, but only a moderate demand for fine.

At the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association meeting on Monday evening a paper on "Bookkeeping in a Retail Store" was read by Mr. William Mills, grocer, of King Street East. It proved to be both interesting and instructive to the members present. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Mills by the Association.

Dr. Bergin has presented a petition to Parliament from the fruit growers of the township of Cornwall asking for the re-imposition of the duty on small fruits. Mr. Taylor presented similar petitions from fruit growers of the townships of Young and Escott, Leeds County. Dr. Ferguson also presented a similar petition from the township of Stamford, Welland County.

The Wentworth Fruit Growers' Association held a meeting in the hall of the Acacia hotel, Stoney Creek, on Saturday evening last. About 150 of the members were present, besides a large number of interested fruit growers and nurserymen from various parts of the county. The committee appointed at a previous meeting held a preliminary meeting, when they decided to send four delegates to Ottawa in the interests of the Association, to ask that the duty on small fruits be re-imposed. The meeting was then called to order, A. D. Lee being chairman. E. D. Smith, M. Pettit, Erland Lee and Wm. Orr were elected as delegates to go to Ottawa. A deep interest is taken in this matter.

Our Kingston correspondent writes : Ex-Mayor John Carson, a member of the Retail Grocers' Association, went westward with the intention of making one of Parkdale's fairest daughters his bride. He is a general favorite. He was accompanied by our able president, James Crawford.

At a joint conference of produce commission merchants, farmers and retail grocers of New York held last week, it was decided to recommend the adoption of a standard vegetable package. If agreeable to the various interests, a committee will be appointed to adopt a standard of measurement.

The New York tea market on Friday was electrified by one of the largest deals on record, and fully confirming the good opinion said to be entertained in regard to greens. The movement embraced in all some 52,000 to 55,000 boxes Pingsueys and some country greens, all taken by one house to be held on the merits of the situation, with the close naturally showing still greater firmness, and the remaining stock in first hands held higher. There were also some 2,200 Formosa sold, and altogether the market is in excellent form.

On November 28th last a woman went into James Robertson's dry goods store, St. Thomas, and represented herself to be Mrs. McAlpine, wife of Mr. Duncan McAlpine, Deputy-Reeve of Southwold. She secured a miscellaneous stock of goods, including millinery, dress goods, etc., the bill amounting to over $60. Mr. Robertson, thinking the woman was the person she represented herself to be, and knowing that Mr. McAlpine would be good for the amount of the bill, allowed the woman to take the goods with her, and charged the amount as ordered by her to Mr. McAlpine. The other day Mr. McAlpine was in that town and informed Mr. Robertson that the woman who purchased the goods was a fraud. There is no clue to the identity of the swindler.

HOW TO COLLECT.

A correspondent of the Iowa Age writes as follows : While it may take an artist to sell goods, the person who does the collecting should have a cheek that was made in a brass foundry. When a person buys anything he has to undergo a sort of inner struggle to make up his mind that the article in question is what he wants and something he cannot get along without. After this struggle is over, and the article has been charged, it is as hard to get him to pay as it is to do anything with plaster of paris after it has once set. The writer of the following rules must have been a bright and shining light in the collection business. Particular attention is called to number 12.

1. Never give the idea that you called because you happened to be in the neighbourhood.

2. Never plead that you are in absolute need of the money.

3. Never explain why you want the money further than by some general phrase, as to meet outstanding bills. The debtor is usually an expert in showing a man how he can get along without money. He will worst you in argument, and if you lose your temper it is an excuse for him why he should not pay.

4. Always be civil, however business-like and importunate you may deem it necessary to be.

5. Never think you have done wrong because a debtor gets angry. His anger under civil treatment shows that he does not intend to pay. This you might as well know early as late.

6. Show quite as firm a resolution to get the money on your tenth call as on any previous one, or else it would have been better if you had not made it.

7. Never leave a debtor without his setting a time when he thinks he can pay, and never fail to be on hand at the time set.

8. As between yourself and the employee, let the most business-like of the two make the dun.

9. Suggest instalments. Shame the debtor into an arrangement to pay something every week or month. If not $10, then $5, or $3 or $1. It will convince him that you have set to work in earnest to get the money.

10. If a debtor gets angry, or has worn out your patience, a threat to attach his salary may be effective, not so much that he is likely to fear that you will get the money that way, as that the affair will not come to the knowledge of his employer.

11. Similar effects may be produced by saying you intend to place the bill in the hands of a lawyer, particularly if you mention a lawyer who has a reputation of harrassing debtors. Professional debtors, however, become careless about legal process.

12. Drop into a debtor's favorite haunts. It will make him uneasy, especially, if you do not hesitate to ask him politely, but promptly, for your money on occasion. This may often happen after he has displayed a roll of bills.

CANNOT DO WITHOUT IT.

NEWMARKET, Feb. 7, 1889.

Editor CANADIAN GROCER :

DEAR SIR,— . . . I find THE CANADIAN GROCER the best business paper that I have yet seen. I could not do without it now ; every grocer ought to take it.

Yours truly,

STORE ATTRACTIONS.

The wide-awake merchant will keep his store as attractive as the nature of his business or the surrounding circumstances will allow ; his stock will be displayed to the very best advantage, and will at all times be as fresh and new as possible. He will also see that a portion of his stock is not here one day and there the next, and thus causing the waste of precious time in locating a certain article for which a customer has to make inquiry. There will be a place for everything and everything will be in its place. The counters, too, will be varnished and kept well dusted. A few revolving seats, ranged alongside each counter, will add both to the appearance of the store and the comfort of the customers. Trade Reporter.

In the store of a retail merchant is a good place to study human nature, but the best place of all for a student of character is behind the counter of a retail grocer. The coming in contact so frequently with persons of such diversified natures and varied positions in life make it one of the best known schools in existence. There is a certain pleasure in thus watching the various specimens of the human family as they appear to a five, wide-awake grocer, and there can be learned many lessons that will be of use. No other merchant comes into such close relations with his trade as the grocer, and no merchant has greater opportunities for making friends.— Pennsylvania Grocer.

GROCERIES.

CANNED GOODS.

There is no change to note from last week. The market is still dull and prices unchanged. Trade in tomatoes shows a slight improvement over that of last week, but prices remain the same, though holders look for higher prices. Some inferior brands of corn and peas are offering at lower prices, but good standard pack held as before.

COFFEE.

Very firmly held, though the demand is still dull. Market almost bare of Rios, with an advance of one cent fully established. There is no change of prices for other coffees.

SUGARS.

Notwithstanding firmer feeling and strong statistical position of outside markets, prices here for yellows have not recovered from the demoralizing effect of the cutting of some holders desirous of unloading. Both Montreal refiners have again started manufacturing, and with the possibility of keen competition prices are not likely to advance without increased demand. Bright yellows selling from 5¼c. to 5½c., but slow of sale. Dark yellows very scarce and wanted; would readily bring up to 5¼c.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

There is a good demand this week at former prices. Refiners sold out of M, and are not offering half bbls. of any grade at present. The quotations are as follows: Syrups—Common, 40c. to 50c.; medium, 53c. to 55c.; fair to choice, 58c. to 65c. Molasses—Sugar-house, none; do., Cuban, 36c. to 40c; Porto Rico, 38c. to 42c.

DRIED FRUIT.

Raisins — Fine fruit is becoming very scarce, with the result that prices have gone up. One wholesale dealer is quoting London layers away down at $3. Prime Valencias are scarce and good demand.

Prunes—Trade fair; a fresh arrival of Bosnia prunes in cases are quoted at 6c. to 9c.

Currants—Outside market firm, with upward tendency.

NUTS.

Still remain quiet at unchanged prices.

GREEN FRUIT.

There can be no improvement noted this week in the green fruit trade. The demand still continues of a limited nature, and the market seems featureless. Prices have remained unaltered, but as stocks have been large enough to do away with the necessity of getting much fresh stuff no immediate change could be anticipated. With the replenishing of stocks, however, different figures may be looked for. Valencia oranges are moving in very fair quantity, although the demand is not spirited. They are quoted at $5.50 per case. A Liverpool advice, dated February 2, states that Valencias are in good demand at 9s. 3d. to 9s. 9d. per case. A later cable from there quotes them at 10s. Stocks here are still pretty well filled. A New York advice states that oranges there are in fair request, and tending firmer. No very late arrivals of Floridas have been received. Those selling at present have in many cases to be repacked, owing to the poor condition in which they have reached here. They are meeting with a slow sale at $3.50 per box. In New York Floridas are dragging, and prices rule weak. For Messina lemons the demand is only fair. Stocks on hand, while decreasing, are still pretty large, and are in condition. They are quoted at $3.50 per box. They have, however, a firmer tendency are likely to go higher. Prices in New York are showing a decidedly stronger tendency, and the demand there is much better. Good Malaga grapes bring $6.50 to $7 per bbl., but they are very scarce.

COAL OIL.

Trade this week is reasonably good, but the market for Canadian refined is a little uneasy, with a tendency towards weakness; Canadian refined is quoted a shade lower. Following are the quotations to-day: Canadian refined oil, 14c.; carbon safety, 17c.; Canadian water white, 20c.; water white, home, 20c.; American water white, 25c.; photogene, 27c.

The Markets--Continued.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

FLOUR.—Dullness and inactivity have continued to be the rule, and holders have been inclined to offer even rather lower than before. At the close straight rollers was offered at $4.75, and extra at $4.45, but no movement reported, and scarcely any demand heard at any price.

BRAN—Sold by car lot last week at equal to $14.25 here, and has sold at mills through the week at $15 to $16; offered by car at $14.50 on Monday.

OATMEAL.—Small lots have sold at about $4 for standard and $4.50 for granulated; but car lots have remained neglected.

WHEAT.—The movement appears to have been small; there was very little enquiry in the latter part of last week, but prices have been steady nearly all through. On Monday No. 2 fall sold at $1.07 on track; and No. 2 fall and No. 2 red winter lying outside changed hands at $1.02, being about equal to $1.05 here. On Tuesday No. 2 red winter brought $1.08½ f.o.c., and No. 2 hard sold at $1.21 and $1.22 on track. At the close Wednesday No. 2 fall sold at $1.07 on track, and No. 1 hard at $1.25 on track, with frosted by sample at 83c.; spring was scarce, and No. 2 was worth $1.07 to $1.08. Goose sold once at 90c. f.o.b. on Tuesday. Street prices closed at $1.04 to $1.05 for fall; at $1.05 to $1.06 for red winter; at $1.05 to $1.10 for spring, and at 84c. for goose.

OATS—Have been offered sparingly, and been rather unsettled in price. On Monday and Tuesday mixed, to arrive, brought 36c., and on Tuesday mixed on track sold at 35c., which prices were repeated at the close yesterday, though a sale was also made by telephone at 34c. for a car to arrive. Manitoban sold last week for 38c., to arrive at station whence rates from Carlton rule, and same figure was bid at the close with sellers at 40c. Street prices closed at 37½c. to 38½c.

BARLEY—The demand has improved, and the movement has increased, though prices have been very much unsettled. On Saturday No. 1. sold at 58c. f.o.c. On Monday No. 2 sold freely at 51c. f.o.c., and cut down No. 2 at 46½c. on track. On Tuesday 10,000 bushels of No. 1 lying outside sold at equal to 57½c. here. The feeling at the close yesterday was again unsettled; No. 1 lying outside sold at 55½c., being equal to 57c. here, but 58c. was bid for more; No. 2 sold at 52c., same freight as from Toronto; extra No. 3 was reported sold at 50c., f.o.c., but others valued it only at 46c. Street prices have declined considerably and closed at 45c. to 56.

PEAS—Quiet but in demand if they can be had cheap enough. Cars lying to the north and west sold last week and on Monday at at 56c. This price was repeated at the close yesterday, but buyers usually professed to believe that that was the end of it, as English limits were being reduced. On street prices ranged from 57c. to 63c.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

POTATOES.—There was a slight movement in cars about the close of last week at equal to 33c. here, and on Tuesday 35c. was paid for two cars to go east, f.o.b. Street receipts fully sufficient, and prices easy at 30c. to 40c. per bag.

HAY.—Pressed quiet at about $12.50 to $13 for clover, and $14 to $15 for timothy. Market receipts varying, but on the whole sufficient. Prices closed at $18 to $21.50.

STRAW.—Offerings considerable and fully equal to the demand; sheaf has usually sold at $10 to $11: loose, about $7; and pea-straw at $3.50 to $4.50; but at the close $10 was the best price for sheaf.

POULTRY.—The few offered have sold readily, when of good quality, at 10c. to 11c. per pound for turkeys, and 7c. to 8c. for geese; with ducks worth 75c. to 85c, and fowl 40c. to 50c. per pair.

EGGS.—The consumptive demand for really fresh seems to have improved somewhat, but offerings have been fully equal to it; prices have been fairly steady at 16c. for trade lots, and 17c. for cases; limed offered at almost any price and refused. Street receipts fair and prices unchanged at 18c. to 20c. for fresh.

DRIED APPLES.—Trade lots offered very freely, and, with the exception of one car taken for shipment at 3½c. rejected; dealers have been offering small lots at 4c. with very few taken. Evaporated almost nominal, with small lots obtainable at 7½c. to 8c.

WHITE BEANS.—Very quiet with the feeling weak; trade lots would not have brought over $1.50, and dealers have been selling small lots of hand-picked very slowly at $1.60 to $1.65.

HOPS.—There has been scarcely any demand heard, or any movement reported; trade lots purely nominal, nor does there seem anything definite in the way of transactions in small lots on which to have quotations. We should say, however, that the disposition has been to offer concessions on both new and yearlings, with old unsalable at any price.

PROVISIONS.

PORK.—Prices rather easier, with sales of small lots of Canadian at $16.50, and large lots probably obtainable still lower, but no demand for them.

BACON—Very quiet with the feeling easy. Long clear moving very slowly at 8¾c. to 9c. for tins and cases, with large lots obtainable probably at 8½c.; Cumberland nominal; rolls a quarter-cent easier at 9¾c. to 10c., with backs and bellies at 10¾c to 11c.; and boneless bellies 11½c.

HAMS.—Sales few and small at 11¼c. to 11½c.; but lots of not under fifty obtainable at 11c.

LARD.—Rather easy at 10¾ to 11c. for Canadian pails, which seem to have been about the only sort moving; large lots offered still lower, but no sales reported; tins, inactive.

HOGS.—Rail lots have been offered very slowly and have been wanted only very sparingly at any price, scarcely at all at the prices asked; a car sold on Monday at $6 on the spot, but this is admitted to have been by no means first-class, and for choice lying outside equal to $6.17 here was bid at the close, with none wanted. Street receipts have been small during the last three days, prices closed at $6.75 to $7.25.

THE CANADA SUGAR REFINING CO'Y [LIMITED],

MONTREAL,

Offer for sale all grades of REFINED SUGARS and SYRUPS of the well-known brand of

Redpath

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

JOHN BAKER EDWARDS, P.L.D., D.C.L., F.C.S.,

Public Analyst for the District of Montreal, and Professor of Chemistry.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY, MEDICAL FACULTY, MCGILL UNIVERSITY,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have taken and tested a sample of your "EXTRA GRANULATED" Sugar, and find that it yielded 99·88 per cent. of Pure Sugar. It is practically as pure and good a Sugar as can be manufactured.

Yours truly,

G. P. GIRDWOOD.

The Markets—Continued.

DAIRY PRODUCE.

BUTTER—Receipts, on the whole, seem to have come forward less freely, and those of choice qualities insufficiently. Dairy that would pass as selected has been in good demand at 18c. to 19c. but scarcely any of it available, and the greater part of the movement has been in what would usually be called choice medium at from 16c. to 17c. taken usually because it was the best obtainable. There has been some little demand for common for shipment, and sales of lots of about 50 tubs were made at 15½c. for low medium on Monday, and at 14½c. for common on Tuesday. Receipts of box lots of rolls have been fair, but the quality is generally stated to have been falling off; prices have been rather weak, the general run being 15c. 16c. and occasionally 17c., this being the range for good to choice—or at least the best offered. Street receipts small with a good demand for pound rolls, which have ranged from 20c. to 24c. according to quality, with choice dairy worth 18c. to 20c., but really choice dairy only, and no other sort of tubs wanted.

CHEESE—Unchanged; small lots have sold as before, at 10½c. to 11½c., the latter being for September make; summer make obtainable at from 8c. to 9c. per lb. for lots of 10 to 20 boxes. English quotations have declined 6d. for the week.

HIDES, SKINS, TALLOW AND WOOL.

HIDES—The expected decline in green has not been accomplished, but a fall of a half cent in Montreal may exercise an influence; cured offered in car lots of average weight at 5¾c. with one lot of heavy-weights sold at 5½c.

CALFSKINS — Nearly nominal both for green and cured; no change.

SHEEPSKINS—Unchanged, at $1.30 to $1.40 for green, with fair supplies; dry as before and have sold quietly usually at about $1.

TALLOW—Rendered has been sold at about 6c. with all offered wanted, and rough as before at 2½c.; no movement in trade lots reported.

Following are quotations: Hides, No. 1, inspected steers, nil; No. 1, inspected cows, $4.75; No. 2, inspected, $3.75; No. 3, inspected, $2.75; calfskins, green, 5c. to 6c.; calfskins, cured, 7½c. to 8c.; sheepskins, 80c. to $1.40; wool, good selected fleece, 20c. to 21c.; rejected, 16c. to 17c.; wool super. 22½c. to 23c.; extra super. 28c.; wool pickings, 9c. to 10c.; tallow, rough, 2½c.; rendered, 6c. to 6¼c.

WOOL—Fleece has been offered very quietly; scarcely any coming forward; prices as before at 21c. for selected and 17c. for rejected; there was, however, one lot of about 20,000 lbs. sold for export on p.t. Pulled fairly active; some sales of super. as before at 22½c. and extra in good demand, but very scarce; dealers would have taken it readily at about 28c.

SALT.

Liverpool scarce, inactive, and nominal at about 70c. for small lots. Canadian unchanged, with sales of two cars of coarse bagged at 60c., and of two cars of barrelled at 85c. with dairy inactive and unchanged.

SEEDS.

Decidedly dull and prospects regarded as not very bright. No cable orders in the market and dealers holding off in consequence. Alsike has been almost nominal. Red clover offered at $5 to $5.25 per bushel, but no demand heard. Other seeds purely nominal.

FISH.

There is a steady amount of trade going on, but scarcely any change from the conditions that prevailed previously. Whitefish and trout are selling well. St. John's herrings are selling at 90c. to $1, and Halifax herrings at $1.40 to $1.50 per 100. Messrs. Port & Co. have plenty of British Columbia salmon at 14c. to 15c. a pound; also some Lake Winnipeg whitefish at 7½c. a pound. There is a supply of pike at 5c., and some good whitefish at 7c. a pound. Ciscoes are quoted at 70c. to $1.25 per 100; bluebacks, $2 to $2.25 per 100. Oysters are in ample supply at $1.15 to $1.50 per gallon. Lake Erie herring are selling at $1.75 per 100. Steak cod is quoted at 7c. a pound, market cod at 5c. Trout is plentiful at 5½c. to 6c. for round, and 6½c. for dressed. Frozen trout is selling at 5½c. per pound; finnan haddies at 7½c. to 8c. per pound; and haddock at 5½c. per pound. There are now no smelts on hands, but some are expected here in the course of the week.

James Kelly, dealer in house furnishings and stoves, 469 Queen Street West, is in difficulties and is offering to compromise.

Geo. Ellis, grocer, Hamilton, has assigned to Alexander Davidson for the benefit of his creditors. His statement shows a deficiency of $1,000.

The creditors of Abbott & Watson, builders and contractors, Toronto, have refused to accede the firm a settlement, and the stock is to be sold.

E. R. C. Clarkson has been appointed liquidator for the bankrupt estate of W. V. Eccleston, shoe dealer, Hamilton. The liabilities amount to $3,000.

The creditors of D. W. Shaver, mill owner and merchant, of Hamilton, held a meeting Tuesday. The assignees, Townsend and Stephens, presented a statement, showing assets $25,000, liabilities $23,500. Mr. Shaver made an offer to compromise at 40 cents on the dollar. The offer was not accepted, and the trustees were ordered to investigate the assets.

W. F. Campbell, general dealer, Bearbrook, has assigned.

J. G. Strong, dry goods, etc., of Stratford and Toronto, has been unable to obtain a compromise, and the stock is ordered to be sold. The assets are about $22,000.

The report published in several of the newspapers that Mr. T. S. Patten, general dealer, Little Current, had assigned, turns out to be incorrect. Mr. Patten has not assigned nor does he intend to.

The following assignments are reported :— A. McDonald, dry goods, Cobourg ; W. H. Walker, grocer, Hamilton ; J. C. Robertson, hardware, Newmarket ; J. H. Doherty, clothing, Ottawa.

Mrs. H. Rogers, gents' furnishings and dry goods, corner Yonge and Elm streets, has called a meeting of creditors for Monday. Her liabilities are about $4,500. The business was conducted under the style of George Rogers.

The following assignments are reported : A. D. McDonald & Co., dry goods, Alexandria ; A. & R. Spector, general dealers, Greenfield ; S. McLaughlin, grocer, Napanee ; J. H. Doherty, clothing, Ottawa ; Alfred Lemieux, painter, Ottawa.

A meeting of the creditors of John Head, of Woodstock, was held at S. F. McKinnon & Co's. office yesterday, and a compromise at 50c. in three, six and nine months, secured, was accepted. The principal creditors are Knox, Morgan & Co., of Hamilton ; S. F. McKinnon & Co., have a claim for $6,500.

A meeting of the creditors of J. W. Gale & Co., was held Tuesday afternoon, and as Mr. Gale stated that he would make no offer, inspectors were appointed and the disposal of the estate will be left in the hands of them and the trustees. It is likely the stock will be sold and the business closed out.

A meeting of the creditors of the J. & C. J. Brennan estate was held in the office of Walter Anderson, Hamilton, recently. James Cowan (Toronto) and Robert Fearman were appointed inspectors of the estate. A proposition was made to the mortgagee to raise the mortgage for something less than par, but it was refused, and the sale will proceed.

A meeting of the creditors of V. E. Fuller was held in Hamilton yesterday, when the appointment of J. V. Teetzel as assignee was confirmed. A provisional statement showed the liabilities at about $300,000 and the assets $42,000. Messrs. A. Bruce, Q.C., S. Slater and Wm. Roberts were appointed inspectors to examine the estate.

In Wednesday's daily papers it was stated that Mr. J. A. Wilkinson had assigned to Mr. John McMillan. The fact is it was another Wilkinson altogether. Mr. J. A. Wilkinson has not assigned and has no reason to assign Mr. Wilkinson has instructed his lawyers to enter actions against Bradstreet's and the papers first publishing the report.

Smithers and Berkinshaw, fancy goods dealers, corner Queen and Yonge Streets, are asking an extension. The firm has been in business about a year. Mr. Berkinshaw was formerly an employee of John Macdonald & Co., and later went into business at Guelph under the style of Ryan & Berkinshaw. He sold out to his partner, and, coming to Toronto, with Mr. Smithers, of St. Thomas, they bought their present establishment. John Macdonald & Co., are the principal creditors. The assets will be about $34,000, and liabilities about $28,000. The firm also have a store in Hamilton, where a year ago they bought the bankrupt stock of Mrs. McLean.

The liabilities of A. J. Wilkinson, the grocer who assigned Wednesday to Ald. McMillan, are $500. The stock was worth about $250, but a local wholesale grocer sent up his waggon one day last week and carried it off to satisfy his claim. Mr. Wilkinson sought the advice of a lawyer, who advised him to assign. The assets left to satisfy the other creditors consist of an old horse, a waggon, half a barrel of coal oil and some measures.

GROCERS!

IT is well known that everywhere in France one can get a good cup of coffee, and it is also an established fact, that the reverse is the case in Canada. Many blame the coffee, but the true cause is simply this, "Not one cook in a dozen knows how to make coffee properly." The above cut represents a new invention which is very simple in construction, and any child can make a good cup of coffee with it. You simply fill the tin can with boiling water, then set the pot on top, put the requisite amount of coffee in the bag inside the pot, then pour a sufficient amount of boiling water into the pot and let it stand on the stove for 3 or 4 minutes, when you will have a first class cup of coffee.

This coffee pot is the simplest, cheapest, and best article of the kind ever invented, and the low price makes it within the reach of all. They are packed 1 doz. in a barrel. Price $6 per doz. Send $6 for 1 doz. as a sample, and you will find it all that we recommend it to be.

SPECIAL TO OUR READERS.

As the design of THE CANADIAN GROCER is to benefit mutually all interested in the business, we would request all parties ordering goods or making purchases of any description from houses advertising with us to mention in their letter that such advertisement was noticed in THE CANADIAN GROCER.

THE COMPROMISE QUESTION.

In this week's issue we publish a further series of letters on the compromise question, showing that an active interest is taken in it by the trade in general throughout the country. It will be noticed that three letters are from travellers who have been over the country, and have heard the views expressed by the retail trade at much greater length than any of them could furnish us in a single letter. They heard the question discussed many times before, but the recent letters in THE GROCER have awakened a more active interest in it, and will no doubt result in some good. In regard to the reference to the "King Street Grocer," as to whether he buys from the honorable wholesaler who sells to the retail trade and to them only, we may say that he is most loyal to such wholesalers. We have received a number of others, which we are holding over until next week for want of space.

RETAILERS IN DANGER.

THE GROCER has several times published the law relating to canned goods, and has directed attention to it in its editorial columns. It is distinctly laid down that every can offered for sale or consumption in Canada shall have attached thereto or imprinted thereon a label or stamp, giving the name and address of the person, firm or company by whom it was packed or of the dealer who is selling it. The object of this clause is to prevent packers or dealers putting inferior goods on the market. Most packers are desirous of building up and keeping a reputation for reliable goods, and they will allow nothing to go on the market bearing their name unless it is good. Many of these from one reason or another have an inferior quality. For instance, after a few days of very fine weather, tomatoes, peaches or other produce are delivered at factory in excessive quantities. Packers cannot handle them quickly enough, and they decay and turn sour. Packers should throw these away, but some do not. Instead they pack them, and they go on the market as a second quality. Many packers will not risk their reputation on these and put fictitious names on the label. This has been done here this season. During the present week local retailers have made purchases of such goods. They were first offered to the wholesale houses but they refused to take them, and they were eventually sold as stated. They are put up by a firm which bears a good reputation, but a fictitious name appears upon the labels. The packer is no doubt aware that he is liable to a fine of $2 for each package for the first offence, and for a second offence a fine of $20 and $4 for each package. But how many retailers know that they also are liable through offering the goods for sale?

PROVISION MERCHANTS KICKING.

About a year ago several wholesale grocery houses began to handle imported lard. They secured good profits upon it, and they are now doing an increasing trade and other firms learning this are taking hold also. This has caused a good deal of opposition among the members of the provision trade, and lately several of them have been endeavouring to arrange a scheme to prevent wholesale grocers from handling this commodity. They are not however unanimous in their views on this matter. Some of them are of the opinion that the wholesale grocers have as much right to handle lard as anything else. There would perhaps not be so much opposition to wholesale grocers dealing in lard if they would only sell at the same prices that the provision merchants do. There is often a very wide difference in price. At the moment for instance, wholesale grocers are offering tub lard at 9⅝c. while provision merchants are holding at 10c. to 10⅛c. In consequence of the lower prices the latter have lost several of their best customers.

The provision merchants are not getting much sympathy from the retail trade. Instead the latter are rather pleased. Their sympathies are with the wholesale grocers who will on no account sell to consumers while they are constantly protesting against the provision merchants, who are almost invariably dealers in other kinds of staple produce as well, doing so.

MR. WALLACE'S BILL.

Mr. Wallace's Bill is evidently not going through the House without meeting with the most determined opposition. The Minister of Justice was waited upon last week by a deputation, consisting of Messrs. W. F. Gault, D. Morrice, C. B. Hebert, J. Cowan, R. G. Leckie, H. Watson and C. Chaput, of Montreal, and R. Turner, of Quebec, accompanied by Messrs. Curran, Labelle and Desjardins, to point out the objections they held against the passage of Clarke Wallace's Anti-Combines Bill. They represented that if the Bill were passed it would put a stop to a great proportion of legitimate business by compelling wholesale dealers to sell at retail prices, or at sacrifice prices, because other dealers might do the same. They said the Bill was too vague with regard to those offences which were created by unduly raising the price of goods, and would unreasonably affect the exchange of commodities. They contended that it would be oppressive to insist on the forfeiture of the charter of any incorporated company consequent on a single conviction which might be for a very trivial offence. It was urged also that it would be unreasonable to have to submit to a jury the decision of the question whether a company should forfeit its charter or not by unduly raising the price of commodities, and they alleged that there were no combinations, so far as the interests they respectively represented, which were unfair or likely to be detrimental to the public interests.

DRY GOODS.

Advances are reported this week in the price of all dyed goods. On fullard linings the advance took place to-day and constitutes an increase of ¼c. per yard. As these linings are in active demand this increase will be immediately felt. Advices from the Old Country state that orders are hard to fill on time, and for nearly all lines manufacturers are asking advances on repeat orders. Prices here remain very firm.

There have been during the last few days quite a number of merchants from the North-West on the market, who have been buying on the whole fairly good parcels. As regard trade prospects, they seem to be much more cheerful than at at the same time last year, as they say there is a fair amount of money in the country, for although the farmers were disappointed in the size of their crops they got pretty good prices for them, and have therefore money in their possession. These merchants have been mostly buying general stocks, but the purchases of those from Brandon and around that section are just the same as are supplied to Ontario retailers.

Merchants report a very fair trade doing at present, and seem to be quite hopeful for the future. Staples, prints and printed sateens are fairly active and there is an exceptionally good demand for braids and beaded trimmings. Embroideries and goods of that description are also moving off well.

Merchants are looking forward to next week as being likely to increase their trade considerably. The millinery openings take place then, and there will in all likelihood be a rush of customers to the city to buy, and doubtless many of these will find their way to the establishments of the wholesale dry goods merchants.

Collections are reported as fairly satisfactory. There are, of course, some renewals asked for, but not more than is usual, and merchants do not appear to have much to complain of.

THE TEA MARKET.

The market has wakened up and shown an improved activity over preceding week, and a fair demand has been experienced for all kinds. Transactions have been chiefly in low grades, about equally divided between Japans, Young Hysons and Congous. The temporary check given to advancing prices of low grades by recent reports from England appears to be surmounted, and prices are ruling firmer again. Stocks of spot goods held in first hands, of all kinds, from low to medium grades especially, are small. Recent reports from Japan state that the stocks are now reduced to 1,000 piculs, at Hiogo, and prices at that port were firm all round. On $10 to $12 teas quotations were fully $1 higher. Advices from that port, under date 24th January, say "only about 200 piculs have been settled there since last advices, and both business and prices were nominal."

Last advices from Shanghai report that a small business has been done in blacks, with settlements amounting to 6,000 hfc. during the fortnight, chiefly at from 9 to 14 taels per picul for common to good common, with a tendency on the part of tea men to accept easier rates in order to clear out before the China new year stocks, 12,171 hfc., against 12,200 hfc. in 1887-88.

In greens the supply of country teas was almost exhausted, and business in consequence very small, chiefly in Moyune descriptions. Stocks, 8,525 hfc., against 46,675 hfc. in 1887-88, being a reduction of over 38,000 hfc. as against this time last year, a very significant feature.

PUSHING AMERICAN PRODUCTS.

The American canned meat, and provision dealers are now finding that Canada is an important field for the consumption of their product. For many years, Armour, Fairbanks, and Libby had the market almost exclusively to themselves. But times are changing, and all the other firms in this branch of trade are putting their goods on this market. Every day new brands are appearing and endeavouring to find a place. The trade is now a very important one.

NO REDUCTION IN POSTAGE.

In reply to a question from Mr. Therien in the House of Commons, on Monday, Hon. Mr. Haggart said that it was not at present the intention of the Government to reduce the rate of letter postage from three to two cents.

TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION "AT HOME."

The arrangements for the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association "At Home" have been completed, and the prospects for a big time are favorable. The committee who have the tickets for sale report about all sold. The programme of the concert, which will consist of songs, readings and music, is in the printer's hands, and will be issued in a few days. The best local talent in the city has been engaged. After which dance music will be furnished, under the direction of Prof. Payne. Refreshment tables will be laid in the ante-rooms, where refreshments will be served without extra charge. For further particulars, see advertisement in another column.

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

After a careful investigation of the situation, we come to the conclusion that trade generally is in a healthy condition, and that the outlook for 1889 is cheering. There are many indications of a revival of business; and as confidence is restored, the channels of commerce will again assume their former activity. Merchants and dealers have passed through two trying years. Competition was never as keen, and instead of a remunerative business, the majority of our leading houses were heavy losers at the end of each year. The failures were numerous, but notwithstanding this fact stocks are well in hand, and money is comparatively easy. There is a good demand for choice investments, and preference seems to be given to securities that do not net over 5 per cent. Our imports, especially of dry goods, were comparatively small last year, and this class of goods remaining in stock has perhaps not been as light as now for many years. An important feature in our imports is the comparatively large increase of raw materials. In 1868 the imports of raw materials of all kinds were valued at less than $5,500,000, while last year they had risen to the enormous value of $28,361,000. Besides, there is a large amount of partially manufactured goods, such as iron and metals, brought in, and it is safe to say that the imports of raw materials to be used in our mills and factories will exceed $31,000,000. This great increase in this class of goods means so much additional employment to the people. Another favourable feature is the increased tonnage of our railways. Since the first of the year, the Grand Trunk weekly gross receipts have exceeded those of last year, and the returns of the Canadian Pacific are equally favourable. By the last named road our trade with China, Japan and Australia is extending. In the season of 1887-'88, the shipments from China and Japan to Canada by San Francisco steamers were 756,172 pounds, while the Canadian Pacific line carried 3,773,921 pounds. This season up to same date, the shipments via San Francisco have been only 735,265 pounds, while 5,357,944 pounds have been sent via Vancouver.

In dry goods a good many orders have been placed for spring fabrics, and travellers are meeting with more encouragement. The feeling seems hopeful and trade generally in the country is increasing with seasonable weather and good roads. Prices are firm all round, and the late advances have been fully maintained. The cotton situation is a strong one, as stocks held are very low, and the wants of merchants are with difficulty being supplied. Linens are firmer, and woollens in moderate request. The trade in groceries is fair. Teas are moving rather freely, and the undertone is strong. Coffees are also firm in prices. The prices of sugars are rather easier, and to many are a disappointment. An improved trade is reported by hardware dealers, and confidence is rapidly being restored. As a rule prices are low, but in some lines more firmness is apparent. As stocks are generally small, a slight increase in demand would result in firmer quotations. Remittances this month were in many instances better than had been expected, and in consequence there is a growth of confidence. The failures will diminish from this time forward, and the great bulk of weak houses being weeded out, there is a good prospect for those remaining in business.

Within the past few weeks there has been increased activity in the wool markets. Considerable shipments of fleece have been made to the United States, and this trade now appears to be in a more healthy state than for some years. The stocks have been pretty well exhausted, and among sales recently reported are several lots of the clip of 1886. Dealers are likely to begin next season's trade bare of stocks. Although the wheat crop of the past season was comparatively small, prices are much higher and the returns are much greater than the previous year. There is said to be a good deal of wheat not marketed yet, and it is unlikely that this Province will have to import from the States. A good deal of fall wheat was sown the past autumn, and reports of its condition so far are very satisfactory.

FOR HIS CLERKS.

Mr. Isaac Wenger, of Ayton, in sending in his subscription says :—"Enclosed please find one dollar for another copy of the GROCER for the use of my clerks.

We invite correspondence from readers in every section on subjects pertaining to the trade, and shall be pleased to answer questions of general interest in this department. We require with each letter the name and address of the sender, not necessarily for publication, unless agreeable to writers, but for our own protection.

THE COMPROMISE QUESTION.

SIMCOE, Feb. 11, 1889.

Editor GROCER : Dear Sir,—I consider compromises are unfair for the man who pays 100 cents on the dollar. Yours respectfully,

JAS. W. MOE.

BRANDON, Man., Feb. 11, 1889.

Dear Sir,—We would support any measure that would do away with such an objectionable feature in legitimate business as compromises. BARRETT & CO.

PORT HOPE, Feb. 14, 1889.

CANADIAN GROCER : Gentlemen,—I quite agree with the "King Street Grocer."

I remain, yours etc.,

JOHN MITCHELL.

THOROLD, Feb. 12, 1889.

Dear Sir,—Our opinion on Compromises is that until the retailers take some action in the matter, the wholesalers will remain silent, and the sooner a movement is started by the retailers to form themselves into an association, and send delegates to a general meeting and thus discuss the matter thoroughly, the sooner compromises in their present state will be done away with. We would not like to say we object to compromises in any case ; but would like to see any stock under compromise put up by public auction and sold under the hammer to the highest bidder, thereby giving the merchants in that place a chance to protect themselves from the goods being slaughtered, and no chance to help themselves, as has been the case many times by a merchant failing and the goods given back to him for fifty cents on the dollar more or less. Yours,

DAUGAN & BROWN.

CAMPBELLCROFT, Feb. 11, 1889.

Editor CANADIAN GROCER : Sir,—In reply to your request as to my views on Compromises, I am greatly in favor of wholesale merchants signing an agreement to sign no compromises in any case. My views are this : I think the way wholesalers have let some retailers up is a good way to make an honest man a rogue. They settle with him probably for 40 or 50 cents on the dollar, and then let him go on in business again, while an honest man has to pay their losses.

Truly yours,

ANDREW SMITH.

HANOVER, Feb. 11, 1889.

Editor GROCER,—We would say that while we think in many cases merchants are entitled to some leniency, yet we believe as a rule compromises are granted too freely, and without properly investigating the affairs of such applicants ; and this we think has a tendency and in fact is encouraging dishonesty. D. KNECHTEL & CO.

BRANTFORD, Feb. 15, 1889.

TO THE EDITOR : Sir,—I have noticed in your last few issues, letters from retail and wholesale merchants, regarding bankrupt stocks and compromises, and showing that they suffer in consequence. What I want to say is that others feel it as much as they do. Take, for instance, the traveller. He strikes a town where two or three stocks are being sold off. He probably has customers who buy from $100 to $500 at the time he calls on them ; he sells them, probably, $25 to $75, and asks how it is they want so few goods, and get for an answer that Mr. So-and-So has just bought the stock next door at 40c. on the dollar, and is running it off cheaper than he can buy for, and he is therefore doing nearly all the trade. Now, I have taken an interest in this thing for some time, and have talked the matter over with a good many merchants throughout the county, and find that it is very hard to get two opinions alike. The fact is that there is so much petty jealousy among them that it would be almost impossible to work any of the schemes advised. The "King Street Grocer" says that no doubt the best merchants would stand by the wholesaler if he would step forward in this cause. That looks very well in print, but, I would like to ask that gentleman, if he does protect the straight-forward wholesaler now. By straight-forward wholesaler I mean one who does not sell his goods to private individuals, or to those not engaged in the trade, or does not run supply stores, but tries his best to help the retailer all he can. If he does he is the exception, as I know quite a few wholesale houses in dry goods, boots and shoes, groceries, hardware, etc., who will sell any quantity of stuff required to anybody who has the money to pay for it. The retailer does not consider this is doing him any harm. But, really, it is far worse than the King Street gentleman's pistol and loose change. It is like putting their hands in the tills and helping themselves. That all these evils are very serious to the future commerce of our country is a certainty. The great question is how to stop them. My idea is similar to the Exeter merchant's, that it must be done through a meeting. Only, I think, that every city, town, and village in Ontario, should form a Board of Trade at once, if they have not one already, and have the matter thoroughly sifted, so as to have a deputation ready to send to a large general meeting to be held in one of the cities. This meeting should be the means of bringing the wholesalers and retailers together, so that they could exchange their views and decide what should be done. And I am satisfied that if the retailers in a body will give their support to the straight-forward wholesale men they will get protection far stronger than the N. P.

Yours truly,

TRAVELLER.

PAISLEY, Feb. 11, 1889.

Editor CANADIAN GROCER : Dear Sir,—I am against granting compromises. When a person contracts a debt he should pay it, and the wholesale houses should no more grant compromises than they should give me goods for nothing, so that I may be able to undersell my competitor in business. I look upon compromises as an extorted gift. Why shouldn't I tell the wholesale houses I am not making money fast enough, and I want them to give me a supply of goods for nothing. Am I not as well entitled to get them in that way as to ask for a compromise ?

It is a well understood fact that many a one makes money by getting compromises.

When a person in difficulties is considered worthy he should be dealt with leniently, giving him time to clear his feet with the understanding that he is to pay in full.

Yours truly,

D. SHANKS.

P.S.—I am glad to see the associations are taking up the grievance of wholesale houses supplying the consumers. I think this ought to be put a stop to. D. S.

H——, Grey Co., Feb. 16, 1889.

Dear Sir,—I agree with a great deal your Exeter and Hamilton correspondents say. I would like to see something done to abate the evil, for an evil every one must acknowledge it to be. What I think would be the best is to endeavor to refuse all compromises where there is any appearance of fraud (and we know well that there is any amount of it). But when the man can show that he has met with misfortune that was not of his begetting, and had endeavored to be a square dealer, in such cases I do think there ought to be leniency shown quite different from the man that makes a business of dead-beating his way in the world. Again, in reference to bankrupt stocks. It is a monstrous evil. A neighboring town to me has got a stock from Orillia (McMaster & Co.'s) at 58 cents. The purchaser is selling it off to the detriment of the rest of the business men. A man told me yesterday he got a pair of the finest horse blankets for $2, that he could not get elsewhere for less than say $3.50. We have again men that make a specialty of cutting things. Say Dingman's soap costs $3.10 per box of 60 cakes ; well say 3 per cent. off for cash makes it $3, or 5 cents each. We have customers who tell us they get 6 cakes for 25 cents, or one cent per cake less than cost. Now how can that man pay 100 cents on the dollar, and that is only a sample. I think that evil could be overcome by Dingman and wholesale men refusing to sell to such men.

I am yours,

ONE WHO HAS BEEN IN BUSINESS FOR 32 YEARS, AND HAS ALWAYS PAID 100 CENTS ON THE DOLLAR.

WEST HILL, Feb. 11, 1889.

Editor, CANADIAN GROCER : Dear Sir,—In reply to your question regarding compromises, I wish to say that I am in favour of the wholesale houses, in all lines of trade, positively refusing to sign a compromise under any conditions whatever.

The wholesale grocers are now under agreement to refuse to compromise with any retailer who, not being insured, loses his property through fire. If there is justice in this, and I claim there is, is justice equally apparent in the wholesale houses compromising with a person meeting with a similar accident who is well insured? I fail to see it. There can be no more deplorable case than the former, and, if it is right to refuse to compromise in such a case, then I say the refusal should be extended to any and all cases of business failures.

Apart from the cases of scoundrels who deliberately prepare their plans for a compromise, there are, no doubt, cases where persons with honest intentions, and just enough capital to start business, foolishly cut prices below a living profit and carelessly give long credits or credits to irresponsible parties, and finally are unable to meet their payments. Now, according to some minds, these cases are deserving of some consideration—of, in fact, a beneficial compromise. I cannot see it in that light. Why should the few wholesale merchants with whom he has done business lend him capital to start up again, or pay for his carelessness or inability, and then, as a necessary sequence, charge honest, sensible retailers a little more in order to make it up.

I consider it is putting a premium on inability and offering a bonus for dishonesty, and, therefore, I think that in all such cases it would be much better for the wholesale trade and vastly better for the retail competitors, if the creditors, in such cases, shut right down and positively refused a compromise of any kind, only such as a legal course would secure them.

Respectfully yours,

F. N. KIRKHAM.

LONDON, Feb. 10, 1889.

Editor, CANADIAN GROCER : Sir,—I take much pleasure in noticing the increased interest taken by correspondents in THE GROCER, and hope it will continue, and in the end the ideas expressed will be a benefit to the trade. In many of the ideas expressed on "Compromises" by correspondents, I fail to see the remedy we are all looking for. At the same time I hope the correspondence will continue. Let no one be discouraged ; it is one of those reforms that cannot be brought about in a moment, or, perhaps, a year ; but, I say, keep hammering away, and good will come of it. My business calls me to nearly every town in Ontario, and I am constantly talking with the merchants, and from my personal observation I should say that all the trouble does not lie in compromises, but in the first acts of the wholesale grocer by giving credit to new men in towns and cities where there are already too many stores in proportion to the population. I have seen quite a number of grocerymen who started in business this winter, coming in green from the farm with, perhaps, one or two thousand dollars, or, perhaps, as many hundreds, with which they bought a stock, and started out with a strong feeling that they could hold their own against old and experienced tradespeople in the same place. These are the wholesaler's lambs, and with what delight a good salesman will take them in hand, for he knows it is cash, and old stock will show as well for shelf goods as any ; the novice buys for every dollar he has got. There is seldom a reserve, for he expects to sell for cash. He has made this resolve, and pictures to himself the rush there will be to the new store ; but when they find it is cash the crowd melts away, and he begins to study into the cause, and concludes he must give credit or get no trade, and he finally gives way to a customer. Then, for a time, he does a large trade, for all the known dead beats of the town will patronize him ; and what is the result. The next order on his wholesale house for goods is on time, which he will never be able to pay in full. Then is the time for the wholesale man to look sharply into his standing, for, I think, as a rule, the first year's book account of a merchant can be safely recovered at a discount of 90 per cent., and unless he has capital enough to carry him through the second year, or teeth-cutting, without credit, he is a risk. Here is where a valuable travelling salesman proves his worth, when he will not take the risk for the sake of orders. It is better for him and his house if he skips the town entirely, if by chance some other drummer has the better houses in that town.

Yours, &c.,

A TRAVELLER.

Canned Goods.

WESTERN PACKERS' ASSOCIATION.

CHICAGO, Feb. 13.

The annual meeting of the Western Packers' Canned Goods Association commenced in Chicago at the Sherman House this morning. The Canadian representatives present were Mr. Wellington Boulter, of the Bay of Quinte Canning Factories ; his son, Mr. Frank Boulter, who manages the Demorestville Factory ; W. J. Greenfield, Picton, his processer, and THE GROCER representative. We were received by the genial Secretary, Hon. L. G. Seager, of Gillman, Iowa. We were at once introduced to the President, Hon. Mr. Ballinger, Keokuk and other prominent members, who soon made us perfectly at home. Now this is saying a good deal, for the Canadian delegation is very strongly anti-Annexation pro-Imperial Federation. The meeting opened at ten o'clock, when the members of the Association were welcomed to Chicago by the District Attorney, representing the Mayor. He made what we call in Canada a rattling good speech. This is one feature which I noticed particularly today, nearly every one is a good speaker, and presents his views in a clear, sharp business-like manner that commands attention. Among those who were the guests of the Association were Messrs. Judge and Deeming. Hon. Mr. Judge is the editor of Baltimore Trade, the veteran organ of the canned goods industry. He is a most enthusiastic advocate of all the reforms in the interests of the canned goods industry, and is very popular in the Association. Mr. Deeming is also a journalist, being the publisher of the Chicago Grocer, one of the best trade papers in the United States. He was accompanied by his editor, Mr. Mackenzie, who is doing much to make the paper the success that it has become since Mr. Deeming took charge of it. The first item of importance on the programme was the reading of his annual address by the President. He gave a very exhaustive account of the development of the canned goods industry during the past few years. He showed that in corn and tomatoes, the leading staples, the pack had increased far in excess of the increase in population. There had, however, been a large increase in the consumptive demands. The pack, however, still kept away ahead of the consumption, and the result was that prices were now lower than they ever were before. According to his showing the state of trade is not in nearly as healthy a condition as that of Canada, and goodness knows it is bad enough. I will digress for a moment to tell you that they are offering prime corn here at 45 cents per dozen. It is not nearly as bad as this in Canada. The President also referred among other matters to the duty on tin plates. In Canada, as you know, through the representation of the Canadian Packers' Association the import duty on tin plates used in making tin cans was removed by the Government. In consequence we get cheaper canned goods. A one-horse tin mine has been discovered somewhere in the States, and the owners of it are urging the Government to increase the duty on imported tin in order that they may have a chance for developing their property. The packers will of course oppose any increase. The rest of the day was spent in the election of officers and the discussion of other matters. Mr. Ballinger insisted on retiring from the Presidency, and he was succeeded by Mr. L. G. Seager, with Mr. McEdwards as Secretary.

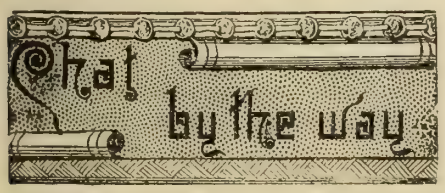
To-morrow we go to Maywood, a suburb of Chicago, to see the machinery built for use in canning factories and Norton Bros. tin can factory in operation. J. B. McL.



TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

Secretary's Address:—
474 PARLIAMENT STREET,
Toronto, Ontario.

Mr. R. Y. Fish for many years did a large and successful business at Linwood, Waterloo County. A few years ago he sold out to Messrs Kern & Bundy—two young fellows that are retaining the customers' good-will and doing a fine business. Mr. Fish is a brother-in-law of the well known Mr. E. Wiman of New York, and Since leaving Linwood has been engaged in business in New York. Mr. Fish is one of the gentlemanly, genial men travellers take pleasure in calling on and consequently they will be agreeably surprised to learn that he has bought out Mr. Theo Billinger's business of Waterloo. Mr. Billinger retires from a most successful business career on account of ill-health, and, doubtless, his success will more than keep up the good reputation of the old stand.

Mr. W. D. McLaren, Jr., Montreal, the Cook's Friend, was in the city this week and favoured THE GROCER with a call.

We draw attention to the advertisement in another column of R. Ralston & Co., the blacking manufacturers of Hamilton.

Messrs Graybill & Co., Waterloo, are now manufacturing the butter carrier recently patented by Mr. Nichol of that place.

A New York letter says that common Young Hysons and seconds have advanced considerably in New York, and London as well. There is an increased demand for early medium Japans at higher rates.

A shipment of cold storage eggs was distributed among the commission houses here Monday which has a history. It was sent to Boston by an Ontario dealer, but failing to find a market there he had them reshipped here. They are offering at 14c. to 15c.

The Winnipeg Commercial sends us its annual number. It presents as usual a very attractive appearance ; is more than double the usual size, and contains a great deal of interesting reading matter. We congratulate Bro. Steen on the progress he is making.

London cables say : In the Mincing Lane markets beet sugar sold at a slight decline. Cane is unchanged. Refined is slow of sale. Crystals have declined 3d. New crop coffee is well competed for at from full to firmer prices. Tea is unchanged. Rice is active and firm.

Lucas, Parke & Co., Hamilton have now on hand a splendid line of molasses in tierces running 60 to 65 gallons each, in perfect order which they are offering at a very low figure and are selling fast. They report duplicate orders for Ta-ka-kake and Boston Brown Bread coming in every week.

We have to thank the Boston Retail Grocers' Association for a ticket sent us for the grand Jubilee Entertainment and Ball, to be given by them this evening in the Mechanics Building, Boston, Mass. The distance alone prevents us being present, but we extend hearty congratulations, and wish them success.

R. S. Gallagher, of Colborne St., who has just returned from a trip West, where he has been buying apples, reports that inexperienced country dealers now hold a large amount of apples that are unfit for home consumption, let alone shipment. These dealers bought largely, thinking prices would be away up, and now they cannot sell.

One of the happiest men in the city is Mr. T. Rooke, of the Canadian Pacific Railway. He was married on Wednesday to Miss Leilia Ruse, second daughter of Mr. Charles Ruse, of Queen Street west. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. H. Locke, of Collingwood, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Parker, Toronto. The bride never looked better than when she appeared before the altar in a beautiful dress of cream cashmere, with tulle veil and orange blossoms. Her sister, Miss Ada Ruse, was her bridesmaid ; she also wore a cream cashmere dress. Mr. Rooke is receiving the congratulations of his numerous friends on his securing the hand of one of Toronto's fairest daughters.

GROCERIES.

The grocery trade has been only fairly active this week. Sugars are dull, but teas are in fair demand. Payments are fair.

CANNED GOODS.

The market has been quiet with very little demand. Packers have been offering a few round lots of peas and corn, but they are talking pretty steady. Several sales are reported but on private terms which are said to be about former figures. Tomatoes are dull but steadily held; holders seen to have a good deal of confidence in the situation, but whether there is any reason for this is another question. Small lots of 1888 pack have sold at 90c. to $1.10, while 1887 could be bought for somewhat less. Corn is moving as before at $1 to $1.10, and peas at 90c. to $1. Fruits of all kinds are dull. Salmon is quiet at $1.70. Lobsters are firmly held; stocks here are very light; prices range from $1.60 to $2.

COFFEE.

Green coffees rule firm and unchanged. Rios in particular are strong and in good demand, a sale is reported of a shipment of fair quality to a western house at 19c. There has been an enquiry for Mochas, but there are very few on the market.

SUGARS.

The sugar market is dull. Refiners reduced the price of granulated, and most lines of whites on Saturday ⅛c. Granulated is now selling on a basis of 7⅜c. for 15 bbl. lots, and 7½c. for single barrels. Yellows are also lower. The inside price is now 5c., but most houses quote at 5⅓c. to 5¼c. The situation is without special feature.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Molasses is scarce and dearer. On the spot there are several wholesale houses who are reported short of stock. Porto Ricos are higher at 40c. to 42c. in tierces. New Orleans are unchanged at 70 cents. Syrups are firm at previous quotations.

DRIED FRUIT.

The movement in currants is light and prices are easy and unchanged. Provincials are moving in barrels and halves at 5¼c. to 5½c.; Patras at 6¼c. to 6¾c. for barrels to cases; and Vostizzas in cases at 7¼c. to 8c.

Dates—Now cost 3s. to 4s. per cwt. more to lay down; prime fruit is held at 6c. to 6½c. but there are a lot of very dark quality which can be bought at considerably less.

Figs—Are quiet. Commadra mats are selling at 4¼c. to 4½c. and natural in 100 lb. bags at 4¾c. to 5c, Elemes are slow, 5 to 12 lb. boxes are selling at 11c. to 11½c. with the finer grades in 28 to 56 lb. boxes at 14c. to 15c.

Prunes—Are rather more active. Bosnia cases are moving at 4⅜c. to 4⅝c., while very choice in cases are selling at 7¼c. to 9c.; about the same figures are being taken for French prepared prunes.

Raisins—Are fairly active. Fine off-stalk Valencias are firm at 6c. to 6½c., while layers are going at 7¼c. for ordinary, to 8c. for finest. Sultanas can be bought as low as 6¼c to 6¾c., but Prunes are held at 8¾c. to 9c., and Vourlas at 10c. to 10½c., while Carabournas, the finest grade brought to this market are worth 13c. to 14c.. Malagas are quiet but loose Muscatels are offering lower at $2 to $2.25.

GREEN FRUIT.

There is still no improvement to note in green fruit. The demand continues light. Prices still remain unaltered; but with the replenishing of stocks different figures may be looked for. Valencia oranges are moving in very fair quantity, with prices a little lower. They are quoted at $5.00 to $5.50 per case. Floridas remain unchanged. Stocks are of very poor quality and in most cases have to be repacked. In New York Floridas have advanced a little in price and were quoted last Monday at $2.75 to $3.00. The demand for Messina lemons is only fair. Stocks on hand are sufficient to meet all wants. Prices remain unchanged at $3.50 per box, They are quoted 25 to 75 cents higher in New York and will in all probability be higher here. Good Malaga grapes which are very scarce bring $6.50. to $7 per bbl.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

FLOUR—Holders are firmer, and they are not offering so freely, owing to the strong market on wheat. Millers are trying to get up the prices, but they are not finding any response to their efforts. There are not many extras offering, but there is an enquiry for them at $4.40 to $4.50. Straight rollers have sold at $4.80.

BRAN—The market is a shade easier outside though local millers are talking stiffer. Outside millers are offering bran to arrive at $16 on the track. Local mills are asking $15 to $16 at the mill, as to quantity.

WHEAT—Not much doing, but the market is strong and higher. On the Northern and Midland districts No. 2 is worth $1.05 to $1.06, and sales have been made at these figures. On the spot No. 2 is enquired for at $1.07 to $1.08. Manitoba grades are strong. No. 1 hard is wanted at $1.30 to $1.31, and extra at $1.32. No. 2 hard Winnipeg inspection is offered at $1.27, with $1.25 bid.

BARLEY—There is a rather better enquiry and prices are firm. No. 1 appears to be worth 60c. to 61c. and No. 2 about 55c. to 56c. No. 3 is offering at 50c. and No. 2 cut at 52c., but without takers. No. 3 extra is enquired for at 50c. Private advices from the American side say that there is a tendency on the part of American maltsters to buy all the barley they can get hold of at the inside price, with the intention of booming malt later in the season. Deliveries throughout the country are smaller and the feeling in the market is generally stronger.

PEAS—Dull and unchanged. Sales have been made at opposite points at 35c. to 37c. Nothing doing on spot.

SPECIALTIES

OATS—Are firmer, with fewer offerings and a better demand. Offerings are not so liberal. Manitobas sold at Carleton at 40c. Sales were made outside to-day at equal to 35c. to 35½c. on the track.

OATMEAL—Dull at $3.75 to $4 for standard; $4 to $4.25 for granulated, and $4.25 to $4.50 for rolled.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

DRIED APPLES—Are unsettled but are tending downward. Dealers have bought round lots at 3c., and they are selling again at 3¾c. to 4c. Evaporated are nominal, at 6c. for cars or smaller round lots, and dealers are offering retail lots at 7c.

EGGS—The market is somewhat unsettled on fresh. Some houses are quite strong, and are asking 17c. to 18c. for strictly new laid, while others have dropped their figures to 16c., and are prepared to sell any quantity at that price. There are several lots of held fresh pressing on the market at 14c. to 16c., but they are finding a slow sale. Pickled are dull; excepting for the very finest stock, dealers will refuse no reasonable offer; sales are being made at 10c. to 15c.

HAY AND STRAW—Receipts of hay continue amply sufficient for the demand. Values are not so firm as they were. Timothy is moving in car lots on the track at $14.50 to $15.50, the top price being for choice small bales. Mixed hay is dull at $12 to $13.50, as the byres are pretty well filled up. Straw steady at $8 to $9.50 on the track.

HOPS—Market continues generally dull and prices are easy, but there has been a a little better demand during the past few days. Several small lots of yearlings sold at 18c. New are worth 20c. to 25c.

POTATOES—Continue to drag. Very few arriving on the track. Street receipts are about sufficient to supply the local demand. In fact, cars have been shipped from here to outside points. Holders outside are offering at 25c. f.o.b., equal to 30c. to 35c. on the track. Smaller quantities are selling out of store at 40c. to 45c.

POULTRY.—Demand is good, but receipts are very light. Choice fresh dry plucked stock is very scarce, but there is a fair amount of frozen, and held about the market. Ordinary turkeys sold at 11c. to 12c., but good to choice fresh are worth 12½c. to 14c. Chickens are firm and in demand at 60c. to 70c. for good to choice. Geese are firm at 7c. to 9c. per lb.

DRESSED HOGS AND PROVISIONS.

Dressed hogs are stronger, owing to light offerings, and a good demand. In the absence of transactions it is difficult to gauge the market accurately. Stocks appear to be pretty well cleared out in the west, but there are quite a few held in Montreal yet. Several enquiries were sent to the west by wire by local buyers, but the only response they got was there were none offering. Choice clean light weights are worth $6.90 to $7.10, but heavy would not realize over $6.50 to $6.60. Rail hogs are being taken up at $6.25 to $7.25 as to quality, the top price being for light, suitable for butchers.

SALT.

Very quiet; Liverpool seems to have been nominal at about 70c. for coarse. Canadian stands as before at 60c. per bag for car lots, and barrelled at 85c. for cars and 90c. for small lots, with three cars sold; and sales of dairy in quarter sacks at 35c.

The Markets—Continued.

PROVISIONS—Bacon is quiet. Demand limited. Long clear is moving at 8½c. to 9c. in tons and cases, but in special cases sales have made been at less. Cumberland is selling at the same figures in small lots to the city trade. Wiltshires offered at 9c. Mess pork dull at $16 to $16.50 for Canadian mess, with American offered at $15.50. Family mess is in fair demand at $16.50 to $17. Lard quiet at 10½c. to 11c. for Canadian in tubs and pails and 10c. to 10½c. for American. Smoked meats steady at quotations.

The Cincinnati Price Current says: "The week's packing in the West has been approximately 270,000 hogs, compared with 230,000 the preceding week, making a total of about 4,695,000 hogs since November 1. Last year the packing for the week was 220,000, and the total 5,365,000, compared with which the past week shows a gain of 50,000, and the season a decrease of 670,000. While some localities report a reduction in average weight of hogs compared with previous receipts, there is a continuance of decidedly heavier averages than last year, and excellent quality. Complaints of maladies among swine are scarcely heard from any district. Prices of hogs have declined 15 to 25 cents per 100 pounds at leading centres, generally about 20 cents, the smaller reduction being in the lighter grades. The movement of hogs the last few days has been quite liberal for the time of year, which fact, with the reduction in prices, may be followed by a temporary holding back, although there is nothing in sight to encourage the hope that prices of hogs should make any special rally in the near future.

"The provision market has been unsettled during the week, gaining something in strength in the early part of the period; but with the evident readiness at Chicago to sell freely on the temporary advances, there has been a continuance of influence calculated to lessen courage among buying interests, and with the effect of enlarged receipts of hogs the past few days the market has given away, until those who previously had some confidence in their ability to discount the probable effect of the surroundings calculated to act depressingly on values have turned aside in bewilderment. It has been plain from the outset that prices of hogs have been largely above a relative parity with corn, but with the evident plentifulness of corn and prospects for low prices for the same it has been believed that with the shortage in number of hogs to be fed and slaughtered during the season this disparity would undoubtedly be maintained. This plentifulness and cheapness of corn has favored relatively short supplies of hogs in the early part of the season and an excess later; the extraordinary weather has promoted the same results, and greatly added to the weight of the animals, and yield of product. While there has been such a combination of influences calculated to develop in favor of weakening values, there has been evidence of good domestic consumption of product, and an enlarged foreign movement, so that while the winter manufacture may closely approach last year's production for the corresponding period, it is quite clear that stocks remaining on March 1 will be smaller than last year. The export clearances of hog product the past week were again large, exceeding corresponding time last year in both meat and lard. Since November 1 the indicated gain compared with last year is about 4,500,000 pounds of meat, and 16,500,000 pounds of lard. Current prices of product at Chicago are equivalent to about $4.40 gross for hogs, compared with $5.30 a year ago—a reduction of 17 per cent."

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER.—The market would appear to have been rather quiet, and this from the fact that the supply has been unsuited to buyers. Really choice, equal to selected dairy, has been in active demand and in short supply, although firm prices have been bid; all offered has been readily taken at 18c. to 19c., and, occasionally, at 20c. for gilt-edged, but the quantity of this grade coming forward has been too small to admit of any considerable trade being done in it. Medium has been sold to a small extent as being the next best grade available, but it has been taken only for the supply of immediate necessities and at nothing over 16c. Common has been neglected, but the little changing hands has sold usually at 13c. to 14c. Box lots of rolls have come forward slowly, though there is no doubt that good, well-packed samples would have brought 15c. to 17c., but on the other hand a lot of over a ton of poor sold at 13½c. on Saturday. Street supplies small and steady at 20c. to 24c. for pound rolls, according to quality, and 19c. to 20c. for really choice tubs of dairy.

CHEESE—Has sold only in small lots, but these have brought firm prices at 10¾c. to 11c. for August, and 11½c. to 11¾c. for September, with summer make obtainable at 8¾c. to 9c., but not much wanted. English quotations again lower by 1s.

COAL OIL.

Trade continues good. American oils are unchanged but Canadian are lower. Following are the quotations to-day: Canadian refined oil, 14c.; carbon safety, 17c.; Canadian water white, home, 19c. to 20c.; American water white, 25c.; photogene, 27c.

FISH.

There is now a large trade being done in fish of every kind. Prices are a great deal lower, and the supply is quite equal to the demand. Port & Co., have received a car of sea herring, which they quote at 80c. per 100. Halifax herring sell at $1.28 per 100. Lake Winnipeg white fish, 7c. per lb. There is a supply of pike at 5c., and good white fish at 6½c. per lb. There is a plentiful supply of British Columbia salmon, which is quoted at 12½c. to 14c. per lb. Ciscoes are quoted at $1.20 to $1.25 per 100. There are no blueback herring in the market. The season for them is about over when the winter sets in. Lake Erie herring are selling at $1.75 per 100. Trout is plentiful at 5c. for round and 6c. for dressed. Finnan Haddie is considerably lower, being quoted at 6½c. per lb., and haddock 4½c. to 8c. per lb. Smelts are not to be had now, but a supply is expected here in the course of a week.

THE CANADA SUGAR REFINING CO'Y [LIMITED],

MONTREAL,

Offer for sale all grades of REFINED SUGARS and SYRUPS of the well-known brand of

Redpath

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

JOHN BAKER EDWARDS, P.L.D., D.C.L., F.C.S.,

Public Analyst for the District of Montreal, and Professor of Chemistry.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY, MEDICAL FACULTY, MCGILL UNIVERSITY

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have taken and tested a sample of your "EXTRA GRANULATED" Sugar, and find that it yielded 99·88 per cent. of Pure Sugar. It is practically as pure and good a Sugar as can be manufactured.

Yours truly,

G. P. GIRDWOOD.

The Markets—Continued.

MONTREAL.

February 21, 1889.

GROCERIES.

There has been a more active trade in general groceries, but in staple goods sugar has ruled quiet and weaker. Tea has further improved under a better demand and higher prices have been made. Payments have been satisfactorily provided for, and few complaints are heard of. The country demand for sundries has been of an average volume.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been more enquiry for some lines of canned goods, and the market has ruled fairly active with a larger volume of business. Owing to the large stocks, the feeling is weak, and holders have got little confidence in prices at present. The demand for tomatoes has been fair, and some round lots have changed hands at 85c., with small lots at 90c. and $1 per dozen. There has been a weak feeling in Erie and Aylmer corn on account of the large offerings, and prices have broken 25c. to 35c. per dozen, with sales of round lots at 75c., but small lots would command more money. Peas have been in better demand, and some fair sized lots have been turned over at $1.25 per dozen. Lobsters have ruled quiet and steady. Mackerel are scarce and firm at $5 per case. Salmon have been moving fairly well at $1.70 and $1.75 per dozen. In canned fruits trade has been dull at unchanged prices. The demand for Armour's canned meats has been fair at firm prices.

TEA AND COFFEE.

The improvement noted in the tea market has been well maintained, and business has continued active under a good demand and a large volume of business has been accomplished. The demand for Japans has been good and some round lots have been turned over at better prices than could have been obtained last week. Orders from the country have been of a larger volume and the market has been active and firm. Advices from New York continue strong and holders here are more confident of even better prices. In coffee a fair volume of business has been done, but we do not hear of any large transactions. Prices are firm. We quote : Mocha 28 to 31 cents, Java 22 to 27 cents, and plantation Ceylon 21 to 25 cents.

SUGARS.

The sugar market has continued weak, and we have to note a further decline of ⅛c. on both granulated and yellows. There has been no improvement in business, which has been small and of a jobbing character, on account of the limited demand. Granulated sold at 7c., with small lots a shade higher, and yellows at 5c. to 5¾c., as to quality.

SYRUPS.

Owing to the fact that the factories are closed down for some little time the offerings of syrup have been light, for which there has been little enquiry, as buyers generally loaded up some time ago. Business has ruled quiet, with prices steady at 3½c. to 4c.

MOLASSES.

The demand for molasses has been slow and the market has ruled quiet and steady with only a small volume of business. The indications are that there will be no improvment in this line until next month. Barbadoes has sold at 40 cents, Trinidad at 32 to 33 cents, and Antigua at 35 cents.

FRUIT.

There has been no improvement in the fruit market, the demand having continued slow with business of a jobbing character. The stock of Valencia raisins is light, and the market is firm, with prices tending upward. We quote 5¼c. to 6c. Currants have also ruled quiet, and the movement will likely continue light until next month. Advices from abroad continue strong, and prices have been well maintained at 5c. to 6c.

FLOUR.

There has been a better movement in flour, that is in desirable grades, such as choice strong bakers and patent spring, which have improved of late, but other grades are in full supply and no more than city. Considerable business has been done in city, strong bakers at $6 and $6.10. Oatmeal has declined and closes easy.

Patent winter	$5 75 @$5 90
Patent spring	6 10 — 6 50
Straight roller	5 40 — 5 60
Extra	5 15 — 5 25
Superfine	4 25 — 4 75

Extra, bags	2 30 — 2 50
Oatmeal, standard, per bag	0 00 — 2 00
Oatmeal, granulated, per bag	0 00 — 2 10

PROVISIONS.

A moderate trade has been transacted in pork in small lots ; but round lots of Canada have sold below $16. Lard has been in fair request. Hams have been active at 11¾ to 12 cents.

Business Changes.

V. E. & H. H. Fuller have assigned to Walter Anderson, of Hamilton.

W. S. Kirkpatrick, general dealer, Lunenburg, is offering to compromise.

G. T. Stickells, tinware, 936 Queen Street West, has assigned to W. J. Crown.

Earle Bros., wholesale stationers, of Montreal, are offering to compromise.

J. F. Otwell, canner and pickler, St. Mary's, has called a meeting of his creditors.

D. Perkins, general dealer, Greenbank, has compromised at 70 cents on the dollar.

Greenshields & McKay, the fashionable Ottawa tailors, are asking an extension.

G. A. Drouin, boot and shoe dealer, Drummondville, Que., is offering to compromise.

Jas. Mays & Co., hardware dealers, Chatham, have called a meeting of their creditors.

F. W. Leaney, tailor, etc., of Port Dover, and Robert Sims, grocer, of Rockwood, are both offering to compromise.

N. Brosseau, dry goods, Montreal, has assigned with liabilities of $5,000. John Farman, a baker, has assigned, owing $2,000.

Isaac Pappin, builder and contractor, of Toronto, has assigned to C. S. Williams, also of Toronto, for the benefit of his creditors.

F. Bricault, a dry goods dealer of King Street East, has placed an offer to compromise before his creditors, which they are now considering.

W. Pike, hardware dealer, 638 Queen Street West, assigned yesterday to Clark, Barber & Co. The liabilities and assets are about equal at $5,500.

A. Michener, dry goods merchant and grocer, Berlin, is endeavoring to effect a compromise. The creditors are Montreal houses, and are pressing their claims.

R. P. Leask, dealer in gents' furnishings and hats, Hamilton, is in trouble, and has called a meeting of his creditors. The liabilities will be about $6,000 and the assets the same.

Mrs. Agnes McRae, general dealer, Arkona, doing business under the name of A. D. McDonald & Co., and at Petrolea as S. D. Abell & Co., tailors, has assigned to C. Armstrong, London.

The estate of W. H. Miller, butcher, Toronto, has been wound up. His liabilities were $1,000, and the stock and book debts realized $88 over the expenses. The creditors got 10 cents on the dollar.

Jacob Morris, tailor, 79 Queen Street West, has failed in his effort to secure a settlement with his creditors, and assigned this morning to Donaldson, Milne & Bellsmith. The assets are $1,600 and the liabilities $2,000.

John Beamish, cooper, 236 Front Street East, assigned on Monday to W. T. Stewart. Mr. Beamish formerly kept a hotel, and was one of those whose licenses were cut off last year, and to the loss thus sustained attributes his failure. The liabilities are $3,000 and the assets practically nothing, the property being entirely covered by mortgages.

The inspectors of the estate of J. W. Gale & Co., are endeavoring to persuade Mr. Gale to make an offer of a lump sum that will equal about 40 cents on the dollar of the liabilities. If Mr. Gale succeeds in paying this he will be granted a discharge.

F. Qua & Co., stationers and fancy goods dealers, King Street West, assigned some weeks ago, and at the time it was expected they would obtain a settlement, as they showed a good surplus, but they have been unsuccessful, and the stock is now advertised for sale by auction.

The meeting of creditors of Mr. J. Kelly, Queen street, which took place some days since, was most satisfactory in every respect. A settlement was easily arrived at, Mr. Kelly offering very liberal terms, and the first payments have been made. Mr. Kelly will keep right on with the business at the old stand.

The creditors of Mrs. Rogers met again Tuesday afternoon at the Empress hotel, and made an attempt to find out what had become of the $6,000 which has so mysteriously disappeared, but nothing was brought to light. Mrs. Rogers made an offer of 40 cents, and the meeting adjourned till to-day to give them an opportunity to consider the matter.

Among the assignments reported are :—

John Baker, hotel, Lynden ; W. H. Jones, general dealer, Merritton ; D. Brady, dry goods, Brockville ; J. P. Dusahlon & Co., general store, Three Rivers ; D. M. Brown, grocer, Janetville ; Able & Redmond, builders, Norwich ; Edward Woodbridge, books, Palmerston ; M. Cohen, fancy goods, Chatham ; E. Overell & Co., stationers, Hamilton ; Cornell & Co., drugs, Wardsville ; Albert Lide, Sr., shoes, Chatham ; W. Tench & Son, millers, Chippewa ; W. D. Madden, books, Napanee ; Donald McDonald, grocer, Ripley,

Fred Bleecker, boot and shoe dealer, Belleville, is reported to have left Canada. Mr. Bleecker had been in business for a couple of years, and had opened accounts with several Toronto houses, and the payments for his fall and winter purchases are now maturing. Before he left he sold out his entire stock, valued at $6,000, for 65 cents on the dollar, and offered his book debts for $400. Bleecker borrowed money from his father and his wife's relatives before leaving, to the amount of $700. It is believed that Bleecker carried away $6,000 in cold cash.

The creditors of J. H. Doherty, clothier, of Ottawa, met at the Walker house Tuesday afternoon, and had a lively time of it. Mr. Doherty assigned a few days ago to Mr. T. H. Pratt, of Pratt & Watkins, Hamilton, the heaviest creditors. At the meeting Tuesday considerable vigorous opposition developed to Mr. Pratt as trustee, and an effort was made to have an Ottawa man appointed, but it was not successful. A statement was presented, showing the liabilities to be $32,099 and the assets $23,802. An offer of 40 cents was rejected, and inspectors appointed to examine the estate and report at a future meeting.

Milton D. Kean, dry goods dealer, of Orillia, is seriously embarrassed by business difficulties. About a year ago F. Kean, father of the present proprietor, went out of the firm, and left the business to his son, who opened branch and supply houses at Oshawa, Lindsay and Burk's Falls. Last week he asked for an extension, and a meeting of the creditors was held. A statement showing assets $47,000 and liabilities $55,000, was submitted and discussed, the result being a decision to send John B. Lang, assignee, to make a thorough investigation of the whole matter. An assignment has already been made, but Mr. Lang is armed with authority that if everything is found satisfactory the assignment will not be put in force, but a meeting will be held next week to consider the question of an extension.

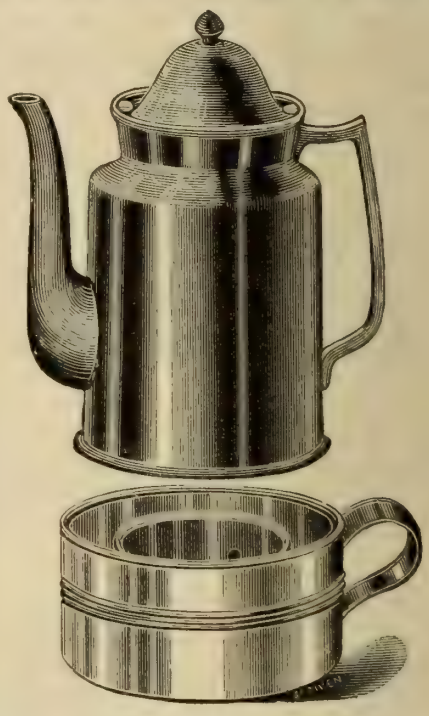
GROCERS!



IT is well known that everywhere in France one can get a good cup of coffee, and it is also an established fact, that the reverse is the case in Canada. Many blame the coffee, but the true cause is simply this. "Not one cook in a dozen knows how to make coffee properly." The above cut represents a new invention which is very simple in construction, and any child can make a good cup of coffee with it. You simply fill the tin can with boiling water, then set the pot on top, put the requisite amount of coffee in the bag inside the pot, then pour a sufficient amount of boiling water into the pot and let it stand on the stove for 3 or 4 minutes, when you will have a first class cup of coffee.

This coffee pot is the simplest, cheapest, and best article of the kind ever invented, and the low price makes it within the reach of all. They are packed 1 doz. in a barrel. Price $6 per doz. Send $6 for 1 doz. as a sample, and you will find it all that we recommend it to be.

SPECIAL TO OUR READERS.

As the design of THE CANADIAN GROCER is to benefit mutually all interested in the business, we would request all parties ordering goods or making purchases of any description from houses advertising with us to mention in their letter that such advertisement was noticed in THE CANADIAN GROCER.

THE EARLY CLOSING ACT.

An application has been made in the Local Legislature for a return showing the names of the municipalities which have passed by-laws under the authority of the "Ontario Shops Regulation Act," distinguishing between cases where such by-laws were passed in pursuance of petitions therefor and the cases where by-laws were passed without petitions in favor thereof; and showing, also, which of the by-laws have since been repealed. The object is to get all the information possible in regard to the working of the Ontario Shops Regulation Act, which, it is asserted, had not been operating successfully, but on the contrary led to trouble and turmoil in many municipalities where it was still in force, and in many municipalities where it had been repealed. The people, in many cases, regarded it as a direct interference with their rights and liberties.

Mr. Meredith went for the Act very strongly. He said that many had supported it, thinking it would be a success, but was not. It was stated last session that the Mother Country had proposed, and would carry into effect, some such legislation, but the House would remember that the session was hardly over when the proposed measure was laughed out of the Imperial Parliament by a large majority of the members, and among the strongest opponents of it were those who might be assumed to be most interested in the labor question. The experience of the Act in this province was that it was wholly unworkable, not by reason of any defect in the machinery, but simply because of the unsound principle upon which it was based of attempting to interfere with the liberty of the subject. He did not deny that it was most desirable to shorten the hours of labor by some proper means, such as by calling upon the owners of shops throughout the country to support the idea, but when hon. gentlemen undertook by legislation to declare that people shall conduct legitimate business in such and such way, and according to such and such ideas, they were introducing a tyrannical power, belonging not to this century, but to centuries long since past and gone. This Legislature undertook to say "It is an offence to carry on your business by selling in the ordinary way for the purpose of meeting your obligations. Why, such a thing belonged to the dark ages of legislation. Not only in the city of Toronto, but in every city throughout the province the Act had been found unworkable. The majority in the city of Toronto originally favored the measure, but when it was attempted to work the measure it was found to be a gross interference with the liberty of the subject, and it should have been at once repealed. He understood that in the city of Toronto to-day there was not any trade which would have the Legislature control it, and in the city of London only the druggists, who were eight or ten in number, allowed themselves to be governed by it. The trial of it all through the country had shown it to be a measure which should never have been placed upon the statute books of the province; it had met with so little response.

DUTY ON HOG PRODUCTS.

Mr. F. W. Fearman, of Hamilton, accompanied by about a dozen members of parliament, waited on the Minister of Customs, Monday, and presented a petition signed by 1,600 farmers in Western Ontario approving of the recent request of the Canadian Pork Packers' Association, and strongly urging that the rate of duty on mess pork be increased from $2 to $4 per barrel, and that an additional duty be placed on adulterated lard. The petitioners pointed out that mess pork was made entirely from heavy, well-fatted hogs, which cost the farmer more to raise than animals of medium weight, and yet the product of the first named class had only half the amount of protection enjoyed by the other. The present rate of duty, they contended, operated only in favor of a few and against the many, and consequently they expressed the confident hope that the Minister would see his way clear to urge an increase.

OPPOSED TO A DUTY ON FRUITS.

A delegation of fruit dealers, consisting of Messrs. Graham and Paul, of Montreal; Cleghorn, of Toronto; Bishop, of Niagara, and Dixon, of Hamilton, interviewed the Ministers of Customs and Finance on Friday, and urged that the duties be not re-imposed on small fruits. They said that the market could not be supplied with Canadian fruit until late in the season, so that the duties did not interfere with the Canadian crop. They asked also that the specific duty upon grapes should be based upon the weight of the keg containing the grapes, packing, etc., so as to avoid the necessity of opening the keg and thereby prevent the depreciation of the value of the fruit.

THE DUTY ON BRANDY.

Messrs. Gillespie, Hudon and Hebert, of Montreal, interviewed Hon. Messrs. Bowell and Foster on Friday, and asked that the clause in the tariff imposing a duty of $2.00 per imperial gallon upon brandy be altered so that the duty be levied according to the strength of the liquid instead of by quantity. They represented that the brandy now imported and bottled is about fifteen degrees below proof. If the present system is continued the brandy will be imported in casks as high as 150 degrees proof and bottled in this country, which would occasion a great loss to the revenue. Under the other system of enforcing the $2.00 duty per gallon under proof is an additional tax to the importers of 60 cents per case.

THE RAISIN MARKET.

As we have several times pointed out, the raisin market is firm with an upward tendency. All the better grades are good stock, and are held at full prices. There are a good many inferior valencias on this market, but they are gradually disappearing. New York advices say there are some indications of a revival of interest for raisins. Valencia, Sultana and California are selling with increased freedom in a jobbing way, and at prices which indicate considerable firmness upon the part of those in whose hands the bulk of the stock rests. The statistical position of Valencia is regarded as favourable, and it is the general belief that with the expiration of another month a higher value will be established as a consequence of the scarcity of really prime stock. In the available supply to-day a considerable portion consists of low-grade goods; but these are gradually being worked off by frequent sales to consumers, so when the spring trade has fairly set in, buyers, it is believed, will discriminate more closely, and give the better keeping qualities the preference in disposing of their favours. Previous to the arrival of the "Caledonia" the stock there was estimated at about 130,000 boxes, but the coming of this steamer made an addition of 21,000 boxes, thus bringing the total quantity in round figures up to 150,000 boxes. The first arrival of new goods cannot be counted upon until about the middle of September, therefore importers and dealers have fully six months to dispose of a quantity which should easily be distributed in four. The quantity upon the way is small, and Denia is said to have very few remaining for shipment. Sultana are well concentrated to-day, and, with a very limited quantity held in Europe, there is no doubt entertained relative to the position of the article during the remainder of the season. Of California there is a considerable quantity remaining in the various markets; but of really prime goods, such as three-crown loose and London of the better brands, there is a positive scarcity. Buyers are beginning to investigate their probable early wants, and are already making some selections. True, these at the moment are not large, but interest is growing, and from present indications increased activity will be the feature of the market during the coming month.

WHICH IS THE BETTER SUGAR?

PAISLEY, ONT., Feb. 19, 1880.

DEAR SIR,- Let me know through THE GROCER how American granulated sugar compares with Canadian as to quality, and oblige.

Yours truly, D. SHANKS.

Canadian granulated sugar is fully up in test and as pretty in color as the American. Canadian granulated is certainly superior to many grades of American granulated. We have before us at this moment samples of Redpath's and three samples of American, which were taken from the table of a leading Chicago hotel a couple of weeks ago. The Canadian is much better than any of the American. There has been a decided improvement in the quality of all white sugars made in Canada since the agreement was entered into between the wholesale grocers and the refiners.

THE COMBINES BILL.

A committee of the Toronto Board of Trade has been considering the Combines' Bill now before the House of Commons. They have come to the conclusion that the bill had been drawn without a just conception of business principles or an adequate knowledge of the requirements of trade. It is totally at variance with the legitimate use of capital, and to enforce the principles of the bill would destroy all attempts at associated effort in its true direction, and gradually place in the hands of individuals a monopoly of business without responsibility to any law regulating operations of trade. After showing the distinction between monopolies and trusts and combines, the committee go on to say that the effects of combinations in Canada have proved consistent with public interest. No company under the rules of a combination has declared a dividend excessively large, and, furthermore, through combinations a higher standard of business morality has been obtained. They also steady the market by removing local disturbances, impart a business tone and introduce an element of security into trade. The committee believe that righteous combinations are a benefit to all concerned, the public included, and that if formed on unrighteous principles their existence would be of short duration while subject to the scrutiny of a shrewd and intelligent press and people. But if the Government deem it prudent or expedient to permit a passage of a bill so entirely opposed to the country, the committee think that certain changes and modifications should be made. In conclusion, the committee are of opinion that in addition to the obnoxious features of the principles of the bill, it would be a constant source of litigation and expense to business men. It would be impossible to carry on trade in its various ramifications without making arrangements which the bill would claim to regulate.

The committee's report was unanimously adopted by the Council.

BOXING DRIED FRUITS.

The boxing of foreign dried fruits is now carried on to a considerable extent in the American markets, and on several occasions it has been done here. Not only have they been boxed, but common prunes and dates have been put up in attractive pound packages. There seems to be no doubt but this way of handling the goods will gradually become quite common, both here and in the States. The boxing of currants has become a new industry in the New York market. This practice enables many buyers who prefer to handle stock in smaller packages than barrels an opportunity of doing so; another advantage is that the box makes a better display in the stock of a retailer, in the same way that prunes have met with such general satisfaction since the introduction of the Sultana. Some buyers, however, have been led to the belief that only Vostizza have come in cases; such, however, is not a fact, as the packing of provincial in Greece has been an industry dating back some time. With some dealers, who do an extensive trade, great care should be exercised in the execution of orders, for in the periods of rush and excitement, which are frequent at times in the fruit trade, careless employes may turn out provincial stock in cases when Vostizza are specially named by the buyers. Such mistakes are liable to happen, so it would be well for both buyers and sellers to notice closely that such errors are not made and permitted to pass.

MARKET FRAUDS.

A letter appears in the Kingston papers from Mr. J. Gilbert, Secretary of the Retail Grocers' Association, in which he makes an attack on the municipal system which allows farmers and hucksters to work off inferior quality and short weight on the unsuspecting consumers, but which punishes the grocer who honestly tries to furnish them with reliable goods. They have the same trouble in Kingston as they have in Toronto. What we want in both cities is an officer such as they have in Hamilton. The steps being taken by both associations will be watched with interest. Mr. Gilbert's letter, which hits out straight from the shoulder, is as follows:

I feel that in writing on this disagreeable subject I am not only doing justice to the public but also to the farmer who is trying to deal honestly with the world. It is an undoubted fact that a large proportion of the produce brought in each market day is unfit for use, owing, generally, to its being kept back in order to command a higher price.

There is another fraud in practice, namely. Bags of potatoes, &c., as a rule have good articles on top and small ones in the centre; yes, very often decayed and useless ones. Goods are also short in weight Last week a consumer bought a barrel of apples from a farmer. They were recommended to him as being first-class. The farmer was honest enough to say the barrel contained two kinds. The top, he said, were "seek no furthers." After the farmer had gone the buyer thought he would seek further down the barrel, and he was disgusted to think that he had paid hard-earned money for rotten apples.

Again, another farmer was paid on the market for a quarter of pork. At the house he collected the amount from another member of the household. Again, a farmer sold an unsuspecting person a lot of rotten eggs, guaranteeing them to be new-laid ones. The price paid for them was twenty-eight cents per dozen. These are only a few samples of the frauds committed each market day, and right under the eyes of Justice and only a few feet from the place of punishment. There must be a law against such dealings; if there is, it is as silent as the guns in the park. Why are not some of our salaried officials (who don't like to work between meals) made to look after this evil as diligently as they do after poor grocers who are trying to get good butter and eggs for the majority of our citizens who cannot attend market

If a grocer puts a barrel of cranberries or a few boxes of soap out in front of his shop to aid him in making money enough to pay his taxes and salaries, he is arraigned before the magistrate and fined for committing so grievous an offence. I do hope in the interest of the public the Council will look into this important matter, for it is much worse than can be pictured. Seizing poor stuff brought into market from time to time will not stay the evil. A heavy fine should be imposed.

The Kingston Retail Grocers' Association is making a strong effort to stop many existing evils, and the honest public should encourage them. In Toronto the grocers are doing noble work in this direction, and the citizens do all in their power to aid them.—J. GILBERT, Sec. K. R. G. A.

Canned Goods.

THE CANADIAN PACKERS' ASSOCIATION.

The Annual Meeting of the Canadian Packers' Association will be held in Toronto on Thursday next, at the office of the CANADIAN GROCER. As a number of important matters will come up, it is necessary that all should be present.

WESTERN PACKERS' ASSOCIATION.

We regret that owing to the pressure of other matter the report of the Western Packers' Association Meeting can only be given in part. The following is a report of Mr. W. Boulter's speech as the representative of the Canadian Packers' Association :—

Mr. President, Officers and Members of the Western Packers' Association :

Gentlemen—Upon the invitation of your respected President and Secretary, I again visit your Association. It affords me much pleasure to again meet with you in this great metropolis of the Western States.

When I visited you last February at your convention at St. Louis, it was with feelings of timidity that I attempted to address you, a stranger to all, but my fears were soon dispelled. Your warm, courteous greeting soon made me feel I was amongst friends.

We were assembled in the annual meeting of your Association to discuss that which I trust may be of practical benefit to every member of us, for I feel sure your honorable Secretary at St. Louis pinned the badge of honorary membership on my breast. I am interested in the success of the Western Packers' Association, and I am going to "retaliate" on you all I can by reaping as much benefit as possible; and although we do not compete one against the other, the Canadian Packers' Association—and yours to any great extent—as the trade-wall between the two countries bars that, and I am perfectly satisfied to let it remain as it is, notwithstanding all sophistry of Messrs. Wiman & Butterworth to the contrary.

I did think at one time I could not spare the time to come so far, but in looking over the circular I received and seeing so many manufacturers had promised to exhibit machinery, and that the Messrs. Norton Bros., in addition to their furnishing motive power, would throw open their mammoth can-packing works, I felt I must come, and I have also brought my son, who, with his brother, is interested with me in my business. I am also pleased that the genial Secretary of our Association, Mr. J. B. McLean, editor of the CANADIAN GROCER, is with us representing, as he does, one of the commercial papers of the Dominion and the organ of the Association for Canada.

I must not take up too much of your time. As far as our business in Canada is concerned, the season was very unfavorable for packing of early fruits, as we passed through a fearful drouth—the months of June and July—but the crop of tomatoes and corn was good and a very large pack of both took place. Our Secretary will be able to inform you of the amount of goods packed; we know it is overdone and prices have dropped lower than ever

In conclusion, it affords me much pleasure to extend to you, gentlemen, my congratulations in having a gentleman at the head of your Association who is capable of massing together so many intelligent and successful ideas as he has in his annual address that is of so much benefit to you.

I trust he may long be spared, and on whom his mantle may fall I believe the path is now made smooth for your future success. The first President of an association, I well know the difficulties attending the position. In a much humbler organization in Canada I did what I could in organizing, and for four years had the responsibility resting on me. But your President has been ably aided and assisted by your honorable and efficient Secretary. I am unable to accord to him that praise he so well deserves. His ever watchful eye was always directed to your interests, and the reports issued from his office of the state of affairs and prosperity of the crops, etc., generally, and of the amount packed and sold, I am sure, has been of financial benefit to all of you.

I sincerely hope, gentlemen, you all have had a prosperous year, and that the Western Packers' Canned Goods Association may long continue to exist, and be the means of accomplishing much good. Let me extend to you our fraternal greeting and wish you prosperity, and that we may have the pleasure of seeing many of you visiting our own loved Dominion of Canada.

Correspondence

We invite correspondence from readers in every section on subjects pertaining to the trade, and shall be pleased to answer questions of general interest in this department. We require with each letter the name and address of the sender, not necessarily for publication, unless agreeable to writers, but for our own protection.

THE COMPROMISE QUESTION.

WINDSOR, FEB. 14, 1889.

Dear Sir,—We are in favor of not granting compromises. Still exceptions should be made, such as losses by fire, or where a person is known to live within his means and personal habits taken into consideration. But by all means try and stop this excessive cutting on retail prices of goods; it does the trade more harm than anything that we know of. Yours respectfully,

KANADY & BESSON.

LONDON, Feb. 14, 1887.

Editor, GROCER : Dear Sir,—The question, Should wholesale houses sign compromises? is an open one. In nine cases out of ten they should not, for in most cases a compromise is only a forerunner of an assignment. It is very often caused by cutting prices, and thereby hurting his neighbour who pays one hundred cents on the dollar, or by being a reckless buyer, loading himself up with goods that could be bought just as cheap in smaller lots. In cases like the above, the man does not deserve a compromise. Yet an honest man may get his money so locked up as not to be available when wanted, but whose assets are about equal to his liabilities, it would be hard to refuse 75c. on the dollar. Yet, as a whole, I am not in favour of signing compromises, for, as a rule, it is unfair to the man who knows how to do business and has the money to do it with.

RETAILER.

KINGSTON, Feb. 13, 1889.

Dear Sir,—I brought the matter of Compromises before the meeting of the Kingston Retail Grocers' Association. I read the letter on page 4, and its endorsement by the meeting was unanimous. Mr. Loynes also read a letter in another issue of your paper, and I think I can safely say that the feeling in Kingston is certainly against compromises. Of course there are exceptions to every rule. Very often a young beginner not aware of the many pitfalls connected with business is unable to meet payments promptly, as the first step is always hard to climb, and consequently the wholesaler crowds him and sells the stock to some wandering Jew at so much on the dollar, and the honest dealer suffers. The wholesale man, in this respect, is like the boy who, in putting in a pane of glass, breaks three. Yours truly,

J. GILBERT,

Sec. Kingston Retail Grocers' Association.

ST. THOMAS, Feb. 12, 1889.

Dear Sir,—In reply to the letter on compromises, I will explain myself in this way : Directly, I am opposed, for the law of nature teaches me that if my brother falls I must help him up. Indirectly, standing as a father over his sons' welfare, I help one son up and he undertakes to strike his brother. I, the father, must step between them and prevent any harm befalling either of them. So it is with my brother grocer. The father should help him up if he falls honestly, and if he fails through what might be called dishonest acts, such as selling his goods at or below cost and he repents, the father should lift him up and prevent him doing so when under the father's charge, by binding him to do as his brother does, as long as his brother does right. Then you will help the brother which will hurt no one. That is to say, if A pays 100 cents on the dollar and sells at 20 per cent. profit, and B fails and pays 40 cents on the dollar, bind him to sell as A until he stands on a level with A. A will be making 20 cents on the dollar; B, the one who needs help, will be making 90 cents on the dollar until he stands on a level with A, and no one of the brothers is hurt. Should the son die, the law of nature tells the father that he must bury his son so that the rest of his sons will not be affected by the decaying body ; so it is with the father grocermen. If one of their sons die they must bury his body honestly, so that the other brothers will not be affected through the deceased. In this way let the fathers take their sons' goods and divide them among others sons or the brothers of the same family or city, and all will be profited by the fathers' disposition to do good and help the family through many difficulties. Hoping this may throw some light on this important question, I remain yours, a lover of honest dealing,

A. R. MACDONALD.

HAMILTON, Feb. 18, 1889.

Sir,—I am strongly in favor of doing away with compromise, as in the event of such a thing taking place no merchant who has hitherto paid 100 cents on the dollar need fear coming to grief, barring some unforeseen calamity, as in that case honesty and punctuality in paying accounts would count for something in such a man's favour, which at present it does not seem to do. As we do not hear of any wholesaler failing, it is evident that the 100 cents on the dollar men are bearing the brunt of the whole thing, and I think they have the right to demand that the wholesale houses should stop it. There is a good deal of maudlin sympathy expressed for some of these compromisers who have stinted themselves of no pleasures that their creditors' money would buy them, but where is the pity for the other man who denies himself the year round in order that his little profits, which are much smaller than they need be but for the other fellow, may be sufficient to pay every one their own. Can anything be more galling than to pay $100 for a thing which your compromising competitor gets for $40. I cry shame on the wholesalers that they do not instantly sweep away such an astounding state of things. There used to be much shame in not being able to pay one's full liabilities, but now the less a person (I was going to say a man, but person will do better) gets off with paying, the higher he cocks his beaver. Some of them even pay their pew rent and subscriptions to mission funds with money really belonging to the wholesaler. Sit down on them hard, friend wholesaler, and sell only to A1 men. You will sell quite as many goods, have fewer accounts, less losses, and the pleasure of allowing your humble friends who have hitherto paid 100 cents on the dollar a chance to make a little profit. As I cannot sign my own name to this without appearing to brag that I have always paid in full, I therefore subscribe myself,

MERRY CUSS.

GORRIE, Feb. 21, 1889.

Dear Sir,—Enclosed find my subscription for CANADIAN GROCER up to Dec. 31. I am very much pleased with it. The letters you have published on the question of Compromises have the right ring about them. It is high time that something was done to stop this pernicious practice. The fact is that for the past few years it has been very difficult in many places at least for the honest, careful dealer who aims at paying 100 cents on the dollar to do so and make a living. There are so many men who have neither capital of their own nor business ability, who are helped into business by some wholesale house in order to make an outlet for their goods. The usual result is that these men go to work and slaughter goods, compelling their neighbors to follow suit or else see their trade leaving them, and in the end there are sometimes two or three failures when there should not have been any. We claim that the wholesale men are very largely responsible for a great many of the failures that occur. If they would use more prudence in the selection of the men they sell goods to, and not be so ready to grant compromises when asked to do so, the retail trade of the country would soon be in a much healthier condition than it is at present. Yours truly,

W. S. BEEM.

TORONTO RETAILERS AT HOME.

The "At Home" of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association was held in Victoria Hall last Monday evening, and to say that the affair was a success only half conveys the idea.

Last year the retail grocers had a very successful dinner, but many of them felt the absence of the ladies, who are so essential to an evening's enjoyment. The committee appointed this year saw what would be the most popular and most successful, and at once decided upon an "At Home." The Association did well in appointing such able men as Messrs. J. Berwick, R. Barron, R. Mills, A. G. Booth, F. Britton, J. G. Gibson, J. F. Thackray, F. S. Roberts, Butcher, D. W. Clark, H. W. McCulloch and F. W. Johnston as a committee to get up such an affair. The success that crowned all their efforts is sufficient proof of their worth.

Grocers, both wholesale and retail, could be seen winding their way towards Victoria Hall long before the hour appointed, their faces wearing a look of contentment and satisfaction in anticipation of an evening away from the worry and cares of business. By a quarter past eight the Hall was crowded to the doors.

Mr. Berwick, the worthy President, bid all a hearty welcome, and, in a brief opening address, said : That they had made a new venture and called it an "At Home," because it says in the Bible that "it is not good for a man to be alone," and the committee thought it would be a grand opportunity for grocers to bring their wives, daughters and sisters, or some one else's sister, and have a good time. He was glad to see so many present and hoped all would thoroughly enjoy themselves.

The following programme was then presented :—

CONCERT PROGRAMME.

Overture—Prof. Payne and Orchestra.
Song—"Johnny Morgan," Mr. A. Forrester.
Song—Selected, Miss Matthews.
Concertina Solo—Prof. Payne.
Song—"Happy Dreams," Mr. Dimmock.
Song—"Dear Heart," Miss Birdie McKeown.
Song—Humorous, Mr. Walmsley.
Song—"Down the burn, Davie," Miss Barron.
Song—"Let me like a Soldier fall," Mr. Gordon Shirriff.
Song—"All's Well," Mr. Falconer.

The various numbers were well performed and many of them received encores, which were kindly responded to. Several of the names on the programme are well known. Mr. A. Forrester, who sang the song, "Johnny Morgan," is one of Mr. J. H. Hargraves' clerks. He has the reputation of being able to entertain his customers as he did the audience. Miss Matthews and Miss Birdie McKeown both made happy selections in the songs they sung. Miss Barron's "Down the Burn, Davie," was sung in such a pleasing way that she entirely captivated the audience. She was loudly encored, and gave "Bessie's Wooing," which was also very nicely rendered. Miss Barron is a daughter of the popular Vice-President of the Association, Mr. Robert Barron. She has a splendid voice, and is very successful in Scottish song. During the concert Ald. Joseph Tait, President of the Bakers' Association, entered the hall, and was invited to a seat on the platform. He made a very happy speech, referring to the friendly rivalry between the Grocers' and Bakers' Associations. In the matter of the annual gathering, he thought the bakers had the best annual dinner, but this "At Home" was far ahead of anything the bakers ever had. This was because the grocers called on the ladies to assist them. A vote of thanks was tendered to the various performers on motion of Mr. Mills, seconded by Mr. Barron.

The seats were then removed and dancing commenced. This part of the evening's programme was thoroughly enjoyed. The committee and members of the association saw to it that all present were made acquainted with each other, and the evening was thus passed most pleasantly. Prof. Payne's orchestra provided the music. The following was the PROGRAMME OF DANCES.

1. Grocers' Grand March and Circle
2. Lancers.
3. Waltz.
4. Quadrille.
5. Military Schottische.
6. Jersey.
7. Ripple.
8. Eight-Hand Reel.
9. Highland Schottische.
10. Quadrille-Lancers

If time permits commence again with No. 1, and finish with Sir Roger de Coverley.

In the dining-room an excellent supper was served by Mr. R. J. Lloyd.

Dancing was continued until about one o'clock, when Sir Roger de Coverley closed a most enjoyable evening. So successful was the affair that already some of the members are beginning to talk of one for next year. Owing to lack of space it is impossible to give a list of those present.

TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

Secretary's Address:—
474 PARLIAMENT STREET,
Toronto, Ontario.

Evaporated corn is offering at 7c.

Smith & Keighley have imported a lot of Honey Drop Corn.

Granulated is now selling at the same price in New York as in Canada.

A car load of the Rising Sun Canning Co.'s jams has been consigned to Delaporte & Co., Toronto, to be sold.

The British American Starch Co. have issued a circular notifying the wholesale trade that they will discontinue paying freight on small lots of starch to retailers.

Mr. James Dickson, the wholesale produce and provision merchant, says in reply to the statement that wholesale grocers have been selling lard at less than the regular provision trade, that the grocers should be able to sell at ⅜c. per lb. less, as they use discarded butter tubs which cost less and on which the duty is 5 per cent. less. He offers to sell choice lard at 9½c. in the regulation 56-lb. tub, and asks if any wholesale grocer can sell lower than that.

On Sunday morning about ten o'clock a fire broke out in B. McNichol's grocery store, Orangeville, destroying the whole building and contents. R. Mann's fruit store and the telephone office, which were connected, were partially destroyed. McNichol's loss is estimated at $2,500, insured for $1,150 in the Royal Canadian and the Fire Assurance Association.

Sir John Macdonald presented a petition in the House of Commons from the retail grocers and manufacturers of Kingston on Tuesday, protesting against the action of the Dominion Wholesale Grocers' Guild, and asking the House to put a stop to this combine, and to enable the petitioners to carry on their trade in refined sugar without let or hindrance, and at current market rates.

The amount of gum chewed and thrown away by Londoners, says the Free Press, is enormous. It is the rage now for people to chew gum at all hours and especially in the evening. Hostesses are expected to have a supply of gum on hand and offer it to callers, if they do not first proffer it themselves. Young people are not the only ones who chew, but many older folks work their jaws half the day.

"Le Sphinx" is the name of a brand of Turkish prunes that have just been placed on this market for the first time. They are the finest prepared Turkish prunes that have ever been offered here, The quality is a brilliant one, and the exterior packing is very nice. They are specially prepared on the French system, and do not candy up as those prepared in the ordinary way. They are put up in four sizes, 80-85; 85-90; 95-100, and 110-115. Quality and size guaranteed. They are being offered to the trade by Sloan & Crowther; Perkins, Ince & Co.; Eby, Blain & Co., Smith & Keighley, and Eckardt, Kyle & Co.

Egan Bros. is a new sign over store No. 539 Talbot Street, St. Thomas. The brothers Louis and James having bought the stock and goodwill of Mr. J. H. Price, and with that business ability and hustle that both possess, the store is made to look inviting, and being one of the best locations in the city their prospects are bright for a successful trade. Both are young men of large experience in the grocery business, Louis having eight years' experience on the road for a leading wholesale house, and James five years as clerk in a retail store. The stock is of the choicest collection, which will be maintained. They propose to sell at a profit, and a community well served will not object to that.

Outing for March, is a very strong sporting number. We note the following principal articles: "Fox Hunting; A Day in the Shires," by Henry H. L. Pearse ("Plantagenet"), richly illustrated; "Lawn Tennis in the South," by Henry W. Slocum, jr.; "Snowshoeing in Canuckia," by James C. Allan. "Salmon Fishing on Loch Tay," by "Rockwood," and illustrated by J. & G. Temple, deserves special mention. In addition, we note "Spaniel Training," by D. Boulton Herrald; "How to Cycle in Europe," by Joseph Pennell; "Amateur Photography," by Ellerslie Wallace; and "Winter Shooting in Florida," by F. Campbell Moller. There is, moreover, a well illustrated account of "Coaching and Coaching Clubs," by Chas. S. Pelham-Clinton, and a "Sonnet," by Howell Stroud England. The editorial departments are bright and attractive, and the Records present, in a complete manner, the latest achievements of our athletes.

On Tuesday, Mr. Small, M.P., presented a petition to Parliament, signed by 150 Toronto merchants, in opposition to the request of the Pork Packers' Association asking for an increased duty on adulterated lard. The petitioners state that the lard compound is put upon the market under an honest name and branded compound lard. Analysis shows it to be a perfectly pure, healthy and nutritious food product or preparation, consisting of hog's lard, beef fat, and pure cotton seed oil, and that it gives universal satisfaction to consumers wherever lard is sold. The petitioners state that the request of the Pork Packers' Association savors most strongly of self-interest, or, in other words, that they are anxious to corner the market for lard in Canada. It is worthy of note, however, that this last petition was prepared by the solicitors of the leading American lard manufacturers, and was circulated among the trade by the local representatives of these firms.

TORONTO.

March 1, 1889.

GROCERIES.

Trade has been very quiet all week. The millinery openings brought a few out of town merchants to the market, but they have made no purchases of importance. Travellers' orders have been lighter than usual. This is accounted for by the difficulty in getting about the country owing to the snow-blocked roads. Payments have been poor. Most country merchants are reserving their cash to meet paper falling due on March 4.

CANNED GOODS.

The market is very dull, and in some lines the feeling is very weak, owing to the offerings of inferior goods at lower prices. Many of the trade have been offered corn and peas as low as 75c. by representatives of the canning factories. Some of these are put up by an Eastern packer under the labels of a defunct packing house. Choice brands are held at 90c. to $1. Tomatoes seem steady; holders are asking 90c. to $1.10, but Richardson's have been offered at 80c. to 85c. Stocks of tomatoes appear to be getting into fewer hands. There is no change to note in fish.

COFFEES

are firm and in good demand. The local market is almost bare of stock. Fair Rios are moving at 18c. to 20c. Outside markets are strong and a good deal of confidence is expressed in the statistical situation.

TEAS.

The market has been quiet in the past week, with little buying. A few Japans have changed hands, and a few sales in medium and low grade Congous have taken place. Young Hysons have been somewhat neglected, owing, to some extent, to buyers not having advanced their ideas in keeping with the higher prices quoted by holders.

A very interesting analysis of shipments of Indian teas from Calcutta just to hand shews the total clearances from that port for season 1888-89, for eight months up to 31st Dec. last, to be 82,567,865 lbs., being an increase of 7,097,478 lbs. over shipments for same months last season.

SUGARS.

No change was made in the prices of granulated and other white sugars on Saturday. Granulated is now selling at 7⅜c. to 7½c. Yellows are moving at 5c. to 6c. Demand is very light. Raws are nominal. Outside markets are firm and in some instances slightly higher. A Liverpool circular of Feb. 14 says, "Sugar continues to fluctuate in value, pending the realization by the trade of the growing strength of its statistical position."

SYRUP AND MOLASSES.

Low grade syrups are unobtainable while there is a firm market on medium and bright goods. Molasses is steady and in fair demand. The movement is chiefly in Porto Rico, which are selling at 45c. in barrels for ordinary to 50c. to 52c. for fine.

DRIED FRUIT.

Trade has not opened up yet, but holders of raisins and currants express a good deal of confidence in the future, and values of all choice qualities are very firm. Currants are quiet and unchanged at 5¼c. up for barrels. Dates are in fair demand at unchanged prices. Figs are dull. Prunes are steady; casks have sold at 4⅜c. to 4½c.; kegs at 5½c. to 6c., and cases at 6⅜c. to 8c. Raisins are steady. Valencias are cabled from Denia higher, on a basis of 6½c. delivered at New York for off-stalk; stocks in London and Spain are very small; good to choice are held at 6c. to 6½c. Malagas are firm. From Malaga, under date of 7th ult., the following, upon the subject of raisins, has been received: "Stocks are small, and prices firm at 35, 25 and 50 reals for layers, loose and Londons, first cost in store, but as most of these now here are held by exporters for shipment to Europe and South America, it is doubtful if any orders could be executed for the United States, except a few loose and clusters of the high grades."

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER.—Receipts have been very light until the past couple of days, when they showed some improvement. The falling off in the supply has been due, to a considerable extent, to the bad roads in the country, making it difficult for farmers to go to market. Demand has been more active, and purchases have been made for several lots of low and mediums for shipment to all points from British Columbia to Halifax, but especially on the North shore. Nearly all these butters that have been in store here for some time have been cleared out, and prices have advanced fully 1c. per lb. during the past few days. Tubs are selling mostly at 17c. to 18c. for good medium quality, but 20c. to 21c. is readily paid for fine, and an occasional tub brings 21c. Low grades have sold at 13c. to 15c., and mediums at 16c. to 17c. A lot of 115 packages, good yellows, sold to-day at 15c. Rolls are quiet, selling mostly at 16½c. to 18c., but a few very fine have gone as high as 20c. Creameries are dull, as there are only a few on the market; holders are asking 28c. for them.

CHEESE.—Very dull and prices are easier. Best makes are selling at 11c. to 11½.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

APPLES—Shipments of export apples from this city seem to be increasing in volume. The late favourable reports from the British markets would appear to have instilled more confidence into apple shippers, and they are beginning to take hold with greater energy. A steady export trade is now being done, and dealers hope to at least make enough out of these latter shipments to recoup them for their losses during the earlier part of the season. As a consequence of the increased export activity, stocks of apples in the city are getting pretty well worked off, one or two merchants being completely sold out, and a couple of shippers are in the country looking after offerings there. There does not appear to be any scarcity of apples in the country; on the contrary, growers in all parts of the province seem to have large stocks on hand. Some of these, from being kept so long, and from other causes, are not of the best quality and certainly unfit for shipment to the Old Country, where only the best fruit is wanted. One dealer relates how he was beguiled into going out of town to inspect a lot of 700 bbls., which, according to the owner, was something very choice. An inspection of the fruit, however, showed that there was hardly a barrel in which at least some of the apples had not been touched. The shipper said that he would not give 25c. per bbl. for them for export. The apples principally wanted to go to the Old Country are Baldwins and Russets. Export apples will run from 75c. to $1 per bbl. The local demand for packed apples is very slow and shows no signs of improvement. They may be quoted at $1.50 to $2 per bbl. in small lots. The farmers are still offering loose apples in quantities, and they are absolutely a drug on the market. They are sold all the way from 50c. to $2 per bbl., but it must be something particularly choice to bring the top figure.

Continued activity still prevails in the export trade. Stocks of apples in the city are pretty well cleaned up, but in the country there are still plenty, and there are likely to be all, if not more than are needed. The remaining apples in the hands of dealers here have not kept, and are not keeping, well, and both for export and for local consumption they have to be repacked. One dealer gave it as his opinion that there have been more apples gone to waste this winter than for many years past. This week there have not been many apples shipped into the city, as the weather has been too cold, and dealers did not want to risk the arrival of the fruit in a frozen condition. Our reports from the British markets go to show that while arrivals lately have been pretty large, the markets have kept up, and fair prices have been realized. Arrivals of Canadians have been rather light, and as they were landed in good condition they brought full value, 17s. 6d. being for the very best golden russets. It is not likely that too many Canadians will be shipped, as exporters have learned wisdom by experience and do not care to risk a recurrence of the early season's disasters. Russets and Baldwins are most in demand for export and are going here at 75c. to $1 per bbl. The demand for local consumption is still very light, and in small lots apples are selling at $1.50 per bbl. On the St. Lawrence market the supplies of loose apples from the hands of the farmers are still large, and in many cases they have to be sacrificed, as they are in very small request. Loose may be quoted at 75c. to $1.50 per bbl.

CHESTNUTS.—There are still quite a few of these on the market. There is no demand for them and they can be bought at $1 per bushel.

BEANS.—White beans are dull and unchanged. Dealers are jobbing at $1.25 to $1.80 per bushel as to quality.

DRIED APPLES.—Continue weak. Holders are asking 3½c. while buyers will not go over 3c. to 3½c. Dealers are jobbing at 3¾c. to 4c. Evaporated apples are dull and unchanged at 7c. to 7½c. in small lots. Round lots could be bought at 6c. and under.

EGGS.—Receipts continue to run lighter. Strictly fresh or new laid are firm at 17c. to 18c; ordinary fresh are offering at 15c.; while held and limed are offering at 12c. to 15c. A round lot of limed sold at 10c.

HAY AND STRAW.—Market is generally easier. Timothy is selling at $14 to $15 on the track; mixed steady at $12 to $13, with American upland prairie grass at $10.75 to $12. Straw, dull at $8.50 to $9.50.

POTATOES.—Receipts have been light. Demand is dull. Sales have been made outside at 20c. to 25c. f.o.b. Small lots are selling out of store at 40c.

POULTRY.—Receipts are very light and the demand good. Values are in consequence very firm. Turkeys are moving at 10c. for medium to 12½c. for choice. Chickens firm at 50c. to 75c. a pair. Ducks in demand; culls sold at 80c. and choice at $1.10. Geese are steady at 8c. to 9c.

SEEDS.—Alsike is dull. There are a good many odd lots coming in and are being taken at $5 to $7 for fair to prime. Red clover is fairly active at $4.75 to $5. Dealers are jobbing at $5.15 to $5.20. Timothy is dull at $1.60 to 1.85.

The Markets—Continued.

DRESSED HOGS AND PROVISIONS.

There is but little doing in dressed hogs. No sales of cars have been made public during the past few days. if there have been any. Receipts by rail are small. There is a good demand for light weights, running from 120 to 150 lbs. or less, at $7 to $7.25 per cwt. Heavy are rather slow at $6.25 to $6.75.

BACON—Is unchanged. Long clear has been moving in a retail way at 8¾c. to 9c., while ton lots have sold at 8½c.

MESS PORK — Is dull, with American quoted at $15 to $15.50, and Canadian at $16 to $16.50.

LARD— is in fair demand at 10c. to 10½c. for American, with a few sellers at 9½c. and at 10½c. to 11½c. for Canadian.

SMOKED MEATS—Unchanged.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

FLOUR—Quiet and unchanged. Straight rollers are moving about $4.85 and extras about $4.60.

BRAN—Dull and easier, with sellers at $14.50 on the track.

WHEAT — Quiet but steady. Bids have been made of $1.07 for No. 2 fall, and $1.10 for No. 2 red on the spot. On the Northern and Midland No. 2 wheat has been selling at $1.06 to $1.06½., at the moment buyers are bidding $1.05 to $1.06. There is a strong market on Manitoba wheats. No. 1 hard is offering at $1.40, with buyers at $1.35. No. 1 frosted is held at $1.10, with buyers at $1.05. No. 2 frosted has changed hands during the past couple of days at 92c. to 92½c. on the track, Winnipeg inspection.

BARLEY — Steady, with a good demand for all grades. There is not much offering on the spot. There is a good deal outside, but not at suitable points for shipment. Sales are being made at 53c. for No. 3 extra, 57c. for No. 2, and 60c. for No. 1.

PEAS — Dull and nominally unchanged. Buyers are bidding 55c. and sellers asking 56c.

OATS—Demand is fair at the recent advance. On the spot the market is inclined to be flat, but outside holders are quite firm, and buyers cannot make purchases on a basis of selling prices here. Choice mixed have been changing hands at 36c. and white at 37c. while light have gone as low as 34c.

SALT.

Liverpool inactive and nominally unchanged. Canadian has sold fairly well; car lots of bagged two cents lower, with sales of three cars at 58c. and barrelled unchanged, with several cars sold at 85c. on the track; dairy quiet and unchanged.

COAL OIL.

We have to report a further decline in the price of Canadian burning oils owing to the lower markets for crude. Sales are being made about ½c. below last week. The demand is less active, but still it is quite up to the average for this season of the year. American oils are unchanged. Prices are as follows: Canadian refined, 13½c. to 14c.; carbon safety, 16½c. to 17c.; water white home, 19c. to 20c.; American water white, 25c.; photogene, 27c.

FISH.

There is nothing new to note in the fish trade. Business continues brisk with much change in prices. A good supply of sea herring has been received, which is quoted at 80c. per 100. Halifax herring have fair sale at $1.25 per 100. Lake Winnipeg white fish 6½c. to 7c. per lb. Pike, 4½c. to 5c., and Lake Superior white fish at 6½c. British Columbia salmon is quoted at 12½c. to 14c. per lb. Ciscoes are quoted at $1.20 to $1.25 per 100. There is a good supply of trout at 5c. for round and 6c. for dressed. Finnan Haddie has gone up again and is quoted at 7c. per lb. Haddock 4½c. to 5c. A supply of smelts will arrive in a few days. Steak cod is quoted at 6½c. per lb. with a good supply.

MONTREAL.

February 28, 1889.

GROCERIES.

There has been no special feature in the grocery market here, but trade has been fairly active for the time of year. Most dealers report a fair country distribution in all lines and prices generally have been steady.

CANNED GOODS.

In canned goods a fair volume of business has been transacted in a jobbing way, and the market has ruled fairly active and steady, but with no feature to note. The offerings of corn and tomatoes have been large, but as buyers have filled their wants for the present no large lots have changed hands. The indications are that there will be no improvement in these lines for sometime, as outside dealers are well supplied. Tomatoes have sold in small lots at 90c. to $1 per doz. Erie and Aylmer corn has been offered at 75c. per dozen. Lobsters have ruled quiet and steady at $5.25 to $5.60 per case. There is little enquiry for mackerel at $5 per case. Peas have been moving fairly well in a small way at $1.25 per dozen. Salmon has been in fair request at $1.70 to $1.75 per doz. Canned fruits have ruled quiet at steady prices. A fair volume of business has been accomplished in Armour's canned meats at fair prices.

TEA AND COFFEE.

There has been a brisk demand for teas, and the market has ruled active and firm with a large volume of business, and some sound lots of Japans have been sold, including about 500 packages at from 14c. to 24c., as to quality. The feeling in the market is firm, and some holders are looking for better prices. The demand for coffees has been fair, and sales have been made more freely at steady prices. We quote Mocha, 28c. to 31c.; Java, 22c. to 27c.; plantation Ceylon, 21c. to 25c., and Rio, 16c. to 21c.

EGGS.

Receipts have included considerable quantities of held fresh Western Canada stock shipped to Boston, and from thence returned here, and such are now offering at very low prices. Sales have been made as low as 10c., but prices are quoted at 11c. to 13c. Montreal limed eggs have been pretty well bought up, and the market is now at 13c. to 13½c. for best. Fresh are steady at 16c. to 18c., but, aside from really fresh stock, the market has been unsettled and holders have been compelled to accept almost any price.

THE CANADA SUGAR REFINING CO'Y [LIMITED],

MONTREAL,

Offer for sale all grades of REFINED SUGARS and SYRUPS of the well-known brand of

Redpath

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

JOHN BAKER EDWARDS, P.L.D., D.C.L., F.C.S.,

Public Analyst for the District of Montreal, and Professor of Chemistry.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY, MEDICAL FACULTY, MCGILL UNIVERSITY

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have taken and tested a sample of your "EXTRA GRANULATED" Sugar, and find that it yielded 99·88 per cent. of Pure Sugar. It is practically as pure and good a Sugar as can be manufactured.

Yours truly,

G. P. GIRDWOOD.

The Markets—Continued.

SUGAR.

The demand for sugar has continued slow, and the market has ruled quiet and steady at the recent decline. The volume of business transacted has been small as buyers have only taken sufficient for actual wants. Granulated has sold at the factory at 7c. with smaller quantities at 7⅛c., and Yellows at 5c. to 5¾c. as to quality.

SYRUP.

The syrup market has ruled dull owing to the very slow demand, and few sales have been effected. The offerings are not large and the market has been steady at 3½c. to 4c. The indications are that the demand will improve next month.

MOLASSES.

There has been more enquiry for molasses, and some small lots have been turned over, but the market on the whole has ruled quiet. Some arrivals of Barbadoes have come to hand which has caused a weaker feeling, and the last large sales made were at 38c. with small lots at 40c. Trinidad has ruled quiet and steady at 32c. to 33c. and Antigua at 35c.

OILS.

In oils a fair volume of business has been transacted, but no large sales have been effected. The market has a firm tone, and holders are looking for higher prices. The supply of cod oil is light, and the indications are that the stock will run short of the demand as there will be no new arrivals before the opening of navigation. Newfoundland cod is firm at 40c. to 42½c., Halifax cod at 37½c. Steam refined seal is selling at 50c. to 52½c., raw linseed at 57c., and boiled ditto at 60c. The demand for petroleum has been slow with the market quiet and steady at 13½c. for car lots, and 15c. for smaller quantities.

FLOUR AND GRAIN

The general tendency has been in the direction of improvement, so far as wheat and flour are concerned.

Strong bakers' and patent spring flours have been in good demand. The best strong bakers' has realized $6 to $6.10 for city ground, and choice patent spring has made up to $6.50. Top prices, however, are extreme.

In grain, wheat has ruled stronger, and sales of No. 1 hard Manitoba have been made at $1.33, which is the highest paid yet. Oats in steady demand at 33c. to 34c.

FISH.

Now that the Lenten season is near at hand, there has been a brisk demand for fish, and the market has ruled active with a large volume of business, and the bulk of the offerings have been taken. The stock of Labrador herrings has been well reduced, and the offerings are now light. Sales of 100 barrel lots have been made at $5 and $5.25, with smaller quantities at $5.50. Some lots of Cape Breton herrings have sold at $5.75. The demand for green cod has been good, and the bulk of the stock has been bought up at steady prices. No. 1 has sold at $5, No. 1 large at $5. 50, and drafts at $6. Lake trout have been selling well at $4.75 and $5, and white fish at $5. The supply of fresh haddock is light, and in some quarters a scarcity is reported, and prices have advanced to 3½c. and 4c. with a good demand. Fresh cod have been moving freely at 3c. and 3¼c. Fresh herrings are abundant and cheaper at 70c. per 100. Tommycods have been answering freely, and met with a good demand at 90c. and $1.00 per barrel,

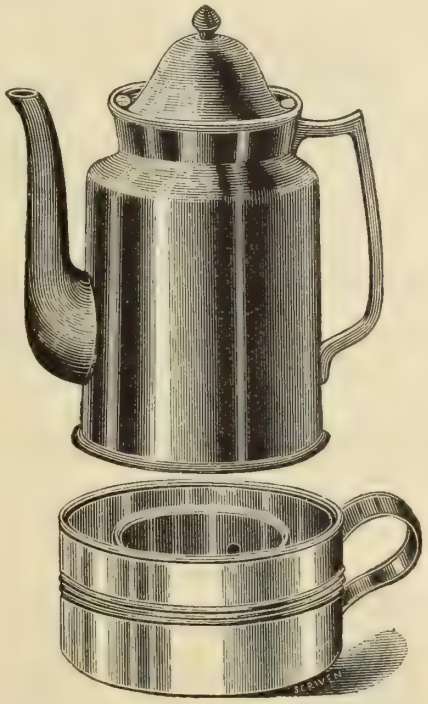
GROCERS!



IT is well known that everywhere in France one can get a good cup of coffee, and it is also an established fact, that the reverse is the case in Canada. Many blame the coffee, but the true cause is simply this. "Not one cook in a dozen knows how to make coffee properly," The above cut represents a new invention which is very simple in construction, and any child can make a good cup of coffee with it. You simply fill the tin can with boiling water, then set the pot on top, put the requisite amount of coffee in the bag inside the pot, then pour a sufficient amount of boiling water into the pot and let it stand on the stove for 3 or 4 minutes, when you will have a first class cup of coffee.

This coffee pot is the simplest, cheapest, and best article of the kind ever invented, and the low price makes it within the reach of all. They are packed 1 doz. in a barrel. Price $6 per doz. Send $6 for 1 doz. as a sample, and you will find it all that we recommend it to be.

WESTERN ASSURANCE CO

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE SHAREHOLDERS.

The thirty-eighth annual meeting of the Shareholders of the Western Assurance Company was held at its offices in this city on Thursday, the 21st instant, the President, A. M. Smith, Esq., being in the chair.

The Managing Director, Mr. J. J. Kenny, read the following

Directors' Report:

The Directors beg to submit the Annual Statement of the Company's Accounts for the year ending 31st December last, and have pleasure in being able to report to the Shareholders so favorable a condition of the affairs of the Company as these exhibit.

The total income, it will be observed, was $1,659,877.56, and after providing for all losses incurred during the year, and expenses of management, two half-yearly dividends at the rate of ten per cent. per annum have been paid upon the Capital Stock and $50,000 added to the Reserve Fund, while $7,853.72 remains at the credit of Profit and Loss Account.

The total surplus funds of the Company now amount to $832,853.72, but of this the unexpired risks under policies current at the close of the year have to be provided for. The sum estimated as necessary to re-insure or run off these is $536,096.24, which leaves a net surplus over and above the capital and all liabilities of $296,757.48.

While congratulating the Shareholders on the gratifying result of the year's transactions, the Directors desire to acknowledge their appreciation of the efficiency and zeal displayed by the officers and agents of the Company in securing and supervising the large volume of business which is summarized in the accompanying accounts:

A. M. SMITH, President.

J. J. KENNY, Managing Director.

WESTERN ASSURANCE OFFICES, TORONTO, Feb. 14, 1889.

AUDITORS' REPORT.

To the President and Directors of the Western Assurance Co.:

GENTLEMEN,—We hereby certify that we have audited the books of the Company for the year ending 31st December, 1888, and have examined the vouchers and securities, and find the same carefully kept, correct and properly set forth in the above statements.

R. R. CATHRON, JOHN M. MARTIN, F.C.A., } Auditors.

Toronto, Feb. 14, 1889.

The President, in moving the adoption of the report, congratulated the stockholders on the favorable showing which the Company made at the close of the thirty-eighth year of its existence. He referred to the wide field over which the Company's business extended, embracing nearly every State in the Union, as well as some of the West India Islands, while in "this Canada of ours" the "Western" had become almost a household word from Nova Scotia in the East to Manitoba and British Columbia in the West.

The aim of the management during the past year has continued to be to make quality rather than quantity of business the first consideration, and in carrying out this policy they are working as far as possible upon the lines of the experience gained in the Company's various fields of operation, reducing the amounts carried on certain classes of risks, or cutting off altogether such as have yielded no profit in the past. There would have been no difficulty had they been less conservative, in showing a large increase in the premium income, but this might, perhaps, have been at the expense of the profit balance, and it would, moreover, have left a corresponding increased liability on current policies at the end of the year.

In the Fire Branch the results of the past year show an improvement on those of 1887, and with the maintenance of existing tariffs he thought that they might continue to look for a fair return upon the business transacted. It was scarcely necessary for him to tell the shareholders that at home the "Western" continues to maintain its position in the front rank, both as to the amount of its income and its low loss ratio; and he was happy to say that the efforts during the past few years to place the Company's fire business in the United States on an equally satisfactory footing are meeting with encouraging success.

In its Inland and Ocean Marine Business the Company appears to have had a varied experience, for while a good profit is shown in some departments, in others this branch shows a considerable loss. Changes, however, which have been decided upon in the direction of discontinuing altogether certain lines of business will, it is hoped, bring about more uniformly satisfactory results in the future.

The total expense of conducting the business bears, within a small fraction of one per cent., the same ratio to income as last year, and he thought he was safe in saying that it is as low, if not lower, than the average expense ratio of companies doing a similar business.

The assets of the Company, amounting to nearly a million and a half dollars, consist of unquestionable securities, and would readily realize the figures at which they stand on the books.

The only item of the liabilities that might call for any reference was outstanding losses, of which in such a large business there must necessarily be a considerable number at all times awaiting further proof, and under adjustment; but he might say that by far the larger proportion of those that were outstanding on the 31st December were settled and paid in the early part of January.

He was sure that they would agree with him that in all that constitutes material prosperity, either from a shareholder's or a policy-holder's point of view, the statements presented show that the "Western" during 1888 had made a most gratifying step forward, and while they had not got far enough into the present year to venture to forecast what 1889 might bring forth, he felt that they might confidently look forward to at least a fair share of any good fortune it may have in store for those engaged in the business of Fire and Marine Underwriting.

William Gooderham, Esq., Vice-President, seconded the adoption of this Report, which was carried unanimously, and a vote of thanks was passed to the Directors for their services during the past year.

Messrs. Wm. Anderson and J. K. Nevin were appointed to act as scrutineers, and reported the following gentlemen unanimously re-elected Directors for the ensuing year: Messrs. A. M. Smith, Wm. Gooderham, Hon. S. C. Wood, Robt. Beaty, A. T. Fulton, Geo. A. Cox, Geo. McMurrich, H. N. Baird and J. J. Kenny.

At a meeting of the Board held subsequently A. M. Smith, Esq., was re-elected President and Wm. Gooderham, Esq., Vice-President for the ensuing year.

TASTE FOR TEA CHANGING.

On several occasions we have drawn attention to the fact that Indian teas were taking the place of China teas in Canada, but more especially in Great Britain. Some attribute this to the higher prices charged for the finer grades of China teas, but others think the flavor of the fine Assams and Ceylons is preferred to China teas. Reinachs, Nephew & Co., London, in a letter of Feb. 21, say: "If we compare Indian and Ceylon growths with China teas we can only come to the conclusion, taking the intrinsic value of the article, that the public are right, and although we hear of the wonderful teas China used to produce in the old East India Company's days, we are somewhat sceptical on that point. The teas were fine because there was no other standard to guage them by, and as China produces at the present moment as fine Oolongs and as fine Green teas as we have ever seen, there is no tangible reason why Black teas should have so much deteriorated. We are not in a position to judge whether the climate and soil in India and Ceylon are more favorable to the growth of the tea plants than the respective districts of China, but it is evident to the least initiated that the difference in the handling of the leaves after they are gathered must be of paramount influence. There are no large tea gardens in China, every small grower gathering his own leaves, which are left uncared for and exposed to the inclemency of the weather till they are collected by middle men. When they finally reach the Hongs where they are prepared, they have often lost the best part of their quality; and if we compare this to the manner in which teas are prepared in India or Ceylon and the careful way in which the leaves are gathered, sorted, protected against rain and damp, it is not surprising that the result is shown by a more desirable article.

But we go further, and believe that even if China teas were as fine as Indian or Ceylons, the latter, through the nature of the cultivation, have a marked advantage. Although the consumer is the final judge of the article, the caterer who provides it to the consumer is a very important factor. We all know by experience that teas—particularly fine teas—are generally at their best within two, say the outside, three months, after they have been prepared. In China fine teas are gathered and prepared within one month of the opening of the China season, and arrive all on this market nearly simultaneously. We have for three months crisp fresh China teas, and during the remainder of the year a more or less stale article, whilst with Indian or Ceylon teas we have gathering and preparing of fine teas for fully six months during the year. The distributing trade naturally buys the freshest and most fragrant article it can get, and it stands to reason that for many months in the year their choice falls on Indian or Ceylon in preference to China tea.

We do not pretend that the days of Foochow teas are passed, we only mean to prove that unless the Chinese entirely change their mode of making teas, they must be satisfied to supply the English market at least with common to medium sorts. With regard to fine Hankow teas the position is very different, the London market having become of secondary importance. Russia so far has not taken to Indian or Ceylon teas, and Russian buyers will, particularly if the exchange keeps so high, continue to compete keenly for all fine teas.

THE COMBINE BILL.

Yielding to the suggestions of many of his friends, Mr. Wallace has consented to amend his Bill relating to Combines, and the following will be the form in which he will propose it to the House:—

"Whereas it is expedient to declare the law relating to conspiracies and combinations in restraint of trade and to provide penalties for the violation of the same.

"Therefore, her Majesty, etc., declares and enacts as follows:—

"Every person who conspires, combines, agrees or arranges with any person or with any railway, steamship, steamboat or transportation company unlawfully to limit the facilities for transporting, producing, manufacturing, supplying, storing or dealing in any article or commodity which may be a subject of trade or commerce, or to restrain or injure trade or commerce in relation to any such article or commodity, or to prevent or lessen competition in the production, manufacture, purchase, barter, sale, transportation or supply of any such article or commodity or the price of any insurance on person or property, or to prevent, limit or lessen the manufacture or production of any such article or commodity as to enhance the price thereof is guilty of a misdemeanor and liable, on conviction, to a penalty not exceeding $4,000 and not less than $200, or to imprisonment not exceeding two years, and if a corporation, is liable, on conviction, to a penalty not exceeding $10,000 and not less than $1,000."

The former Bill made it difficult to define a new offence without striking at a legitimate business. The new Bill does away with that difficulty, being based on the common law of the country. The Government has promised to give a day for the discussion of the measure, which will probably be next week.

THE EGG DEALERS.

The Ontario Egg Dealers' Association held their annual meeting at the Walker House on Tuesday. There was a good attendance, some twenty-four members being present. It was decided to carry on the work of the Association the same as last year, hoping to be able to recoup some of the heavy losses of the season now closing. The smaller dealers say they did not make any money, while the larger ones report having lost at the close of the season what they had made at the opening. A good part of the time was taken up in an informal discussion. Mr. D. D. Wilson, Seaforth, was re-elected president; Mr. J. D. Moore, St. Mary's, vice-president, and Mr. A. G. Habbick, Waterloo, secretary-treasurer.

SUGARS ADVANCING.

There has been a decided improvement in the sugar market during the past few days. All outside markets have been hardening for two weeks past, and latest cables from Europe and from points of production record a considerable advance within the past few days. In sympathy with this the Canadian refiners advanced prices of yellows ⅛c. on Wednesday, and quoted the market strong at the higher range. There has been, however, but little business done at the advance, as the demand is very light. Yellows are considered very good value at present prices, but the general impression is that no important advance will be established until the demand springs up again, which it usually does about the latter part of April, unless there be a still further decided improvement in the markets for raws. At the moment some very fine bright yellows are being sold as low as 5c., owing to the close competition in the wholesale trade as well as between the refiners. In the foreign markets there has been an increased demand for raws and values are higher. Crop estimates are smaller. M. Licht in his latest crop report for the beet producing countries of Europe estimates a crop of 2,753,000 tons, against an actual output on the last crop of 2,433,607 tons. The stocks in the four ports of the United Kingdom are estimated at 154,383 tons, against 217,993 tons a year ago. The Cuba crop is estimated at 90,000 tons less than last year. The world's visible supply of sugar is put down at 1,035,976 tons, against 1,153,606 tons same time last year.

EXTENDING THEIR TRADE

The smallness of the profits on nearly all lines handled by the grocers has led many of them to take advantage of any trade that might come their way though not regularly connected with groceries. The wholesale grocers have recently commenced to handle lard, cheese and oatmeal. The retail grocers have been following their example. Instead of going to the flour and feed merchants for their oatmeal, they are now buying from wholesale grocers. The latter are in consequence buying in larger quantities. Where they took a few barrels before they now order a car load. This change in business is most satisfactory to all. The miller has not so many accounts to look after, and he is not troubled with so many losses ; the wholesale grocer gets a fair profit, while the retailer is able to buy better as there are so many sellers in the market.

GROCERS' COLLECTING AGENCY.

The following circular has been issued to the retail grocers of Toronto :

Do you give credit?

Do you always get paid after you do so?

Do you know what a dead-beat is?

The Retail Grocers' Association, feeling the inadequacy of the means for collection of delinquent accounts, and the insufficiency of information in regard to "dead-beats" who are preying to such an alarming extent on the retail grocery trade, appointed a committee to look into these matters, with a view of placing the trade in a better position than it is at present. In view of the report brought in by the committee, the Association have deemed it advisable to call a meeting of retail grocers for Monday evening, 11th March, at 8 o'clock, in Philharmonic Hall, 10½ Adelaide St. East, to consider the subject, "How shall we collect our accounts?"

The co-operation of all in the trade is essential to the success of any plan proposed. You cry out against the evils of the credit system ; come and join with your fellow tradesmen in endeavoring to overcome them. In other cities the grocers have grand organizations for their protection, and shall the grocers of Toronto be behind these in their attention to interests of such importance.

ACTIVITY IN CANNED SALMON.

The New York Bulletin says : Future salmon continues a subject for general conversation among the members of the grocery trade. Without exception they regard the starting-off price as too high to make the coming season a successful one, and they put themselves upon record as opposed to meeting any such ideas as are entertained by those who have opened the season on the Pacific on the "Hip! Hip! Hurrah!" principle. From a prominent authority in San Francisco we are in receipt of a circular to-day, giving in detail the transactions that were completed to the 18th inst. The sales are placed at 553,000 cases, of which quantity British Columbia is credited with 190,000 cases ; Columbia River, 100,000 cases, and Alaska, 263,000 cases. Of the British Columbia, 95,000 cases are said to have been taken by English buyers direct, and an equal quantity purchased by San Francisco commission men for English and Australian account. The movement, it is said, was first started in Victoria, B.C., where above purchases were made ; then the scene of operations was changed to the Columbia. Upon this stream the packers found buyers for 100,000 cases, and realized figures which certainly must have surprised many of them. The high prices on the Columbia then brought Alaska fish into prominence, and "a very spirited demand set in," which resulted in the business above referred to. This is, indeed, an enormous business to have accomplished in so short a time, as it represents about one-half of the pack as shown by the statistics of last year. We repeat, the trade here do not take kindly to the speculation and the prices established, and they do not propose to be in any hurry to anticipate their probable future wants. A singular feature of the present market is the fact that no effort has been made to concentrate the spot stock, nor to advance prices to compare with the values based upon the cost of future goods laid down. Columbia River brands are obtainable to-day at $1.82½ to $1.85, but the trade finds that the stock does not enter consumption at that value, hence they regard it as hazardous to open up speculative operations when it would be necessary to exact a much higher price to make the venture successful.

TRADE SALES.

Suckling, Cassidy & Co. sold the following stocks Tuesday at their warehouse, corner of Yonge and Melinda Streets :

Mrs. E. Benson, general store, Markham, $1,075.15, to James Johnson, of Palmerston, at 56½c. ;

McIntyre Bros., dry goods, Stratford, $5,900, to D. Hyslop, Hamilton, at 63½c. ;

George Laing, dry goods, Bowmanville, $7,875, to E. Thompson & Co., Orangeville, at 64½c. ; Husband & Co., dry goods, Yonge Street, $6,570, to McKeown & Co., Toronto, at 65c.

A GOOD STOREKEEPER.

It has long been a subject for debate in country lyceums, whether tact or talent was the superior endowment. But for a storekeeper the question can be decided without debate ; for whatever else he may have or may lack in the line of qualifications, unless he has tact in dealing with customers, he has nothing.

Some men attract others to themselves as clover blossoms attract bees. They do nothing in particular to create and gain confidence, but it comes to them unsought. People like them without being able to tell why. Their atmosphere is winning. Generally such people are easy-going and good natured, laugh and joke a good deal, but not always ; for laughing and joking are dangerous elements to deal with, unless a storekeeper knows exactly when and how to use them.

Enemies are frequently made in this way and mortal offence given, when nothing of the kind was intended.

If a storekeeper is the fortunate possessor of the quality we are trying to describe, he will get along well, whatever else he may have or lack in the way of ability ; for people will like him, and, as a rule, when people like a storekeeper they will also like his store and patronize it if they are treated at all decently. Such a person can be more careless of himself and of his store than men who do not radiate an agreeable influence.

When a man, unconsciously to himself, exerts a repellent influence upon customers, it requires the most careful management to hold his trade. If he cannot draw people to his store by his personal qualities, then he must draw them by his goods and by his prices, and by his manner of selling the same. And right here comes in the value and importance of tact. The storekeeper who is not blessed with a winning personality, will be compelled to work harder than his neighbor whom everybody styles a good fellow, but he can make his power felt by able management, notwithstanding.

In order to deal with customers properly a storekeeper should know them thoroughly ; all their little weaknesses and peculiarities, their foibles and failings, as well as their good points and commendable traits. And when once in possession of this knowledge he will vary in manner to suit the customer's nature.

It is often said there is no friendship in trade, but there is certainly something that is closely akin to it.

No one knows what human nature is in all its many sidedness, until he has had an opportunity to study its commercial side from behind the counter of a store. The essential meanness and littleness of people are never fully displayed until they go into a store to trade. Then it will come out. To save five cents they will often put themselves to twenty-five cents of expense, and four times that amount of trouble. Just as in sailing a boat, the least deflection in its course will land it wide of its proposed destination ; so in making a trade with some customers, the least little thing coming up before the bargain is completed will wreck the entire transaction unless the storekeeper's tact, like a skilful pilot, brings the head of the boat round again to its straight and proper course.

In short, the occasions for the exercise of tact in a storekeeper's life and work are numberless, and unless he can make up his mind to accommodate himself to the whims and notions of the people, and frequently yield in the sense of stooping to conquer, he had better sell out at the first opportunity, and go into some other kind of business.—American Storekeeper.

PRICE TICKETS.

HAMILTON, Feb. 18, 1889.

Editor GROCER,—With regard to price labels, it looks very well to have a ticket on everything, but the average grocer in Canada can no more stand to see his competitors' price tickets than a bull can bear to see a red rag. He immediately makes up his mind to go him one better, not from any desire to cut prices but from anger, as the other fellow's tickets seem to say that the article to which they relate is cheap—cheaper than anybody can or dare sell them at—and so the mischief done is enormous. Fortunately for well-disposed grocers, the public are mostly aware how misleading very many of these tickets are, else the remains of the cats of Killkenny would be quite bulky compared with what would be left of the aforesaid grocers.

Let the St. Louis Grocer from whom you quoted an article on the above give us something else, something that might have a tendency to increase profits rather than diminish them. Yours etc., S. MANN.

[We quite agree with our correspondent's remarks on this question. There can, however, be no objection to ticketting articles which are selling at the regular price, that is the price which the general run of the trade are getting. Tickets draw attention to the article, and especially if it be cheaper than usual may lead to purchases. When prices are being cut, and tickets are put on to show how much lower this particular merchant sells than his neighbor, then the effect is certainly demoralizing. We know retailers who never cut prices but are constantly ticketting their goods. They make it a rule, however, never to put a price ticket on any article the prices of which are being cut for the time being by their neighbors.—ED. GROCER.]

THE LARD QUESTION.

Editor, GROCER : Dear Sir,—I notice an article in your issue of the 22nd February on "Lard" and "Provision Merchants" which is misleading, as it conveys the idea that provision merchants are charging a higher price for the same grade of lard, in the same style of package, than the wholesale grocers. This is a mistake, as we have been selling the same grade of lard, in the same style of packages, for less money, and are still doing the same to-day. The grocers having commenced to sell American lard has not interfered in the least with our trade, as we have sold more lard last year than we ever did before, and we have been in business over twenty years. From what I can learn from the other pork packers in Toronto, their trade in this article has also increased. However, as a matter of fact, the provision merchant does sell another article —pure lard, his own rendering ; the intrinsic value of which is at least 2c. to 3c. above that of the imported American stuff, or compound lard. Of course he cannot sell it as low as we sell American lard, so called, but nevertheless this cheap American compound depresses the price of his pure lard so much so that he oftentimes has to sell below cost of production. This is just the point wherein lies the grievance of the provision merchant. We are now selling pure lard at 1½c. per lb. below import prices of pure lard, and our customers now generally ask for our own rendering. We don't ask the government to alter the duty on pure lard, but we do ask them to place adulterated lard where it belongs—on the adulterated food list. We don't ask them to do as they did with oleomargarine butter, prohibit it altogether, but we ask them to raise the duty on adulterated lard only. The wholesale grocer can then bring in pure lard on the same terms as the provision merchant, and can supply his patrons with a pure article with a clear conscience. As far as the pockets of the provision merchants are concerned, they would as soon let the duty remain as it is at present, inasmuch as a raising of the duty would throw a considerable trade out of their hands, and any advance that they might get for their own pure lard would pass into the pocket of the farmer, in the shape of a higher price for his hogs. However, as a matter of public policy, and in the interests of trade morality, the provision traders felt it their duty to call the attention of the government to this lard matter. The consumer also has an interest in this lard matter. For his benefit let me close by adding an extract from the testimony of Prof. Sharpless, State Assayer of Massachusetts, given before a committee of Congress at Washington about a year ago.

Q.—Now state if you have analyzed that sample No. 7,402. A.—I have examined this sample for cotton seed oil and beef fat. It contains cotton seed oil and also beef fat, and, I should judge, very little lard ; mainly cotton seed oil and beef fat.

The next sample has the department number 5,595, and my number is 7,403. This is marked Armour & Co., pure, refined family lard, Chicago. That sample contains cotton seed oil, beef fat and lard.

I need not add another word.

THE COMPROMISE QUESTION.

CULTUS, Feb. 20, 1889.

Dear Sir,—I do not approve of the wholesale houses not compromising in any case, but generally speaking I do not approve of so doing only in rare cases. Yours truly,

H. P. OSTROSSER.

TILSONBURG, Feb. 19, 1889.

Dear Sir,—Re Compromises, I think it very unfair to business men who try to make an honest living, to have a neighbor merchant settle with his creditors at from 30 to 60 cents on the dollar, which allows him to slaughter his stock at much less than wholesale prices. Therefore I think the compromise system should be done away with altogether.

Yours truly,

W. B. HOGARTH.

A TRAVELLER TALKS.

ST. THOMAS, March 4.

Dear Sir,—While there is much being said about compromises, and a disposition to "call" at the wholesale house's door for a remedy, let us see if there is not a subject that will bring out something in the retail trade that will bear renovating. First, the practice with many of the retail dealers of urging goods on credit customers, and in many cases without proper investigation, and under the belief that if they didn't some other house would, and I fear too big risks are taken just to keep the order from some one else and make a volume of business. And for such men, if they are giving out goods credited to them as honest, upright, practical business men by the wholesale merchant, there should be no settlement too severe for them. I will go farther and say that in every case of failure a thorough investigation should be made, and when a man is found to have made an honest effort and failed, he should be helped on his feet again. But if it is found that he had recklessly squandered his goods by too easy credits or cutting of prices below a fair profit, he should be wound up in short order. In the second place, I believe many of our retail grocers fall into the practice of making the consumer feel that they, the grocers, are under great obligations to them for their trade, as if the patronizing attention given the customer—a man to go for the orders, a horse and wagon to deliver them, a nice new book to charge them on, and perhaps a man to collect it in driblets—if it all was not enough to make the obligation equal. I saw one grocer last week call the customer's attention to nearly every standard article in his store, and after filling nearly a page of her pass book, he thanked her for the order and gave her a handful of candy. At another store two customers settled their books in full, the proprietor handed back their books with a plain thank you. They both stood some minutes and went out. I asked the proprietor why he did not ask them if they did not want something more. He remarked that offering people credit and being asked for it were two very distinct ways of doing business with him. He had found it much easier to collect from one than the other. Moral: Very few bad debts on that man's books, and a living profit on what he sold.

TRAVELLER.

ATTERCLIFFE, Feb. 19, 1889.

Dear Sir,—I am glad to see the matter of compromises fully discussed in THE GROCER. The fact is there are too many men in business, trade is overdone, the men who compromise as a rule are either dishonest or incapable. It would be an easy matter for shrewd, plodding, hard-working, careful, honest traders to weed them out and send them to the wall; but under the present system of bolstering up by the wholesale trade, they are like cats which have many lives. When a man fails, and shows his incapacity or dishonesty, would it not be better to let him stay out of the business and go at something else; and by this weeding out process business would soon be brought to a solid and healthy basis. As it is, if matters go on in the way they are going now we soon shall become a nation of bankrupts, for the odds are so great against the honest trader that he is either through the force of circumstance compelled to fall into line and become a bankrupt or quit the business. But is there not far too much credit given? The country does not certainly require so much credit as forty or fifty years ago, when it was new and had no markets. The agriculturist can and does get spot cash for everything he sells now, and is able, and the great majority of them do pay down for their purchases, although a great many shakey grocers will I know dispute this, but let them show their books. The cash system would remedy all our ills, but as it is impossible to get this let us have the next best thing, a shortening up of credits, bills paid in full at maturity, liberal discounts for cash to encourage cash purchasers, and no compromises. If these rules were strictly adhered to there would not be much complaints of dealers cutting below cost.

Yours truly,

JAMES CROWTHER.

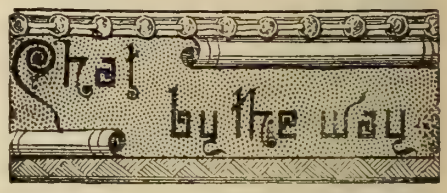
Canned Goods.

THE CANADIAN PACKERS' ASSOCIATION.

The date of the annual meeting of the Canadian Packers' Association has been changed to Friday, March 15, at nine a.m. It is expected that there will be a larger attendance than ever before, as a number of important matters are to be discussed. At the request of several of the members we would ask packers to bring a statement of the stock on hand at the present time.

ANOTHER WARNING.

The failure of another canning house, that of Wm. Burgess, Mimico, should be sufficient warning to would-be packers that there is no money in the business, conducted as it is at the present time. The country wants fewer packers and better goods. It seems hard to make some people believe this. The business is in a worse condition on the other side. Prices are lower than they ever were before. Some of the largest packers are going out of the business. The largest corn factory in the States has just sold part of its property and the remainder is offered for sale.



J. F. Otwell, pickle manufacturer, St. Marys, has assigned.

Valencia oranges, 420's, advanced 1s. in Liverpool on Monday.

There will be no changes in the customs tariff this session of the Dominion Parliament.

The wife of a Winnipeg grocer is said to have eloped with a music teacher, but no names are given.

Mr. Thos. Carman, commission merchant of Winnipeg, was in the city last week, and favored THE GROCER with a call.

J. A. McClellan's general store and G. F. Bull's grocery and dwelling-house, Alton, were destroyed by fire Monday morning.

Samples of Greek Sultana raisins are now being shown with the object of introducing them next season. They are of very fine quality.

Walker & Sons, Guelph, have received a car-load of Valencia oranges in prime condition, which they are offering to the trade at low prices.

There have not been as many light hogs packed this season as usual; There is, in consequence, a firmer feeling on all sugar-cured products.

The sugar market has shown great activity in the last week, and it is estimated that 8,000 barrels have been sold by refineries to this market alone in the last seven days.

Mr. T. M. Cutler, of the Nova Scotia Sugar Refinery, who has been in the West for the past few days, was among the callers at THE GROCER office this week, in company with his Toronto representatives, Messrs. Stanway and Bayley.

Capt. Hugh Blain, of Eby, Blain & Co., has resigned the paymastership of the Queen's Own Rifles, which he has held for a number of years. He will be missed very much in the regiment, and his retirement causes considerable regret.

We have to thank Bro. Deming, of the Chicago Grocer, for a beautifully bound and nicely printed report of the banquet given by Norton Bros., the tin can manufacturers of Chicago, to the Western Packers' Association in the Sherman House.

The Chicago Grocer says: "Mr. J. Fred. Whittemore will act as manager of the new canning factory at Bay City, Mich. He hails from Chatham, Ont., and has been very successful in business. He will be there in time to superintend the erection of works and the placing of the machinery.

The scarcity of good Valencia raisins has led to the importation of other varieties, but chiefly of Elemes. Hitherto only low grade Elemes have been imported, and the trade did not take to them. There is now on the way a shipment of Carabourna Elemes. They are of very fine quality. The price is expected to be lower than Valencias.

Evaporated apples can be bought at very low prices in round lots. Evaporators have been endeavoring to make sales at any price during the past week. Dealers do not want to load up; and in one instance a dealer who was being urged to buy declined to do so, excepting at the same figures as he was paying for the finest sun-dried fruit. In New York the market is firmer, and 5 to 5¼ is being bid.

The retail merchants are, in a great degree, responsible for the tastes of their customers. This is clearly proven by the demand for teas; for instance: In Durham, Grey county, there is a difficulty in selling anything but Japans; seventeen miles west of there, at Walkerton, a mixture of Blacks and Young Hysons is wanted, and consumers will not look at Japans. In Waterloo county they drink nothing but coffee, and that three times a day.

Members of the trade in the United States are on the alert as to the coming Indian and Ceylon tea "boom" in America. Several dealers have recently arrived in London from New York with a view, as one graphically puts it, of "sniffing around." Unless the syndicate which has the matter in hand sets about work speedily, the Americans themselves will save them the trouble. This would be quite a happy way out of the difficulty.

Messrs. Steel, Hayter & Co., of 11 and 13 Front St. East, importers of Indian teas, report that the season has closed in Calcutta, and that the total produce of Messrs. Octavius Steel and Co.'s gardens for the past season was 9,120,000 lbs., or about one-tenth of the whole produce of India. Of this enormous quantity about 3,000,000 lbs. were exported to England for sale on the London market, and the remaining 6,120,000 lbs. were sold in Calcutta.

The proprietors of Spanish Blacking have accomplished, with much trouble and expense, the great end which they have been aiming at; that is to combine three essential qualities in one blacking: A beautiful jet polish, a preserving quality for leather, a waterproof quality to reject moisture from the foot. These qualities were never brought together before in blacking. One trial of this truly beautiful blacking will be sufficient to satisfy the most incredulous of its superiority.

A London cable says:—In the Mincing Lane market beet sugar is rather firmer; cane and refined are steady. Coffee is very firm, especially Central American. China tea is unchanged; Indian and Ceylon have a firmer tendency. Rice is very firm. Black pepper is firmer. Nutmegs and pimento are steady at full prices.

T. Snookes and Son's large crockery and grocery store, Chatham, was burned Saturday night. Loss about $15,000, partly covered by insurance. The building was an old frame one, and as there was a quantity of coal oil on the premises, the fire was hot. Only the fire-proof walls saved the adjoining blocks. Thomas Taylor had his head cut open by falling bricks, and several firemen had narrow escapes. The firm was just taking stock, preparatory to moving out, tearing down and building a brick block.

The detectives of the Customs Department are overhauling the entries made by the wholesale grocers here and in Hamilton. A Hamilton house is reported to have had some molasses seized. A Front Street house who every one knows would not think of making a false entry, have been ordered to pay an increased duty of $90 on a shipment of raw sugars brought in last July. It is their intention to contest the case. Importers of brandies have also been called upon for an increased amount of duty.

There were 67 failures in Canada reported to Bradstreet's during the past week, against 57 in the preceding week, and 40, 18 and 35 in the corresponding weeks of 1888, 1887 and 1886, respectively. The total number of failures in Canada reported to Bradstreet's from January 1st, 1889, to March 2nd, 1889, was 398, against 362, 241 and 254 for corresponding periods in 1888, 1887 and 1886, respectively. In the United States there were reported for a similar period, 2727 in 1889, 2317 in 1888, 2334 in 1887, and 2528 in 1886.

The annual statement of The Mutual Life Assurance Company of New York shows the remarkable progress made by this institution during twelve months. The record made by the Mutual eclipses its own best efforts, and naturally exceeds that of any other financial institution in the world. The new business written amounted to $103,214,261.32, an increase of $33,756,792.95 over the new risks assumed in 1887, and a gain of $46,381,542 over the business of 1886—showing a continuous and phenomenal advance. The assets of the Mutual Life now aggregate $126,082,153.56, indicating a gain for the year of $7,275,301. The Company has now an outstanding insurance account amounting to $482,125,184. Its total income from all sources is reported at $26,215,932. It paid to its members during the year for death claims and endowments and other obligations $14,727,550.22. Up to date the Mutual had $158,369 policies in force, showing a gain in membership for the year of 17,426, thus forming the biggest army of policy-holders in any regular Life Insurance Company in the world.

LONDON NOTES.

Mr. E. B. Smith, grocer, has removed the New York store a few doors west, and now has one of the best equipped and largest grocery stores in the city.

Messrs. Sharp Bros., of Ingersoll, will occupy the store vacated by E. B. Smith, and will open out a large grocery. They expect to do a large jobbing trade.

Some people evidently think there is a fortune to be made in the grocery business, judging from the number of new stores which are springing up all over the city; one of the latest firms is Weir & Burgess, 286 Dundas Street.

F. M. Boyden, wholesale fruit and fish, is giving up business, and is going on the road for D. S. Perrin & Co. He takes the southern and west trip.

Gorman, Dyson & Co., of the Forest City Spice Mills, have put upon the market a line of extracts of their own manufacture. The package is neat and attractive.

GROCERIES.

Trade has been fairly active all week. The volume of business in the month just closed has been quite up to the average if not slightly in excess. Payments have been a little dull, but this is usually the case at this time. Many of the country merchants have to meet dry goods paper falling due, and they use all their spare cash for this purpose.

CANNED GOODS.

The failure of Wm. Burgess, Mimico, a canned goods packer, has caused a little stir in the market, as it is understood that he was a large holder. The full particulars are not yet public property. It is known that he was a heavy purchaser of tomatoes some time ago. It was given out then that he had sold them for export, but it was soon learned that they went into local storage warehouses. It is generally believed however, that he was acting on behalf of a wholesale grocer, though this is by no means definite. A large amount of his paper became due this week, and being unable to meet it he assigned. Some of the daily papers say that he cannot be found, and insinuate that he has gone to the States, but this is not the case; he is in the city. It was generally believed that he was possessed of sufficient means to withstand any ordinary reverses. It is not yet known what stocks he held, but it is said that he had about 8,000 cases of tomatoes, besides peas and corn. This report has had a very depressing effect upon the market which is already bad enough. Tomatoes have been selling at 90c. to $1.10. Corn and peas are offering lower at 80c. to $1. There has been a fair demand for fruits; peaches have sold at $2 for 2's. and $3 for 3's.; plums at $1.35; Bartlett pears at $2; and pitted cherries at $2.25.

TEA.

The past week has been a quiet one in the tea trade, with little enquiry and sales of a very limited extent. Though holders are firm and prices steady; buyers have been very indifferent, and consequently few sales have eventuated. Advices by mail from England are of a depressing nature as regards China blacks, and a further decline in prices of the finer grades of Congous is prophesied. Low grade China teas, both greens and blacks, remain strong. Japans, especially the grades ranging from common to medium, are firm, with higher prices looked for.

COFFEES.

There is a very strong market for Rio coffees. The local market is almost bare and no further supplies are expected for a couple of weeks. Holders are firm at 20c. to 21c. for good fair stock. Latest cables report the market higher, with an upward tendency. A Rio estimate places the coming crop at 1,500,000 bags, against a crop of 3,000,000 a month ago. Mild grades are also firm but prices are no higher.

SUGARS.

Granulated and other whites are unchanged. Yellows are firmer at the refiners, but there has been no advance in the jobbing prices, which continue very low, much lower in comparison than granulated. Yellows are selling at 5⅛c. to 6c., some very fine goods being offered at the inside price. Outside markets are all firm at a higher range of values. On the spot raws are dull owing to the very low prices of yellow refined; Jamaicas are offering at 5c. to 5¼c. in hogsheads.

SYRUP AND MOLASSES.

Syrups have been in fairly good demand at quotations, but offerings are light. Mediums are not obtainable. Half barrels of all kinds are very scarce. Orders have to be given about three weeks ahead.

Molasses is getting scarce on this market and prices are hardening.

RICE.

Cables from Europe and the east report a strong rice market, and from the sources of supply rough rice is cabled very strong, although rough cleared has not sympathized to any extent yet. Owing to the reported famine in China it is said that no Straits rice will come to Europe this season. China draws chiefly on Saigon and Siam for her supplies, and as it is reckoned that the Siam crop is short 160,000 tons of an average and the Saigon 200,000 tons short, the deficiency, if confirmed, means a very heavy shrinkage in the available supply. Liverpool cables:—"There has been an improved demand both on spot and for arrival for rough and a large business has been concluded at very full prices. Freights to U. K. usually are at 30s. to 32s. 6d., but are now up to 46s. 3d.

DRIED FRUIT AND NUTS.

Currants—Are dull and unchanged at 5¼c. up for good Provincials in barrels. Patras advices of Feb. 14, say that nearly all the finer fruits are shipped, but there is a fair supply of good.

Dates—Are in fair demand, and prime new are selling at 6c. with old at 4c. to 4½c. Cables report the London market again firmer.

Figs—Are dull and easy.

Prunes—Are slow excepting in the finer grades which are in fair demand at 8½c. in cases. Low grades are flat especially those of poor quality, owing to the large quantity of dried apples which are offering at unusually low prices.

Raisins—Are quiet. Prime Valencias are selling at 5¾c. to 6¼c. for off-stalk, and layers at 7c to 7½c.; New York and foreign markets are firmer. Fine quality selected Valencias were cabled Saturday at 24s. c.f. Malagas are dull and easier.

Nuts—Are dull and unchanged.

GREEN FRUIT.

The green fruit trade has not been in a very active condition for some time past, but the past week shows a slight improvement. The demand for lemons and oranges is only fair. A fresh supply of California oranges are meeting with good sale on account of the scarcity and poor quality of Floridas. They are quoted at $4 to $4.50 per case. Valencias are moving off very slowly at $5 to $5.25 per case. Stocks of Florida oranges are getting very light, and are quoted at $4. Dealers have still a few Jamaicas on hand which are selling at $6.50. Lemons are rather slow, but stocks are good. There is a fair inquiry for lemons on account of the very low prices. Messinas are moving well at $3 to $3.50. Palermo lemons are quoted at $4 to $4.50. Bananas are coming in quite freely, yellows principally. Prices range from $2 to $3 per bunch. There are still a few good Malaga grapes on the market quoted at $8 to $8.50 per keg.

FISH.

There is but little to be said in the fish trade this week. Business, if anything, is in slightly decreased volume from the past two weeks, but still a very fair trade is doing. The supply of nearly all fish is ample and prices remain unaltered. Sea herring is having a good sale at 80c. per 100. Halifax herring is quoted at $1.25 per 100. There is a good supply of Lake Winnipeg white fish, which are quoted at 5½c. to 6c. Pike, 4½c. to 5c. British Columbia salmon are quoted at 12½c. to 14c. per lb Ciscoes remain unchanged at $1.20 to $1.25 per 100. Trout 5c. for round and 6c. for dressed. Finnan haddie is quoted at 7c. per lb. Haddock, 4½c. to 5c. A fresh arrival of smelts are quoted at 7c. to 9c. per lb. There is a good supply of black-bass at 8c. to 8½c. The demand for them is fair. The oyster trade shows some falling off and is a little quiet at present. Business in oysters all season up to date has been quite good, and perhaps not so many losses have been experienced as last year. The business done by some dealers, however, has been cut into to some extent by the agent of a Baltimore house stationed in this city, who has all season sold oysters 10c. per gallon lower than other merchants were able to do.

HOG PRODUCTS.

DRESSED HOGS—are easier, owing to milder weather and a less active demand. On the spot farmers' deliveries have been pretty large, and there have been a good many small lots received by rail. For ordinary to good hogs $6.50 to $7 is the prevailing price. Choice are sometimes picked up by butchers at $7.25.

The advance in the market for hog products in Chicago has a decidedly strengthening effect on this market. Holders are firm, with an upward tendency. In some instances former prices are refused for round lots. Lard is in good demand ; Canadian is selling at 11c. to 11½c. in tubs and pails, and is firm at these figures, while American can be bought at 10c. to 10½c. Mess pork is higher. Canadian is held at $16.50, and American at $16. Bacon is steady, with long clear at 8½c. to 9c. Light meats are strong, and there has been a good inquiry for them durin the past few days, but no sales of importance have resulted. A few lots of pickled bellies sold at 10c. Smoked meats are all firm

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

FLOUR—Dull and rather easier. Since the decline on wheat the demand has slackened off. Stocks of flour are said to be large, and they include a good deal of American flour which had been brought in anticipating an advance in the duty. Latest transactions have been on a basis of $4.60 for extras and $4.85 for straight rollers.

BRAN—Dull. Cars are offering on the track at $14.50, with buyers at $14.

WHEAT—Demand has slackened and the market is lower. On the spot No. 2 Ontario is worth about $1.07 to $1.08. Up the line $1.07 is asked, with buyers at $1.05. Manitoba wheats have changed hands more freely during the past few days than Ontario varieties. No. 1 hard sold at $1.35 ; No. 3 hard at $1.20 on the track, and No. 1 frosted at $1.08½ ; Carleton No. 3 was offered at 80c. on the track, and goose wheat was offered at 88c. to 89c. on the G.T.R. west. On the Call Board No. 1 hard was offered at $1.35 to arrive at Carleton, Port Arthur inspection, with $1.32 bid ; No. 1 frosted was offered at $1.08, same terms as above, with $1.06 bid.

The Markets—Continued.

BARLEY—Is lower, owing to a lighter demand. No transactions reported. No. 1 does not appear to be worth over 59c., and No. 2, 56c.

PEAS—There has been a better inquiry, and holders outside are firmer. Buyers are bidding 55c.

OATS—Are lower. Light are selling on the track at 34c. to 34½c., and good to choice mixed at 35c. to 36c.

OATMEAL—The market continues easy. Standard is offering in cars at $3.75, and in small lots at $4; granulated is moving at $4 to $4.25, and rolled at $4 to $4.40.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—The market is without any special feature. Receipts are fair, and are just sufficient to keep the demand going. The better grades of tubs and rolls are very scarce and bring full prices, which are a little higher than a week ago. Best tubs are selling at 20c. to 21c., and sometimes 22c. Rolls are selling mostly at 17c., with the range 16c. to 19c. Mediums are quiet. The supply is ample and there is no accumulation Sales are being made at 14c to 16c.

CHEESE.—Dull but steadier, owing to more favorable cable advices.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

BEANS—There are no round lots selling, but smaller quantities are being taken by the retail trade at $1.40 to $1.50.

DRIED APPLES—Nothing doing. There is no demand, and any offered are hard to sell. Dealers will not pay over 3c. to 3¼c., and they are not anxious buyers at that price. They are getting 3¾c. to 4c. for the few small lots going out. Evaporated are very dull also; the evaporators are anxious to consign part of their stock here, but as the market is already pretty full the commission men are advising them not to do so. Small lots are nominal at 7c. to 7½c., but cars would be hard to sell at 5c.

EGGS—The opening of Lent has brought an increased demand for eggs, but the arrival of much larger supplies has more than offset this, and prices are lower. Strictly new laid can now be bought at 15c. to 17c., but mostly 16c. The market is glutted with old storage stock, which it is hard to sell at any price; dealers are offering them at 8c. to 14c. as to quality. Limed eggs are not pressing so heavily on the market. They are quoted at 10c. to 15c.

HAY AND STRAW—The offerings of hay of all kinds continue quite liberal, and the market is weak. Besides what is arriving daily on the track there are a good many cars in store. The bad roads, caused by the recent mild weather, have the effect of checking deliveries somewhat. Good to choice timothy is selling at $14 to $15.50 on the track, and mixed at $12 to $13. American upland prairie grass is selling at $10 to $12, but it is not so popular as it was at first, the low price being more than offset by the superior quality of native mixed hay.

HOPS—Dull and inactive; no movement reported and the feeling seemed, at the close, to be easier; at that time there was a lot of 20 bales of choice new under offer at 20c. for one half and 19c. for the other half; single bales of the best were usually held at 22c., but there seemed to be none selling. Yearlings were offered at 10c. to 14c., with no demand heard; and old were simply unsalable.

MEATS—Receipts of dressed meats are liberal. Beef is selling by the carcase at 5c. to 6c. per lb., or hindquarters at 6c. to 7c., and fores at 3½c. to 5c. Mutton is selling at 7c., and veal at 5c. to 8c.

ONIONS—Dull, selling in small lots at $1.25 to $1.50 per bbl.

POTATOES—Slow at unchanged prices. Cars are offering at 20c. to 22c. f.o.b. at outside points. Small lots are selling out of store at 40c.

POULTRY—The season is pretty well over for poultry. There are a few cases coming in, but they are mostly snow-packed frozen stock. Really fresh dry plucked is firm and in demand. Frozen turkeys are selling at 10c., while fresh are worth 12c. to 13c. Chickens are steady at 60c. a pair, and geese at 8c. to 9c. per lb.

SEEDS—There is apparently more of red clover seed in the country than was anticipated. At least country dealers say that farmers in their locality are holding a good deal. The recent drop in the Western markets has had its effect here in reducing the buying prices of jobbers. Farmers have consequently ceased offering, and the market is nominal. Dealers are jobbing at $4.90 to $5.20. The collapse of the export demand for alsike has flattened out the market, and it is entirely neglected at the moment. Prices are nominal at $6 to $9 as to quality.

Timothy is dull. Supplies are coming exclusively from the West. Market is steady and unchanged at $1.80 to $1.95 for jobbing lots.

HIDES, SKINS AND TALLOW.

HIDES—Receipts continue fairly large, but there is no demand, and the market is dull and flat. Cured are offering at 5¼c. for choice selections for cars and 5½c. for smaller quantities. Any weights can be bought at 5c. Green are unchanged, and dealers now say there is not much probability of a reduction of the price of good quality.

SKINS—Receipts of sheepskins are light. The demand is good, and all offering are readily taken at $1.10 to $1.30, with choice at $1.40 to $1.50. Calfskins are offering more freely. The demand is light, and prices are slow.

TALLOW—Supply is fair, and prices continue steady at 6c. to 6½c.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been no improvement in the canned goods market. Business has ruled quiet and of a jobbing character owing to the continued slow demand. Retail dealers generally have a good stock of all kinds on hand, and the movements will likely be light for some time. The feeling, however, has been firmer on some lines as stocks have been pretty well worked down. Lobsters have ruled strong and advanced 25c. to 40c. per

THE CANADA SUGAR REFINING CO'Y [LIMITED],

MONTREAL,

Offer for sale all grades of REFINED SUGARS and SYRUPS of the well-known brand of

Redpath

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

JOHN BAKER EDWARDS, P.L.D., D.C.L., F.C.S.,

Public Analyst for the District of Montreal, and Professor of Chemistry.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY, MEDICAL FACULTY, MCGILL UNIVERSITY

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have taken and tested a sample of your "EXTRA GRANULATED" Sugar, and find that it yielded 99·88 per cent. of Pure Sugar. It is practically as pure and good a Sugar as can be manufactured.

Yours truly,

G. P. GIRDWOOD.

The Markets—Continued.

case, to $5.50 to $6. Erie and Aylmer corn has improved, and small lots have been placed at $1.05 to $1.10 per dozen, but round lots could be bought at a lower figure. Yarmouth corn has advanced 10c. per dozen to $1.80, and Hoeggs' has moved up to $1.30 to $1.40 per dozen. On the other hand peas have been easy and prices are lower at $1.20 per dozen. Canned salmon has met with a fair demand at $1.70 per dozen. Mackerel is scarce and firm at $5 per case. Tomatoes have ruled quiet and steady at 90c. to $1 per dozen for small lots. In fruits there has been no change to note, the demand being very slow and business dull. A moderate amount of business has been transacted in Armour's canned meats at firm prices.

TEA AND COFFEE.

The tea market has continued active and firm, with holders generally looking for better prices on account of the strong advices from New York. The demand has been good for most grades, especially for Japans, which have been moving freely, both on local and country account, and a large volume of business has been accomplished with some round lots changing hands at firm prices. In coffee a fair volume of business has been done, there being a good demand at steady prices. We quote :—Mocha, 28c. to 31c. ; Plantation Ceylon, 21c. to 25c., and Rio, 16c. to 21c.

SUGAR.

There has been an improved demand for sugar, and the market has ruled fairly active with a larger volume of business, and some fair sized lots have been sold. The feeling in the market has been steady, and prices are unchanged. Granulated sold at 7c. to 7⅛c. and yellows at 5c. to 5¾c. as to quality.

SYRUP.

In syrup there has been no improvement, the demand having continued slow, and the market has ruled quiet and featureless, with very little business in progress. However the indications are that the demand will improve, and refiners are looking forward to a more active business. Prices have been steady at 3½c. to 4c.

MOLASSES.

The market for molasses has been more active under a better demand, and a larger volume of business has been transacted. Barbadoes has met with a fair demand, and the market has ruled steady at the recent decline, with some fair sized lots changing hands at 38c., while smaller quantities fetch 40c. Antigua has ruled steady at 35c., and Trinidad at 32c. to 33c.

RICE.

A firmer feeling has prevailed in rice, and sellers have refused to enter into contracts for future delivery, as cables from primary points indicate a shortage of 360,000 tons in the Siam and Saigon crops, from which sources China derives much of its supply, and the reported famine in that country will necessarily cause greater demands on a shorter supply. In this market car lots of ordinary are at $5.60, with Japan at 4c. to 4¼c., and Patna at 4¼c. to 5c. The first direct steamer for Montreal is now loading at Banein.

FRUIT.

The fruit market has continued quiet and steady. The demand for Valencia raisins has been slow, and the movement has been light with little business at 5¼c. to 6c. Currants have also been quiet and unchanged at 5c. to 6c. Messina oranges have been fairly inquired for, and some round lots have sold at $2.25 per box. Messina lemons have ruled weak and declined to $2 to $2.25 per box. There has been a firmer feeling in apples owing to the fact that the stock of good fruit is now light, for which the demand is fair, and prices are higher at $2.50 to $3 per bbl.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

The flour market has been fairly active and firm. Best grades have been in good demand, and patent spring and choice strong bakers have advanced. A considerable business has been done in these grades, but it appears that certain millers are endeavouring to put prices up. The market throughout, however, has a firm tone.

Patent winter	$5 75 @ $5 90
Patent spring	6 10 — 6 50
Straight roller	5 40 — 5 60
Extra	5 15 — 5 25
Superfine	4 25 — 4 75
City strong bakers	6 10 — 6 20
Strong bakers	5 80 — 5 85
" " (seconds)	5 40 — 5 75
" " bags	2 60 — 2 65
Superfine, bags	2 00 — 2 25
Extra, bags	2 30 — 2 50
Oatmeal, standard, per bag	0 00 — 2 00
Oatmeal, granulated, per bag	0 00 — 2 10

The grain market has been fairly active for the season. In wheat there has been a considerable divergence between the views of buyers and sellers, but spot business has been done at about quotations. Full bids for No. 1 hard Manitoba for May shipment have been made, but holders are indifferent. Peas have ruled dull. Oats and barley have showed an easier inclination with a fair local trade in the former. We quote : - Canadian spring wheat, $1.20; red winter wheat, $1.23 to $1.25 ; white, $1.23 to $1.25 ; No. 1 hard Manitoba, $1.33 to $1.35 , No. 2 hard Manitoba, $1.30 to $1.31 ; peas, 67c. to 68c. per 66 lbs. ; oats, 32c. to 33c. ; corn, 45c. to 46c. in bond ; barley, 53c. to 55c.

FISH.

In fish, business has been active, there being a brisk demand, and the bulk of the offerings in first hands has been taken, in consequence the market has been active and a large trade has been accomplished. The stock now on hand is light, and as the Lenten season has commenced the indications are that the market will be well cleaned up before the end. The demand for Labrador herrings has been good, and round lots have sold at $5 to $5.25, with small lots up to $5.50. Green cod have been well enquired for and sales have been made freely at $5 for No. 1, $5.50 for No. 1 large, and $6 for draft. Salmon have been quiet and steady, buyers having filled their wants and prices are unchanged. Fresh haddock have met with a brisk demand at 4c. for new, and 3c. to 3½c. for frozen. Cod are in light supply and firm at 3c. Fresh herring have been moving freely at 70c. to 75c. per 100. The demand for white fish has been good at $5. Smelts have been scarce and firm at 6c. Tommycods are abundant and lower at 75c. to $1 per barrel.

GROCERS!

IT is well known that everywhere in France one can get a good cup of coffee, and it is also an established fact, that the reverse is the case in Canada. Many blame the coffee, but the true cause is simply this. "Not one cook in a dozen knows how to make coffee properly." The above cut represents a new invention which is very simple in construction, and any child can make a good cup of coffee with it. You simply fill the tin can with boiling water, then set the pot on top, put the requisite amount of coffee in the bag inside the pot, then pour a sufficient amount of boiling water into the pot and let it stand on the stove for 3 or 4 minutes, when you will have a first class cup of coffee.

This coffee pot is the simplest, cheapest, and best article of the kind ever invented, and the low price makes it within the reach of all. They are packed 1 doz. in a barrel. Price $6 per doz. Send $6 for 1 doz. as a sample, and you will find it all that we recommend it to be.

Vol. III. TORONTO, MARCH 15, 1889. No. 11.

SPECIAL TO OUR READERS.

As the design of THE CANADIAN GROCER is to benefit mutually all interested in the business, we would request all parties ordering goods or making purchases of any description from houses advertising with us to mention in their letter that such advertisement was noticed in THE CANADIAN GROCER.

THE INSURANCE AGREEMENT.

During the past few days Mr. E. A. Wills, secretary of the Wholesale Grocers' Guild, has had his staff busily engaged in sending out the following circular. Every retailer in Ontario and Quebec should receive one.

Dominion Wholesale Grocers' Guild, Secretary's Office,
TORONTO, March 1, 1889.

INSURANCE.

The losses sustained by fire having been found to be most serious and an evil requiring united action, the members of this Guild have agreed that they will not consent to accept any compromise from their customers where it is found that the failure has been caused through insufficient insurance, and they have further agreed that the insurance carried on the stock, chattels and buildings must be at least sixty per cent. of their value.

The attention of the Retail Trade is respectfully directed to the above.

By Order. EDGAR A. WILLS.
Secretary.

The circular is well received by the Retail Trade, though some of them take it as an interference with their rights. D. S. Perrin & Co., London, write that they heartily approve of the idea. On the other hand, Mr. R. Mountjoy, of the same city, writes: "Would you please go to the d—l and mind your own business? When I ask you for a compromise it's time enough to refuse."

WORK FOR THE GUILD.

Mr. Edgar A. Wills, Secretary of the Dominion Wholesale Grocers' Guild, has received the following letter from a retailer.

"It would well become your guild were you to move to put a stop to selling to any retailer who would make use of leading articles in the grocery trade, such as 30 or 35lbs. of sugar for $1.00, in Newmarket, for the purpose of advertising themselves and building up their leading branch of business, and thus ruining the legitimate grocery trade by making it impossible to give satisfaction to regular customers. A member of your guild is supplying sugar to do this, and upholding this vicious principle, and yet you see fit to lecture the trade as to a possible insufficient insurance, and the penalties to follow."

The house referred to is in the dry goods business, and they take this plan of advertising themselves. The firm which sold the sugars is not the Wholesale Grocers' Guild.

A GROCERS' COLLECTION AGENCY.

At the conclusion of the meeting of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association on Monday evening, a mass meeting of the retail grocers of the city was held to discuss the advisability of establishing a grocers' reporting and collecting agency. Mr. J. Berwick was in the chair.

Mr. Mills, who has taken a most active interest in this question, said that the object of such an agency would be to acquaint the trade of the names of those who were unworthy of credit, and for the collection of debts. It was hard to accomplish much in this respect. A committee was appointed by the Retail Grocers' Association, and they had considered the matter. They found that there were a number of agencies for collecting debts in the city, but they were, as a rule, unsatisfactory, costing the retailers more than the value of the debts they collected. The committee thought that if there were 250 grocers in the city who would pay $10 a year each a successful agency could be carried on. The committee thought that a general meeting should be held, and this was why they had been called together. Speaking for himself, personally, he said there were numerous drawbacks to the regular collecting agency. Many of them only hire for a short time. They take the membership fee and then give up. He found that it took as much trouble to get money from these collecting companies as from those formerly indebted. They take every line of business in the city; get a few thousand out of them, and then, being unable to cover it, they do not give the attention to the grocery trade which it demands. The grocery trade suffers more than all others, because everyone must have groceries, and they can get the same things at any house. In dry goods, they do not go to every house, but they go to the houses where they are best suited and pay the cash, which should go to the grocers. The latter want information regarding their own customers—those of them who are debtors. With a special agency, they could have a list of those who are preying specially on the grocery trade, which should be issued monthly. The amount lost every year by bad debts was very considerable, and he had no doubt but that all present would be willing to pay $10 per annum to a reliable agency which would collect their bad debts and send them a monthly list of those who were indebted to some of the members.

In reply to a question, Mr. Mara said that $2 would cover the membership of this Association, and $8 would go towards the expenses of the agency. He had considerable experience in collecting agencies, and he had no confidence in their ability to do the work. He was confident that with $2,000 a year, and 10 per cent. on collections, they could have a most successful agency. They would employ a first-class man. If he did not do his work well they would instantly discharge him. Some of the grocers were not willing to give the names of those indebted to them fearing that their competitors would hear of it. With such an agency, none but the trusted secretary would know from whom the names came.

Mr. Partridge expressed surprise that so few grocers were present.

Mr. Butcher suggested getting 400 grocers at $5, instead of 200 at $10.

Mr. Gibson was also of the opinion that a $5 fee was better than $10.

Mr. Mara thought there should be two grades. No. 1 should pay $10, and No. 2, $5.

Mr. Partridge did not like the idea of No. 2 grocers. They were all No. 1 grocers in this city. (Laughter.)

Mr. McCulloch suggested the formation of a company which would publish a "Gazette," in which the names of all delinquent debtors be published, and that the debts be sold at regular intervals.

The President asked if it were not libellous.

Mr. Mills was inclined to believe that it was.

Mr. Berwick said that he was informed that it might be got over by publishing the names in a paper printed in Buffalo and circulated here.

Mr. Saunders thought that such a publication would be libellous.

Mr. Britton was in favor of getting those present to agree to contribute $5.

The discussion then turned on whether every one who joined the collecting agency must necessarily join the association, but nothing was decided.

The matter was finally brought to a head by a motion made by Mr. Mills to the effect that in the opinion of those present it was advisable to form a collecting agency, under the auspices of the retail grocers. The motion was carried unanimously.

Mr. Calhoun, seconded by Mr. Britton, moved that the fee for membership in the proposed collecting agency be $5, and that the charge for collecting be ten per cent.

In reply to Mr. McCulloch, the President said that it was proposed to pay a man a salary to manage the agency.

Mr. Killen proposed that a committee be appointed to wait upon the grocers in each district to ascertain which of them would be willing to join.

Mr. Berwick expressed regret that a greater interest had not been taken in the matter.

Mr. Verner objected to the remarks of the Chairman in throwing cold water on the scheme.

Mr. Killen's motion was carried, but after some discussion it was practically killed by a motion made by Mr. Mills, seconded by Mr. Britton, that a committee be appointed to consider all the phases of the question, and employ a man to work up the trade instead of a committee, as proposed by Mr. Killen. The following are the committee: Messrs. Mara, Saunders, Gibson, Burton, Mills and Britton.

Mr. Britton then brought forward four lady grocers, who had graced the meeting with their presence. They signed an agreement to pay a fee of $5 and 10 per cent. commission on collections to a grocers' agency. Their example was followed by a number of others, after which the meeting adjourned.

TRADE COMBINATIONS.

AN ANSWER TO MR. WALLACE'S BILL AGAINST COMBINES.

The question of trade combinations is agitating business circles in Great Britain, the United States, but more especially in Canada, at the present moment. Many valuable letters and speeches have been published on the question. An address made by Mr. Hugh Blain, of Eby, Blain & Co., at the Toronto Board of Trade on Wednesday, is the most important contribution to this discussion that has yet appeared. On this account we take the liberty of publishing it in full. Mr. Blain made the following remarks on moving the adoption of the report of the Committee on Combines:

Mr. President,—In rising to move the adoption of the Council's Report, I desire to express my personal pleasure at the opportunity of discussing the question of these so-called combines. I have, as some of the gentlemen present are aware, always advocated the widest publicity to all our dealings in connection with these agreements, feeling satisfied that if they were honest the public would so recognize them as soon as it was in possession of the facts.

I am a believer in the triumph of right over wrong, and am firmly persuaded that these alleged combinations, if not founded on the sound principles of justice, will crumble to pieces and perish of themselves through their own inherent weakness. If unfair, they will be of short duration, or, to follow more closely the language of the report, if unrighteous, disintegration is inevitable.

I have the most unbounded confidence in our country, her institutions, her laws and her future. We are, however, a busy people, and it is only after a question has assumed importance and been prominently brought before us that we take the trouble to examine it carefully.

The subject of these so-called combines, I fear, occupies this position. The press has occasionally given a superficial opinion, but apparently without reason. About the only prominence the question has received was before the special committee of the House of Commons last Session, and it was entirely one-sided.

The public have really never considered or discussed it.

The Report of the Council, which we are called together to-night to discuss, puts the case fairly on general grounds, and it will be for the members of the Board here to say how far the actual experience of their branch of business will support the views set forth in the report. So far as the grocery trade is concerned, I think I can safely say we endorse it to the letter.

We especially commend the paragraph which says, "Combines result from the circumstances which surround ruinous competition, and the profits fixed are necessarily the smallest possible advance compatible with the actual requirements of the special branch of trade, and I hope to submit to you such facts and figures as will convince any fair minded person that such is the case, as well as astonish my fellow wholesale merchants at the small percentage of profits they are realizing on these staple articles of trade and commerce." But first let us look at the causes which brought this Bill before the country, as well as the causes which brought these agreements into existence.

Mr. Wallace came to the city a year ago last Municipal Election for the purpose of assisting in the election of our worthy Mayor whom we have all learned to value and admire.

In opposing Mr. Rogers the question of coal and its prices came up for discussion. Mr. Wallace thought he had discovered a system of robbery by the Coal Merchants' Agreement, and when disconcerted by Mr. Rogers, who knew more about the matter than he did, he threatened to bring it up in the House. He did so, but when he found that the price of coal was controlled by a foreign Company, over which he had no jurisdiction, he at once directed all his energies against the Wholesale Grocers' Association. Mr. Wallace is I believe an estimable citizen and a faithful member of any organization to which he belongs, and so he ought to be, but when he dips into the economic laws that govern trade and commerce he gets far beyond his depth.

He should not let a personal municipal wrangle lead him so far from the path of justice. His whole conduct has been distinguished by a most disgraceful bias against business, but especially against the trade I have now the honour to represent. He admitted to Mr. Davidson, our Vice-President, that the Bill was chiefly directed against us. The Bill was therefore as you can readily see conceived in enmity and brought forth in the most painful prejudice, and I believe an intelligent Parliament will give it such a death and burial as its birth and infant nurture deserve.

Now let us look at the causes which led to the formation of these agreements; I speak now for the trade Mr. Wallace most strongly condemns, and if I can show that he completely fails in his strongest point of attack, it will be fair to argue that his whole case must fall to the ground.

The wholesale grocers have entered into three agreements. The first to establish prices of standard brands of tobaccos. The second to establish the prices of standard graded sugars, and the third to regulate the terms of credits and cash discounts.

The keenest competition in business always settles on the goods that are best known, and under the old condition of affairs the first question when trying to sell was, What can you do Prince of Wales or Brier tobaccos, or granulated sugar for? The traveller or the merchant, as the case might be, was afraid to give a quotation lest he might be too high. He, however, usually ventured down to the lowest point, to be told, perhaps, that he was over the mark, and, after a series of cross-firing, would end by selling these staples at less than cost, with the hope of making up the loss out of extra profits on other goods which the buyer did not know the exact value of. To such an extent was this carried on that misrepresentation became almost an essential element in trade, causing almost constant falsehoods by the unprincipled traveler and merchant, both wholesale and retail. This state of affairs grew worse and worse, until it became manifest that something had to be done to save business men from both moral and financial bankruptcy.

Efforts were first directed towards establishing uniform prices of tobacco.

The project was supported by every one called upon. Of the two firms that afterwards became notorious, Mr. Lightbound was one of the most active promoters in fixing the prices on tobacco, and Mr. Mathieson, on principle, did not deal in the article. The movement being general did not require an expression of assent from the manufacturers. The advance arranged was 3 cents per lb. and duty 12 cents, in all 15 cents per pound on the manufacturer's price list. Take "Brier," a popular medium priced grade of tobacco, which then cost 30 cents in bond 100 lbs., would be dealt with as follows :

This will hardly be considered an exorbitant profit on such an article as tobacco. This arrangement was, however, found to work well, and all parties were satisfied.

Encouraged by the admirable work of this agreement, agitating began for a like agreement to govern the prices of graded sugars ; some were doubtful as to the success of such a movement, and it was some time before it assumed definite shape. The refiners were asked for their views and offered considerable opposition to the proposal ; they, however, after the most urgent representations conceded that if 90 or 95 per cent. of the trade requested them they would see how far they would be able to consider and meet our wishes. Ninety-eight per cent. of the trade or in other words, every wholesale grocer in Ontario, residing in Toronto, Hamilton, London, Brantford, Kingston, Ottawa, Brockville, Belleville, Trenton, and every one in Montreal, except two, signed the Sugar Agreement, which is here for inspection, and which provides that graded sugars shall be sold at an advance of ½ per cent. per lb. in single barrel lots, and at ⅜ cents per lb. in 15 barrel lots, and over. Take granulated, which is the cheapest graded sugar, and therefore the most unfavourable in argument to the wholesale merchant, and we will deal with 100 lbs. at the present price of 7 cents per lb. with the following results:

This is calculating freight from Montreal at 14 cents as an average the year round, which makes 16 cents on the net weight of sugar. This is also charging 1 per cent. for interest on holding the sugar in stock before turning it over. The profit here shown, viz. 4.52 per cent. in single barrel lots, and 2.75 per cent. on 15 barrel lots is the highest possible profit which can be made. But the agreement provides that if sold at or nearer to any other competing point the seller allows the difference in price. So if I send 15 barrels to London for example and the freight is say 10 cents, I get a little less than half the profits of 19½ cents, or 9½ which would be about 1⅓ per cent. This same practice applies to tobacco, when sold at or nearer another distributing point. Now it may be considered an easy affair to manipulate figures, and some people may say that if they could only get at the true inwardness of matters, things would be found to be different. I ought to know sufficient about mathematics to understand how to get correct results. Besides, I have submitted these figures to both Mr. Ince, and Mr. Davidson, who will verify them if necessary.

However, lest there should still be a doubter, I am prepared to place a cheque for $1.000 in the hands of the Mayor, to be distributed among city charities, if an expert, after examining these figures does not find them substantially correct, both as to matter of fact and as to calculation.

This agreement, it must be observed, applies solely to graded sugars, which means only granulated and other white standard sugars, and represents about one-third of the sugars consumed ; the other two-thirds consist of various qualities of what is called Yellow Refined, and are sold at whatever price the parties agree upon. When you consider these rates of profits, 4.52 or 2.75 or 1⅓ per cent., as the case may be, and when you consider that the wholesale grocer cannot do business at a less expense on his sales than 4½% you will readily see that the result of the Sugar Agreement has not been to obtain unreasonable profits, but rather to establish an honorable basis on which to do business.

A wholesale merchant is now unable to offer his graded sugars and tobaccos at less than cost, with the expectation of getting an unreasonable profit on other goods, the value of which he can misrepresent, and of which the buyer cannot accurately judge.

The traveller is unable to offer a like inducement with a view of taking a like advantage, and the buyer is unable to misrepresent the figure at which he bought, or is being offered by others, so as to demoralize the market. This agreement has so steadied the market that the buyer in giving his order simply adds so much sugar or tobacco, without even asking the prices. Nearly every person admits our right to make this agreement, provided others were not excluded from buying on the same terms as we do. Our answer is, they should be and are entitled to buy on the same terms if they sell on the same conditions as we do, otherwise the agreement will be inoperative. The conditions we maintain are reasonable, and are in the interests of the general public as well as in the interests of all concerned. We maintain that they are in the interests of the public because it has been found that the wholesale grocer is the cheapest medium through which these articles can be distributed, and the prices at which we now distribute them are less than actual cost of doing the work, and we believe that no agency can be brought into operation which can distribute them at as low figures. The next and only other agreement in force in the grocery trade is one to regulate terms and discounts.

In our business, according to the character of goods, the terms are 4 months, 60 days or net cash. On 4 months goods we allow discount for cash if paid within 15 days, 3 per cent. ; if in 30 days, 2½ per cent. On 60 days goods the discount off is 1½ per cent., if paid within 15 days, and 1 per cent. if paid in 30 days. After 30 days interest is allowed at not over 9 per cent. per annum. Goods are not dated ahead. These terms are adhered to absolutely. The profits in our business will not warrant either a longer term of credit or a larger discount for cash. The advantages of such an agreement will be at once apparent to any business man. The absurd terms given by dry goods merchants and other branches of business are a most serious detriment to trade. These easy conditions produce the

TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

The regular monthly meeting of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association was held in Philharmonic Hall, Monday evening. In addition to the members there were a number of grocers who came to hear and take part in the discussion on the establishment of a collection agency. In the temporary absence of the President, Mr. R. Mills took the chair.

THE PRIZE WAGON.

No report was received from the committee on the prize wagon in the absence of the chairman, Mr. A. G. Booth.

THE "AT HOME."

Mr. J. F. Thackray presented the report of the "At Home" committee, which showed that it had been very successful, and that all expenses had been paid and a small balance was left.

LATE MEMBERS.

President Berwick entered at this moment, and Mr. J. Butcher asked if there was any fine for officers being late (laughter).

MARKET REGULATIONS.

Mr. Thackray presented the report of the committee on unlicensed peddling and market regulations, which recommended the presentation of the following petition to the City Council.

TO THE COUNCIL OF THE CORPORATION.

The petition of the undersigned humbly sheweth that there is at present much dissatisfaction, both among merchants and private citizens, who have occasion to frequent the city market, in regard to the absence of regulations governing the sale of produce.

That there are many cases of fraud, both as regards quality and quantity, practised on merchants and citizens by those frequenting the market for the sale of produce, recent cases punished by the Police Magistrate being proof in point.

There are many other cases occurring of which no notice is taken, in view of loss of time and trouble incident to bringing such fraud to punishment.

That your petitioners are of the opinion, in view of the large amount of money at present being spent in the improvement of the St. Lawrence market, that the present time be an opportune occasion for the adoption of proper rules and regulations governing the sale of articles of produce, both as regards quality and quantity.

That your petitioners are also of opinion that such rules and regulations, after being enacted, should be posted throughout the market in conspicuous places, for the information of all concerned, and that power should also be given to some of the officials—License Inspector, or one of the market constables—to have all such regulations complied with.

That your petitioners also desire to call attention to the fact that many farmers are selling their produce from door to door without payment of license or market fee.

Your petitioners are aware of the difficulty of reaching such cases, but at the same time are justified in stating that many who are not growers of produce are, under pretence of such, selling produce from door to door, and thus evading payment of license or market fee.

With regard to some who have taken out a license for peddling, your petitioners are led to believe that some with one such license use several wagons to go over the city, and would therefore suggest that this matter be looked into and stopped, and also suggest that any to whom such license be given be required to exhibit a badge on their person, and shall also be required to carry their license, for the inspection of any of the city constables or officials who may demand its production, and that special instructions be given to all officials to be on the alert for the strict enforcement of all such regulations.

And as in duty bound your petitioners will ever pray.

Signed, JOHN BERWICK, President.
J. F. THACKRAY, Secretary.

The report was adopted, and on motion of Mr. Calhoun, seconded by Mr. McCulloch, the same committee was instructed to wait upon and present the petition to the City Council.

AFTER THE PRODUCE MEN.

Mr. Berwick now took the chair, and the committee which was instructed to look into the charge that the produce commission merchants were in the habit of selling to consumers recommended that the following circular be sent to all the produce merchants;

To the Provision and Commission Merchants of the City of Toronto:

GENTLEMEN,—The Retail Grocers' Association of this city desire to call your attention to practice of selling articles of produce, such as hams, bacon, lard, eggs, etc., directly to the consumers, thus doing a manifest injustice to the members of the Retail Grocery Trade.

While they are aware of the perishable nature of some few of the articles handled in the course of their business, and the urgent necessity for a prompt disposal of the same, they are of an opinion, however, that the traffic could in a measure be reduced, and would respectfully urge your consideration of the matter.

The wholesale grocers of the city, upon being approached on a similar matter, signed an agreement pledging themselves to discontinue the selling of goods direct to consumers, and their names were placed upon a Roll of Honor for the guidance of the grocery trade. It is proposed to establish a similar Roll of Honor of the provision and commission houses.

We trust, therefore, to have your name upon the list, feeling satisfied that it will be for the good of all interested.

Signed on behalf of the Retail Grocers' Association { J. BERWICK, Pres. / J. F. THACKRAY, Sec.

Some discussion took place as to whether the commission merchants should be permitted to sell perishable goods to consumers. The feeling was that they should not.

Mr. Verner suggested that a committee be appointed to wait upon them to get their signatures to the agreement, as had been done in the case of the wholesale grocers.

The report was adopted.

THE TOBACCO LICENSES.

Mr. Mills said that the Inspector is sent around to collect the tobacco licenses, but he does not go to all, and those who have not paid are now liable to prosecution.

The Secretary read a letter from Mr. John Gilbert, Secretary of the Kingston Retail Grocers' Association, as follows:

KINGSTON, Feb. 13, 1889.

DEAR SIR,—Pardon me for not acknowledging your welcome and interesting letter before this, but really I have had more than I could attend to, being under medical treatment at the same time. It is laborious work here in connection with our Association; there are only a few who will take an active part, but we hope that the worst is over. It is my first experience in Association work, and, perhaps, I look for too much at once. We have over 400 names on our dead beat list. I have them copied in a large index book. Each grocer makes a separate copy for himself. We think it one of the best things in connection with our work. Canada has a big crop of dead beats.

I read with interest the proceedings of your Association in CANADIAN GROCER (a noble paper)

I took the liberty of reading your letter at our last meeting, and they passed a resolution directing me to return thanks to you on behalf of the T. R. G. A. for the warm feeling they expressed with regard to the welfare of our K. R G. A., and hope that in the near future every city and town in the Dominion may have similar Associations, and that these Associations may band together and fight for their rights, for we have rights to gain and wrongs to get rid of.

The law seems to afford a generous protection to dishonest people. Although there is one bright spot in it, it should make us more careful about giving credit.

Then again there are often dishonest collectors to contend with; in some cases they collect and pocket, and very often bill you for their trouble. Then is not prevention our only defence? I think so. I have a lot of notices, etc., to send out (of which I enclose a sample; they make lots of work for me). So I must conclude, hoping you will excuse this hastily written letter. Yours truly,

JOHN GILBERT.

HALIFAX HEARD FROM.

The Secretary also read a letter from Mr. W. J. Forrestall, of Halifax, as follows:—

HALIFAX, NOVA SCOTIA,
Feb. 21, 1889.

MR. THACKRAY,
Secretary, T. R. G. Association.

DEAR SIR,—As I am agitating the formation of a Retail Grocers' Association in this city, I beg to ask of you a copy of the Rules and By-laws of your Association to "help me out." I have worked in your city, Boston and other cities, and have seen the benefits derived from such organizations, and would like to form one in this city, as it is sadly needed.

Trusting you will grant the above request, I remain, yours cordially,

W. J. FORRESTALL,
Of R. T. Forrestall & Co., Grocers, Halifax, N.S.

The meeting then adjourned.

We invite correspondence from readers in every section on subjects pertaining to the trade, and shall be pleased to answer questions of general interest in this department. We require with each letter the name and address of the sender, not necessarily for publication, unless agreeable to writers, but for our own protection.

HOW TO DEAL WITH BANKRUPT STOCKS.

EXETER, 11th March, 1889.

Dear Sir,—I am exceedingly pleased to see the interest manifested in the bankrupt stock and compromise question, but would like to get more suggestions as to how the stocks should be disposed of, as that is a very important point to get at. You will notice that very few of your many correspondents suggest any scheme.

I have thought that if the Boards of Trade in Toronto and London would take hold of the matter and arrange with the wholesale merchants of the various trades to get up a trade sale and a convention of the retailers at the same time, and spend the afternoons for a week discussing the question, that we could no doubt get up some scheme that would be satisfactory; besides we would all be well paid for our time by the information that we get by such a convention, as there would be many points brought out that many of us know nothing about.

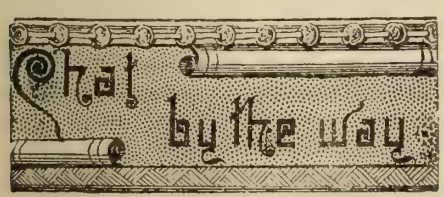
Then we would return home and arrange to form boards of trade in our towns and villages; just what we should have. It does seem strange that the retailers of this country have no associations; we are all at sea and pulling for the shore, each one for himself.

and trying to put the other down. The one don't know what the other is doing. That is not as it should be. We should have our associations, and arrange and regulate trade to the best advantage to ourselves. Then have our annual conventions at some central point to make improvements and changes as we found it necessary.

I do not think that we will ever have a sound live trade until we get such organizations. Just look at the associations of the different callings, such as manufacturers, farmers, laborers, producers, druggists, engineers, commercial travellers, egg men and others, all to arrange, improve and protect their callings. While not by any means the least, the retailers have no such organizations, so that it is not much wonder that that industry is in such deep water at the present time. Then it is of the utmost importance that we get organized; not dry goods men alone, nor grocers, but every retailer, no matter in what branch of business. All should join together. Union is strength. Before two years there would be some wonderful changes in the mercantile trade, and a safe foundation to do business on. I hope that every retailer and wholesaler will write his views on this question, and help the cause along. I will ask the question thus: How many will write a scheme of disposing of bankrupt stocks, and will they favor or approve of a convention such as I have proposed above? Hoping to get such opinions,

I am, yours truly,

MERCHANT.



The estate of J. F. Atwell, St. Mary's, canner and pickler, is offered for sale by tender.

Warren Bros. & Boomer are offering a very fine yellow sugar, a grade below granulated, at 6¾c.

F. W. Johnston, grocer, Davenport Road, can boast of as fine a looking sleigh as there is in the city.

Messrs. R. A. Smith, Newmarket, and J. R. Sherwin, Gore's Landing, were among the visitors at THE GROCER office this week.

Mr. J. Walter Allison, of the firm of John P. Mott & Co., Halifax, was in the city on Wednesday. He went west yesterday, and will return to spend Sunday here.

R. Ralston, of Ralston & Co., Hamilton, called on THE GROCER the other day, and showed us a sample box of his shoe blacking, which he reports a large sale of at present, on account, no doubt, of the very large box and extra quality. It sells to the consumer at five cents.

It is reported that T. H. Lake, of Shannonville, is talking of starting a canning factory. His attention is respectfully directed to some of the recent articles on canned goods in THE GROCER.

J. Nelson, of 528 Queen W., is about to make extensive alterations in his store. The verandah will be removed to allow more light through the plate glass window he will put in, and the place renovated generally.

THE GROCER is pleased to notice that Mr. Kyle, of Eckardt, Kyle & Co., wholesale grocers, Front St., has sufficiently recovered from his recent illness to resume work. He is one of the most popular grocery representatives on the road.

Eby, Blain & Co., who are agents for Higgin's Eureka salt, have instructions to sell at the same prices as last year. This will increase the already large sale of this popular brand. No dairyman should be without it. This is the only brand of salt that is not in the world's combination. The 5lb. and 14lb. sizes are specially adapted for the retail trade.

Mr. E. Long, St. Mary's, writes that he is giving up the grocery business entirely, and will in future devote his attention entirely to his duties of Town Treasurer, Division Court Clerk and Insurance Agent. Mr. Long was one of the early subscribers to THE GROCER, and says he found it most useful to him in business.

We notice the well-known firm of Cudaby Bros., of Milwaukee, are amongst the latest caterers for this market in lard, and judging from the excellence of the goods they are supplying through their agents, Messrs. Stanway & Bayley, we are not surprised at the encouragement they have received from the trade, as we find they are giving unbounded satisfaction here, and fully maintaining the high reputation they enjoy in the United States.

A large deputation waited upon the Attorney-General on Tuesday with reference to the resolution passed by the License Commissioners of Toronto at their meeting last spring, to the effect that for this next license year no shop licenses would be granted to any grocers. The grocers protested against this. Mr. Mowat informed the deputation that the Government had no jurisdiction in the matter over the Commissioners, but that he would talk it over with his colleagues.

There are now the usual complaints of "mixed" eggs, and there is consequently a good deal of trouble. The commission houses receive consignments of reputed strictly new laid. It is not until they reach the consumer that it is discovered that they are mixed, fresh, held and pickled. There are a few country shippers who make a specialty of shipping reliable eggs. Their stock can always be depended upon. It sells before any other, and at times brings one to two cents per dozen more than the average.

A bulletin has just been issued by the Inland Revenue Department containing the result of the analysis of 109 samples of lard, of which 38 were Canadian, 11 unknown, and 60 of American origin. Of the American lards only one was genuine, the rest being adulterated. With regard to the samples of native lard, excluding those which have only been derived from trading firms not concerned in the packing business, and which may therefore be of American origin, out of 35 samples 3 were adulterated.

There were 36 failures in Canada reported to Bradstreet's during the past week, against 67 in the preceding week, and 70, 30 and 38 in the corresponding weeks of 1888, 1887 and 1886, respectively. The total number of failures in Canada reported to Bradstreets from January 1st, 1889, to March 9th, 1889, was 434, against 432, 271 and 282 for corresponding periods in 1888, 1887 and 1886, respectively. In the United States there were reported for a similar period, 2,948 in 1889, 2,485 in 1888, 2,536 in 1887 and 2,739 in 1886.

In the International Series Counter Check Books, manufactured by Morton & Co., 3 and 5 Adelaide Street East, Toronto, merchants are guaranteed in their use by letters patent. Samples are furnished free of the best check book yet introduced. Thousands now in use.

most careless business habits, and the long terms and foolish indulgence so freely granted result in creating and fostering a constant crop of rotten concerns all over the country. This mistaken cupidity has not even the semblance of sound business principles. It requires but little business capacity to arrange with a customer to give him 4 or 6 months from next November, or allow him 6 per cent. for cash off an account having only 3 months to run, when the money is not worth 2 per cent. If the other branches of trade were to adopt our terms, I venture to say that the business of the country would soon be on quite a different basis. We claim that association in our branch of trade is found by actual experience to be necessary, and that our associated efforts have been so directed that all interests have been carefully considered and protected. We claim that the public gets the best possible service in the distribution of staple articles, and especially of sugars.

That the work is done for less than the average cost of doing business, and less than it could be done for as a separate branch of trade. That this could not be the case if they were not sold in connection with the general grocery trade. That the grocery trade only distribute these staple articles at the prices charged, because selling them usually secures orders for other goods.

That sugar, especially a staple article of large daily consumption, is in constant demand, and the wholesale grocer is forced to supply his customer with it.

That the wholesale grocery trade would gladly abandon the sale of sugars because unprofitable, if the exigencies of our business did not compel us to handle it. We claim that we have the right to use our organization to remove the baneful influences of dishonest trading. We claim the right both by individual action and associated effort to refuse to sell, even for cash, to merchants who are slaughtering goods and demoralizing the market to the injury of the general public, and the ruin of their neighbour merchants, who may be our own customers, and in whom we may be largely interested. We claim that the refiner or manufacturer should have the same right to protect us by refusing others under similar circumstances. We claim that the result of the Wholesale Grocers' Agreement with each other, and the trade generally, has been uniformly in the best interests of the public as well as those more immediately affected.

And finally we claim the right to be protected by the Government in a just endeavour to elevate the standard of business morals.

If after careful consideration of these facts and figures, any person can fairly condemn the Wholesale Grocers' Agreements, I am much mistaken in men's views of the justice which should govern mankind. I claim that our Agreements are not Combinations, but Mr. Wallace's Bill deals with Combinations, Agreements and Arrangements on the same footing, so that I will not waste time arguing the distinction.

I thank you gentlemen for your attention, and trust I have been able to add something to the discussion of a subject which is of tremendous import to business men.

CORN COOKERS AND CUTTERS.

One of the most interesting features of the recent meeting of the Western Packers' Association was the display of machinery. In this display there was no exhibit that attracted more attention than the green corn cooker and the green corn cutter of the Hemingway Manufacturing Company of Syracuse, N.Y. In Canada the corn put up by some of the packers is not anything like what it should be. In many instances the fault is in the cutting of the corn from the cob—part of the cob is taken with the kernels. Some canners take great care to avoid this, but do not give the same attention to the cooking. The Hemingway Co.'s machines are built to overcome these difficulties. The corn cutter is Sprague's, with a number of important improvements, and the Hemingway Company are agents. Mr. Sprague acted upon the idea that there is a large difference between the solidity of the corn and the cob, and he has made a knife that will clip off the corn and not cut the cobs.

He hit upon the idea of soldering a gauge on the inside of the knife, a narrow strip of iron five-eighths of an inch long by one-eighth inch wide and full one-eighth of an inch deep, the front end formed like a sleigh runner and set back one-eighth of an inch from the edge of the knife, the bottom flat. He tested it by cutting off about two-thirds of the corn on one side of the ear and running them through ; also ears with extreme long kernels, and extreme short kernels ; also hard and soft ears ; also run the cob through, the knives were set extremely deep from the outside gauge and the inside gauge would keep the knives from cutting the cobs, corn or no corn on them. He ran through about five bushels of corn and not in a single instance did it fail to work perfectly. Now, if the gauges above described, with the knives set full one-half an inch deep, will allow a bare cob to pass between them with the edges close to the cob, making no difference whether the cob is straight, crooked or tapering, it is self-evident that the machine is a corn cutter purely, and not a cob cutter. There are other minor improvements which of themselves make the machine better. One is a simple arrangement that will not allow the rear spurs to drop below or raise above the centre of the rear knives. The other is a guard to keep the corn, cut with the front knives, from getting under the rear spurs. Its use is twofold—one is to give the spurs a firm hold on the bare cob, the other is to prevent the spurs from mutilating any of the kernels. With the above-mentioned improvements the cutters will cut all varieties of corn close to the cobs, leave all the kernels whole and not cut the cobs, or they can be set to cut as little as you wish and scrape off what is left. The Hemingway Co. will ship them to any responsible party on five days' trial. If the improvements are not all that is claimed for them the price will be $200, the regular figure being $250.

Those who have tried Hemingway's Green Corn Cooker say they have solved the question of how to produce the finest quality of canned sweet corn at a minimum cost. The manufacturers describe the features of the machines as follows :

The manner in which we introduce the steam to do our cooking, utilized as it is through the entire centre of the mass by means of the hollow flights attached thereto, enables us to carry live steam through the centre of the mass the entire length of the Cooker: taking the steam from any of these hollow flights it is forced direct into the corn at any point desired by the operator. By this method we obtain a quick and even cooking of the corn, retaining its natural whiteness, flavour and sweetness, setting the milk of the corn and making a creamy substance of it which adds greatly to its quality and value.

The corn being automatically fed into the Cooker by the feeder is continuously moved forward and forced into the filler and from thence into the cans, taking not to exceed 1½ minutes from the time it leaves the feeder until it is filled into the cans. This quick, continuous, and even cooking is only obtained by carrying live steam the entire length of the cooker shaft and flights, taking it into the centre of the mass in small jets at as many places as may be required. By this means we do our cooking, obtaining results that cannot possibly be produced by any other system of cooking green corn yet presented to canners.

These Cookers are in two sizes:—No 1. has a capacity of cooking and filling twenty-five thousand cans in ten hours, and our No. 2. a capacity of twelve to fourteen thousand cans in ten hours. No blowing out of the corn, if properly run, and we secure a continuous and even filling of corn into the cans so long as the feeder has the corn to supply the cooker.

GROCERIES.

CANNED GOODS.

The failure of Burgess has had no effect as yet on the market. The Ontario Bank, which holds about 3,000 cases of his own pack of tomatoes, offered them for sale at 80c. A bid of 70c. was made for the entire lot and refused. They have been withdrawn from the market, and it is reported that another creditor, who considers they are worth more, will endeavour to get control of the entire lot. This has added some backbone to what promised to be a weak market. Whether it is only temporary, or not, we cannot say. Corn and peas are flat and likely to remain so; sales are being made at 80c. and $1. A French cable, received Wednesday, offered French peas at 3s. lower than last year, but it says they are likely to go higher. There is a fair demand for fruits at quotations. Canned salmon is also inquired for a little more freely.

TEAS.

The market has continued rather on the quiet side, though a little better demand has been experienced, resulting in a moderate amount of business at good prices. The chief feature is the fact that local buyers are at last beginning to appreciate the higher prices ruling, in other markets for most kinds, especially in Young Hysons, and are showing a disposition to operate at the advances asked by holders. The transactions have been chiefly in low grade teas, principally of Hysons and Japans, the latter are already becoming scarce and will doubtless be in short supply before the new season's low grades can arrive. The better grades of Japans continue neglected, but the demand for them will necessarily come as the stocks of lower grades become exhausted. The statistical position of all kinds continues very strong.

COFFEES.

There is a strong market on all kinds of coffees. Rios are held at 22c. for fair. Recent purchases have cost 1½c. higher than the price of a month ago.

SUGARS.

The advance in sugars has been the feature of the week. The improvement in the prices of yellows was noted last week. Owing to the competition between the refiners, they had been cut down pretty low, and it was natural that they should first feel the influence of the advance in the raw sugar market. They are now up ¼c. to ⅜c. from the lowest point. Jobbers have also advanced their prices. Low grades are very scarce, and there does not appear to be much offering under 5⅜c., from which values range to 5¾c. for a very fine bright. On Tuesday the refineries advanced granulated ⅛c., and it is likely that a corresponding advance will be made in the prices of retailers' lots to-morrow. Raws are still too high to import, still efforts are being made to work a few importations. Outside markets are all firm. In New York there is considerable quiet chuckling among the sugar men, and indeed throughout the grocery market, over the rather bad plight into which the Trust has managed to work itself. For months the combine has been playing indifferent and endeavouring to break down prices, without success; but, on the contrary, there was a gradual stiffening on the evidences of scant and backward supplies, until now importers practically have control and can do a little in the monopoly line themselves. Of great benefit to the general situation is the strong condition of affairs in Cuba, where the crop is not only backward, but even of the amount ready a large proportion is held off the market. The latter end is said to be attained through the greater liberality of the banking institutions on the Island, which, instead of charging exorbitant rates of interest as in former years, have reduced their charges to a comparatively moderate percentage, through which planters are enabled to carry their production without difficulty.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Syrups are unchanged. The refiners are still behind in filling their orders.

Molasses are scarce and firmly held. Some, however, have none whatever, but shipments are expected in about ten days. West Indian are held, on the spot, mostly at 42c. to 45c. Cuban have advanced 2c. in New York during the past few days.

DRIED FRUITS AND NUTS.

Currants—Are steady and unchanged at 5⅛c. up for barrels and halves. Demand is light. Under date of 21st ult., advices from Greece on the currant situation report a quiet market, though holders "are not disposed to submit to any serious decline." Really good keeping quality fruit is exceedingly scarce there; in Pyrgos and Calamata the quantity of such remaining is said to not exceed 5,000 to 6,000 tons. Of the total quantity of all kinds held, France is looked to as a buyer of 15,000 to 20,000 tons before the next crop is available, provided moderate prices are named. The shipments to the United Kingdom so far this season have been 2,000 tons less than for corresponding period last year; while on the other hand North of Europe has taken a quantity 10,500 tons greater. The shipments to the United States since the opening of the the season have been 12,680 tons, against 12,053 tons to corresponding period 1888, and Canada 1,615 tons, against 1,072 tons same time last year. The total shipments to all countries foot up 118,089 tons, against 110,-343 tons in 1888.

Dates—Are in fair demand at 6c.

Figs—Are dull. Demand is chiefly on common in 60 lb. boxes at 4½c.

Prunes—Are in light demand, excepting for the finer qualities.

Raisins—Are moving slowly. Finest off-stalk Valencias are quoted at 6½c. and selected at 7½c. to 8c. Sultanas are jobbing at 9c. for extra and 7½c. for medium, but common may be had a good deal less.

Nuts—Are dull and unchanged.

GREEN FRUIT.

There is a slight improvement over that of last week in the green fruit trade, though the demand is not very large. California oranges of recent arrival are meeting with good sale at $4 per case. Valencias are moving very slowly at $5 to $5.25 per case. Stocks of Floridas are getting very light, and are quoted at $4. Jamaicas, stocks of which are very light, sell at $6.50. Washington Navel oranges are meeting with good sale on account of the fine fruit, which is very sweet. They are quoted at $5 to $6 per case. Lemons are very slow this week compared with that of last week. Messinas have the best run, at $3 to $3.50. Palermo lemons are quoted at $4 to $4.50. Bananas are arriving and moving off quite freely, yellows principally. They are somewhat slower, ranging from $1.75 to $2.50 per bunch. Reds are expected in next week.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

APPLES—There has not been much doing in export apples directly from the city this week, and values remain unchanged. From outside points a good number of shipments are reported. Apples are still very plentiful in the Province. The difficulty is about the quality, which, in many instances, is inferior, and oft-times the exporter, after having gone to some point to inspect a lot that has been offered as good fruit, finds that he has had his trouble for nothing. Advices from the British market continue encouraging. The market there yet shows no signs of overloading. It is reported that some of the late shipments from here were received in bad condition, being frosted, and realized poor prices. The demand for apples for local consumption has improved considerably lately, and a fair movement is reported. Packed are going at $1.25 to $1.50, and in some cases even $2 per bbl. in small lots. The quality of the loose apples offered by the farmers has been better recently, and the supply has not been so great. With the increased enquiry better prices have ruled, and they now run from $1 to $2 per bbl. in small lots.

BEANS—Quiet and unchanged, at $1.40 to $1.50 for small lots, and $1.25 for large.

DRIED APPLES—Are almost unsalable. The few consignments that have arrived during the week have had no more than 3c. bid for them by the wholesale trade. Smaller lots are offering at 3½c. to 3¾c. Evaporated are also very flat. Single boxes are offering at 7c., while round lots could be bought at less than 6c.

EGGS—Receipts of fresh have been fairly liberal, but there is a more active demand, and prices are firm at a slight advance on a week ago. For strictly new-laid stock 16c. to 16½c. is paid for lots, and 17c. for single cases. Limed are held and hard to sell; holders are offering them about 10c.

HAY AND STRAW—The market for hay is fairly steady. Timothy is selling on the track at $14.50 for average stock, and at $15 to $15.50 for choice. Mixed has been moving more freely, the better grades going at $13 to $14. Nothing doing in American hay.

MONTREAL,

Offer for sale all grades of REFINED SUGARS and SYRUPS of the well-known brand of

Redpath

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

JOHN BAKER EDWARDS, P.L.D., D.C.L., F.C.S.,

Public Analyst for the District of Montreal, and Professor of Chemistry.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY, MEDICAL FACULTY, McGILL UNIVERSITY.

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have taken and tested a sample of your "EXTRA GRANULATED" Sugar, and find that it yielded 99·88 per cent. of Pure Sugar. It is practically as pure and good a Sugar as can be manufactured

Yours truly,

G. P. GIRDWOOD.

The Markets—Continued.

HOPS—New have been moving at 21c. to 24c., and yearlings are held at 10c. to 12½c. Demand, however, is light.

MEATS—Dressed beef is selling at 5c. to 7c. for hinds, and 3½c. to 4½c. for fores. Lamb and choice light mutton is quoted at 8c. to 9c., and heavy mutton slow at 7c. Veal rules at 7c. to 8c.

ONIONS—Are dull at 70c. per bag for good fair stock.

POTATOES—The market shows no improvement. Small lots are selling out of store at 40c. to 45c. Now and then a car sells on the track at 30c., or at an outside point at 20c. to 22c.

POULTRY—Country shippers are now sending in but very little stock, and this little is mostly frozen turkeys, packed in snow, for which there is but little enquiry. There is a pretty good demand for fresh killed turkeys at 13c. to 14c. per lb., and chickens at 70c. to 80c. a pair. It is hard to get over 11c. for snow-packed turkeys. Frozen spring chickens are coming in from Montreal and selling at 23c. per lb.

SEEDS—Much as before; Alsike inactive at $6 to $6.50 per bushel, but rather more movement in red clover at $4.80 to $5; all other sorts nominally unchanged.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

FLOUR—Dull and easier. Buyers are holding off.

BRAN—Easier. Sales have been made outside at $12.50 to $13, and on the track at $14 to $14.50. Small lots are selling at the local mills at $15.

WHEAT—Lower and weak, in sympathy with outside markets. Sellers are asking about the same as before, while buyers are somewhat indifferent, bidding lower figures. Northern wheat is held at $1.07 up the line. On the spot values are nominal, at about $1.06 to $1.08 for No. 2. Manitoba wheats are sharing in the general dulness of the market. No. 1 hard is worth $1.33 to $1.34. No. 1 frosted is offering at $1.08, with buyers considerably below this price. On the street buyers are paying $1.08 to $1.12.

BARLEY—Has been very dull all week. A few lots of No. 3 extra have changed hands outside, with some freight to the Bridge, as Toronto at 50c. to 50½c. The last sale reported was equal to 51c. here.

PEAS—Are scarce, not many offering, and there is pretty good enquiry on local account at 56c. outside.

OATS—Dull and easier. The lumber trade is pretty well filled up, and there is no demand from eastern points. Good mixed are worth 34½c. to 35c., and white is selling at 36c. Outside holders are asking 31c. for ordinary mixed, and one lot sold at 30c.

PROVISIONS.

There is a better feeling in the market for products, and an increasing business is reported. Retail prices are no higher, but packers would not sell lines at the low figures quoted a few days ago. Long clear bacon is moving at 8½c. to 8¾c. Mess pork is quiet. Canadian is firmly held at $16 to $16.50, but American can be bought at $15.50. Lard is steady at 10½c. to 11½c. for Canadian in tubs and pails, and 10c. to 10½c. for American. Smoked hams are in fair request at 11½c.

DRESSED HOGS—Dressed hogs are steady. No cars are offering, but there are a good many small lotscoming forward. Light weights, that is, 100 to 175 lbs. are wanted by the packers at $6.80 to $7 per cwt. Heavy have sold at $6.50 to $6.62½.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—There has been a good consumptive demand maintained all week at firm prices, the close showing an advance of about one cent on the higher grades. Selected dairy has been in short supply; some dealers would appear to have been paying 18c. for lots lying outside, and all coming in has gone off readily at 20c. to 22c. Medium has sold rather more freely at 16c. to 17c., but it has been taken only when it was the best obtainable, and selected at three cents more would have been preferred. Common has been very quiet, but has sold in small lots at 12½c. to 14c.; stocks of it, however, are not nearly so much in excess of the demand, as is generally the case at this season. Rolls have continued to come forward slowly, and complaints have been heard that they have been mixed; still good to choice have brought 16c. to 18c.; but inferior very slow at any price. Street receipts small and insufficient; pound rolls ranging from 20c. to 24c., according to quality, but the best qualities preferred; choice dairy in tubs and crocks wanted at 19c. to 20c.

CHEESE—Fairly active and firm. Trade lots have been selling at from 10c. for July make to 11½c. for September; and small lots at up to 12c. for the best September, and down to 10c. for summer make.

SALT.

Inactive; last week's change in the situation has not yet been fully realized. Liverpool, inactive and nominal. Canadian, inactive on car lots, but these held firmly at the advance—indeed for car lots of bagged 75c. was asked at the close. No sales of car lots, but small lots have sold for the supply of immediate wants at 85c. to 90c. for bagged, at $1.40 for barrelled, at $1.75 for dairy in 200-lb. sacks, and 45c. for quarter sacks.

COAL OIL.

Demand is good and prices are unchanged. Canadian refined is selling at 13½c. to 14c. per gal.; carbon safety at 17c.; American water white at 25c.; Canadian water white at 19c., and Photogene at 27c.

FISH.

The mild weather is somewhat against business in the fish market, the movement, however, is reasonably fair, and the supply all round is very good. There is now a large quantity of smelts on the market at from 7c. to 10c. Whitefish and trout are selling well. St. John's herrings are quoted at 75c. to 80c. per hundred, and Halifax herrings at $1.25 per hundred. Messrs. Port & Co. have plenty of British Columbia salmon, at 12½c. to 14c. a pound; also some fresh caught Lake Winnipeg whitefish, at 6c. to 6½c. a pound. There is a supply of pike at 4½c. Ciscoes are quoted at $1.25 per hundred; bluebacks, $2 to $2.25 per hundred. Oysters are in ample supply at $1.20 to $1.60 per gallon. Lake Erie herring are selling at $1.75 per hundred. Steak cod is quoted at 6c. to 6½c. a pound. Trout is plentiful at 5c. for round and 6c. to 6½c. for dressed; finnan haddies at 6c. to 6½c. per pound; and haddock at 4½c. to 5c. per pound.

ACITATING THE WHOLESALERS.

The question of compositions is one that is agitating the minds of many wholesale merchants at the present time. Shall a merchant when he is no longer able to meet his payments be allowed to compromise at so much on the dollar, and thus be able to start in the same trade again, or shall he be made to assign his whole estate for the benefit of his creditors and thus be forced out of the business? The opinion of the trade, without exception, is in favour of the latter course. The bad results emanating from the former have been all too apparent lately. To all retail merchants known to be worthy and capable in their business the wholesaler is at all times ready to give a reasonable amount of extension. When a merchant is no longer able to meet his payments, and cannot give a good excuse for such inability, then it is very right for his creditors to regard him as no longer able to manage his business, and they should, in justice to other hard-working and capable merchants, insist upon his retirement from business. His continuation in business can only be detrimental to the welfare of other merchants more worthy and capable than he—men who can pay their debts, and who should not be subjected to the oft-times unfair competition of those merchants who, having settled all their liabilities at perhaps 40c. or 50c. on the dollar—often even less—are at liberty to start again in the same place, under the same system of business, with the result that some of the other merchants will be driven to the wall, or be compelled to ask extensions. The abuses to which this system of compositions is subjected are so many and so varied that they will have to be commented upon at another time. But, while the wholesale merchants grumble and complain about these abuses, might they not look well into the matter and find out wherein lies the root of the evil. Is this system not fostered by the pernicious system of long credits, and in the dry goods trade of dating ahead, those two evils that have done more to injure the business than any other cause or causes? Have not the loose system of trading, the eagerness to force goods on merchants who, in many cases, do not really need them, the careless way in which credits are given, and the heedless manner with which examinations are made into the credit and business standing of the merchants to whom so much valuable property is entrusted on such slight security, something to do with this evil, which the wholesale trade are now beginning to realize is disturbing trade and causing themselves great losses? This system of compromising is not only noticeable in the dry goods trade, but in all branches of commerce, and the sooner it is faced in a business-like way the better. In the dry goods trade there is one large firm that does little or no compromising with debtors, and others are about to adopt the system, believing that the first loss is the least.—[Empire.

GROCERS!

IT is well known that everywhere in France one can get a good cup of coffee, and it is also an established fact, that the reverse is the case in Canada. Many blame the coffee, but the true cause is simply this. "Not one cook in a dozen knows how to make coffee properly." The above cut represents a new invention which is very simple in construction, and any child can make a good cup of coffee with it. You simply fill the tin can with boiling water, then set the pot on top, put the requisite amount of coffee in the bag inside the pot, then pour a sufficient amount of boiling water into the pot and let it stand on the stove for 3 or 4 minutes, when you will have a first class cup of coffee.

This coffee pot is the simplest, cheapest, and best article of the kind ever invented, and the low price makes it within the reach of all. They are packed 1 doz. in a barrel. Price $6 per doz. Send $6 for 1 doz. as a sample, and you will find it all that we recommend it to be.

SPECIAL TO OUR READERS.

As the design of THE CANADIAN GROCER is to benefit mutually all interested in the business, we would request all parties ordering goods or making purchases of any description from houses advertising with us to mention in their letter that such advertisement was noticed in THE CANADIAN GROCER.

THE GROCERS' COLLECTING AGENCY.

The committee appointed by the retail grocers of this city to deal with the collecting agency question met on Tuesday evening. It was decided to advertise for applications for the position of manager. Another general meeting of the grocers will be called for a couple of weeks hence, when the committee will report progress. They will be able to state at that time what prospects there are for getting the majority of the retailers into the scheme.

There should be no difficulty in getting a sufficient number to attach themselves to such an organization. Too many of us are indifferent to our own interests, or are inclined to wait until we see how the thing will succeed. This is not as it should be. Let every grocer in the city who does not do a strictly cash business subscribe his membership fee, and give his influence to the scheme and it is bound to be a success. It is no experiment, for it has been tried, and found to work successfully in other places. In Guelph, for instance, such an organization has been in operation there for a year, and those interested are said to be more than satisfied with the results. In fact Guelph has been such a success that the Bakers' Association of that city has joined the Grocers. It is suggested that the bakers of Toronto be invited to join with us. There is much to be said in favour of such a proposal, for the same delinquents are to be found in both. Some think the merchant tailors ought also to be invited to join, but with this we cannot agree. At some future time, however, an exchange of lists might take place between the two bodies.

THE BANKS AND THE CANNERS.

One would have thought that previous lessons would have taught the banks the necessity for some caution in their dealings with canned goods packers whose transactions were not above suspicion. They did not seem to heed them, however, and one in particular will be a heavy loser by the most recent failure. The business methods of some of the banks have been of a most reckless character. Packers who were known to be in a weak position financially have had no difficulty in procuring money on very doubtful security, while business men of well-known ability have found it very hard to get an advance on much more valuable security. It is not any wonder, therefore, that the banks have lost fully $50,000 by the failure of canning factories in Ontario within the last two months. Besides the losses they made themselves they have brought the industry down to its present depressed condition by bolstering up mushroom concerns which could not do business at a profit for themselves, and would not allow the legitimate trade to do so.

THE BURGESS FAILURE.

It is now definitely known that Wm. Burgess, the Mimico canner, has skipped out, having fleeced his creditors right and left. He seems to have gone to work deliberately to do so; and when he secured every cent he could get he cleared out. He was arrested in Buffalo on Thursday last, charged with fraud, and a meeting of creditors was held there on Friday night, but nothing of importance was elicited. He took $11,500 cash with him and deposited it in a bank, but finding that his creditors were after it, he withdrew it, and it is not known what has become of it. A meeting of creditors was held here Monday afternoon, at the office of G. M. Gardner, the assignee, when a statement made out by Mr. Burgess was presented. No further business was done, the meeting adjourning until next Monday, to give Mr. Gardner an opportunity of preparing a statement. The statement given below is not a reliable one, in so far as the assets are concerned. For instance, the factory lands at Mimico are heavily mortgaged and will not realize anything like $19,750. As to the cash, it is doubtful if any of the creditors will ever see a cent of it. The liabilities will probably amount to more than is shown. The claim of the Imperial Bank is actually $2,604.93 instead of Mr. Burgess' $2,500. The Traders' Bank made advances to Mr. Burgess amounting to $9,000, for which it holds G. W. Torrance's warehouse receipt for 6,226 cases of tomatoes. Mr. Burgess thinks these cases will realize $1,000 over the Traders' Bank claim, and counts that amount as an asset. Mr. Hugo Block, banker, Toronto, also advanced to Mr. Burgess $4,530.15, against which he holds warehouse receipts covering $5,000 worth of sheet and ingot tin. Messrs. Nicholls & Howland have a claim, it is reported, on account of advances of $1,000 on tin in excess of value. It was found, when looking through the factory, that all the stock had been removed, nothing being left. This is said to have been removed by the Ontario Bank on warehouse receipts for the stock, which is estimated at 3,000 cases of tomatoes.

The following is Mr. Burgess' statement:

COMBINES WORK THEIR OWN CURE.

There is a popular feeling against syndicates in Great Britain, and a good deal of discussion is going on in the press and in Parliament. Last Saturday a motion was made in the British House of Commons calling upon the Government to take action against the salt syndicate. Hon. W. H. Smith, the Government leader, declined to interfere, declaring that such combinations worked their own cure, and tended ultimately to reduce the price of articles, the rates on which they temporarily raised. These views are in accord with those expressed by Mr. Hugh Blain in his exhaustive address before the Board of Trade last week.

ADVANCE IN CANNED CORN.

There has been a larger consumption of canned corn this season than ever before. Retailers who did not sell a case in three months formerly are now handling as many as ten cases a week. The increased demand has been due chiefly to the lower prices—the lowest on record—at which the article has been selling. The improvement in the quality has also something to do with it. The season's pack was large, and fearing that they could not sell many packers pushed their goods on the market when they were not wanted. The usual result of lower prices followed. Sales were made down to 70 cents a dozen tins. The increased sales reduced the stocks in the hands of wholesale and retail merchants to a minimum, and during the past couple of weeks there has been quite an active demand to replenish them. This has given a good deal of back-bone to the packers. Last week they were all firmer, and this week all the leading packers are asking an advance of 5 to 12½ cents from the lowest point touched; sales are being made at this advance. The lowest quotation we now hear of is 87½ cents, with every probability of an advance to 90 cents before long. These figures are for car lots.

THE COMBINES BILL.

The business men of the country are not going to allow the Combines Bill to pass without a good deal of opposition. A large and influential deputation was sent down by the Toronto Board of Trade to Ottawa this week when they were joined by a similar deputation from Hamilton. They were accompanied by deputations from the Grocer's Guilds of these places who went to protest against the passage of the Bill on their own behalf. The united deputations had a conference with the Ministers of Finance, Justice, and Customs, the result of which was quite satisfactory. The ministers promised to lay the matter before the Privy Council, and there is every reason to believe that the Bill will be either withdrawn or referred to the Banking and Commerce Committee. It is to be hoped that the latter course will be pursued. This Committee is composed of the most able and intelligent business men in the House of Commons. The Bill will there receive a fair consideration, and if they consider such an Act necessary it will no doubt be introduced in a modified form, which will permit legitimate combinations where fair profits only are exacted.

UNFAIR COMPETITION.

GREAT SALE OF BANKRUPT STOCK—At T. S. Coppinger's Old Stand, Hanover. Hamilton and Huether have purchased the large Bankrupt Stock of T. S. Coppinger, and also a Toronto Stock at about half the original cost. And as the stock must be cleared out during the next thirty days, they intend offering goods at Slaughtering Prices. See some of the prices: 12 yards Dress Goods for $1. All-wool tweeds for 30c. per yard. Men's Overcoats for $3.50 Men's Suits for $4. Ladies Shoes for $1, worth $1.75. Men's Shoes for $2, worth $3. 15 lbs. of Tea for $1; 17 lbs. Sugar for $1. Great Bargains may be expected. Call early.
HAMILTON & HUETHER.

Such is a dodger that is being distributed within a radius of ten or fifteen miles of Hanover. Anyone reading this will see that no merchant can do a legitimate business in the face of such competition. Is it any wonder that failures are increasing. And they will continue to increase until the retailer rises in his might and figuratively speaking seizes the wholesale dry goods merchant who would permit such a thing, by the throat and make him promise to sell to no one who cuts prices; or to compromise with no one who failed because he cut prices. Some of the wholesale merchants do so now. In the grocery trade the wholesale merchants are doing their duty in this respect, and are prepared to support any movement in this direction. What have the dry goods merchants to say for themselves?

GROCERS' PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION.

The first annual meeting of the Guelph Grocers' Protective Association was held in St. George's Hall, Guelph, last week, and was largely attended. The finance report for the year was submitted, and showed that at a very small cost a great deal of valuable information had been received, and hundreds of dollars saved to the members who are by this means put on their guard against doubtful and bad pay customers. According to previous arrangements the bakers were present as a body, and admitted as members of the Association, which will still further increase its usefulness as a protective agency. The election of officers for the ensuing year was then proceeded with, and resulted in the re-election of the old board by the unanimous vote of the members present, as follows:

President - -	HUGH WALKER.
Vice-President -	J. E. MCELDERRY.
Secretary - -	HENRY LOCKE
Treasurer - -	R. BARBER.

Other towns should follow the example of Guelph in this respect. When they do we shall hear of fewer bad debts.

CANNED GOODS PACKERS.

The annual meeting of the Canadian Canned Goods Packers' Association was held at the office of THE CANADIAN GROCER on Friday last. It was the most successful meeting of this organization that has yet been held. There were present Messrs. A. E. Carpenter, Ontario Canning Company, Hamilton; S. Fenton, Erie Preserving Co., St. Catharines; W. Boulter, Bay of Quinte Canning Factories, Picton and Demorestville; J. Teskey, Phœnix Canning Co., Welland; W. P. Innes, Simcoe Canning Co., Simcoe; B. R. Nelles, Grimsby; W. A. Ferguson, Delhi Canning Co., Delhi; J. Matthews, Lakeport Preserving Co., Lakeport; D. Marshall, Aylmer Canning Co.; J. W. Cuykendall, Hamilton. The only members absent were Richardson & Co., Toronto, and Hugh Malcolmson, Kent Canning Co., Chatham. As Mr. Carpenter, the President, had to leave the city, the chair was taken by Mr. Fenton. Very little business was done during the morning session; most of the time was spent in discussing the situation. Mr. W. Boulter gave a short address, referring to the work the Association had done, and he pointed out what there was to be done in the future. The trade was now in a more depressed condition than it ever was before, and something was absolutely necessary to place it on a sure foundation. The packers had all lost money this year. Mr. Boulter also gave an interesting account of his visit to the meeting of the Western Packers' Association at Chicago, and spoke very highly of the very kind treatment he had received at the hands of his American brethren. He had gained a great deal of valuable information.

In the afternoon the Association settled down to business. It was decided to make the entrance fee $10, and the annual fee $5. Several packers were proposed and elected as members. Officers were elected as follows:

President—W. Boulter.

Vice-President—B. R. Nelles.

Secretary-Treasurer—J. B. McLean.

Executive Committee—W. A. Ferguson, S. Fenton, and W. P. Innes.

Mr. Boulter the newly-elected President was one of the organizers of the Association in 1882, while the Vice-President is recognized as the oldest canned goods packer in Canada.

On motion of Mr. Innes, seconded by Mr. Marshall, a vote of thanks was tendered to THE CANADIAN GROCER for the interest it had taken in the affairs of the Association.

At the opening of the evening session Mr. Breckenridge, manager of the Norton Tin Can Manufacturing Co., Hamilton, was introduced and showed samples of his cans, and offered special inducements to the members of the Association to buy from him. The tins which were made by the Norton Automatic Process were critically examined and found very satisfactory.

The remainder of the evening was spent in the discussion of prices at which canned goods are selling, and the advisability of reducing the quantity packed. Another meeting will be held at an early day to further consider these important questions.

It was reported that certain packers had purchased old labels from the lithographers and had used them on tins of inferior goods in violation of the canned goods law. The President was empowered to prosecute any such infractions of the canned goods law in the name of the Association. All members are requested to notify him of any such infractions.

The Secretary was instructed to prepare a statement of the quantity of canned goods on hand at the present time.

VALUE OF OLD STOCK.

Some dealers are very reluctant to take a sufficiently reduced view of the value of their old stock when they are really desirous of selling it off. As they go over their stock piece by piece, one article after another which should be sold off is reserved and laid back on the shelves, because it is cheap enough already, or is intrinsically worth more than is asked for it. Or perhaps because it is not just the season for selling it. Of course there are periods of the year when certain goods sell better than at other times, and some things may be reserved for the appropriate season, but to a man who wants to reduce his stock there is no time like the ever-present now. It is a good method, in passing judgment on the value of such old stock, for the dealer to consider what he would be willing to buy more of it at, and be governed by this view as to its real worth.

ANOTHER BAD DEBT SUIT.

Again we are called upon to chronicle a successful suit against a grocer for using illegal means to collect a debt. R. S. Ferguson, a grocer, of Pittsburg, Pa., had $20 upon his books, owed by Robert Gardner, a railroad employee. Ferguson employed the Chicago Bad Debt Collecting Agency to recover the money. The Chicago people sent Gardner two letters; on the face of the envelopes, in large black letters were the words: "Bad Debt Collecting Agency." In his charge to the jury, Judge Seagle said: "The problem of damages is largely dependent upon the business calling of the person aggrieved. If one calls a merchant a bankrupt, it becomes a slander; but if he were to call a stone-breaker or hod-carrier a bankrupt, there could be construed no actionable libel whatever; therefore the jury should determine in the case at hand, first, whether or not the words "Bad Debt Collecting Agency," on the envelope in question, would be understood as conveying an intimation unfavorable to the honesty and promptness of Gardner; and, secondly, to what extent a person in his business would be injured by such a reputation. The jury awarded Gardner $200 damages.

As many of our associations have attached to them a collecting agency, it is a matter of grave consequence that they proceed to the collection of debts within the forms allowed by law. We do not know of any better rule governing such matters than for each one to put himself in the other's place (provided the debtor is simply slow), and use such means as the grocer would be willing to have his creditors employ when he is behindhand himself. This, at any rate, would be safe from suits like the above. A more stringent plan might be adopted with professional dead beats, but we hope few of our readers are caught with such accounts as his.—[American Grocer.

LOOK TO YOUR SHELVES.

A pretty safe rule to prevent overstocking with undesirable merchandise in a general store is to know what your customers want, how much they want and when they want it. "Bargains," so called, may, and often do prove in reality quite the reverse. It is true that "goods well bought are half sold;" but goods which may be a good purchase for some merchant, might lose money for another, and what looks cheap in the wholesale house or in the drummers' samples may turn out dear when placed on the retail merchant's shelves. Trade after all is a good deal a matter of experiment at the best, but he is a good trader who makes one unprofitable lesson a guide to future operations and does not repeat his mistake.—Grocer and Country Merchant.

ONE CAUSE OF FAILURE.

It is a mystery to many why nine out of every ten grocers fail in business. Hundreds start out with well-equipped stores, with sufficient capital to purchase a stock of goods without running in debt, with fair credit and every prospect of doing a brisk and profitable business. They give the most scrupulous attention to their affairs, are at their place early in the morning, where they remain until late at night, and yet, in spite of all their endeavours, run behind, and eventually have the mortification of seeing the sheriff take possession of their premises and close out their concern at a sacrifice. One cause of failures of this kind is that of cutting prices. It seems to the Criterion the greatest folly in the world for a man to work hard from morning until night, and to buy and sell goods by the carload without deriving a cent of profit, and yet this kind of business is what hundreds are doing at the present time all over the West. Because rival dealers over the way mark their goods down at a lower price than those at which they are selling them, they feel that they must meet this cut or go one better, by marking their goods below it, and so they pit themselves against each other, marking their goods lower and lower until they often sell them at a lower figure than they paid the wholesaler for them, who, it may be, does business hundreds of miles away. Many merchants, in cutting prices, do not consider what cost means. The cost of goods is not the invoice price of them, but it must include the freight, the expense of getting them from the market into their store, must include their store expenses, rent, light, fuel, clerk hire, repairs and innumerable other things which cost money and of which the merchant seldom stops to think. All of this represents the actual cost of the goods to him, and if he cannot sell his goods at an advance upon this cost he is sure to run behind, and running behind will bring him to disaster at an astonishingly rapid rate. Often retail storekeepers are bankrupt before they know it; a realizing sense of their actual situation falls upon them with the suddenness of a thunderclap. There ought to be some way of preventing this suicidal policy of cutting prices. It is not business sense, it is not commercial honesty, it gives no better satisfaction to customers, and is often the means of defrauding honest jobbers out of money that should have been promptly paid when due.—Grocers' Criterion.

OFFICE STATIONERY

It is a peculiarity about retailers that but few of them attach any importance to the use of good office stationery. We have had occasion to notice this during the course of many years' contact with the trade. The ordinary bill-head, printed for the most part on a very poor quality of paper, and without any pretensions to typographical neatness, serves the purpose not only of a bill-head, but in most cases takes the place of a letter-head and business card. It is safe to say that nine grocers in ten, if asked for their cards, will proffer the dingy little slip which does duty for the purposes enumerated. Whether this is the result of the economical considerations, which, in the retail grocery trade it is always necessary to observe, or whether it is the outgrowth of an unsystematic and careless method of doing business, it is hard to tell. But that it is as important to retail merchants as to any other class of business men to have a supply of neat and attractive stationery in use may not be gainsaid. If occasion requires a dispatch of a letter to a customer or business connection, what better indication of a well and systematically kept store or a prosperous trade than a tastefully printed letter-head, having the name, address and style of business of the sender? Or what better introduction—so far as first impressions are concerned—to a wholesaler or manufacturer than an attractive business card? The progress of the times certainly requires that retail grocers should be further advanced in attention to these matters, which, though small in themselves, frequently exert a marked influence upon outsiders.—N. J. Trade Review.

THE COMPROMISE QUESTION.

BRACEBRIDGE, Feb. 19, 1889.

Dear Sir,—I have read with much interest the article on Compromises in the CANADIAN GROCER of the 1st ult. I feel sure it is a great evil to the retail trade, and I would not agree to grant a compromise to any one who has been in the habit of cutting prices. I think the old proverb should work its own salvation, which says, "He that diggeth a pit for another man shall fall therein himself." Hence no compromise will fill the bill. I would agree with an extension of time without interest. I have been commenting on it for some time, and was glad when your paper took up the matter. I think the man who wants a compromise owes the debt he should pay every cent or go down, for I am of opinion that nine-tenths of the failures are bogus.

I am, yours truly,

E. GREEN.

PERTH, Feb. 14, 1889.

Editor CANADIAN GROCER: Dear Sir,—In regard to Compromises, the remedy, I think, lies in the hands of all honest retailers. On them alone falls the responsibility of the existing state of things. Let them arise. Awake to a right sense of the importance of the matter and the necessity of the hour. We start out bearing this important fact in mind, that the wholesaler from whom you buy your supplies is the party who supplies as well, and thereby encourages and carries in a measure the tricky retailer, whose principles are so bad and whose honesty is so questionable that he is prepared by a compromise to destroy legitimate profits and imperil the reputation of the honest trader. The retailer, I maintain, is in a position to dictate to the wholesaler. If he made use of the position he occupies, and if more harmony and good will existed between rival dealers in all towns, as well as an understanding based on common interests between wholesalers and retailers, I think the question might be easily and profitably solved. Merchants' Associations should be formed, officers appointed, an Executive Committee selected, powers assumed and delegated with the compliance and approval of wholesalers and a distinct understanding between wholesalers and the association as to the basis of operation and the settlement of bankrupt estates. For example: A merchant fails. Business men know whether he has failed honestly or not. The Executive Committee meets and reports to the Association. If the report is favourable, and by a majority of votes of the Association it is adopted, the Secretary is then instructed to notify the delinquent's creditors that in the opinion of the Association he is entitled to a compromise. On the other hand, when it is known and believed that the dealer has failed dishonestly, and that a compromise would be most injurious to the best interests of the trade, the Association demands that it shall not be granted. The Association to assume the stock at so much on the dollar and dispose of it as they may deem fit.

I have briefly outlined a remedy which I think might be made practicable.

Yours truly,

LANARK.

BLYTH, Feb. 15, 1889.

Editor of CANADIAN GROCER: Sir,—While travelling through the western part of this Province I have been impressed with the feeling existing among retail dealers re "Compromises and Bankrupt Stocks." I have been much interested in reading the letters of "Merchant," Exeter, and Hamilton, published in two recent issues of your valuable paper.

All reforms require united efforts on the part of those interested, and while "Merchant" seems very anxious to set the ball rolling, he overlooks the fact that the first thing necessary to accomplish the desired end would be for the retail traid to organize into village, town and even county "Boards of Trade" to further their interests.

The people of this province have elected men who are to frame laws that shall be for their mutual benefit, and these men are willing and waiting for some hint of what we require.

Now, sir, let the trade organize and petition our Parliament for protection from existing evils, lay down some platform at their meeting that shall be deemed most desirable by the majority, and the time will soon come when there will be a remedy for them. I cannot agree with "Merchant" in reference to wholesale houses taking back stock from bankrupt estates, as it would be impracticable with many lines and would be the cause of endless trouble with very little return.

But, while on this point, I would suggest that the central committee (if such be formed) embody in their requisition that it be made law that all bankrupt stocks shall be sold in the towns or villages where the failures take place.

"Hamilton" letter has the same ring as "Merchant"—each tries to saddle the bankrupt stock on the other.

"Opposition is the life of trade," but opposition from hawkers of stocks that are thrown on the markets at from 25c. to 75c. on the dollar is not what the retail trade of this country requires, neither does the wholesale trade endorse it, but let the retail as a body ask the wholesale trade to help them out of this grievance, and I venture to say that not one reliable house will shirk guarding the interests of their customers. Wishing the promoters of above schemes every success, I remain,

Yours respectfully,

TRAVELLER.

BROCKVILLE, Feb. 23, 1889.

Dear Sir,—You request the views of the trade in answer to the question proposed by your correspondent (Hamilton), and I must say that I could not support a wholesale house in taking such a stand with regard to compromises. If a merchant has struggled long and hard against adverse circumstances, and acted as his creditors well know with the utmost honesty, it is very hard if he cannot obtain a compromise that will enable him to keep his feet. Extension of time in some cases is not much benefit, in fact is none if interest is charged. But while the honest man should be upheld, the man who is reckless in buying regardless of consequences should certainly be shut out of business. But the wholesalers have themselves entirely to blame for this state of affairs; they push business and hold out such inducements as to lead honest men to purchase, when they very often are doubtful as to the wisdom of it. And they themselves, wholesalers, put a premium upon dishonesty, for the large defaulters find no difficulty in getting a compromise, whereas the man who buys cautiously has a hard road to travel if he at last obtains the desired settlement, and he is told that he does not take enough of goods to make it worth while to compromise with him. Trusting that the wholesale men may be led to consider righteousness before selfishness, for they themselves are obliged to make compromises too, I would here utter a word of caution to some of your correspondents who are hard on compromises: "Let him that standeth take heed lest he fall," for commercial life is a slippery place to stand on, especially during the financial gales of the past three or four years. Hoping that the discussion now going on in your valued paper may be the means of bringing about a better and more satisfactory state of affairs. Yours truly,

A RETAILER.

TORONTO, March 20, 1889.

DEAR SIR,—I have read each and every one of the letters appearing in your paper re "compromises." Some of the writers in my opinion go too far; "no compromises of any sort" say they. Others would go a little farther and not accept less than 75 cents on the dollar, while others apparently can see no remedy. An idea has occurred to me, and while it may not be a cure-all, yet I think it might prove the foundation on which to build the remedy.

In order to explain it I shall confine myself to Toronto. First, I ask, Who are the sufferers from these compromises, and in answer I claim that the retail trade as well as the wholesale houses are sufferers. Admitting this to be true, I think the remedy lies in the same hands. In this city there is a Wholesale Grocers' Guild (you will please observe I am writing for the grocery trade only) and also a Retail Grocers' Association. Let there be a standing committee from each of these bodies, and in the case of a merchant failing and seeking a compromise, the wholesale houses affected should not receive any offer to that end until the said committee had made a recommendation to that effect. If the committee report favorably, the wholesale men affected could grant a compromise or not, as they saw fit, but in the absence of such favorable report, let them accept no compromise of any sort.

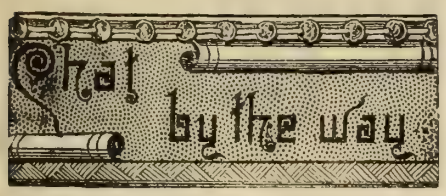
These ideas may be crude ; you have them for what they are worth, but to my mind they could be enlarged and improved upon so as to embrace the whole country.

Yours, etc., J. F. T.

MOUNTAIN VIEW,
Mar. 13th, 1889.

GENTLEMEN,—In THE GROCER of February 22nd I saw correspondence respecting compromises. My opinion in the matter is that it is wrong to compromise and then let the man go on and undersell the man that pays 100c. on the dollar. One firm in Trenton, Smith & Bryson, ran a large establishment, selling away below cost for a long time. No one around there could sell until they left the place. While such men as those are allowed to carry on business in Canada you cannot but expect failures with those who are trying to make an honest living. If the wholesale men would take from such men and sell to others who are doing a straight-forward business there would be fewer failures, as some of the goods are as good as new. Some have failed just after getting in a new stock, on purpose to get them for from 50c. to 60c. on the dollar, as the case may be. Yours truly,

W. A. POTTER.



A grocery store has been started by D. McIlroy at Marmora.

Mr. J. Laton has sold his grocery business to Bateman & Row, Belleville.

Mr. H. F. Mitchell, Belleville, has sold out his grocery business and has gone west.

S. W. Bradshaw has opened a grocery store at the corner of Hotel and Ann Streets, Belleville.

Private advices say that M. Licht has reduced his estimate of the beet crop by 25,000 tons.

Mr. Fraser Aselting has sold his grocery at the G. T. R. Station, Belleville, to W. C. T. Mayo.

G. O. Strander has started a grocery store at Picton. Mr. W. R. Power has also started a grocery store at the same place.

Hugh Walker & Son, Guelph, report the arrival of another car load of Valencia oranges, which they are offering to the trade at low prices.

Mr. A. J. Chisholm, of Meaford, is about starting a dry goods store in Owen Sound. He is well and favorably known in North Grey, and should do a good business.

There is a shortage in the stocks of sugar in England of 122,000 tons, Brazil 100,000 tons, English Island 80,000 tons, Cuba 80,000 tons, and there is an increased consumption of 100,000 tons.

Sloan & Crowther have just received, ex "Stockholm City" via Halifax, a large shipment of teas, principally Indian. They are offering them at very favorable prices, as the teas were purchased before the advance.

Several of the wholesale houses have brought on shipments of Vostizza currants in half cases containing 80 lbs. each. These will be found suitable for this season of the year. They are jobbing about 7½c.

The petition from the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association to the City Council, regarding the market regulations was presented on Monday evening and referred to the Markets and Health Committee, which meets to-day.

Mr. Jno. Wilkins, of Toronto, formerly of the Eastern townships, and also of the firm of Wilkins & Co., Adamsville, Que., informs THE GROCER that his firm, which is located in the pre-eminently maple syrup and sugar district of Canada, is shipping large quantities of these delicious table luxuries to the leading dealers here and to the chief cities and towns of Ontario.

There were 42 failures in Canada reported to Bradstreet's during the past week, against 36 in the preceding week, and 32, 31 and 30 in the corresponding weeks of 1888, 1887 and 1886, respectively. The total number of failures in Canada reported to Bradstreet's from January 1st, 1889, to March 16th, 1889, was 476, against 464, 302 and 312 for corresponding periods in 1888, 1887 and 1886, respectively.

There are a good many can openers on the market, each claiming to be perfect. The only one, however, that can lay a just claim to this is a newly invented machine, which is handled by Eby, Blain & Co. It cuts the tops entirely off and turns the tin outward, which is very important for canned meats, fish or jellies, as the contents can be turned out in a solid mass. Every retailer should have one. They job at 95c. per dozen.

Secretary Thackray, of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association, guards the expenses of the Association very carefully. He has purchased a copying machine to save the cost of printing circulars and other matter, which amounts to a considerable sum in a year.

According to the London Grocer, the Austrian sugar refiners are contemplating the formation of a sugar trust, the decline of the trade in Austria to be made up for by increased exports. The Vienna press writes strongly against the combination for using the heavy State subsidy, given in the form of bounties, for levying a tax on home consumption. It is possible that the formation of the trust will lead to a reduction of the sugar bounties, quite independent of the operation of the London convention. From Berlin it is reported that the German Government has sent the bill amending the sugar tax, in accordance with the terms of the London International Sugar Conference, to London, to be laid before the committee of the Conference, which is to meet on May 1.

GROCERIES.

CANNED GOODS.

Business has been quiet this week. There has been a fair inquiry for corn and peas, but tomatoes are dragging a little. There is a generally better feeling in the market; the belief that the lowest prices have been touched is growing. This seems certain in so far as corn is concerned, and there is nothing in the statistical position of tomatoes to warrant lower prices than 90c. for good brands. Dealers are jobbing corn at 80c. up, but the lowest price quoted by tbe packers is 87½c., and there is every probability that a further advance will take place at an early day. A good demand is reported for green gage plums at $1.40. Fish has been selling more freely. The best brands of British Columbia salmon have been moving at $1.70 to $1.75, with secondary qualities at $1.60. Lobsters are firm at $1.55 for loggies and $1.65 for sterling; packers are asking $1.60 net cash for next season's pack.

TEA.

The past week has shown renewed activity and a considerable business has been done, principally in low to medium grades of both Young Hysons and Japans. As advised in our last, buyers are raising their views in keeping with the improved position of the market. This has been still more the case this week, with the result that business has been much facilitated, and it has allowed of a large number of transactions, on local account, at good prices. Low grades of Blacks, Greens and Japans in first hands are fast being cleared out; in the latter, with the exception of a few Nagasakis held on spot, there are no low grades left. The condition of the market is very strong and excepting Fine Blacks, which are a trifle easier, prices of all grades are tending upwards.

COFFEES.

Several of the leading roasters have advanced prices during the past ten days. Greens of all kinds are very scarce and strongly held. Rios are quoted at 20c. to 22c., though on the present basis it would cost about these figures to lay down fresh stock.

SUGARS.

As was to be expected, granulated and other white sugars were advanced ⅛c. on Saturday, the quotations now being on a basis of 7½c. to 7⅝c. for granulated. Yellows have advanced about ¼c. on a week ago, but there has been no change at the refineries. Demand has been quite active at the advance. Darks have been selling at 5½c. to 5⅝c., but these are very scarce, and none of them are offering at the refineries. Jamaicas are stiffer at 5¾c, in hogsheads. The situation is generally firm, but the feeling in the trade is that there will not be a much greater advance without somewhat of a reaction.

SYRUP AND MOLASSES.

Molasses—Are firm, and in demand. Porto Ricos are held at 37½c. to 40c. in hhds.; 40c. to 42c. in barrels; and 43c. to 46c. in half-barrels. The top price for half barrels is for a very bright Porto Rico. A few lots are offering below these figures, but they are not of good quality, having something of a sour flavour.

Syrups—Are scarce, and wanted. Refiners are not able to keep the trade going with desirable grades.

DRIED FRUIT.

Currants have been selling lower on ordinary provincials at 5c. in barrels, but the better grades are steady. Choice Patras and Vostizzas are firm.

Dates—Are scarce and firmer, but the demand is light. Choice old are held at 4¾c. to 5c., and finest new at 6½c.

Figs—Of the choicer qualities are getting scarcer and higher.

Prunes—Are unchanged. Bosnia in casks are slow, but the finer grades are moving freely at 7c. to 10c.

Raisins—Are quiet. Valencias are firmer; low grades are getting pretty well out of the market; prime stock is selling at 6c. to 6½c. Some houses report a scarcity of medium sultanas worth about 7½c. to 8c., but there are plenty of low grades offering at 6⅛c. to 6½c.; there is not much of a supply of the choicer varieties, but the demand is light. Malagas are dull, and holders are endeavouring to make sales by offering at lower prices.

GREEN FRUIT.

There is nothing new to note in green fruit this week, business not being very brisk. There is a steady demand for California oranges at $4 per case. Valencias have a slow sale at $5 to $5.25 per case. Floridas are about out of the market, and consequently are quoted higher, $4 to $4.50. There are still a few Jamaicas quoted at $6.50. Washington Naval oranges sell at $5 to $7 per box. Lemons still continue very quiet; Messinas are having a good run at $3 to $3.50; Palermo lemons are quoted $4 to $4.50. Bananas are arriving in large quantities, yellows exclusively, and the prospects are very low prices the coming season. They are quoted at $1.75 to $2.50 per bunch. A shipment of reds are expected daily.

COAL OIL.

Demand is good and refined is lower. Other grades are unchanged. Spol quotation are:—Refined, per gal 13 to 13½ cents; Carbon Safety, 17 cents; Canadian Water White, 19 cents; American do 25 cents; Photogene, 27 cents.

DRESSED HOGS AND PROVISIONS.

DRESSED HOGS--Are quiet. Not many coming in. Demand is for small hogs, weighing about 150 lbs. Packers are taking these at about $6.75 to make small stuff, such as breakfast bacon and backs, for which there is a good demand. Heavy are quoted at $6.50 and light are taken by butchers at $7.

PROVISIONS—Are generally firm, with a good demand.

BACON—Has been going out in case and tons at 8¾ cents; car lots are 8½ cents, with sales at that figure. Small Cumberland is dull. Packers are holding it for smoking for city trade.

MESS PORK—Is moving freely. Canadian mess is going at $16 and American $15.50.

SMOKED MEATS—Are selling freely. Hams are in good demand at 11½ cents. Breakfast bacon stead at 11 cents. Backs are moving at the same price. Rolls are going at 10 cents.

LARD—Steady. American is jobbing at 10 cents in large pails and 10½ cents in 20lb pails. Canadian is going at 11 to 11½ cents with a few tierces at 11½ cents.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—Receipts of rolls have been light and with a good demand they have all been wanted; sales have been made at 16½c. to 20c. as to quality. The supply of tubs has been fair, and choice have sold at 19c. to 22c., medium at 16c. to 18c., and low grades at 12c. to 15c. Low grades have not been taken so readily and in some houses there is a slight accumulation. A round lot of poor tubs sold at 15c. About 1,000 packages cold storage changed hands outside at 17c.

CHEESE—Demand light; market steady. Choice full creams are held at 12c. Round lots of Septembers are quoted at 11½c. delivered.

SALT.

Demand is light. Owing to the advance buyers are holding off. The Toronto Salt Works report sales of coarse in sacks at 75c., delivered; barrels at $1.30 on the track, and a car of dairy at $1.65.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

FLOUR—Demand is very light. Buyers are operating from hand to mouth. Prices are somewhat unsettled.

BRAN—Dull and easy. In the west millers have sold at $11.50 f.o.b. On the spot sellers are asking $14 to $14.50, with buyers at $13.50 to $14.

WHEAT—Very little doing. Buyers and sellers are apart. Deliveries throughout the country are light, and there is no encouragement for holders to sell. The weak markets in the west prevent purchases by millers who are buying for immediate wants only. On the spot No. 2 fall appears to be worth $1.06 to $1.07. and No. 2 red and spring $1.07 to $1.08. Up the line holders are asking $1.07 for No. 2. No. 1 hard is offering at $1.33 on the track. No. 1 frosted is moving at $1.05. No. 3 frosted is offering at 77c. to arrive, Winnipeg inspection, with 74c. bid.

BARLEY—Dull and declining. Five cars of No. 1 sold at 59c. f.o.b. cars. A bid of 50c. was made for No. 2 up the Northern.

PEAS—Demand has fallen off, and the market is dull and prices nominal at 56c.

OATS—Quiet and easier. Ordinary mixed are selling on the track at 34½c., with more offered to arrive at the same price.

HIDES, SKINS AND TALLOW.

HIDES—Are dull. Receipts are light. Dealers are buying at former prices. Cured are moving at 5½c. for the present take off grubby hides. Old stock is held at higher figures. Green are quoted 2¾c. to 4¾c.

SKINS—Sheepskins quiet at $1.25 to $1.40. Demand is good, but there are very few coming in. Calfskins are being bought at 5c. to 6c.

TALLOW—Dull. Dealers are paying about 6c for rendered. Chicago was offered at 6c. delivered to-day.

FISH.

The mild weather has made the fish trade very quiet for this time of year, still a good business is being done. The market is overstocked with smelts and the very mild weather has put the prices away down. They are quoted at 4c. to 8c. per lb.; 75c. to 80c. per 100 are being paid for St. John herring, and $1.25 per 100 for Halifax. There is a good supply of British Columbia salmon at 12½c. to 14c. per lb. Fresh caught Lake Winnipeg white fish, 6c. to 6½c. per lb. Fresh ciscoes are now arriving from the district of Niagara and are quoted at $3 to $4 per 100. Lake Erie herring are quoted at $1.75 per 100. Steak cod 6c. to 6½c. per lb. There is a good supply of trout at 5c. for round and 6c. to 6½c. for dressed. Finnan haddies are quoted at 6c. to 6½c. per lb., and haddock at 4½c. to 5c. per lb.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

APPLES—This week there seems to be a little more life in the market for export apples, and shipments have been rather larger than the week before. This is probably due to the continued favourable advices from the British markets, which still report Canadian apples in good demand and no over supply. It is also reported that those dealers who have been shipping lately from here have received returns of their stock, and have come out of their various transactions quite satisfactorily. The supply of apples in the country seems to be practically unlimited, exporters in the city being continually in receipt of offers from outside points. But though the quantity is evidently there the quality seems to be lacking, and it is said that a good deal of the fruit in the country is so partially spoiled as to be unfit for export. Exporters are in some cases paying more for their fruit and prices may now be said to run all the way from 90c. to $1.35 per bbl. The local consumptive demand is very fair, and small lots of packed apples are going at $1.25 to $1.50 per bbl., although for extra fruit as high as $2 per bbl. has been paid. Receipts of loose apples from farmers' hands are quite large, but the bulk of these offerings are of poor quality and have to be parted with at low figures. They are quoted from 75c. to $2 per bbl.

BEANS—A few samples are being received from the West and lots are being offered for sale at $1.25 to $1.30. Dealers are selling smaller lots at $1.50 to $1.55.

DRIED APPLES—There is no improvement in the market. A car of good stock sold at 3¼c. f.o.b. this week. Small lots are held at 3½c. to 4c. Evaporated are dull. Cars are offering in the west at 5½c. to 6c. as to quality, the top being for fine, bright stock; small lots are dull at 6½c. to 7½c.

EGGS—Are lower. Dealers are selling at 13½c. to 14c. for single cases, and at 13c. to 13½c. in lots. It is reported that two cars of American eggs arrived here this week. Held stock is offering at 10c.

HAY AND STRAW—Hay is steady, with sales of timothy at $14 to $15, and of mixed from $12 to $13, with a few cars of common at $1 less. Straw quiet, at $8.50 to $9.50.

ONIONS—Continue very flat. There are more lying about the market than can be consumed for some time. Reds are quoted at ½c. to ¾c. per lb., and yellow at ¾c. to 1c.

POTATOES—Are still meeting with a very indifferent sale. Values are weak and a shade lower. Sales of cars are reported at 25c. on the track at Parkdale and 18c. to 20c. f.o.b. outside. Small lots out of store go at 40c.

POULTRY.—Demand for choice quality is fair, but frozen stock is dragging a little. Turkeys sold at 10c. for frozen and 12½c. to 13c. for fresh. Chickens are in good demand at 70c. to 90c. a pair. Sales of spring chickens were made at 23c. to 25c. Frozen geese sold at 8c. per lb.

SEEDS—Local receipts nil. There has been a very active jobbing demand, and prices have advanced. Red clover is now moving at $5.40 to $5.75, and timothy at $1.90 to $2.10. Alsike unchanged, at $6.50 to $9 as to quality.

MONTREAL, March 21, 1889.

GROCERIES.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been no improvement in the market. The demand has been slow and business has ruled quiet, with no immediate prospects of change for the better. Retail dealers generally have a good stock of all kinds on hand, in consequence the movement will likely be light. There has been a fair demand for lobsters, which are scarce and firm at $5.50 to $6 per case. The offerings of mackerel are light at $5 per case. Salmon have ruled quiet and steady at $1.70 to $1.75 per dozen. Tomatoes have been dull and slow at 90c. to $1.00 per dozen. Erie and Aylmer corn is unchanged at $1.05 to $1.10, Yarmouth at $1.80, and Hoigg's at $1.30 to $1.40 per dozen. Peas have an easy tone, but prices are unchanged at $1.20 per dozen. In canned fruits trade has been slow at former quotations. The demand for Armour's canned meats has been quiet.

SUGAR.

The demand for sugar has continued good, and the market has ruled active and firm at the recent advance. The volume of business transacted has been large and some round lots have changed hands. Granulated has sold at 7⅛c. at the factory, and yellows at 5¼c. to 6c. as to quality.

MOLASSES.

In the molasses market a weaker feeling has prevailed and Barbadoes has declined 1c. The demand has been good and the market has ruled fairly active, with a fair volume of business. The last sales of round lots of Barbadoes were made at 37c., with smaller lots up to 39c. Trinidad has ruled quiet at 32c. to 33c., and Antigua at 35c.

TEA AND COFFEE.

There has been no important feature in the tea market. The feeling continues firm owing to the firm advices from New York, and prices have been well maintained. The demand has been moderate, and the market has a quiet tone with business mostly of a jobbing character, and few round lots have changed hands. Holders here are firm and not anxious to sell as stocks are not large. There has been a fair enquiry for coffee and a fair jobbing trade has been transacted at steady prices. We quote Mocha 28c. to 31c., Java 22c. to 27c., and plantation Ceylon 21c. to 25c.

RICE.

There has been a steady trade in rice at firm prices. Ordinary in car lots is at $3.60, Japan at 4c. to 4½c. and Patna at 4½c. to 5c. The SS. Loch Lomond, the first direct steamer for Montreal, has sailed from Barsein.

THE CANADA SUGAR REFINING CO'Y [LIMITED],

MONTREAL,

Offer for sale all grades of REFINED SUGARS and SYRUPS of the well-known brand of

Redpath

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

JOHN BAKER EDWARDS, P.L.D., D.C.L., F.C.S.,

Public Analyst for the District of Montreal, and Professor of Chemistry.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY, MEDICAL FACULTY, McGILL UNIVERSITY.

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have taken and tested a sample of your "EXTRA GRANULATED" Sugar, and find that it yielded 99·88 per cent. of Pure Sugar. It is practically as pure and good a Sugar as can be manufactured.

Yours truly,

G. P. GIRDWOOD.

The Markets—Continued.

OILS.

There has been a good demand for oils in small lots, and the market has been fairly active and firm with a large volume of business. Newfoundland cod sold at 40c. to 42½c., Halifax cod at 37½c., pale seal at 45c. to 47½c., linseed boiled at 60c., and extra lard at 70c. to 75c. There has been no change in petroleum, business having continued quiet owing to the slow demand. We quote car lots at 13c., and smaller quantities at 14c. per gallon.

FISH.

Now that the Lenten season is getting well advanced retail buyers generally have filled their wants, and the demand has fallen off considerably in consequence. The market has ruled quiet, with only a small volume of business in progress. The stock of most kinds of fish in first hands has been bought up, and the offerings now are not large, except Labrador herrings, of which there is a good supply still on the market. Holders are anxious sellers, and they have been offering sound lots lower at $4.50 to $4.75, but we do not hear of any sales. Dry cod have been in fair request at $4.50. New green cod have been well cleared up, but there is considerable old stock which has been repacked offering yet. British Columbia salmon have ruled quiet and steady at $12.50 to $13 per barrel. The demand from the West for Finnan haddies has been good, and some round lots have been sold, including 200 boxes which were shipped to Toronto. The supply of fresh fish has been well cleared up. Fresh haddock are scarce and firm at 4c. to 4½c., and fresh cod at 3c. to 3½c. Fresh herrings are abundant, and round lots have been offered at 65c. per 100.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

Flour throughout the week has been dull, with demand very light and the market easy in tone. In some cases concessions were granted, but without stimulating the demand. Trade has been largely in broken lots. The best strong bakers' has declined 10c. Supplies of winter wheat, patent, straight roller and grades below are ample. Oatmeal has continued very quiet with trade of a jobbing nature.

Patent winter	$5 75 @ $5 90
Patent spring	6 20 — 6 50
Straight roller	5 35 — 5 50
Extra	5 15 — 5 25
Superfine	4 25 — 4 75
City strong bakers	6 00 — 6 10
Strong bakers	5 50 — 5 80
" " bags	2 60 — 2 65
Superfine, bags	2 00 — 2 25
Extra, bags	2 30 — 2 50
Oatmeal, standard, per bag	0 00 — 2 00
Oatmeal, granulated, per bag	0 00 — 2 10

The grain market has ruled quiet, and in the main without interest. Wheat has preserved a steady tone, and the past day or two has witnessed a better trade in car lots of Manitoba at quotations. Oats have been in fair request, but close easy and somewhat lower. Barley has been offered freely, but with few buyers. Peas have been very dull. Canadian spring wheat, $1.20; red winter wheat, $1.23 to $1.25; white, $1.23 to $1.25; No. 1 hard Manitoba, $1.33 to $1.35; No. 2 do., $1.30 to $1.31; peas, 67c. to 68c. per 66 lbs.; oats, 32c. to 32½c.; corn, 45c. to 46c. in bond; barley, 50c. to 53c.

PROVISIONS.

Trade throughout has been quiet at steady prices. Packers have refused to sell Canada short cut for the present, as at the prices now current various losses would be incurred. Lard has been in average request, also meats.

Canadian short cut, per bbl	$16 00 @ $16 50
Mess pork, western	15 25 — 15 50
Short cut, western	15 50 — 15 75
Hams, per lb	0 11½ — .....
Hams, green	0 08½ — 0 09
Flanks, green	0 08½ — .....
Lard, western	0 10 — .....
Lard, Canadian	0 09¾ — 0 10
Bacon	0 06 — 0 11
Shoulders	..... — 0 12½
Tallow	0 06¼ — 0 06½

EGGS.

The egg market has continued in an unsatisfactory condition, owing to heavy supplies, especially of held fresh, which are abundant. Receipts have been large, and demand, with the market, weak and lower. Some lines of held stock have been let go at very low prices, even below quotations. Stocks on hand are large. Heavy losses have been made by holders this winter, and at present prices these losses continue to pile up. Fresh have sold at 16c.; best limed at 13c. to 14c.; and old held fresh at 10c. to 12c. per dozen.

MAPLE SYRUP AND SUGAR.

A few lots of so-called new have been received, but the quality shows a considerable admixture of old. Syrup may be quoted at 80c. to 90c. per gallon, and new sugar at 8c. to 9c.

BUTTER.

There has been a decided improvement in butter, trade in which has been good. Lower ports buyers have taken fair quantities, and have paid 18c. to 20c. for ordinary dairy, while local trade has been satisfactory. Stocks have been worked down to a small compass, the wind up will be undoubtedly clean and in marked contrast to recent seasons, when the end was in bad shape. The light stocks of old will stimulate the early production of new, and a few odd lots of it have been received, which have sold at 25c. to 26c. Up to 18c. has been paid for common; Western Creamery is very scarce:

Creamery, finest	26c. @ 27c.
" fair to good	23c. — 25c.
Townships, finest	00c — 23c.
" fair to good	20c. — 21c.
Morrisburg	19c — 20c.
Brockville	18c. — 19c.
Western	17c. — 18c.

CHEESE.

Cheese has ruled quiet as the season is practically over. Stocks now are light, and the market featureless:

Finest fall	00c. @ 11¾c.
Medium	9½c. — 10c.
Fine do	10¾c — 11¼c.

RUDE CUSTOMERS.

When the customer professes to know so much and to be so positive in his assertions, and when there is nothing really in the character or price of the goods warranting the invidious remarks he may make, the best way to parry them, if it be desirable not to give offence, is by a little gentle raillery, which he cannot take amiss, by which he is given to understand that he is saying what he does not truly think about the goods, so that he may have them offered cheaper. The extent to which this resource can be availed of must depend upon the acquaintance and relative position as to age, etc., of the salesman and the customer. It is at best a dangerous remedy, and unless there is a fair certainty that it will answer the purpose in any particular case it is best to avoid risk by a silent submission to the remarks, with perhaps a simple expression of regret that the article does not suit. Still there will occur instances where the salesman's self respect requires that the customer should be informed in the politest way possible that his unjust assertions and remarks are without influence or effect.—[How to Keep a Store.

GROCERS!

IT is well known that everywhere in France one can get a good cup of coffee, and it is also an established fact, that the reverse is the case in Canada. Many blame the coffee, but the true cause is simply this. "Not one cook in a dozen knows how to make coffee properly." The above cut represents a new invention which is very simple in construction, and any child can make a good cup of coffee with it. You simply fill the tin can with boiling water, then set the pot on top, put the requisite amount of coffee in the bag inside the pot, then pour a sufficient amount of boiling water into the pot and let it stand on the stove for 3 or 4 minutes, when you will have a first class cup of coffee.

This coffee pot is the simple-t, cheapest, and best article of the kind ever invented, and the low price makes it within the reach of all. They are packed 1 doz. in a barrel. Price $6 per doz. Send $6 for 1 doz. as a sample, and you will find it all that we recommend it to be.

CUSTOMS MISUNDERSTANDING.

There is no city on the continent where there is a more efficient and painstaking lot of journalists than in Toronto. Every now and then, however, a member of the profession brings trouble on himself and his paper by mis-statements. A case of this kind occurred this week. Some time ago THE GROCER drew attention to the fact that certain wholesale grocers, here and in Hamilton, had been compelled to pay an increased duty on some sugars imported some time before. It is needless to say that there was no fraud even hinted at or intended, for there is no more honourable class of business men than the wholesale grocers. If there was a fault, it lay with the Customs Department. They valued the sugar at a certain price and the wholesale houses paid duty on this price, which was above the actual cost price of the sugars. This occurred last July, and about a month ago the customs discovered that they had made a mistake, and demanded an increased duty, which has been paid. The daily papers, with one exception, did not discover it until this week. The World published a sensational article to the effect that Warren Bros. & Boomer had admitted that their importations had been seized by the customs. The reporter who wrote the item told a deliberate falsehood; and knew that he was doing so. As soon as the matter was brought to the attention of the proprietor he immediately published the following :—

"The reporter detailed by this paper to investigate the matter stated that he had called on the firm in question. That was an absolute falsehood, as the reporter made no such call. The World being imposed upon by one of its own staff, can do nothing but publish the following letters and telegrams, which fully exonerate Warren Brothers & Boomer from any imputation against them :

TORONTO, March 26, 1889.

Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, Minister of Customs, Ottawa:

Our name is associated in World report this morning in connection with recent customs irregularities and the seizure of coffee, sugar and molasses. This is an infamous lie, as you know, and as customs here will confirm. Please telegraph immediately authorizing emphatic contradiction over your name. This is most imperative. Answer.

WARREN BROS. & BOOMER.

This reply was received :

OTTAWA, March 26, 1889.

Messrs, Warren Bros. & Boomer, Toronto :

Surprised at your imperative telegram. Know nothing of any charge of customs irregularity against your firm.

M. BOWELL, Minister of Customs.

Mr. G. W. McMichael, Financial Inspector of customs ports of the Province of Ontario, sent this letter to the firm during the afternoon :

CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT, CANADA,
FINANCIAL INSPECTOR'S OFFICE,
TORONTO, March 26, 1889.

Warren Bros. & Boomer :

GENTLEMEN.—Referring to the paragraph in The Toronto World of to-day, I am not aware of any differences between the Customs Department and your firm, nor have there been, so far as I am aware, any irregularities in connection with your entries at customs.

G. W. MCMICHAEL,
Financial Inspector.

It is too bad that the World should have been thus imposed on, for it is one of the best conducted papers in Canada. It may be remarked, however, that the reporter in question is yet young at the business, and like most new reporters, knows more than the most experienced journalists.

THE MARKET BY-LAWS.

The committee composed of Messrs. R. Mills, J. G. Gibson, R. Barron, and Frank Britton, waited on the Markets and Health Committee of the City Council, on Friday last, to support the petition presented to the Council last week urging the adoption of better market regulations. They laid the views of the trade more fully before the Committee. The majority of the Committee seemed favorably impressed with the grocers' view of the case. License Inspector Awde expressed a doubt as to whether the Council had authority to carry out the suggestions without the introduction of a new by-law. The matter was finally referred to the Inspector to report on. He will confer with Mr. Mills. The question will not come up for some time.

ADVANCE IN SUGARS.

There has been a most exciting market in sugars since last report. On Saturday last granulated and other whites advanced ⅛c., and yellows ¼c. per lb. This was not unexpected. On Monday, however, to the surprise of the trade, prices of white jumped ¼c., with yellows ⅛c. to ⅜c. The immediate cause was the sharp advance in New York and very strong advices from abroad. This market is still ¼c. below New York. Our refiners are selling granulated at 7½c. at the refinery, while New York refiners are asking 7¾c. All outside reports are still very strong, and it is generally believed that a further advance will be made in the Canadian prices on Saturday next.

The advance has temporarily stopped the demand which was fairly good last week. It is likely, however, that it will be resumed as soon as the market settles. A good many of the trade are pretty well supplied with sugar, having bought largely before the advance. Others, however, are not. It will not make much difference to consumers, for retailers will go foolishly on selling at cost or less. To-day, for instance, there are retailers in the city who are giving 13 to 13½ pounds of granulated sugar for a dollar.

The statistical position of sugar is very favorable to a strong market. The stock in the United States is 51,000 tons less than a year ago, and 54,000 tons less than at the corresponding period in 1887, while the deficit of the principal countries, as compared with last year, is about 90,000 tons. Estimates of the present crop all foreshadow a heavy falling off in the yield, some running as high as 150,000 tons below last year. Offerings at primary sources are moderate and indifferent, and buyers from all of the consuming points of the world are willing and anxious to invest.

THE EGG MARKET.

The egg market has taken quite a drop from last week. The immediate cause was the arrival and offer of a couple of cars of fresh stock from the American side. They were offered at a cent below fresh Canadian eggs. Sellers of the latter immediately dropped their prices another cent. Since that there has been a further decline, and strictly new laid Canadian eggs can now be bought at 11½c. There are some in the trade who argue that a considerable portion of the present drop will be recovered in a short time, and point out that last year there was a sharp advance from the lowest point. They attribute the decline to the action of several leading Canadian dealers. With this we cannot agree. Our market acts in sympathy with New York. With New York on its present basis our dealers cannot afford to pay over 8¾c. for eggs in the country, and they are paying about 10c. If the New York market improves we may look for better prices here, but not till then.

The New York market is in a dull, weak, declining condition. Finest Western barrels are offered and sold at 11¾c. to 12c., but the latter figure is certainly extreme to sell, and 11¾c. is all that can be depended upon for best marks of new laid. Fresh gathered eggs, or lots that have been in store any length of time, are greatly neglected and values uncertain. Southern eggs not wanted. Duck and goose eggs a trifle weaker, and a slight increase in supply would cause further reduction. Prices are as follows :

State, Penn. and Del., n. l., at mark..	12c.@12½c.

CANADIAN APPLES IN ENGLAND.

In the House of Commons, on March 7th, Mr. Patrick O'Brien asked the President of the Board of Trade "whether he is aware that the Customs authorities at Liverpool recently seized a large consignment of Canadian apples addressed to Messrs. L. Connolly & Co., one of the principal firms of fruit brokers in Great Britain, and refused to deliver the same, even on the production of the bills of lading issued at Port Hope, Ontario, for shipment to the port of Liverpool, until the day following that on which the fruit was sold, and then only on condition that the brand 'Canadian apples' was obliterated from the packages, with consequent injury to the commercial value of the goods ; and whether he can say if it was under the Tradesmark Act, or what other statute, the Customs authorities acted in this matter ; and if so, whether, considering the perishable nature of the the goods, and the necessity for prompt delivery in this trade, he will make such arrangements as will prevent the recurrence of such loss and inconvenience in future."

Mr. Jackson (Secretary to the Treasury), who replied, said the consignment in question arrived on February 26th, and was detained by the Customs officers at Liverpool under sections 16 and 3 of the Merchandise Marks Act, 1887. On reference to sub-section 2 of section 10 of that Act, the Board of Customs telegraphed for permission to deliver the goods on the obliteration of the mark, and the goods were released from detention on February 27th. On the 1st inst. the collectors received authority from the Board of Customs to deliver all future importations under similar circumstances without reference to the Board and without obliteration of the marks.

BANKRUPTCY LAWS.

It is not in this country alone that the question of more equitable bankruptcy laws are agitating the public mind. In the United States the idea that new bankruptcy measures are needed is rapidly spreading, and quite a number of commercial bodies in various parts of the country have, within the past twelve months, passed resolutions favouring the passage of an equitable bankruptcy measure by Congress. The strongest expression in this direction was delivered by a body of merchants in St. Louis recently. There is, however, the difficulty experienced in making such a measure as will do equal and exact justice to all concerned. Continued discussion on these points will, it is likely, bring about a result that will be more satisfactory than the present laws.

TRUSTS IN MEXICO.

Mexico, as well as Canada, has her trusts, and the press there is now engaged in vigorously denouncing the formation of these combinations, the introduction of which it terms a pernicious American and European system. Syndicates are being organized in that country for the purpose of controlling leading commercial interests of that Republic. One combination proposes to take all the sugar produced on the native plantations, and handle it so as to produce for themselves a good profit. Similarly, manufacturers of cloth and cotton are said to have combined for the purpose of limiting the production of their mills until the present excessive stocks are disposed of without a reduction in price.

COMMISSION MERCHANTS' HONOR ROLL.

Mr. J. F. Thackray has received several replies from the produce commission merchants to whom he sent the circulars regarding the selling of goods to consumers. With one exception they express themselves heartily in favor of the scheme, and they will gladly sign and have their names placed on the Honor Roll. The exception referred to is a merchant who does a regular retail as well as a wholesale commission business. There are several firms to be heard from yet. When they reply we will publish the list.

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL CREDIT.

The following from the American Grocer will be read with interest at the present time. We commend it to the attention of the Wholesale Grocers' Guild :—"It is an old Scriptural saying that when the fathers have eaten sour grapes the children's teeth are set on edge ; or to put the case in our modern terms, when merchants in one section suffer from any cause, the merchants in other sections are affected unfavourably. This is particularly true of the relations between wholesaler and retailer. If the retailer cannot pay his bills the wholesaler is affected, and if the wholesaler grants too free credit to a bankrupt retailer it reacts upon him through losses from other retailers who may be hurt in their trade by the "cutter." A recent letter in the London Grocer brings out this side of this important question very forcibly. This retailer tells of a grocer who failed with two London wholesale houses as the largest creditors, and continues :

I am told that one, and I believe both firms have done business with grocers in that street for many years, who have always paid them twenty shillings in the pound ; and one would have thought that, in justice to an old customer, the traveller would have satisfied himself, before booking an order, that his patron was not a man of straw. Yet no, the result in this case has been the same as in many others, viz.: wholesale houses have been providing the sinews of war with which reckless traders have been fighting their old customers ; and I think it is quite time grocers stood up in a body to defend themselves against such unjust, ungentlemanly, and altogether unbusinesslike treatment by the wholesale houses or their representatives. Just look at the figures ! A deficiency of £71 in about sixteen weeks ; our two London wholesale friends are in for £100 ; that, put in other words, means that for sixteen weeks they have been providing these young gentlemen with about six guineas per week with which to humbug the trade.

Well, sir, in the latter part of your article you talk about remedies : the one I've made up my mind to is this : Should I be subjected to similar competition I shall ascertain the position of my competitors. If they are wealthy men, and mean business, I must prepare to meet them on business lines, at which no manly man can complain ; but if I find they are simply adventurers, I shall caution the firms I do business with that if I find they are supplying on credit a man or firm who is trading recklessly, they must choose between us, as I'm determined I will not support a house which virtually enters into a competition with me.

If a man is trading with his own capital and honestly intends to pay twenty shillings in the pound, I know I am safe, as he will not go on losing money long; but if he is trading on credit his life will depend on the strength of his creditors' indulgence. I commend this plan to the trade generally. I sincerely hope my brother grocers here will teach these firms a lesson by at once closing their accounts and refusing to do business with them in the future. Here is where we lack an association. Had we one it would not be worth Mr. Traveller's while to again visit our town.

This is a point often discussed in this country, and we venture to say that few reputable wholesale houses would continue credit to such a reckless grocer if they knew of it. It would be the height of folly for a wholesaler to furnish goods on credit to a persistent cutter, and so run the risk of losing not that account only, but the debts due from the honest retailer on the next block, who may fail to meet his engagements because he is compelled to meet the bankrupt's low prices. There is nothing more dangerous to a well-managed railroad than a bankrupt competitor, and the same is true of trade. But the wholesaler feels also the effect of competition, and if one jobber will take the chances on selling to a cutting retailer, it is difficult for another to refuse. Here is a point in the Wholesale Grocers' Association movement which deserves the support of every honest retailer. The Association, by common consent, propose a more careful supervision of credit, and to help retailers to make cutting unpopular and unprofitable. By this means it is hoped to eliminate the chances of doing the very thing the English retailer complains about, viz.: granting too much credit to unworthy retailers, and thus risking losses to themselves and to every retailer within the territory of the cutter."

BUSTLE AND BUSINESS.

Bustling men are not always big business men. The man of bustle must do everything himself; he cannot trust others sufficiently to deputize them to do his business. He lacks confidence. There is a narrowness of mind and smallness of character, combined with a meanness of manner, which is always associated with a bustling man. He possesses a sharpness which he thinks smartness, but it isn't, for he most always outwits himself, and defeats his own purposes. There are many buyers of this kind, who think they come off best in bargaining. They may once, and perhaps twice, but distinctly not the third time.

The same may be said of men "on the road." It is not the rushing, sharp, bustling men who get the biggest returns, but the quiet, steady, yet smart ones, who, day by day, week after week, month upon month, slowly yet surely lead up to and make their mark. They gain the confidence of buyers, a confidence which rarely fails, and so are sure of sound business upon each journey.

Take large houses, whether retail, wholesale or manufacturing, and it will be found that the same principle applies. Those are at the top who have surely sown, who have gradually sown, and they are likely to stay there. Some there are, maybe, who have rapidly risen, but they are not so likely to stop. Rome wasn't built in a day; the oak doesn't grow in a week; neither is a business founded in a short time upon bustle, which is not business, and sharpness, which is not shrewdness.

This is an age of rushing, too much rushing. Men scarcely give themselves time to think, and without some thought action is apt to be effete. It has been insisted upon before that those who devote themselves to one thing, and do that one thing well, are the men most likely to succeed and do succeed. It is simply impossible for one man to thoroughly understand a dozen different subjects. One often hears of a "good all-round man," but what does it mean? He is generally better for other people than good to himself, and it is a man's first duty to be good to himself, then he is likely to be of better service to others.—Draper's Journal.

CHEAP AND NASTY TEA.

There has been much in print of late bringing to notice the rubbish which is being extensively sold in this country under the name of tea, and which is retailed at one shilling the pound. When we come to calculate the export duty in China, amounting to 2¾d. per lb., the import duty in this country, a fraction over 6d. per lb., the freight, insurance, broker's commission for selling at auction, the cost of the packages which are lined with lead, and the labour in packing, also our dock charges, we find that these various calls cannot be financed under 10d. per lb. The 2d. remaining, therefore, has to pay for the tea and also allow the merchant, wholesale dealer, and retailer a profit. All sane people will agree that this is an impossibility. What, then, is this stuff which is sold as tea? It certainly would not pay the labour of picking any kind of leaf, apart from the cost of the growth; and, as a proof, we find very little rubbish sold at the beginning of the season, although John Chinaman is dishonest enough to have printed on the packages "Fine New Season's Moning Congou," when he knows at the time that what he is exporting to this country is principally sloe, willow, beech, or hawthorn leaves mixed with the commonest sweepings. The whole is adulterated with various chemicals, and sometimes even blacklead is used. The cost of picking is also saved, for, just as our leaves fall in the autumn, so they are swept up in their decayed form in the Celestial country.

It may be argued by some that it is the average prices of the various pickings that pay the merchant, but, although we admit that there are several crops picked from the same bush, and in fine plantations especially the extravagant figures that fine first crop Monings and Lapsang Souchongs fetch enable the merchant to accept a lower price for the second and third crop, yet this fact does not hold good for the very low grades, which, we maintain, are really no crop at all. Who is to blame is a question, and how it can be prevented is another. The public are the guilty party for causing the demand. They buy tea at the shops for 1s. and 1s. 4d. per lb. under the erroneous notion of practising economy, and the more ignorant class are led to believe that some benefactors absolutely make them a sixpenny or eightpenny present when buying a pound of 2s. tea, whereas it is obvious they pay a large profit upon both the present and the tea. Another difficulty the retailers in every country are trying to overcome is the wonderful increase of Ceylon and India tea sold in packets under the heading of brands. A London correspondent accounts for this as being partly owing to fact of there being no export duty from India and Ceylon, thus saving 2¾d. per lb. He states also that Monings and Ching Wos fetching 1s. 2d. to 1s. 3d. per lb. in public auction will only compare in value with Ceylon or Indian teas selling at 9d. to 10d. per lb., the reason being the small quantity of good medium tea coming from China, and the fact that the retailers will demand Congous, so as to avoid altering the character of their blends. This demand from the public for Ceylon and Indian tea should bring the retailers to their senses, and we venture to suggest that the only way to obtain in the future China tea at a reasonable price is while the prices are so dear to support our own colonies by using still less China and more Ceylon and Indian tea.—Manchester Grocers' Review.

Mrs. Bridge (continuing conversation)—And, do you know, I've had the hardest time to find the frilling I spoke to you about? The shopman took down fifty or sixty boxes, went to the wholesale department for samples, sent a messenger round to other shops, and finally, after he had called in one of the partners, we found just the thing.

Mrs. Morris (in an agony of interest)—How much of it did you get?

Mrs. Bridge—Oh, I was only getting the price to-day. I said I'd call again to-morrow.

Any one answering advertisements which appear in this paper will do themselves and us a service by mentioning that they saw the advertisement in THE GROCER.

CAUSES OF FAILURE.

The London Grocer makes an interesting attempt to explain the frequency of failures in the grocery and provision trades in England. Fierce competition has existed in these trades for years, but most of the failures are attributed to causes of comparatively recent origin. Prominent among these is the practice of selling so-called "leading articles" without profit in the hope of attracting other business. What is regarded as another error of judgment is the attention given to proprietary articles and specialties that yield least profit. Another is the cutting of prices to an unprofitable scale, with a view to securing large sales instead of being content with smaller sales at better profits. While these tendencies to lower prices are growing more pronounced, the public is becoming better informed as to actual cost of articles dealt in, and it is no longer possible to make up for loss in one direction by charging excessive prices in another. These and other causes, for some of which the dealer is to blame, and some of which are beyond his power, are constantly tending to narrow the margin of profit, while the disposition everywhere displayed is to increase expenses. This analysis of English experience applies as well to the situation in this country ; so it is of interest to note what this London journal has to propose by way of remedy. The Grocer asserts that trade associations encouraging friendly relations and giving members of the trade better knowledge of each other, and of the difficulties with which all have to contend, have had a pronounced effect in restraining abuses and placing the trade on a better basis and eradicating injurious influences. This also is true of this country as well as England. Within the limits of the legitimate and proper action of such associations much can be done to encourage better methods, and to resist abuses and discourage cut-throat competition injurious not only to rivals, against whom it is directed, but disastrous to all who engage in it.

THE ONE PRICE SYSTEM.

With the cash retail stores a single undeviating price for each article is the rule almost invariably ; but in many retail establishments, mainly those conducted on the credit system, prices appear quite often to be regulated according to the personal appearance of the customer and the audacity of the storekeeper or his assistants. Even where some attempts are made to secure a uniform price the persistency of patrons often prevails over the prudence of the grocer, and he cuts his price, thinking, foolish man, that it will be kept secret. On the contrary, however, the customer, if she is not a unique specimen of her sex hastens to inform her friends that she can buy such an article at such a price at Blank's. As the friends probably trade at the same store, but haven't obtained the low rate, they naturally are vexed, and the grocer either loses some trade or is again compelled to cut his prices below a proper figure. This circumstance is the cause of more or less loss of trade to every dealer who becomes a victim to the wiles of that class of the public that always demands a bargain. But when the price of an article is deliberately increased because the customer is a stranger and looks prosperous, if the dealer's business suffers afterwards, he has no one but himself to blame. The wise merchant has at least one rule which he never allows to be violated, and that is the one price rule, applying to all his customers, rich or poor.—Merchants' Review.

HOW NEW CANNERIES ARE ENCOURAGED.

The following from The American Grocer will be read with interest by the trade as well as the canners :—

The editor of the New Concord (O.) Enterprise has been urging the citizens of that place to start a canning factory. It furnishes its readers a statement which shows that a factory turning out 7,000 cans per day will clear $175 per day. Here are some of the figures :—

"A canning plant that will put up 7,000 cans a day will cost $3,500, set up complete, with the latest improved machinery, and guaranteed to put up goods second to none in America ; $175 per day for ninety days is $15,750, on an investment of $3,500, with the building added. Allowing $1,500 for the building, and you have $5,000. $15,750, less $5,000, equals $10,750 for a dividend for the company in ninety days, and your factory and building paid for."

That equals the financial exhibit "Col. Mulberry Sellers" made in regard to the probable sales and estimated profits from his celebrated eyewater, which was to be clamored for by hundreds of millions of afflicted people all over the globe.

The cost of canning tomatoes is placed at 70 cents per dozen, the selling price $1 per dozen. Nothing easier—583⅓ dozen per day, paying a profit of 30 cents per dozen, figures out $175 profit per day. That is a very plausible story, and just the sort to induce a lot of inexperienced farmers and others to take their hard-earned savings and start a canning factory. They fail to note that markets are to be considered ; the relation of the one little factory to the thousand other factories ; the total output to average requirements ; that crops are uncertain ; that factories break down ; that unlooked-for expenses come ; that new brands must compete with established brands, and that it costs money to find buyers. But no need to indulge in theory when the question has been so thoroughly tested as in Maryland. The four hundred factories in Harford County have made a record that is more eloquent than words. Ruined houses, sheriff's sales, trouble and despair all over that beautiful and fertile country. But, no ! the editor says :—

"No danger of overdoing the market ; population is increasing faster than supply ; the whole world is your market."

"Mulberry Sellers" again. The Esquimaux are all going to sit on ice floes and icebergs and eat canned tomatoes. The millions of savages in Africa, having grown tired of missionary, are going to eat canned tomatoes. The countless millions of the East have abandoned rice for canned tomatoes, and, in short, all creation has come to regard the article as the one essential to human happiness.

The facts are, the canning industry is overdone ; the supply of preserved food has become so extensive that it costs less to consumers in cities than a like quantity of the fresh article ; not one factory in twenty-five declares a dividend ; the cost of production is seldom covered, and the time has come to call a halt.

Wm. Miller, processor for A. C. Miller & Co., canned goods packers, Picton, leaves there to take charge of the Wayne Co., U. S., canning factory.

Mr. Meredith, a Winnipeg tea merchant, and his wife and child were poisoned by acid from solder in the tea-pot. All are in a fair way of recovery.

A sneak thief entered A. Munro's grocery, on Talbot Street, St. Thomas, Friday night, and carried off a small amount of money which was in the till.

There has been some enquiry for evaporated and dried apples from the Northwest. A car of good evaporated stock sold at a western point for shipment to Manitoba at 5½c.

The jobbers and wholesale grocers of Winnipeg, including the Hudson Bay Co., have signed the tobacco agreement, and are therefore entitled to buy direct from the manufacturers. Winnipeg is now therefore a competing point.

Some hints regarding the China tea crop of 1889-90 are said to be coming to hand more or less ambiguous in character, and probably not altogether reliable as yet, though they generally indicate a larger yield, and in some cases have suggested as much as twenty-five to thirty per cent. over the present season.

The retail grocers of New York State are pushing a bill in the Legislature of that state which provides that grocers can attach any real or personal property they can get their hands on to satisfy claims for goods from $5 to $100, whether belonging to man or wife, and in addition, may attach twenty per cent. of the wages of either.

A London cable says that in the Mincing Lane markets beet sugar is strong. A large business has been done at hardening prices. Cane is in good demand. Refined is unchanged. Teas are unaltered. The market is somewhat dull. There have been small sales of coffee at full prices. Pepper is firm.

Hamilton has much more satisfactory market regulations than there are in Toronto, yet the people are not satisfied. At the meeting of the Council of that city on Monday evening, it was decided at the request of a petition from the retailers that the hucksters must in future occupy a particular portion of the market square.

Scourtelli Bros. & Co., commission merchants, Smyrna, in a letter to their agents in this city, say that they hear that the progress Canada has made of late has placed her in a good position, and that cloths which are manufactured there could compete with those made in the States. They ask for samples, and expect to do a large business.

Noble Sharpe, an old and respected resident of Ingersoll, died suddenly on Friday morning of heart disease. Deceased carried on a grocery business for a great number of years in London and Hamilton. He had just completed arrangements to again enter the mercantile field with his oldest son and Peter John Watt, in one of his stores on Dundas Street, London.

The Toronto Retail Grocers' Collecting Agency will not go under for want of a man to manage the business. An advertisement was inserted in the daily papers Saturday last. Up to noon on Monday nineteen answers had been received. The probabilities are that by Monday next there will be fully a hundred applications. A mass meeting will be held that afternoon to further consider the matter. In addition to the bakers, a retailer suggests that the agency should include butchers. The suggestion is a good one, for the customers are common to grocers, butchers and bakers.

The British Columbia Canning Co. (Lim'd) has been formed, with a capital of £100,000 in 100,000 shares of £1 each, divided into 50,000 preference shares and 50,000 ordinary shares; headquarters in London. This company is formed to acquire and work four long-established salmon fisheries and canning factories, known as the River's Inlet Canning Co., the British Columbia Fishery, the Windsor Canning Co., the Naas River Canning Co. Flattering inducements are offered subscribers, dividends being promised that would make most of the salmon packers wild with joy.

There is considerable prejudice against the use of canned goods existing, not only in Canada and the States, but in England and other European countries; and yet out of all the articles examined by the New Jersey State Commission (tea excepted), these have by far the best record. Of 55 samples examined, 54 samples were satisfactory against 1 below standard. Dread of lead poisoning is at the bottom of this prejudice. The result of the analysis shows this has no foundation, no can examined showing a trace of lead, and all cases of sickness caused by eating canned goods were traceable to the fact that the contents were spoiled when opened, or that the can had been allowed to remain open for a day or more before using. The present system of canning vegetables is of inestimable value, and the spoiling of the contents of a can now and again is no argument against it. Fresh fruit and vegetables spoil too. Imported canned goods are mostly peas and beans; and out of 16 cans examined copper was found in 11, this being added to give a green color to the articles.

"There is nothing in the world that helps a merchant as much in dull times as a cheerful face and a hopeful view of the future," said a St. Louis merchant. "If I meet a customer with a long countenance, and begin talking of hard times, the chances are that he will not buy half as much as he originally intended to, if he buys anything at all. But if I assure him that business is looking up, and that good times are coming, he is sure to buy liberally. I not only speak of my experience in selling goods, but of my experience in buying as well. If a drummer comes in my office in a despondent manner, and complains that he has had poor success, he creates the impression in my mind that there is no demand for the goods he is selling. If, on the other hand, he proves to me that his sales are large, I am convinced that there will be a healthy consumptive demand, and I give him an order. Prophecies of evil always retard merchandise movements."

The Markets

TORONTO, March 28, 1889.

GROCERIES.

CANNED GOODS.

There is a better tone to the market for canned goods, and in some lines former prices are asked. The packers have been doing very little during the past few days. Buyers are holding off. The best packs are firmly held and are getting scarcer. Demand has somewhat improved. A car sold for shipment to the North-West yesterday. In tomatoes the feeling is a little unsettled, as several lots are pressing on the market. It is satisfactory to holders to notice that values have not been lowered in any degree. Efforts are being made to close out part of Burgess' stock. There are also a couple of lots in Hamilton which may be put on the market within a short time. Good brands are held at $1, but some packs can be had, it is said, as low as 85c. Corn is steady with holders asking $1 to $1.10 for good brands, and 85c. to 90c. for ordinary; packers are firm at 87½c. Peas are quiet but firmer. Fruits are moving more freely; sales of peaches are reported at $2.10 to $2.25 for 2's, and $3 to $3.25 for 3's. Salmon is easier. Sardines are in good demand at former prices.

COFFEE

Is without change this week. Outside markets are not so firm, but locally the small stocks keep prices up. The Rio News says: "The outlook so far is very unsatisfactory for the coming crop, and the opinion is we think gaining ground that even 2,500,000 bags is an excessive estimate for the 1889-90 crop in the Rio district. There is generally supposed to be a special providence watching over Brazilian interests, however, and a little hesitation in accepting very much reduced crop estimates may prove judicious." And in referring to Santos market, as follows: "In spite of the fluctuations in consuming markets, confidence in the future is unabated. Stock is miserably assorted, being chiefly low coffee, and holders have consistently refused to make concession on any but the most undesirable grades. The 1889-90 crop is now generally estimated at 1,500,000 bags."

DRIED FRUIT.

Currants—Are moving as before at 5⅛c. to 5½c. in barrels and halves. Foreign markets are strong.

Dates—Are jobbing as before at 6c. to 6½c. for finest Hallowae.

Figs—Dull and easy. Pound boxes are selling at 7½c. to 9c., and Turkey in large boxes at 4½c. to 6c.

Prunes—Are quiet and the lower grades are easy. Hogsheads are selling at 4c. to 4½c., and kegs at 4¾c. to 5c. A car of bagged sold yesterday to go to Winnipeg at 3⅝c. delivered in bond.

Raisins—Are dull. Valencias are going at 6c. to 6½c. for prime stock; the tendency is towards higher prices; stocks in London are 500 tons against 1,800 tons last year. Sultanas are unchanged at 7½c. to 9c. London layers are moving at $2.90; black baskets at $4 to $4.25, and blue at $5.

GREEN FRUIT.

There is a slight improvement over that of last week in the green fruit trade, though the demand is not very large. California oranges of recent arrival are meeting with good sale at $4 per case. Valencias are moving very slowly at $5 to $5.25 per case. Stocks of Floridas are getting very light, and are quoted at $4 to $4.50. Jamaicas, stocks of which are very light, sell at $6.50. Washington Navel oranges are meeting with good sale on account of the fine fruit, which is very sweet. They are quoted at $5 to $7 per case. Lemons are very slow this week compared with that of last week. Messinas have the best run at $3 to $3.50. Palermo lemons are quoted at $4 to $4.50. Bananas are arriving and moving off quite freely, yellows principally. They range from $1.75 to $2.50 per bunch. Reds are expected daily.

SUGARS.

Higher and strong. White sugars have advanced ⅜c. per lb. since last report, and yellows have gone up ⅜c. to ½c. Granulated is now jobbing at 7⅞c. to 8c. In yellows very few houses have anything to offer under 6¼c., though there are some no brands offering at 6c. The low grades are being rapidly cleared out. At the refineries in Montreal low grades are held at 6c. to 6⅜c. Demand is light. It is thought that there will be a further advance of ⅛c. on Saturday next.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Syrups are in fair demand at former prices. Molasses are unchanged; Porto Rico's are moving in hogsheads at 36c. to 38c.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

APPLES—Demand is fair, especially for prime stock. Very choice Northern Spies have been selling at $2.50 per bbl. Other varieties are moving at $1 to $2 per bbl., as to quality.

BEANS—Are dull and unchanged. Cars, it is said, can be bought at $1.25 to $1.30, but holders are firm at $1.40 to $1.60 for small lots of good to prime quality.

DRIED FRUIT—Apples continue very dull. Dealers are paying 3c. to 4c., and are jobbing at 3½ to 4c. Evaporated are also slow, with prices weak; small lots are selling at 6½ to 7½c., and cars can be bought at 5½c. to 6c.

EGGS—The market is very much depressed. American fresh eggs are selling at 11c., while Canadian are going at 11½c. to 12c., but mostly 11½c. Prices are also being cut in the local retail trade where sales are being made at 11c. Held and limed are almost unsalable; the last transactions reported were at 8c. to 10c.

HAY AND STRAW—The market for hay is pretty well supplied, and it is not an easy matter to make sales. Choice timothy is running at $14 to $14.50, and occasionally $15 on the track. Clover has sold during the week at $11, and mixed at $12 to $13.50. Straw steady at $8 to $9.

HOPS—Not much doing; new are offering at 19c. to 23c.

ONIONS—Continue weak and unchanged at ½c. to 1c. per lb. as to quality.

POTATOES—Are still weaker. The latest sale has been a car of White Star and White Elephant at 16c. f.o.b. outside. On the track 25c. is quoted, and dealers are selling to the retail trade at 30c. to 40c. out of store.

POULTRY—There is now very little doing. A few frozen turkeys, geese, and chickens are about all that are offered. For these there is a poor demand. Turkeys are going at 8c. to 10c., and geese at 7c.

SEEDS—Not so firm as a week ago. Timothy is quoted at $1.90 to $2.10 per bushel, and clover at $5.50 to $5.75.

SYRUPS—New maple syrup is offering in wine gallon cans at 90c.

FLOUR AND GRAIN

FLOUR—The market has been somewhat unsettled. Prices have not varied to any extent. Demand has been light, but it has slightly improved during the past few days.

BRAN Is rather weak. Car-lots have changed hands outside at $11, equal to $13.50 Toronto freights, and on the track at $14.

WHEAT—Has been quiet all week. Very little business has been done on the spot. Ontario wheat has sold in the west at $1.04 to $1.05, and on the Northern and Midland at $1.06 to $1.07. Manitoba wheats are being offered pretty freely by sample. No. 1 hard is worth about $1.31; No. 2 has sold at $1.28; No. 1 frosted is worth about $1.05, and No. 2 about 85c.

BARLEY—Is weak and lower. Demand is very light. The only sale reported this week was a lot of No. 1 on the track at 58½c.

PEAS—Demand has not been so good and the feeling is easier. Outside sales have been made at 55c.

OATS—Are offering freely and prices are lower. Sales of carloads are being made on the track at 32c. to 34½c.

OATMEAL Is also easier, but not quotably changed.

HIDES AND SKINS.

There is no change to note this week. Green are moving at 2¾c. to 4¾c., and cured have sold at 5¼c. Sheepskins are quiet at $1.30 to $1.50. Calfskins weak at 5c. to 6c.

FISH.

Mild weather is somewhat against business in the fish market; the movement, however, is reasonably fair, and the supply all round is very good. There is now a large quantity of smelts on the market at from 4c. to 8c. Whitefish and trout are selling well. St. John's herrings are quoted at 75c. to 80c. per hundred, and Halifax herrings at $1.25 per hundred. Messrs. Port & Co. have plenty of British Columbia salmon, at 12½c. to 14c. a pound; also some fresh caught Lake Winnipeg whitefish, at 6c. to 6½c. a pound. There is a supply of pike at 4½c. Ciscoes are quoted at $1.25 per hundred; blueblacks, $2 to $2.25 per hundred. Oysters are in ample supply at $1.20 to $1.60 per gallon. Lake Erie herring are selling at $1.75 per hundred. Steak cod is quoted at 6c. to 6½c. a pound. Trout is plentiful at 5c. for round and 6c. to 6½c. for dressed; finnan haddies at 6c. to 6½c. per pound; and haddock at 4½c. to 5c. per pound.

The Grocer does not utter predictions, but aims simply to give accurate reports of the markets as they are.

DRESSED HOGS AND PROVISIONS.

The movement is now of small proportions. The packers are taking a few. The bulk of the offerings are of roughish quality, and sell mostly about $6.60 to $6.80 per cut. A few choice go to butchers at $7 to $7.25.

Demand is generally better, and the feeling is steady.

MESS PORK—Is quiet. The lumbermen are taking a few barrels to help them down the drives. American is moving at $15.75 to $16. Canadian is not so active, and is firm at $16 to $16.50.

BACON—Is firm and in good demand, with sales at 8¾c. for tons and cases. Cumberland is dull at 8½c.; the demand is mostly for smoking purposes.

LARD—Is in active demand. Stocks of Canadian are pretty well cleared out. Prices are firm.

SMOKED MEATS—Are also receiving a fair amount of attention, especially hams, which bring 11½c. to 12c. Other cuts are selling as before.

The Cincinnati Price Current says: Receipts of hogs in Western markets continue liberal, considerably exceeding corresponding time last year. Returns and estimates of number of hogs packed show a total of 235,000 for the week, against 230,000 the preceding week, and 170,000 last year. From March 1 the total is approximately 590,000, against 395,000 a year ago. With this liberal supply the trade has experienced difficulty in rallying prices of product, and the larger operators, whose methods have been such as to keep sales for future delivery constantly in excess of current holdings, have had the advantage of influences calculated to promote their interests. While the manufacture since March 1 represents 195,000 hogs more than the moderate number handled during corresponding time last year, the gain in the export comparison for the same period has been equal to the product of 110,000 hogs. At the same time the domestic demand from Western centres is reported as unusually large, so that the indications are that the increased production since the close of the winter season has been offset by the enlarged distribution of product for consumption, at home and abroad. At Chicago the tendency of values most of the week has been moderated to lower figures, closing better, slightly below a week ago. Prices of hogs receded somewhat during the week at the leading centres, closing 10 to 15 cents per 100 pounds lower than a week ago at some points, and less difference or fully sustained at others. Foreign exports of product for the week were again liberal, being more than double the movement during corresponding week last year, the larger gain being in lard, while meats show a marked increase.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—The market this week does not show much encouragement to holders. They do not wish to hold stocks over April, and are beginning to look about for a place in which to put them. There is in consequence a weaker feeling in the market, which has caused a considerable decline in the lower grades. For example, a lot of tubs that 19½c. was refused for a week ago, have since sold at 16¾c. The local receipts have been much larger during the past few days. There is very little good stock among the offerings, only about one tub in every ten or fifteen. The better grades are consequently in active request at full prices, while mediums are hard to sell. Bakers are only picking up what they want for use from day to day. Choice grades are worth 20c. to 21c., and occasionally a tub brings 22c., while mediums go at 14c. to 17c. Rolls are mostly of the latter class, though occasionally a few fancy lots realize 19c. to 20c.

CHEESE—Is steady and unchanged. Prime is moving in a small way at 12c. Round lots of fine September have been sold to the local trade by the factories at 11½c. delivered.

MONTREAL,

Offer for sale all grades of REFINED SUGARS and SYRUPS of the well-known brand of

Redpath

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

JOHN BAKER EDWARDS, P.L.D., D.C.L., F.C.S.,

Public Analyst for the District of Montreal, and Professor of Chemistry.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY, MEDICAL FACULTY, MCGILL UNIVERSITY.

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have taken and tested a sample of your "EXTRA GRANULATED" Sugar, and find that it yielded 99·88 per cent. of Pure Sugar. It is practically as pure and good a Sugar as can be manufactured

Yours truly,

G. P. GIRDWOOD.

The Markets—Continued.

CHEESE.

The jobbing trade is chuckling over a few sales for Kingston and Toronto, where the local supply has run out. We quote finest fall, 11½. ; good to fine, 10½c. to 11c.

HOG PRODUCTS.

The quotations to-day are : Canada Short Cut, $16 to $16.50 ; Western Short Cut, $15.50 to 16.50 ; Western Mess, $15 to $15.50 ; Hams (city cured), 11½c. to 12c. ; Lard (in pails), Western, 10c. to 10¼c. ; do., city, 10c. ; Bacon, 11½c. to 12c. ; Tallow, common refined, 6¼c. to 6½c

RICE.

The rice market has a firm tone, and prices are well maintained. Ordinary in car lots is at $5.60, with Japan at 4c. to 4½c., and Patna at 4½c. to 5c. Latest advices from London state that the exports from Burmah for the week ending March 2 were 48,700 tons, against 65,140 tons in 1888, including 39,000 tons by steamer, against 36,350 tons. A good demand has prevailed for Burmah cargoes, and prices have further advanced about 1½d., Necransie per steamer selling at 7s. 3d., but with few sellers business is moderate, Rangoon steamers buyers at 7s. 4½d., open charter. An improved demand has prevailed on the spot for common as well as for white Bengal, with larger sales, closing 3d. dearer. Madras shows a similar advance.

SUGAR, SYRUP AND MOLASSES.

The feeling in the sugar market has been firm and the recent advance in prices has been well maintained. The demand has continued good and the market has ruled fairly active with a fair volume of business doing. In syrup business has been dull at steady prices. There has been a weaker feeling in molasses and prices are lower. The demand has been fair for small lots and a fairly active business has been transacted. The last large sales of Barbadoes was effected at 37c., with small lots up to 39c. Antigua has sold at 34c.

TEA AND COFFEE.

The tea business has been quiet and of a jobbing character both on local and country account, and on the whole the volume of business transacted has been small. Advices from New York continue firm and there is a firm feeling among holders here. Prices have been well maintained, but we do not hear of any large transactions taking place. In coffee a fair volume of business has been accomplished in a small way but an easier feeling has prevailed and prices of some grades are a little off from last week. We quote Mocha, 27c. to 30c. ; Java, 22c. to 27c. ; Plantation Ceylon, 20c. to 24c. ; Rio, 17c. to 20c.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been no improvement in the market for canned goods, the demand having continued slow and business has been quiet and of a jobbing character at steady prices. There is a good supply of most kinds held here, and dealers do not look for much change in the situation until the surplus stock is worked off. There has been a fair enquiry for lobsters, of which the offerings are light with prices firm at $5.50 to $6 per case. Mackerel are scarce and firm at $5 per case. Tomatoes, corn and peas have been slow at quotations. Canned fruits have been neglected and dull. Armour's canned meats have been quiet and steady.

FISH.

The fish market has been quiet, owing to the fact that the Lenten season is well advanced and retail dealers have ample supplies on hand. The supply generally has been well cleaned up, and the offerings of most kinds of fish now are light. The demand has been slow, and the volume of business transacted has been small. In Labrador herring a weak feeling has prevailed, and round lots have been offered at $4.50 to $4.75, but we do not hear of any sales. New green cod have been well cleaned up, and the market is about bare of stock outside of a lot of old which has been repacked and is now offering at lower prices than we quote. Salmon have been quiet and steady. In fresh fish business has been quiet. Fresh haddock are scarce and firm at 4c. to 4½c., and cod at 3c. to 3½c. Fresh herrings are in good supply and offering in round lots at 65c. per 100.

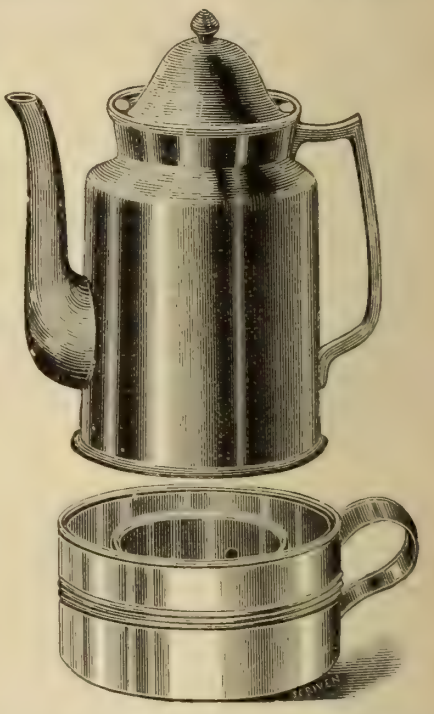
GROCERS!



IT is well known that everywhere in France one can get a good cup of coffee, and it is also an established fact, that the reverse is the case in Canada. Many blame the coffee, but the true cause is simply this, "Not one cook in a dozen knows how to make coffee properly." The above cut represents a new invention which is very simple in construction, and any child can make a good cup of coffee with it. You simply fill the tin can with boiling water, then set the pot on top, put the requisite amount of coffee in the bag inside the pot, then pour a sufficient amount of boiling water into the pot and let it stand on the stove for 3 or 4 minutes, when you will have a first class cup of coffee.

This coffee pot is the simplest, cheapest, and best article of the kind ever invented, and the low price makes it within the reach of all. They are packed 1 doz. in a barrel. Price $6 per doz. Send $6 for 1 doz. as a sample, and you will find it all that we recommend it to be.

TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' COLLECTING AGENCY.

A mass meeting of the Toronto Retail Grocers was held in Shaftesbury Hall, Monday afternoon last, Mr. Wm. Mara in the chair. The Hall was fairly well filled with the representative grocers of the city.

Secretary Thackray read the minutes of the last open meeting, which were adopted.

The chairman explained that the meeting was called for the purpose of forming a collecting agency in connection with the Association, and to have the views of those who were not members of the Association. He read the following report from the committee appointed to look into the matter :—

TO THE RETAIL GROCERS OF TORONTO :

Your committee, appointed at an open meeting of grocers on the evening of the 11th March, beg leave to report as follows :—

That they are of opinion that it is very desirable that a collecting agency be at once established for the sole use of the grocers of this city.

That they decided to advertise for a manager for such an agency in order to obtain a correct idea as to the working and protective results.

That out of thirty applications their choice fell upon one, whom they can confidently recommend.

That they are of opinion that it will require the co-operation of three hundred grocers out of a possible seven hundred in order to place the agency upon a sound financial footing.

That, with this number of members at an annual fee of $5 per member and 10 per cent. on collection, the agency will give most satisfactory results.

That these calculations are based on reliable figures, and will give the grocers a reliable agency, second to none, and that the same will be of immense benefit to the grocery trade.

That the scheme proposed is endorsed by the leading grocers of the city, and they recommend that such an agency be formed at once and put to work.

With the full summer season before them they cannot but succeed, and also recommend that the grocers present be invited to signify their willingness to join such an agency by appending their names to a list prepared for that purpose.

Mr. A. B. Griffin, Brunswick Avenue, asked if the collecting agency was separate from the Association. On being informed that it was—he wanted to know for what reason.

Mr. Mara explained that a great many, who were not at present members of the Association, would have nothing to do with the agency if they had to join the Association as well, but that in time they would be induced to join.

Mr. D. W. Clark moved, seconded by Mr. Frank Britton, that the report as read be adopted.

Mr. Griffin moved an amendment, and said that it should be united with, and be part of, the Association. His amendment fell through for want of a seconder, and the former motion was declared carried.

Mr. Saunders here asked how many members were in the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association. The Secretary gave him the desired information.

Mr. J. G. Gibson said he would like to have a vote taken of those present as to whether it should be a separate agency or in connection with the Association.

Mr. Mara, before asking those present to come forward and sign, again explained the committee's reason for having it separate from the Association.

Mr. Robt. Mills here asked that more details be furnished those present as to the proposed workings of the agency, so that they would know what they were signing. As for himself, he would like to see it part of the Association, but as it would require three hundred members to make the agency a success, and the Association had not that many, it was, therefore, impossible. Later on they would be able to do so.

The Secretary then read the lengthy application from the one whom the committee selected (out of thirty) for the position of manager.

Mr. Griffin said the reason he wanted the agency made part of the Association was because people would see that there was something at the back of it ; and more notice would be taken of it.

Mr. Frank Britton said that a number of those present at last meeting said that in joining the agency they had to join the Association as well, they would have nothing whatever to do with it. He thought it a good idea to make the membership fee to the agency $6, which, he thought, would pay providing they got three hundred members.

Mr. Verner thought that it should be under the control of the Association and of its officers.

Mr. Mara thought that the one fee, whatever it might be, should include both, otherwise it meant double work, and a man would have to be canvassed twice. He then asked all those present who were in favor of such an agency to stand up. About three-quarters stood up, the remainder concluded to await further developments, and after the Association have done all the work they will come forward and reap the benefit.

Mr. Saunders said that since it appeared in the press that the grocers were forming a collecting agency no less than three of the local agencies offered to sell out and undertake the management of their agency.

Mr. Verner moved, seconded by Mr. Griffin, that the collecting agency be under the control of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association, and that the fee be $5. Carried unanimously.

Messrs. Gibson, Britton and the Secretary then went round among those present to get their signatures, with the result that forty appended their names.

After the chairman "fired" out two or three representatives of local agencies, who were attempting to put a damper on the scheme, the meeting adjourned.

EVADING TEA DUTIES.

On several occasions THE GROCER has drawn attention to the plan adopted by some New York tea importing houses to evade the Canadian import duty on teas. As is well known, when teas come direct to Canada they are admitted duty free, but if imported through the States they are liable to duty. The plan which has been adopted by the New York importers is to purchase tea in Japan and have all the papers made out showing that the tea was bought for Canada, to be forwarded via the United States in bond from the port of New York. When the tea arrives at that port it is not forwarded in bond to Canada, as provided by the Customs Act, but allowed to go into a sufferance warehouse, and permitted to remain there until a market in Canada has been found for it, when an entry is made for direct transit to Canada in bond, all the papers showing that it is a direct importation from Japan to Canada in bond. To this mode of evading the duty the Customs Department demurred. The decision of the Minister having been transmitted to the importers in New York, Mr. Tweddell, a representative of the firm of Carter, May & Co., visited Ottawa last week and had an interview with the Minister of Customs, and frankly confessed that his house had adopted that plan in order to save the 10 per cent. duty, believing they were within the law. He admitted that the tea had remained in warehouse since last October as unclaimed goods, and was not entered for Canada until it had been sold to Montreal merchants, and that had a market been found for it in the United States it would have been sold there. The Minister told him he considered it not only an evasion of the law, but that it did not even come within the meaning of the words "direct importation," and that while under the circumstances he did not feel justified in inflicting a penalty, he would insist upon the payment of duty as a purchase of tea in the United States. This interpretation of the law by the Minister was confirmed by the Department of Justice. Mr. Tweddell paid the duty, but declared he would test the question in the courts, to which the Minister replied that the courts were open to him if Mr. Tweddell thought he was right but that he must pay the duty, and it would not be accepted under protest. The gentleman signed a paper covering the usual notice, paid the duty and received his tea.

This decision, though not a new one, will be received with favour by the tea trade in Canada. Many of them have interpreted the Act in that way. In fact we know of an instance where a grocer had an opportunity of bringing in tea in this way without paying the duty, but refused to take advantage of the letter of the law and paid the duty. It is to be hoped that the Customs officials will see that this ruling is carried out. It is in the interests of the trade that it should be so, for were teas allowed to come in free from New York it would seriously injure our native trade. There is no objection to tea remaining in New York a reasonable time. This is necessary in the case of a shipment containing mixed teas. Some of these are more suitable for the New York than for the Canadian market. They have then to be put into a warehouse where they are sorted. This should not occupy a very long time ; at most not more than three or four weeks. We would suggest, and we are sustained by the trade in this view, that the customs affidavit should state the date of the arrival of the tea in New York, and if there has been any undue detention it should be shown.

WHOLESALE DRY GOODS MEN.

The annual meeting of the dry goods section of the Toronto Board of Trade was held Tuesday last. The following officers were elected :—Chairman, Hon. John Macdonald ; vice-chairman, S. Caldecott ; treasurer, S. F. McKinnon ; secretary, Edgar A. Wills ; executive, Hon. John Macdonald, T. O. Anderson, S. Caldecott, S. F. McKinnon, Henry W. Darling, John Knox, Hamilton, A. A. Allan.

It was expected that some of the hat, cap, and fur and clothing merchants would have joined, but the only one to come forward was Mr. A. A. Allan, caps and furs. It is probable that others will join soon.

The section discussed the proposed amendments in regard to the customs duties on the value of inland freight and transportation charges, and passed the following resolution:

In reference to the proposed amendments to the Customs Act under which the present exemption of Great Britain from operation of the provision requiring the addition of the value for duty on all inland freight and transportation charges, etc., is to be done away with, this section is of the opinion that the proposed change is neither in the interest of customers nor importers, being unequal and vexatious in its operation, and likely to lead to conflict with the customs and evasions by the dishonest. The corresponding clause in the tariff of the United States having been repealed, this section would strongly urge the Government to repeal the entire charge, levying any additional duty that may be required for revenue in some more direct and less troublesome way.

The report of the committee appointed at the last meeting to draw up a circular to be sent to retail merchants throughout the country, dealing with the return of goods which have been ordered by the retailer to the wholesaler, was presented. The circular reads:—

Representations having been made to the wholesale dry goods section of the Toronto Board of Trade as to the steady increase of returns of goods from retail customers to the wholesale houses, by which serious loss is incurred, the attention of the trade is respectfully directed to the matter to the end that the loss from this cause be lessened as much as possible.

We think it can be safely asserted that there is no branch of trade, nor is there any city where a large distributing business is conducted, where a more general disposition is shown to meet the wishes of the customers and to contribute to their success in every possible way, than is displayed by the wholesale dry goods trade of Toronto. There are two or three causes for this, into which it is unnecessary to enter ; but that an undue advantage has latterly been taken of this disposition by many inconsiderate retail dealers seems apparent ; and an undue license is assumed by returning goods which have been deliberately purchased or as deliberately ordered and sent in accordance with the order, frequently without any reason whatever being assigned, and often upon wholly unreasonable and untenable grounds.

The disadvantage to the wholesale merchant arises in two or three ways : the condition in which they are returned, especially in the case of fragile goods, or contained in fragile packages, largely decreases their merchantable qualities—carelessness in packing, roughness in handling, and the vicissitudes to which the express company or the railway company has, it may be, subjected them—places them the second time in the hands of the wholesale merchant depreciated to the extent frequently of 25 to 50 per cent. During the time the retail customer has had them in his possession the balance of the line, or class, or assortment, which gave the article value, may have been sold out ; the patterns are frequently cancelled to the travellers upon the road ; and this single article is depreciated from this cause, and a serious loss ensues before it can be disposed of the second time.

Now, while no wholesale merchant is disposed to quarrel with his customer, or to display an unaccommodating disposition, he has his rights, which, in all fairness, if business transactions are to be mutually satisfactory, the retail merchant is bound to respect. The wholesale merchants do not claim that the retail customers are without grievances in the execution of orders ; because it is well known that goods are often sold out before the order reaches the house ; and in the execution of letter and travellers' orders there is occasionally room for dissatisfaction.

The wholesale merchant's source of supply is often three thousand miles away, and the contingencies in connection with manufacturers and their allies, the transport companies and others, render infallibility in the delivery of goods on time an impossibility. Having all this in view, however, it is contended, and this section considers it substantially just, that goods selected from stock, or sent exact in accordance with an order, are not returnable by the purchaser. No fair-minded retail merchant will require that they should be, or if required, it should only be under the most exceptional circumstances, and should be received as a special favor. Certainly the return charges upon them ought to be prepaid ; and the utmost care should be exercised so as to insure their preservation and return in an uninjured and merchantable condition.

If the statement here made directing the attention of the retail trade to this matter has the effect of removing this growing evil, by this appeal to the justice and fair play of the retail dealers, the object of the section will have been attained.

MARKET REGULATIONS.

City License Inspector Awde has prepared a by-law regarding weights and measures as suggested by the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association. It will come before the Markets and Health Committee to-day, and, if satisfactory, will be brought up in Council a week from Monday. It is to be hoped that ample provision will be made for the enforcing of the by-law, for without that it will be worse than useless.

MACDOUGALL, ROBINSON, Fine Confections

TAKING STOCK.

There are thousands of retail store-keepers who never think of taking account of stock at the end of the year and of figuring up of what they have on hand. They merely go on from year to year, replenishing their stock when they run out of a certain article, and pay no particular attention to what they have on hand except when they get out of it. This is a very poor way for a retailer to conduct his business, no matter if it is a small one. There are many things that accumulate upon his hands that are thrown into obscure corners, become dusty, discolored, shop-worn, moth-eaten and often absolutely worthless from neglect and forgetfulness upon his part. If he would take an account of stock and turn over everything in his store, rearranging his goods, it would bring such articles out of their obscurity. He could put them upon the bargain counter and work them off for something instead of allowing them to become ultimately worthless upon his hands. A merchant should never allow unseasonable or unfashionable goods to accumulate in his store. He should get rid of them in some manner, as they not only occupy valuable space, but represent so much of his capital tied up utterly unavailable to him. He should sell them, then, at a loss rather than keep them year after year, expecting a more favorable time will come for disposing of them. The longer one keeps such stuff the more hopeless becomes the task of disposing of them at any price. The taking of a correct account of stock enables the merchant to see just how he stands financially. He may find that he has many things that he does not need and is short in many lines that should be replenished, for a merchant should never wait until he is entirely out of an article before ordering a new supply of it, for nothing hurts a man's trade more than for him to be compelled to tell a customer that he is out of a certain article and that he will have to look for it elsewhere. Many a dealer has lost a good customer in this way, perhaps many good customers. One secret of successful merchandising consists in giving to the goods a fresh and wholesome appearance ; for this very reason shop-worn, unseasonable and unfashionable goods should never be allowed to accumulate. There are many devices by which they can be disposed of, and a merchant should never carry over the goods of one season to the following one if he can avoid doing so without a positively heavy loss. Keep your goods in the most perfect order possible, have every article in a position where you can at once put your hands upon it when it is called for, and not keep customers waiting for a long time until you pull it out from a promiscuous lot of goods. The taking of an account of stock will enable the store-keeper to sort out and rearrange his goods and put all things in their proper places.—[Retail Grocer Advocate.

SOME POINTS ON TEA.

The tastes of communities differ, and a dealer must study and learn the particular kind and flavor of the tea best adapted to the locality or town he is doing business in. This can be accomplished by a series of experiments with various kinds of tea, and noting the character and quality that gives the most general satisfaction. A tea that may suit one community will not sell at all in another. The dealer must learn himself what tea best suits his trade. It is much easier to describe what flavors to avoid than to make known what will be best adapted to a particular locality.

Generally in a manufacturing district, or among working classes in this country, dark-leaved, heavy-bodied Foochows and Amoy Oolongs will prove the most popular teas. In a community where a great many Irish or English people reside, Formosas, Congous, Souchongs, and the better grades of India teas will give the best satisfaction.

Oolongs of an herby, weedy or smoky flavour are to be avoided. These are principally mixed with Ankois. Japans of a fishy, metallic or musty flavor should also be shunned. Pingsueys, Cantons and artificially-colored green teas should be tabooed altogether by the dealer. If cheap green teas must be had, procure a true Moyune Hyson of low grade, or a Twankay. These will give better satisfaction than the best grades of the above-named.

Old teas, in particular, of all kinds should not be handled. There is no profit in them for the dealer and no satisfaction to the consumer. In brief, keep good goods and get your price. It will pay best in the end.

Teas should be kept as much as possible from the light and air, and also far apart from any high or foul-smelling article in stock, such as fish, coal-oil, spices, etc., as they very quickly absorb any pungent flavors that may be in their immediate vicinity. They should never be sold out of freshly-painted bins or caddies. It is, in fact, much better at all times to deal them out from the original packages, replacing the lead and lid when through. The most successful tea dealers we have met sold their teas in that manner. Do not keep your teas too close to a fire or stove. A dry, cool atmosphere will be found the best.

It is essential for retail dealers to pay particular attention to the kind and quality of the tea they serve their customers. There is no commodity they handle that will draw trade as rapidly and retain it like a good tea.

If the customers once lose confidence in either your ability or honesty, or they should be driven off by selling them poor teas, it will be next to impossible to get them back again.

A fine tea will create more favorable comment in a neighborhood than any other article used at the table.

It does not pay a dealer to make a mistake in the selection of his teas ; it proves fatal to attracting or holding his trade. Poor teas will drive more customers away in a week than can be made in a year. It is much better and more profitable in the long run to sell a good tea at a smaller profit than it would be to sell poor teas at a larger.

Some dealers make use of an argument : "I bought so much cheaper and my customers do not appear to notice the difference ; they do not complain." People seldom return to complain ; they try elsewhere and get better value.

Every community becomes accustomed to drinking a particular description of tea, and is quick to discover any change in the character and flavor of the tea that may be substituted, and become dissatisfied, notwithstanding that a higher-priced or more valuable tea may be given them. For this reason the dealer will do well to keep his teas as nearly uniform as possible. It remains for him to learn, as near as he can, what kind and flavor of tea his trade prefers. This is best done by first trying them with various kinds until he has found the flavor best suited to the majority of his customers. Having succeeded in this, let him stick to that particular flavor ever after. As any one tea will not suit all tastes, he can find the flavor adapted to the minority by the same method, and keep these two or three kinds, as the case may be. A dealer can, however, educate his trade to a particular flavored tea, as the taste for teas of a certain flavor is, after all, only an acquired one. A dealer may, for instance, be selling, say, Foochow tea, and should he suddenly change to Formosa, his trade would be very apt to find fault at first, notwithstanding that the latter might be choicer and better than the former, but by ignoring the complaints and continuing to give it to them they eventually acquire a taste for it and will not have Foochows afterwards. So it is with other teas. They may be educated to their use.

Green teas are sold chiefly in the South ; Japans in the West ; Oolongs are most in demand in the Eastern States, Formosa being preferred in the larger cities and Amoys in the provinces and manufacturing districts. Foochow Oolongs are the favorites in the middle States and cities, where every effort to supplant them fails.

What little English breakfast and Indian teas are disposed of are principally consumed in the sea-board cities of the East. —[A Cup of Tea, by J. M. Walsh.

SUBSCRIBING TRAVELLER, LINDSAY.

Your interesting communication has been crowded out this issue, but will appear next week.

Any one answering advertisements which appear in this paper will do themselves and us a service by mentioning that they saw the advertisement in THE GROCER.

DEVELOPING TRADE.

Practically the merchant's field of operation is unbounded. In these stirring times when new things, or old things in new dress are appearing with amazing rapidity, there can be no limit to the work of developing or reconstructing demand. It may be that the dealer believes that he now controls his fair share of patronage and therefore efforts to increase sales are wasted. Not by any means. Educate your trade. Introduce new goods, or better grades of such as are in demand.

If the average buyer demands tea of ordinary quality, go to work to induce him to use a higher grade that will better please his palate and at the same time afford the seller a more generous profit. If the taste of a community calls for Rio coffee, it will be in order to develop a demand for a blend or some of the milder flavored sorts popular in other sections. If the only sort of cracker sold is the common soda or lemon, why not add other varieties and keep on adding until the cracker department becomes a special feature?

There are tens of thousands of towns and villages in the United States where certain lines of goods, such as canned salmon, macaroni, certain farinaceous articles of food, foreign and domestic dried fruits, are unknown as articles of diet. The West buys apricots in huge quantities, while in the Eastern States the delicious fruit is comparatively little used. We need not specify further, reserving the space for a few suggestions as to the method of developing demand. Do not crowd nor force new goods. First of all the dealer's business is to supply such articles as the people require. Then, by judicious work. quietly and suggestively draw their attention in the desired direction. This may be done by little slips neatly printed and inserted in packages, or by personally calling the attention to some new article, or asking a trial of that which is of a higher or better grade. Perhaps an illustration will be better than precept :

Aroma, Strength and Satisfaction started out to develop a spice trade, in order to make more money out of that department. Every one of the fifty or sixty competing stores did as they did, kept a good line of ordinary pure spices. They resolved to introduce a very high grade and at very full figures, for somehow they believed that high price carries with it the conviction that high quality is its synonym. A show case was placed in a prominent position and therein shown specimens of the different grades of whole spices. There was Ceylon and Java cinnamon, Saigon, Batavia and China cassia, broken chips ; in fact, every sort of cassia and cinnamon, neatly labelled. Their ordinary ground cinnamon, strictly pure, was retailed at 40c., and was as good an article as the town kept. They put in stock an article made from the choicest Saigon sticks at 80c. per pound. When a customer asked for cinnamon, attention was called to the extra grade, with the remark that at 80c. per pound they would find it of great strength and of a more exquisite flavor. Nine times out of ten a trial of the 80c. spice was secured and slowly the buyers were convinced that the lower grade was no longer best. The seller made double per pound on the higher grade than he did on the lower. Here were better profits and better satisfied customers. That is developing trade. A like policy can be carried in all departments. The introduction of trade novelties is never ending.

Avoid a dictatorial or positive attitude in weaning a buyer away from his prejudices.

We have in Table Talk, the Epicure, Round About a Grocery Store, Chestnuts and Chutney—admirable illustrations of how retailers develop trade. These little publications tell consumers all about table delicacies in such an attractive way that a desire to test their merits is created, and that means more trade and better profits. There is as great a variation in the power of different storekeepers to develop trade as there is in different farmers to get the most out of a piece of land. One man can grow rich out of ten acres, while another will starve or half live from the product of the same plot. The one will get three crops, and paying ones, while another will have hard work to raise one of medium quality. There is a difference in men as well as in methods. Every man gains by exercising his wits, and he who is always developing, acquires and leads in the battle of life.—[American Grocer.

THE COMPROMISE QUESTION.

The San Francisco Grocer is justified in its assertion that retail dealers "have good reason to complain of the operations of itinerant dealers in so-called bankrupt stocks, who only remain long enough in one place to work off a quantity of inferior goods and demoralize prices. In some sections of the country this practice has worked so much injury to regular traders that municipal legislation has been invoked in order to keep out such interlopers."

We are glad to know that the City Council of Danville, Ill., has passed an ordinance requiring merchants starting in business in that place to subscribe under oath their intention to remain in business for a period not less than one year, accompanied by a bond in the sum of $1,000. Some such ordinance would work well in New England towns and cities.

Another evil mentioned by our esteemed contemporary is the "competition of bankrupt dealers who, by the leniency of their creditors, are enabled to effect a settlement by compromise and to resume business. Of course a merchant who pays one hundred cents on the dollar finds the competition of traders—whose stock often stands them in only half that sum, and sometimes even less—costly and vexatious. Not only this, but so great is the force of example that men, naturally straightforward and honest, finding the creditors of others so lenient and easy to settle with are almost inclined to adopt a policy which, while it may have tarnished the reputation of insolvents, has frequently placed them in a better position financially."

There can be no doubt that such practices demoralize trade. So, too, do those sales, where a firm purchases a big stock of goods of a bankrupt concern, and then unloads the goods at cut prices. This practice is prevalent in the dry goods trade, and "knocks out" many a small but honest dealer. THE CANADIAN GROCER, quoted by the San Francisco Grocer, thus tersely puts the case :

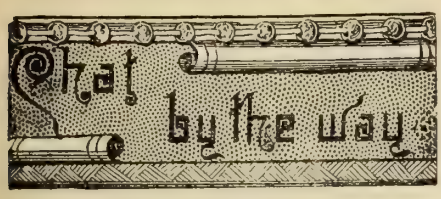
Take the case of a merchant who establishes a business in a town, and he commences at once and undersells all his neighbours, slaughtering the goods right and left, all the time pocketing the money. In the meantime his creditors are wondering why he is not paying—well, you see, he can't pay, for presently he is going to ask his creditors to accept a compromise at, say forty cents on the dollar cash, slaughtered money saved up for the job. Now he says to the public, Hurrah ! I can undersell all the merchants in town, I have got all my goods at forty cents on the dollar. Now, you see, this is done every day ; and so long as the wholesaler settles by accepting such offers, just so long is he injuring his customers who pay one hundred cents on the dollar. Now I think if those dishonest dealers knew that there would be no hope of any kind of a compromise, they would be more careful in what they were doing, and avoid such reckless selling. There will never be a healthy, sound business till compromises are done away with.

The difficulty is to decide between the dishonest and the honest but unfortunate insolvent. Not to compromise in the first case would be exactly right, while in the latter case it would be a serious injustice. Oh ! that all men were honest !—[New England Grocer.

CUSTOMS REGULATIONS.

John Douglas, acting collector, has issued the following customs regulations :—Importers or their agents will please take notice that the marks and numbers of packages must be inserted in the warrants for delivery ; and that, in cases where the contents of each and every package contained in an entry are not clearly indicated upon the face of the invoice, so as to enable the appraisers to verify the contents of any individual package which may be selected for examination, the whole of the packages covered by such invoices will be sent to the examining warehouse. Importers should notify shippers of this customs regulation, so as to obviate detention in the delivery of their goods from the examining warehouse.

Bracebridge is now an incorporated town.



TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

Secretary's Address:—
474 PARLIAMENT STREET,
Toronto, Ontario.

Evaporated corn is finding a very slow sale owing to the cheap prices of canned corn.

It is to be hoped that every grocer in the city will support the collecting agency in process of formation. The fees are very small and the information which the agency will give will alone more than repay the cost.

Mr. W. D. McLaren, Jr., the Cook's Friend, Montreal, is spending a few days in the city. He is one of THE GROCER'S most welcome visitors. He is in Stanway & Bayley's charge while here, and it is needless to say he is well taken care of.

A strong effort will be put forward by the Windsor Board of Trade to induce Mr. Hiram Walker to extend the Walker Railroad to Windsor. As it is now the trade of the southern part of the riding goes across the river, where, if the road touched Windsor, it would be left in Windsor.

Mr. R. S. Gallagher has brought in a shipment of strawberries from Florida, the first to arrive here this season. They are of good quality and are selling at sixty cents per quart box. Mr. Gallagher has also brought in the first full car load of bananas this season. They arrived, in good condition, on Tuesday.

A. C. Miller & Co., Picton, write THE GROCER that there is no truth in the report that their processor, W. M. Miller, leaves them to take the management of the Wayne Co. factory. They say he has an interest in the Picton factory and is not likely to go to the States. The item appeared in a Wayne Co. paper, and has since been republished in nearly all the leading grocery papers in the States.

The advertisement of W. H. Smith, wholesale produce commission merchant, 186 King St. East, appears in another column. Mr. Smith's establishment dates back over twenty-five years. He has three sales waggons, and consignments are cleared up daily. He promises that country merchants and shippers will realize outside quotations for first-class goods. "Weekly Sales with Cheque to Balance" is his business motto, unless shippers desire counter shipments of oranges, lemons, bananas or other southern fruits or vegetables, all of which he sells as low as any other house. He also handles evaporated apples, canned goods, etc., etc.

Another Montrealer whom THE GROCER is always pleased to welcome is Mr. Davis, the cigar manufacturer. He was here on business with the wholesale houses last week. He says their cigar and cigarette trade is growing rapidly.

Stouffville, Ont., has the insane idea that a canning factory located in that village will pay its proprietors a handsome dividend. Have not the numerous failures in the canning trade been sufficient evidence that the industry is not on a paying basis.

A firm of cutters, in Columbus, have been paying sixteen cents a dozen for eggs during the past week. A retailer, in Enfield, who has just started business and has to cut to get trade, paid higher prices for his eggs and has been working them off on the Columbus dealers. From latest accounts they have not discovered the trick.

The gentleman selected as manager of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association Collecting Agency is well qualified for the position. He is an experienced business man, and is well qualified to make the agency a success. He will at once proceed to secure subscribers, and will report at the meeting of the association on Monday evening next.

The collector of the Allegheny association returns almost one hundred dollars per month as the result of his visits among delinquent customers. Certainly this is an excellent showing, and is evidence of the fact that the members of this live body are just beginning to realize what there is in associated effort. Not until the members reported their delinquents and used the machinery of the association did they feel the results in a dollar and cents way.—[Pennsylvania Grocer.

THE CANNED GOODS LAW.

Her Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate and House of Commons of Canada, enacts as follows ;—

Every such package containing goods prepared from products which have been dried previously to being so prepared, shall, in addition, be labelled or stamped with the word "soaked," which word shall be plainly printed diagonally across the face of the label in large, legible type at least half an inch in height and three-eights of an inch in width.

Every person who places on any package any label, brand or mark which falsely represents the date when the article or goods contained therein were packed, shall, on summary conviction before a justice of the peace, incur a penalty of two dollars for each package on which such date is falsely represented. 48-49 V., c. 63, s. 4.

GROCERIES.

CANNED GOODS.

After sugars a greater interest centres in canned goods than in any other department of the grocery trade. This is just the season when the most active consumptive demand commences, and the season opens with light stocks of staples in the hands of most of the wholesale houses. As previously stated this is due to the abnormally large demand during the winter owing to the low prices at which the leading staples, namely, corn, peas, tomatoes and beans have been selling. For instance, tomatoes have been retailing freely in the city at three tins for 25c. Wholesale prices ruled low until a few weeks ago when buyers went to replenish stocks, they found they could not buy on such favourable terms and that stocks in the hands of packers and speculators were not as large as was anticipated. This had the effect of stiffening the market, and in a good many instances wholesalers have advanced prices, particularly of good brands. Tomatoes have been more inquired for during the past few days, and most holders are asking $1 to $1.10, though common brands can be bought at 90c. On the better brands holders are not inclined to make concessions, for even at $1 tomatoes are comparatively cheap. Wholesalers here say they are carrying but little stock, and a broker who made the rounds in Montreal says that packers hold very few and that there are not as many in storage there as here. Corn has been moving into retailers, hands more freely at firm former prices which range from 90c. to $1.05. Packers have advanced 2⅜c., and 90c. is now the lowest figure asked. The advance has curtailed the demand, but wholesalers are bidding a little more, and in some cases have offered to pay last week's asking price. Peas are also firmer in sympathy with other vegetables at 90c. to $1.10. The pack was a heavy one but canners say the consumptive demand has been very good. Beans are quiet at 90c. to $1. There is a good movement in fruits, especially in peaches. Strawberries and plums at steady prices. Salmon is only fairly active. Holders are firm at the coast at $1.50 (f.o.b.) for the best brands.

TEAS.

Advices from the Chicago tea fire continue somewhat indefinite, but the latest rather tend to confirm the idea that the amount was pretty heavy, and in round numbers approximating 2,000,000 lbs. Replies to telegrams say that 35,000 packages were burned, two-thirds Japans, with others placing the amount still higher. It is known that the stock in warehouse contained a collection of old teas, some two years old, including pingsueys, country green, fine Formosa and Congous, but mainly Japans; and the market here commences to respond to the natural influences of the loss. A good evidence that the destruction of stock is pretty full, is the report of buying by Chicago houses at 2c. advance.

COFFEES.

Have not attracted much attention this week. In mild grades buyers are looking for concessions which sellers are not prepared to give. Rios on the spot have been selling well at 21c. to 22c; foreign markets are tame; private advices from Rio say that the drought has materially injured the quality of the new crop and the better grades will be scarce and high.

SUGARS.

Another ⅛c. advance in all sugars has cut off the demand almost entirely. A great many of the retailers bought freely in March, and their stocks are now sufficient to carry them well into the season. There are however a number who did not. These are now buying from hand to mouth and are anxiously looking for a lower market. This, present indications do not favour. As it is we are lower than New York. While that market has advanced about 1c. as compared with a year ago we have only gone up about ¾c. The opinion most generally expressed is that present prices will be maintained for some time with perhaps an occasional slight relapse. Granulated is now selling at 8c. to 8½c., and Yellows at 6½c. up, though a few are said to be moving at less. A round lot of no brands sold early in the week at 6⅜c. and it is doubtful if anything can be bought under that figure excepting in very special cases. Raws are dull. Jamaicas on the spot in hogsheads are held at 5½c. and latest cables make the cost price of Porto Ricos laid down $6.55.

DRIED FRUIT AND NUTS.

A fairly active demand for this season of the year is noticed along the street.

Currants—Are selling as before at 5¼c. to 5¾c. in barrels and halves as to quality.

Dates—Are quiet at 6c. to 6½c. for new Hallowee.

Prunes—Show no change. Low grades are slow at 4c. to 4½c. in hdds., and 4¾c. to 5c. Finer qualities in cases are in fair request at 7½c. to 9c.

Valencia Raisins—Are getting scarce, and some wholesale houses are sold out entirely. For prime off-stock 6c. was refused for a round lot this week, though we hear of a sale at 5⅞c. for 500 boxes. Most if not all of the consigned lots held here and in Montreal have either been sold or have been withdrawn, for we hear nothing of them for the past week or so. In a retail way goods off-stalk are selling at 6c. to 6½c., and selected at 7¾c. to 8c. Sultanas are steady at 7½c. to 8c. for good. Malagas are dull and can be bought below quotations.

Nuts—Show no change. Demand is dull.

GREEN FRUIT.

At the present time there is a fair amount of business doing, but there is yet no very great activity manifested in the trade. The demand the last few days has been lessened by the weather, which has been unfavourable. Comparing business with a month ago, however, a decided improvement can be noticed. Stocks of all fruits are pretty well filled now, and there is a greater variety to choose from. Messina oranges are beginning to arrive in quantities, but are received in such poor condition that the sale for them is very slow. They are quoted at $3 per box. There are very few Floridas coming in and not many are held in stock. The sale for them is quite good at $4 to $4.50 per box. Shipments now are likely to be light. For Valencias the demand is limited, and they are moving off slowly at $5 to $5.25 per case. A mail advice from Liverpool, dated March 23rd, states that Valencia oranges were much firmer there, and were quoted at 11s. to 11s. 9d. California oranges are in moderately active request at $4 per case. Messina lemons are in fair enquiry, but are not very active. They are quoted at $3 to $3.25 per box. Palermo lemons are rather slow at $4 to $4.50 per box. Yellow bananas are arriving quite freely, and are moving off at $1.75 to $2.50 per bunch.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

The refiners have advanced the prices of syrups ⅛c. and are firm at the advance. Supplies are as hard to get as ever. Molasses are steady and unchanged.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

APPLES—There is a fairly active demand. Fancy barrels are worth $2.25 to $2.50 with good at $1.50 to $2, and ordinary at 75c. to $1.25.

BEANS—There is only a small trade doing. Dealers are selling at $1.25 to $1.60 per bush. as to quality. No sales of large lots reported.

DRIED APPLES—Dealers are buying a few lots at about 3c. and are bidding 2¾c. for more. They, however, find very little sale for them. In a retail way they are held at 3½c. to 3¾c. Evaporated are nominally unchanged; dealers say they never hear them mentioned excepting by THE GROCER representative in his daily rounds of the commission houses. Car or even smaller lots can be bought at 5½c. to 6c., and single boxes at 6½c. to 7c.

EGGS—Receipts have been fairly large and the demand has been good. Prices have been pretty steady though the arrival of American eggs, which have been offered at lower prices, has caused a weaker feeling in the market. There is a slight accumulation of Canadian eggs, but this is not regarded as an unfavourable feature in the market at this time of the year. Single cases are held at 12c., and 5 to 10 case lots at 11½c., but retailers are buying mostly in 5 to 10 case lots. The Bulletin has the following to say of the New York egg market: The egg market for some time has been going from bad to worse, and has now become completely demoralized. There seems to be no bottom, and prices are lower than at any previous time this season and below the lowest price which prevailed last year. There is no speculative demand, and dealers seem to be holding off for even lower prices. There is a large quantity of eggs on the market which have been held under a limit from owners in hopes of a better market, but they are now offering for sale, and as some have been held since January they are more or less defective. Buyers claim that strictly fine eggs are so cheap that they will not touch anything which cannot be positively guaranteed. The demand is light and generally confined to the current wants of the trade, with both buyers and sellers confident that the market will be forced still lower. New laid eggs are now sold at the mark, but if they cannot be positively guaranteed they sell loss off, unless of very poor quality, when they are cleaned up at so much per case, with sales reported down to $2.50 per case. As shippers, who have ordered their eggs held, are now anxious to pocket the losses and clean up their stock as soon as possible, without regard to prices, some dealers fear the defective eggs, which will be more or less circulated, will have an evil effect upon the consumption. Speculators do not anticipate the market going below 11c. this week, as they bid that figure freely, buyer the week or ten days. The market, however, presents no encouraging feature, and the remark, "It will reach 10c.," is repeatedly heard throughout the trade.

HAY AND STRAW—Dealers who are selling hay in car load lots say the market is a very sick one. Demand is not so good, the supply is larger and prices are lower. On this account hay arriving on contract is refused unless it is strictly first class. There is a good deal of this refused stuff offering and dealers have some difficulty in disposing of it excepting at low prices. Good timothy is selling at $14, but choice and fancy cars are running at $14.50 and sometimes $15, while medium goes at $13 to $13.50. Demand for mixed is quiet and sales are being made at $11 to $13. Straw is quiet. Good bright oats brings $8 to $8.50, and wheat $7 to $7.50.

HOPS—A few bales of new are selling at 20c. to 22c., but old are neglected.

HIDES AND SKINS—Quiet and unchanged.

ONIONS—Are about the flattest article on the list. There are far more here than can be disposed of, and we noticed several waggon loads of decayed stock going to the dump on Tuesday. Danvers are selling at ½c. to 1c. per lb. as to quality. Potato onions are going at 4c. to 5c. per lb.

POTATOES—Nothing doing. Street receipts are apparently amply large to supply local demand. There are a good many bushels in store for which holders are asking 35c. to 40c., many of which cost the latter price, but they are finding a very slow sale. Cars on the track are nominal at 25c. to 30c. Outside they are buying at 16c. to 20c. f.o.b.

POULTRY—Very dull. A few old lots of frozen turkeys and geese that have been about the market for some time have been cleared out at 3c. to 8c. per lb.

SEEDS—Are a shade easier again though not quotably lower. Timothy is moving at $1.90 to $2.10, and clover at $5.50 to $5.75.

COAL OIL.

Market is quiet. Quotations are per gallon, Canadian refined, 13c. to 14c.; carbon safety, 16½c. to 17c.; Canadian water white, 19c. to 20c.; American water white, 25c.; photogene, 27c.; American prime white, 27c.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—Receipts have been fair but they have been mostly of medium quality. The finer grades are very scarce and held at firm prices. A few lots of Morrisburgs have been bought up to supply the demand; they have sold at 20c. to 24c. as to quality. Finest Western tubs have been readily taken at 20c. to 22c. A few fine fresh large rolls have also brought that price. Medium grades are dragging a little, but commission houses are not allowing them to accumulate. A shipping demand was heard Tuesday and Wednesday, and several floors were cleared out at 15c. to 16c. Country merchants are said to hold a good many packages yet, and this impression causes holders to get rid of any but good-keeping stock as rapidly as possible, even if they have to make concessions. A few good medium rolls are going at 16c. to 18c., and made over at 17c. to 19c.

CHEESE—Quiet and easier. Liverpool has further declined this week. On the spot a round lot finest September sold at 11⅛c.

PROVISIONS.

Demand has not been so good excepting for smoked meats which have been moving at former prices.

MESS PORK—Is dull. American is held at $15.75 to $16.00, and Canadian at $16.50.

BACON—Is selling as before. In lots of 4 or 5 tons it can be bought at 8½c. While for cases 8¾c. is the price and a few sides go at 9c. Nothing doing in Cumberland, lard is unchanged, but in fair demand at 10c. to 10½c. for American in tubs and pails, and 10½c. to 11c. for Canadian. The Cincinnati Price Current, of Thursday last, says:—There is considerable reduction in the movement of hogs in the West, the packing for the week showing a total of 175,000, compared with 235,000 the preceding week; from March 1, the total is 765,000. Last year the total for the week was 140,000, and to date 535,000—indicating an increase of 230,000. In the provision market there has been considerable strength shown during the week, the tendency at Chicago being upward, although fluctuations at times have been sharp and erratic. The close shows an advance of 55c. on short rib sides, for May, compared with a week ago. The week's exports of hog products were large in both meats and lard, continuing to show a very marked increase over same time last year.

FISH.

The soft weather has put a damper on the fish trade, and there is little doing. There is a good supply of all kinds of fish, principally smelts, and dealers will be glad to get rid of their stocks. Prices are a little lower. There are no sales of smelts. Whitefish and trout are quoted at 5½c. per lb. There is a good supply of British Columbia salmon; frozen is selling at 10c. to 12c., and fresh 18c. to 20c. Lake Superior whitefish 5c. to 6c. Local lots of pike are arriving at 3c. to 4c. per lb. Fresh ciscoes sell at $3 to $4 per 100. Fresh lake herring are quoted at $2.25 to $2.50 per 100. There is no steak cod in the market. Finnan haddie at 6c. to 6½c. per lb. Haddock at 4½c. to 5c. per lb. Oysters $1.25 to $1.60 per gallon.

MONTREAL, April 4, 1889.

CANNED GOODS.

In the canned goods market there has been no improvement owing to the fact that most retail dealers, both in the city and country, are well supplied for the present. The demand has been slow, and the market has ruled quiet with only a small jobbing business. The stock of most kinds of canned goods is said to be large, and the feeling in the market is easy although prices are not changed. Lobsters are scarce, for which there has been a good inquiry. Buyers have found some difficulty in filling their wants, and prices have advanced 25c. per case to $5.75 to $6 for old. There has been no new packed offered on this market yet. There are no canned mackerel in the market. Salmon has been quiet and steady at $1.70 per dozen. Tomatoes are unchanged at 90c. to $1.00 per dozen. Erie and Aylmer corn has ended steady at $1.05 to $1.10. Yarmouth corn has weakened some, and sales have been effected at $1.75. Peas are dull at $1.20. There has been little inquiry for canned fruits, and prices are nominally unchanged. Armour's canned meats have been in fair request at steady prices.

☞ The GROCER is everywhere acknowledged as an authority, and its market quotations are accepted as official.

TEA.

There has been little life in the tea market, owing to the fact that buyers generally have filled their wants for the present, and both on local and country account the demand has been slow and few parcels have changed hands. The volume of business transacted has been small, but the tone of the market continues firm and prices have been well maintained.

SUGARS.

Of late there has been considerable excitement in the sugar market owing to the continued advices from abroad on the raw article, and the big advance in prices during the past few weeks. The demand for refined has been brisk, and the market has ruled active and strong with prices higher. The bulk of the offerings from refiners have been taken and a large business has been transacted, but now that buyers are well loaded up the market will likely rule quiet for some little time. Raw sugar here has advanced fully 1c. We quote granulated at 7⅝c., and yellows at 6⅛c. to 6⅞c. as to quality at the factory.

MOLASSES.

The market for molasses has been fairly active, there being a good demand and some fair sized lots have changed hands at steady prices. The stock held here at present is light, especially in Barbadoes, and no great activity is looked for until new commences to arrive, which will be a few weeks yet. Barbadoes has sold at 37c. to 39c., Trinidad at 32c. to 33c., and Antigua at 34c.

THE CANADA SUGAR REFINING CO'Y [LIMITED],

MONTREAL,

Offer for sale all grades of REFINED SUGARS and SYRUPS of the well-known brand of

Redpath

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

JOHN BAKER EDWARDS, P.L.D., D.C.L., F.C.S.,

Public Analyst for the District of Montreal, and Professor of Chemistry.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY, MEDICAL FACULTY, MCGILL UNIVERSITY.

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have taken and tested a sample of your "EXTRA GRANULATED" Sugar, and find that it yielded 99·88 per cent. of Pure Sugar. It is practically as pure and good a Sugar as can be manufactured.

Yours truly,

G. P. GIRDWOOD.

The Markets—Continued.

SYRUP.

In the syrup market there has been no important change, the demand having continued slow, and business has ruled quiet, with few sales. The feeling is firm, but prices are unchanged at 3½c. to 4½c.

RICE.

The rice market has retained a very steady tone, with a fair volume of business in progress. Foreign news have continued to speak of the possibility of higher cost. Ordinary in car lots has sold at $3.60, with Japan at 4c. to 4½c. and Patna at 4½c. to 5c.

MAPLE SYRUP AND SUGAR.

Business has been fair and supplies have increased. New syrup 80c. to 90c. and sugar 8c. to 9c.

BUTTER.

A steady, even trade has been done in butter. Stocks especially of finest are low and the market will go out clean, which means a fair trade for the early new make. Prices have a steady tone throughout. Lower Province buyers have taken several round lots of useful stuff at 18c. to 18½c. New dairy, 24c. to 26c. Creamery, finest, 26c. to 27c.; fair to good, 23c. to 25c. Townships, finest, 22c. to 23c.; fair to good, 20c. to 21c. Morrisburg, 19c. to 20c. Brockville, 18½c. to 19c. Western, 17½c. to 18c.

CHEESE.

Little remains to be done in cheese, as stocks are well run down, but the windup is not proving so satisfactory to holders as at one time seemed almost assured. Cables have been weak. Owing to the cheapness and the losses that British merchants have made on that article, the cheese has suffered greatly. Exports since the close of navigation have reached 203,765 boxes, and the season's exports to date reach the grand total of 1,337,282 boxes. After allowing 100,000 boxes for States products, this leaves 1,237,000 boxes of Canadian, a record of which Canada may well be proud. Finest fall, 11c. to 11¼c.; fine fall, 10¼c. to 10¾c.; medium, 9c. to 10c.

FISH.

As the Lenten season is about over, and buyers generally have an ample supply on hand, the demand for fish has been limited and the market has ruled quiet with only a small jobbing business. The stock of most kinds of fish has been well cleaned up, but a few round lots of Labrador herrings are offering at $4.50, and it was stated that perhaps a bid of less money would be accepted as holders are anxious sellers. All new green cod have been well bought up, and only a few lots of repacked old are now offering at very low prices. In white fish, a weak feeling has prevailed and prices broke to $3.75, at which figure offerings are made freely, but no sales. British Columbia salmon are lower at $12 to $12.50 for barrels, and $6.25 for kegs.

EGGS.

There has been no large turnover of eggs at low prices. The market has not improved any, but latterly the undertone has shown an inclination in that direction. Receipts have been heavy and supplies are still plentiful. At the close the feeling is more settled. Fresh 12c. to 13c. and held stock 10c. to 11c. and even lower.

HOG PRODUCTS.

Trade has been quiet and prices unchanged. Holders of Canada pork have refused to sell at current rates as such show a serious loss, and western is filling the demand. Lard has been in average request, with meats quiet.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

There has been nothing of a special character in the flour worthy of extended comment. Trade has ruled slow and particularly confined to small lots. Prices, although not exactly weak, have an easy expression and to move low grades, stocks of which are heavy, holders would concede on quotations. Choice, strong and patent spring, however, are steady. Oatmeal has been very quiet.

The grain market has preserved a uniformly quiet tone, there being no business outside of the local and milling demand. Manitoba wheat has weakened some, with last rates at $1.33 for No. 1 hard and $1.30 for No. 2. Oats have been weak and have declined, selling down to 31½c. Barley has been offered freely but without attracting buyers. Canadian spring wheat, $1.20; red winter wheat, $1.23 to $1.25; white, $1.23 to $1.25; No. 1 hard Manitoba, $1.33; No. 2 hard Manitoba, $1.30; peas, 67c. to 68c. per 60 lbs.; oats, 31½c. to 32c.; corn, 45c. to 46c. in bond; barley, 50c.

GROCERS!

IT is well known that everywhere in France one can get a good cup of coffee, and it is also an established fact, that the reverse is the case in Canada. Many blame the coffee, but the true cause is simply this. "Not one cook in a dozen knows how to make coffee properly." The above cut represents a new invention which is very simple in construction, and any child can make a good cup of coffee with it. You simply fill the tin can with boiling water, then set the pot on top, put the requisite amount of coffee in the bag inside the pot, then pour a sufficient amount of boiling water into the pot and let it stand on the stove for 3 or 4 minutes, when you will have a first class cup of coffee.

This coffee pot is the simplest, cheapest, and best article of the kind ever invented, and the low price makes it within the reach of all. They are packed 1 doz. in a barrel. Price $6 per doz. Send $6 for 1 doz. as a sample, and you will find it all that we recommend it to be.

SPECIAL TO OUR READERS.

As the design of THE CANADIAN GROCER is to benefit mutually all interested in the business, we would request all parties ordering goods or making purchases of any description from houses advertising with us to mention in their letter that such advertisement was noticed in THE CANADIAN GROCER.

THE COMBINE QUESTION.

Mr. Lightbound, over the nom de plume of "Anti-Combine," in his monthly price list called "The Dominion Grocer," makes a silly attack on Mr. Blain's address before the Board of Trade of Toronto. We publish elsewhere a short interview with Mr. Blain, who apparently estimated Mr. Lightbound at his true value. We quite agree with Mr. Blain that the "frothy flippancy" of the article shows quite clearly that the writer is not sincere, or else has never carefully considered the subject, a subject which is taxing largely the energies of the best thinkers on business ethics of the age. Mr. Lightbound is, however, apparently at least making money out of the strategy.

SCARCITY OF BUTTER.

The unusual scarcity of butter has been a surprise to many in the trade. The general impression was that country merchants were holding a considerable quantity. This is now proved not to be the case. It is quite evident that the trade was not up to the average. The export demand during the regular season was very light and the shipments were smaller than usual. A few weeks ago, however, an enquiry came from Great Britain, and several lots were exported. Commission houses have been working off all surplus stocks as quickly as possible, carefully avoiding any accumulation, fearing a drop in price. There the great proportion of butter that in former seasons stood in the commission warehouses has now passed into consumption at low prices. There appears to be very little butter held in the west and the local markets are now being supplied from the east. There is every probability of a continued scarcity for a month to come, especially of the finer grades. It is said that Montreal houses have brought on a few lots from Chicago and Boston. Inquiries have been made by local houses with the same end in view, but they find American markets have also advanced. There is also a duty of 4c. per lb. to overcome. Advices from New York say:—Supplies have shown a falling off, and with stronger Western advices the market has developed a decidedly better feeling on all serviceable grades of fresh butter, and an improvement established on top grades, which have become scarce and hardly sufficient to meet the current wants of the trade. In fact, strictly fancy grades are quite short at the close and buyers compelled to have finest quality occasionally bid a premium in hopes of securing it. This scarcity of fancy creamery has turned more attention to grades a trifle under, and all such quality is clearing up promptly, with prices creeping up closer to value of fancy than possible when latter is more plenty. Under grades of creamery, while not showing much actual improvement in prices, have sold better and the general tone steadier. State dairy new tubs have been in fair supply, but meeting a good demand, and have ruled quite firmly, with buyers not as critical regarding quality as they were last week, and many lots work out at top prices, which would have had to be shaded 1c. to 2c. per lb. High grades of Western packed have been in lighter supply and, with a good demand, show a stronger tone. Under grades a trifle steadier. Old butter dull and without improvement.

FUTURE SALMON.

Ontario and Montreal wholesale houses are not placing their orders for future salmon with the same avidity this season as in former years. The profits on this article have not been as satisfactory either to the wholesale or retail dealer as in years gone by, and at present, high prices preclude any possibility of successful speculation. Taking everything into consideration, many of them have come to the conclusion that it is better to buy sparingly. We notice an inclination in the same direction on the part of American trade. Jobbers have to pay for their season's supply in the fall and make very few sales until the spring. They have thus from $20,000 to $50,000 locked up for about six months.

THE MARKET BY-LAWS.

At the meeting of the Markets and Health Committee last week Inspector Awde submitted a report on the petition of the Retail Grocers' Association asking for certain amendments to the Market By-laws. He recommended that the views of the petition be met, and that the following additions be made to the by-laws:—

That all contracts for delivery or of sales on any streets, market place, or elsewhere within the City of Toronto of any potatoes, turnips, carrots, parsnips, beets or onions, shall be by weight, as defined by the statute, viz., 60 lbs. to the bushel; a barrel shall contain 2½ bush., or 150 lbs., and a bag shall contain 1½ bush., or 90 lbs., and no farmer, huckster, dealer, or other person shall sell, except in shops or stalls, in quantities less than the above, or unless he or she have been duly licensed as a hawker and pedlar in the said city. A barrel of apples must be as near cylindrical as possible, having staves 27 inches from croe to croe and heads 16½ to 17 in. across—penalty, 25c. per barrel. All articles sold by weight shall be sold by advoirdupois weight—penalty first offence, $25, second, $50.

Every person who sells or attempts to sell, or expose for sale, or who shall fraudulently dress meat, poultry, fish, farm or garden produce, or any other articles of food or any articles of provision in any market or elsewhere within the limits of the city by light weight, short count and short measurement shall be subject to the penalties of the by-law.

The amendments found favor with the committee, and were sent on to council for approval.

COMBINES.

INTERVIEW WITH MR. BLAIN.

Have you seen the Dominion Grocer?

Yes, my attention has been called to the article you are doubtless thinking of.

What do you think of it?

I have not thought much about it. It is too absurd to consider seriously.

You have received a good deal of personal attention, and the GROCER would like your opinion.

Well, my opinion is there is a good deal of frothy flippancy about it, which is hardly worthy of Mr. Lightbound. He is one of the nicest fellows you could wish to meet. While somewhat abnormally inflated with an ostentatious self-importance, he is not altogether lacking in shrewdness, and readily saw a golden opportunity of cheap advertising and profitable sympathy from the retail trade in opposing the sugar agreement. He, however, with some degree of complacency accepts the situation as well as its benefits.

Then you mean to say he is not sincere?

I think he is quite sincere about making all he can out of his position of advantage which he undoubtedly possesses. But men with sincere convictions don't write in his reckless strain. Of all the wholesale grocers in Canada Mr. Lightbound, previous to the sugar agreement, harped more than all of them combined, urging higher prices. He had the sublime arrogance to not only ask us to make "a loyal endeavour to elevate prices generally," but to sell only to the small retail merchants, and allow Montreal to do the large jobbing trade of Ontario. He refers to western merchants not being able to compete with Montreal. The fact is western enterprise has practically driven Mr. Lightbound out of the Ontario market, and his self-complacency won't allow him to discover why. We shipped direct from Montreal when more advantageous freights could be had long before the sugar agreement, and do so now. We, therefore, meet Mr. Lightbound equally on the freight question, and when time is an object, which is nearly always the case in this age of business rapidity, being at the nearer distributing point we give the trade much quicker delivery of goods. This, together with more modern business methods, gives our customers a much more satisfactory service.

What about the cheque?

He seems anxious to carrol the amount. I am sorry he has forgotten his mathematics. But if the "remainder" will enable him to make the calculation I will transfer the cheque to the Mayor of Montreal, to be distributed among the charities there as Mr. Lightbound may direct, if he can prove that his expenses (including interest on capital used in doing his business and provision for bad debts, both of which are fairly chargeable to expense, as they must come out of the profits), are less than 4½ per cent. No grocery business in Canada can be done on less than 4½ per cent. and pay employees living wages. It is, however, distasteful to me to discuss the writing of a man when I feel that he does not believe one word of what he writes. Besides, I might in the excitement use more pointed language, which I would sincerely regret, as Mr. Lightbound and I have always been socially warm personal friends.

TORONTO GROCERS.

The regular monthly meeting of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association was held in Philharmonic Hall Monday evening. Mr. Wm. Mara opened the meeting. There were present among others Messrs. W. S. Williamson, J. F. Thackray, Henry Lindsay, John Verner, D. W. Clark, R. Mills, John Butcher, J. G. Gibson, John Westren, Wm. Binnie, A. B. Griffin, A. E. Saunders, W. J. Sykes, Frank Britton. The President, Mr. Berwick, arrived later in the evening having been unavoidably delayed.

The committee for canvassing the city had nothing to report, having been so busy with other matters. They were given another month to report.

Secretary Thackray reported for the committee on unlicensed peddling. He referred to what had been done as published in another column.

THE COLLECTING AGENCY.

Mr. Grant, Manager of the Collecting Agency, said he had called on about 200 grocers of whom he found about 100 at home. Of this number he got about 61 to join. He found that a great deal of jealousy existed in the trade, and on this account he was not as successful as he could have wished. Whenever he found any who had been in business for any length of time they were anxious for such an agency. He had been well treated, and he thought that a good many would join when the agency was in proper working order.

He had obtained the signatures of the cream of the trade; that is those who were old established and did an extensive business.

Mr. Mara said that Ald. Tait, of the Bakers' Association, had spoken to him on the advisability of the bakers joining the agency as suggested by THE GROCER. Mr. Mara was doubtful if an agency with so few subscribers would be a success.

Mr. Grant said he had no doubt that a sufficient number could be got in time, but it would take the manager's entire time for six months to get them.

Mr. Butcher suggested that the bakers be taken in.

Mr. Mills believed that the fee should be $10. He was still sanguine of the success of such an agency. He believed their debts could be collected and at less than they could be by a regular agency.

Mr. Westren thought the sheets should be given free to the members of the Association. Some of them had no debts to collect.

Mr. Butcher moved that Messrs. Mills, Mara and Clark be a committee to wait upon the bakers and discuss the question with them. The motion was carried.

Mr. Mills would much rather have 150 members at $10 each than a larger number at a smaller price. This select number would have their accounts better looked after.

Mr. Grant said it would be better to have the bakers.

Mr. Saunders was in favour of taking in the butchers also. He has had several inquiries from butchers for such information as an agency would afford.

SELLING TO CONSUMERS.

Mr. Thackray said that he had sent out the circular, published in THE GROCER some weeks ago, to the produce commission merchants regarding selling to consumers. Only a few of them replied. Park & Sons said they did a retail as well as a commission business. Williamson & Lambe wrote that they sold only to the wholesale trade. James E. Baillie answered that he was heartily in favor of the idea and had posted the circular in a conspicuous place. P. McIntosh & Son were also in favor. On motion of Mr. Butcher, the Secretary was requested to call upon all who did a regular commission business, to sign an agreement not to sell to consumers.

It was stated that the two city flour mills were in the habit of selling to consumers and delivering them single bags. Some one said that they denied doing so, but other members offered to name instances where they had. The Secretary will ask them to sign an agreement not to do so.

THE PRIZE WAGON.

The committee appointed to make arrangements for an exhibition of grocers' wagons was called on for a report, but none was forthcoming. It was explained that they had never been called together. It was decided to discharge the committee, and the Chairman appointed a new one, composed of Messrs. Frank Britton, J. G. Gibson and J. Berwick. It was decided to devote $75 to prizes, the committee being instructed to apportion it and also to make all other arrangements.

HALIFAX HEARD FROM.

Mr. Thackray then read the following letter from HALIFAX, March 24, 1889.

MR. THACKRAY, Sec. T. R. G. A.

DEAR SIR,—Your favor of recent date at hand, also copies of CANADIAN GROCER and by-laws, for which please accept my most sincere thanks.

I have but very little surplus time at present and have made but little progress, as the grocers that I have interviewed don't seem to "catch on" to the scheme.

The section of the city we do business in is known as Spring Gardens, and we grocers in Spring Gardens signed an agreement some two years ago to close our stores at 8 o'clock p.m., sharp, which agreement has been faithfully kept; therefore I think we, the grocers of Spring Gardens, are the proper ones to take hold of the scheme of organizing, for a retail grocers' association is sadly needed here, as the peddlers peddle out tea, coffee, sugar, onions, etc., etc., from door to door. The Christmas present business is carried on to a great extent, and the wholesalers continue to sell to consumers small amounts at wholesale prices.

The above are a few of the Halifax retail grocers' grievances, which they can only remedy by forming an organization similar to your grand association. Thanking you for your kind consideration and wishing you and your valuable association every prosperity, I remain, Yours sincerely,

W. Jas. Forrestall.

AN APOLOGY DEMANDED.

Mr. D. W. Clark moved, seconded by Mr. Frank Britton, that the Editor of the Merchant be requested to publicly apologize in his paper to the association and to Mr. Gibson for the remarks made in a recent issue. He said that paper had treated the association and its members in a scandalous way; he had ridiculed the speech of a member, and cast a slur upon the whole association.

Mr. Mills also felt much annoyed at Mr. Mortley's treatment of the association. He was surprised that he would use the columns of his paper to gratify a personal spite. The article did him more harm than good. He thought the paper should be treated with silent contempt, but he was now glad that the matter had been brought up. At some future time the members of the association would have an opportunity of expressing their opinion of the paper.

The motion was carried and the meeting then adjourned.

HOW TO SELL GOODS.

At the last Territorial Fair held in Salt Lake City prizes were given for the best essays on various business subjects. One of these prizes was for the best essay on "How to Sell Goods." It was won by B. F. Cummings, Jr. His essay is as follows:

A moment's reflection will serve to show the infinite importance of this subject. It not only concerns the salesman and merchant, but every member of civilized society; for, as all members of civilized communities are compelled to purchase and consume merchandise, it follows that all are interested in the manner in which the merchandise they buy is sold.

Methods of selling goods may be pursued which are hurtful to the interests of merchant and customer alike, and which result in disappointment and injury to the latter, and a loss of custom and final failure to the former. Or the merchant may pursue a system which, while yielding an excellent profit to himself, will please, gratify and benefit his customers, make them feel that they can do better with him than elsewhere, and so secure their permanent patronage. How to avoid the results of one method and secure those of the other is comprised in the art of selling goods.

The process of selling the goods is intimately connected, indeed begins with that of buying them; for, as the proverb has it, "Goods well bought are half sold." He, then, who would become a successful seller of goods must first learn how to buy them; and it is an open question among merchants which branch of their calling, buying or selling requires the longer experience, the shrewder judgment, and the higher order of business ability. As the present purpose, however, is to treat of the methods to be pursued in selling goods, it will be assumed that the stock to be disposed of has been well bought, is suited to the wants of the community, and only awaits skilful and judicious handling by the salesman to yield satisfactory returns to the merchant.

MARKING THE GOODS.

One of the most important matters connected with the mercantile business is the marking of goods. In doing this three objects should be kept in view: Profit to the merchant, ready sale, and satisfaction to the customer. This last object is often lost sight of, but we insist that a policy on the part of the salesman who does not aim at securing satisfaction to the customer is a short-sighted one, and will ultimately prove disastrous to the dealer. A customer will pay for a suit of clothes a price which will yield to the merchant a fair profit, and yet be content with his bargain; but were a sack of sugar marked to yield half as large a profit, a customer would feel that an attempt had been made to impose upon him. On some kinds of goods, then, customers will willingly allow the merchants a good profit, but others they will purchase only at a very small margin above cost.

It is the duty of the salesman to consider all the circumstances attendant upon this feature of his business, as the amount the capital invested ought to earn, the probable amount of the year's sales, the running expenses of the establishment, the kinds of goods handled, the competition to be met, the class of trade to be catered to, what will and will not satisfy his customers, &c. A volume could be written upon this one feature of mercantile business, but practical experience and native good judgment are the only means by which a salesman can become proficient in it.

Having considered every circumstance which ought to influence him in marking the goods, the salesman should make his prices and then adhere to them. A rumor that a house has two or more prices, according to the customer who is buying, will spread rapidly and soon create a distrust very hurtful to its business. It is unfair, undignified and downright dishonesty to make different prices to different customers, other things being equal, such as quantity, time, &c. Uniform dealing one-price houses command a respect and confidence among customers which sliding scale dealers never enjoy.

Careful investigation has shown that in nearly all cases of bankrupt retail dealers a large proportion of the goods on their shelves were unmarked, and hence in a condition of confusion which could not but result in loss and disaster. The retail dealer who puts his goods on the shelves without marking them is tolerably certain to learn by bitter experience sooner or later the folly of his course; and the wholesale dealer who fails to keep a suitable record of prices as the market fluctuates is omitting a vital feature of success.

THE WHOLESALE SALESMAN.

Whether employed in the establishment at home or sent "out on the road" in the capacity of what is called a drummer, the first duty of the wholesale salesman is to make himself thoroughly and perfectly familiar with the entire stock of goods in the department or house in which he is employed. If an article is mentioned, he should be able to state instantly whether or not it is in stock. It is of the utmost importance that he should be thoroughly posted on prices, and able to give from memory or his pocket price-book the price of any article the instant it is asked. He should be able to discriminate accurately between brands, grades, qualities, etc., and to explain differences between them to a customer.

Next to having a thorough knowledge of his own stock and business, it is important that the wholesale salesman should be familiar with those of his customer. He should know what kind of a business his customer is doing, what class of people patronize him, and what goods will be most popular among and best suited to the needs of that class. A wholesale salesman should not try to load up a retail dealer with goods not suited to the latter's trade. If this is done the retailer will meet with disappointment and loss, and in consequence of dead stock will be unable to meet his payments. Disgust at his own bad judgment will be mingled with distrust of the salesman who induced him to take the unsalable goods, and he will thereafter buy elsewhere. Thus the retailer is injured and the wholesaler loses a good customer. All this may happen when the goods causing the trouble are really first-class and sold at a reasonable price; the difficulty lying in the fact that the wholesale salesman either did not know or did not regard what the real interests of his customer required.

All wholesale salesmen of experience understand perfectly well that, having once won the confidence and patronage of a retail dealer, he is influenced to a great extent by their advice and recommendations. It follows, then, that these should be offered intelligently and in the strictest good faith, with an earnest purpose on the part of the salesman to subserve the best interests of his customer. Their interests are identical. The more goods the retailer sells the more he will purchase from the wholesale house which has won his confidence. A bill of goods which is unprofitable for him to buy is unprofitable for the wholesale house to sell to him, and vice versa. In fact, a trunk and branch relationship exists between a wholesale house and the retailers whom it supplies, and the policy of the wholesale salesman should be to cement more and more closely that relationship, and strengthen the ties of confidence and friendship between the two, always having in view the interests of the buyer as well as those of his own house.

It is essential that the wholesale salesman should be thoroughly posted respecting the financial standing of his customer. Upon this point depends to a great extent his success in the art of selling goods. It requires little tact or ability to sell goods to a customer who is bent only on getting all he can on credit, without due consideration of the matter of making payment when due. It may, however, require considerable tact to properly treat a customer whose intentions are honourable, but whose resources, ability or experience are limited. If a buyer is known or suspected to be dishonest, sell to him for cash only. If necessary, tell him frankly that you do not know him to be a man whom you can afford to carry, and that your rule is to extend credit to those only whom you can depend upon. If your customer is worthy of credit up to a limit which, however, you do not wish to pass, avoid what, to a good salesman, is second nature, pushing goods upon him. Endeavour to furnish him with what he really needs, and to satisfy him, without going beyond the limit fixed for his credit. But should it be necessary, tell him plainly, but in a frank and friendly way, that at present you do not wish to carry him for more than a given amount. If he is a sensible man, he will take no offence, and if he is not a sensible man, it is unsafe for you to carry him on your books.

Selling goods by travelling salesmen with samples is expensive, but long experience has shown it to be the best method for wholesale dealers in many lines. The sample trunk, if properly prepared and packed, is the wholesale establishment in miniature. By its aid the country dealer is conducted through the big store in the city, rom the basement to the highest story, and is able to make selections as intelligently as if he had paid his fare to the city and was personally present in the establishment he is dealing with. The salesman should see that his sample trunk is complete, neatly and systematically arranged and that samples correctly represent the stock. He should acquire facility in displaying them, in describing grades, qualities, etc., and in giving prices. The stationary or travelling wholesale salesman should keep complete price books, and post them as often as the prices vary. The memory should not be depended upon without their aid.

THE RETAIL SALESMAN.

Much of the foregoing applies to the retail salesman, especially in regard to familiarity with stock and prices and the giving of credit. He should be perfectly familiar with the goods he handles and with the prices at which they should be sold. If his employer deems it best to give him the "cost mark," as will generally be the case if he proves a good hand, so much the better. He should know exactly where to find any article called for. Time is money to buyer and seller alike, and the time lost by both while a clerk is hunting for some article for which a customer is waiting often amounts to a heavy percentage of its value. It is thus necessary for a retail clerk to be orderly and methodical to a strict degree in handling his stock. He must at once return to their places on shelves or in drawers, etc., the goods he has been showing a customer, and he must do this in such a manner as to preserve the stock in perfect order. A failure to keep the stock in order and the goods in their places and neatly arranged is possibly the most common fault of the retail salesmen. To avoid it he must put in the spare moments between customers in arranging shelves, drawers, showcases, etc., and in so displaying the goods as to cause them to appear new, fresh, varied and attractive. A retail salesman who can and will keep the goods arranged and displayed to the best advantage will command a high salary and will be a favourite with customers.

A very important auxiliary to the success of the retail salesman is the keeping up of his stock so as to avoid being out of any article. Vigilance and good judgment are required in ordering various lines as fast as they will be needed, but not fast enough to overstock.

The retail salesman, to be successful, must learn to read human nature. He must be able to perceive quickly the sort of person he is dealing with, and to form an accurate judgment as to what sort of an article, and about what price will be likely to suit the customer. Scarcely one customer in ten who enters a store to purchase an article knows in advance exactly what he wants; and it is the province of the clerk to aid him in coming to a conclusion. The art of doing this may be acquired to a great degree of perfection, though not without long practice and experience; and, when acquired, it adds immensely to the value of the services of the salesman possessing it.

QUALITIES NECESSARY IN ALL SALESMEN.

Be industrious; exert yourselves actively to show goods to customers and to find what will suit them.

Be patient; preserve perfect equanimity, even though your customer appears trifling, fastidious, or exacting. Sincere efforts on your part to please him will win in the long run.

Be polite; under no circumstances speak to or treat a customer with impoliteness. To do so is to make a mistake inexcusable in a salesman. Your politeness to customers is money to your employer, and is one of the considerations for which you are paid a salary.

Be considerate of poverty; do not try to sell a poor person a more expensive article than he can afford to buy. By so doing you may wound his feelings, and cause him to avoid you in future. Rather try to suit him with an article within his means. If you succeed he will try you again.

Be attentive to small purchasers; if a lady wishes only a spool of silk, and you politely furnish her with the shade desired, she will come to you when she has a larger purchase to make.

Be truthful; never resort to deception in representing the quality of the goods you sell. Truthfulness is in a salesman a virtue which will soon begin to tell in a pecuniary as well as a moral way, for people will flock to the clerk whose word they know they can depend upon respecting the value they are getting for their money.

Be honest; not merely because honesty is the best policy, but because without it life is a failure, though wealth flow in to the amount of millions, and the world lavish its honours and applause. The most hopeless and contemptible of bankrupts is the man who has lost his honesty; and the most useless to all employers—the one who is most expensive while least worthy of a salary, who is most to be avoided by customers and abhorred by merchants—is the dishonest salesman.

We invite correspondence from readers in every section on subjects pertaining to the trade, and shall be pleased to answer questions of general interest in this department. CONDITION OF THE RETAIL TRADE.

LINDSAY, March 29.

Dear Sir, On my return to Lindsay after a trip to the north by way of Haliburton, I find I have a spare hour to jot down a few remarks for your consideration and publication if you find anything worthy of notice. The rush of commercial travellers into that section of country I fear will make a history that will not be very satisfactory to the wholesale men to read. Is the rushing current of commercial life having an influence in leading us away from the grand old principle of doing the right? Does that noble straightforward sympathy and truthfulness exist now between the wholesale and retail men that did twenty years ago, which constituted a bond of safety and comfort to both parties. I fear that link of truthfulness and sympathy is going from it fast. Twenty years ago retail men meant what they said. To-day I fear it is not always so. Retail business men have grave doubts with relation to the wholesale men's sincerity in their welfare, springing out of wholesale men selling goods to many parties who truly ought to be retail men's customers.

Mark—A village with about three hundred inhabitants, with eight good stores well stocked with goods suited to the wants of the locality, whose principal support is received from four mills in the place. Examine into the facts of the case, and you find those four mills all carrying stocks of goods, and doing half the business of the village from supply stock kept in mill. The retail men seeing their trade all cut to pieces by men who do not count the cost, are forced into the position of selling their goods at whatever prices they can get. Otherwise, they must offer the mill man a discount of ten per cent. off all his goods in order to get his account for his private benefit. The mills run on borrowed capital. The retailer runs the three month risky account at a discount of ten per cent. His own working expenses are fifteen per cent., making twenty-five per cent., and his average margin of profit wont exceed eighteen per cent. So he gets eighteen cents for what cost him twenty-five cents, and he pushes on without counting the cost. What is the result? Are the wholesale men not reading it up in failures every day, and Christian like handing out a redistribution of their's or some one else's capital in the shape of a settlement.

The retail trade is not making capital, so it must be exhausting capital that don't belong to it, and the sooner the wholesale trade find out the true state of retail capital the better for themselves and the country at large.

I recommend that the wholesale trade reduce the number of commercial travellers on the road at once, and select fifty of the best material from them, to take a trip through Ontario quietly, and furnished with power to get at the true position of retail men's capital. It would pay the wholesale trade well, and reveal to them some facts they don't dream of. Take, for instance, a fact: A. bought a good spring stock, knowing he was going to be cramped in the fall. He bought a good fall stock early. He goes to friend B., and states, I must get one thousand dollars cash. As security I will give fifteen hundred dollars of my fall stock. The goods were quietly and secretly moved to B's premises. A got cash and writing redeemable within two months on payment of fifteen hundred dollars. A got cash, but B got the goods and retailed them. This on a smaller scale is becoming a common dodge.

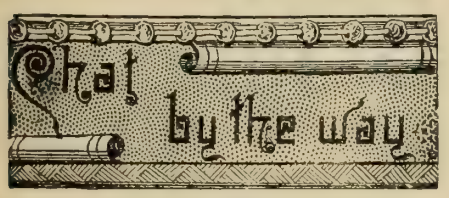
We don't find capital and experience seeking investment in retail business, but the reverse. They are trying hard to get out of it, as its history for the past ten years proves it is not self-sustaining. You find an occasional foolhardy young man without the necessary experience taking hold now and again with the past history blazing in his mind, that if he cannot succeed and make money one way, he can fail, because it is quite common and fashionable, and a settlement at fifty cents if matters are well arranged before failing ought to pay. Such is the education of the present day. Can it stand?

There is a deception and violation of principle practised in the selling of some goods. Notice, for instance, the deception in selling some brands of plug tobacco. Giving six plugs for a pound when it takes seven plugs to make a pound. Is there any good reason why the retail men should be compelled to steal a plug of tobacco from every pound in order to get his margin of profit, (mark) at the same time teaching our youth behind the counter deception and theft—which may at any moment be put in practice against their employer. In carrying out the principle it is truly getting to be a very hard matter for a retail man to hold up the dignity of his manhood, do the right, and pay 100 cents on the dollar.

It seems almost impossible for a man behind the counter to be truthful, honourable, straightforward and honest, and succeed. Misrepresentation, deception, and all sorts of sharp practice are taught our young men daily behind the counter. Where are we drifting to, or where will we land? Something must be done soon, or I fear the history of the retail trade will grow darker and blacker. If you can draw any new idea from this letter worth reproducing then my hour is not spent in vain; if not, then my hour is lost.

Yours truly,

A SUBSCRIBING TRAVELLER AND RETAILER



TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

Secretary's Address:—

474 PARLIAMENT STREET,
Toronto, Ontario.

Sloan & Crowther report a good demand for Indian teas.

Mr. Thos. Cleghorn, of J. Cleghorn & Son, left last week on a business trip to Great Britain.

Hiram Walker & Sons have begun the erection of a fourth warehouse at Walkerville. It will hold over 20,000 barrels of whiskey.

Mr. John Butcher, one of the popular Queen St. grocers, left yesterday for a three months' tour of Great Britain and the Continent. THE GROCER wishes Mr. B. a pleasant trip and safe return.

The None Such Stove Polish Company, 364 Grand River avenue, Detroit, was scorched $300 worth on Thursday afternoon. Explosion naphtha lamp. The principal stockholders in this company are Londoners.

Bryant, Gibson & Co., manufacturers of the well-known "John Bull Pickles and John Bull Sauce," shipped the first car load of "John Bull" bottled pickles to Montreal on Monday last. This firm's goods are becoming better known every day, and if a dealer once tries them he is generally satisfied.

The Kalthoff Yeast and Vinegar Co., King St. West, shipped a car load of their Pure Malt Vinegar to the McCormick Manufacturing Co., of London, this week. Messrs. McCormick intend to go into the manufacture of pickles extensively the coming season, having got a man out from England expressly to look after this branch of their business.

Adams & Sons, the well-known chewing gum manufacturers, have put another new brand on the market called "Sweet Fern." They have also added several new flavors to their famous "Tutti Frutti," such as vanilla, sarsaparilla, strawberry and pineapple. This firm's trade is growing rapidly throughout the Dominion, owing to the superior quality of their goods.

Mr. Wm. Clark, Montreal, whose canned meats are so well and favourably known in this market, will transfer his business to a company, the Canadian Meat Packing Company, on May 1st. A new factory has been erected at the corner of Wellington and Murray streets and as soon as it is in running order, Mr. Clark says they will be able to keep up with all orders.

The expenses of a wholesale grocer, including interest on capital and bad debts, will range between 4 and 8 per cent., and those of a retail grocer between 8 and 16 per cent., depending somewhat upon locality and character of business. It may, therefore, safely be said that at an average profit of 6 per cent. at wholesale and 12 per cent. at retail, merchants are doing business for the pleasure of it. At less than these rates they are doing business at a loss.

Figs are being sold in New York for export to Europe at a loss to importers and consigners of 2c. to 3c. per lb. This continent received a much larger proportion than usual of this season's shipments and this has caused a shortage on the other side, which is being met by purchases here and at figures higher than those obtainable on the spot. The charges alone connected with the handling of figs, from the grower to the importer, will average 6c. per lb. on all grades.

Philip Froude, who has managed the Ceylon Tea Company, London, for a month or two, left that city on Friday last for St. Thomas and other places to solicit orders. He has not been heard from since, and he was doing business principally on borrowed money; Mr. Isaac Cole, his principal creditor, has seized the stock. Mr. Froude bears an excellent character, and so far there are no indications of dishonesty connected with his disappearance, and some of his friends fear that he is sick or has met with foul play. He has been traced as far as Ridgetown, but from there no further news of him is obtainable. Mr. Cole's claim is about $600.

DOES ADVERTISING PAY ?

Standing beside a manufacturer, engaged in introducing a new article, who was scanning his list of advertising contracts for the year, we asked, pointing to certain journals having large contracts, "Does advertising in such journals pay?" In reply he said: "I don't know. I can't point to any advertisement and trace out actual results, but this much I do know, that our sales in March, 1888, were more than double what they were in March, 1887, and in March, 1889, they were double what they were during the same month in 1888. As we look over our sales-book we note an increased business every month, and when we see this record we are satisfied to pay the large sum we do annually for advertising without endeavouring to trace out details. We glean in all fields and sow beside all waters, and then look for results."

MONTREAL, April 10, 1889.

GROCERIES.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been little enquiry for canned goods and the market has ruled quiet and featureless with only a small jobbing trade. The stock is fair and it was stated that packers have considerable on hand yet which they are offering freely. The prospects at present for the future do not look very encouraging and dealers do not expect any activity for some time to come as retail dealers have large supplies on hand. Lobsters are scarce and firmer at $6 per case. There is also a firm feeling in salmon and prices are well maintained at $1.70 per dozen. Tomatoes have ruled dull but steady at 90c. to $1 per dozen. Erie and Aylmer corn is unchanged at $1.05 to $1.10 per dozen. Peas have been quiet at $1.20 per dozen. Canned fruits are neglected with prices nominally unchanged. Armour's canned meats have been fairly enquired for at steady prices.

SUGAR.

The sugar market has been quiet but firm, and the recent advance in prices has been well maintained. The demand, however, has been slow and business has ruled quiet, owing to the fact that buyers are well loaded up at present, and no improvement is looked for until present stocks are worked down. In raw sugar little has been done on account of the light offerings, there being only a few small lots of Porto Rico here, which is held at 6c. Granulated sold at 7⅝c., and yellows at 6c. to 6¾c., as to quality at the factory.

SYRUP.

Owing to the strong sugar market there has been a firmer feeling in syrup and values are tending upwards. The demand has continued slow and business has ruled quiet, but refiners expect an improvement in a short time, as stocks in jobbers' hands are being worked off fast. Prices have advanced ¼c. on inside figures and are now quoted at 3¾c. to 4c.

MOLASSES.

There has been a strong tone to the market for Barbadoes molasses owing to the strong advices from the Islands and the advance in prices in consequence, the market here has been more active under a good demand and sales of several large lots have been effected at much higher prices. The stock held here is light, and the indications are that the advance will be sustained. We quote Barbadoes at 40c., Trinidad at 32c. to 33c., and Antiuga at 34c.

TEA AND COFFEE.

The tea market has been fairly active, there being a good demand for small lots and a fair volume of business has been transacted. Owing to the strong advices from New York, the feeling here has been firmer, and higher prices in some cases have been realized, with a general opinion that prices will go still higher. The demand for coffee has been good and the market has ruled active and firm. We quote: Mocha, 27c. to 30c.; Java, 22c. to 27c.; Plantation Ceylon, 20c. to 24c.; and Rio, 17c. to 20c.

☞ The Grocer does not utter predictions, but aims simply to give accurate reports of the markets as they are.

EGGS.

There was a larger trade in eggs at steady prices. Fresh sold at 12c. to 12½c., and held 10c. to 11c.

BUTTER.

Trade in butter was fairly active at steady prices. All receipts of new have a ready sale, and choice packages can command up to 28c. Stocks of old have been well reduced. New dairy, 24c. to 27c.; creamery, finest, 26c. to 27c.; creamery, fair to good, 23c. to 25c.; townships, finest, 22c. to 23c.; townships, fair to good, 20c. to 21c.; Morrisburg, 19c. to 20c.; Brockville, 18½c. to 19c.; western, 17½c. to 18c.

CHEESE.

Has ruled quiet and unchanged, business being local in character. Finest fall, 11c. to 11½c.; fine fall, 10¼c. to 10¾c.; medium, 9c. to 10c.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

The market was quiet and unchanged; offerings of wheat were light and holders were firm. Coarse grains were quiet and steady. No. 1 hard Manitoba, $2.33; No. 2 hard Manitoba, $1.30; peas, 67c. and 68c. per 60 lbs.; oats, 31½c. to 32c.; barley, 50c.

A weak feeling has prevailed in flour and prices have materially declined, owing to heavy offerings, but the reduction failed to stimulate the demand, and strong bakers', however, has remained steady. Oatmeal has likewise ruled weak, and has declined 10c. Patent winter, $5.70 to $5.85; patent spring, $6.10 to $6.40; straight roller, $5.15 to $5.35; extra, $5 to $5.10; superfine, $4.20 to $4.70; city strong bakers', $5.50 to $5.75; strong bakers', bags, $2.60 to $2.65; superfine, bags, $2 to $2.25; extra, bags, $2.30 to $2.50. Oatmeal, standard, per bag, $1.90; oatmeal, granulated, per bag, $2.

OILS.

In oils there has been no important change, the demand having continued good, and the market has ruled fairly active and firm with a good business. We quote Newfoundland cod at 42½c. to 45c., Halifax do at 37½c. to 40c., pale seal at 45c. to 47½c., linseed boiled at 60c., and No. 1 lard at 55c. to 65c. Petroleum has been dull and steady at 13c. for car lots, and 14c. for smaller quantities.

☞ The review of the markets published in the GROCER AND GENERAL STOREKEEPER is based upon information gained from personal application to both seller and buyer, as far as possible and quotations here given reflect, in most cases, the actual prices paid.

GROCERIES.

There is a good fair general business doing in the grocery trade. The month just closed has been above the average both as to the volume of business and as to profits. This has been due in a very great degree to the activity in sugars and to the rapidly advancing markets. The present week so far has developed no important change. Sugars are dull but with a strong upward tendency. Canned goods are in better demand, and an improved feeling exists in the market. Teas are moving more freely.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been an increased demand for canned corn, peas and tomatoes, and prices have been hardening. During the past few days a larger number of orders have been booked, and inquiries received for fruits, especially peaches, plums, pears and apples. Several small lots of apples have been taken at 80c. to 90c. for 3's, and $1.95 to $2.10 for gallons. Peaches have sold at $2.20 to $2.25 for 2's, and $3.10 to $3.25 for gallons. Tomatoes have been selling at 90c. to $1.10, but occasionally transactions are reported at less. Wholesale houses have been inquiring more freely for lots of which there appear to be quite a few offering. Still the total stocks are not as large as some estimate. It is said that the Ontario Bank have sold a Burgess lot of 2,900 cases which fell into their hands to a Front Street house. The price is a secret but is generally said to be 71c. Corn is firmly held. The packer refuse to accept less than 90c., and very few are changing hands as yet. It was reported that one packer was offering below that figure, but this could not be verified and therefore it is doubtful. The inside price quoted by wholesalers is 80c., but as a rule 90c. to $1.25 is asked. Peas are in fair demand at 90c. to $1.10. Salmon is quiet at $1.70 to $1.80. Mackerel are selling slowly at $1.60, and lobsters dull at $1.55 to $1.60.

COFFEE.

A fair demand at quotations is reported. Rios are again scarce on the spot and prices are firm at 21c. to 22c.; a round lot sold Monday to a western house at the former price; outside markets have stiffened a little this week. The Rio News says in its market report: "We have had no favourable news as to the weather in the coffee zone of Rio, and advices are still very despondent as to the future of the planting interest." And also gives the following from its exchanges: "Advices from the district of Bom Jesus de Itabapoana, Rio de Janeiro, to a Campos journal state that the drouth has paralyzed the coffee trees for two years, for they are burnt into their very centre. 'From a private letter received in this city it is learned that in the Province of Minas the panic is general throughout the entire population over the alarming drouth that rules in the interior. Generally the sun has burnt up the coffee beans, and the coffee orchards are almost entirely destroyed. The crop will not produce sufficient to cover the cost of preparing it. Cereals have also seriously suffered. Despondency has seized upon all the planters, who have before them only the prospect of a total loss.' This is pretty good for a single letter from Minas: when others commence to come in their effect will be terrifying."

DRIED FRUIT.

There is very little to be said of this market. There is a fair trade doing at former prices.

Currants—Are steady and unchanged. Outside markets are reported firmer.

Dates and Figs—Are moving slowly.

Prunes—Continue to improve in demand, although the movement is still very light. A few hogsheads have gone out at 4½c. to 5c., but the demand has been for fine cases, which have been selling at 7½c. to 10c.

Raisins—Unchanged. Choice valencias are scarce and firm at 6¼c. to 6½c. Sultanas and malagas easy.

The articles contained in this Review are written by experienced representatives of the GROCER, are wholly unbiassed, and are an accurate reflex of the market.

SUGARS.

There have been very few sugars moving this week. The tone of the market, however, continues strong and prices are maintained at the recent advance. Retailers who did not stock up before prices reached their present high level are now buying very sparingly, hoping to be able to get in on a decline. Present indications do not favor this view of the situation, though a slight break is not improbable. Latest advices from all quarters indicate light stocks and a strong market, with every probability of higher prices as soon as the demand springs up. Yesterday refiners advanced all whites ⅛c., and wholesale prices will in all probability advance to that extent on Saturday. New York has gone up ¼c. on all refined sugars. Whites are selling on a basis of 8c. to 8⅛c. for granulated. White yellows are moving at 6⅜c. to 7½c. A quotation of 6¼c. has been sent out, but as far as can be learned this is for a no brand, of which there are very few on the market.

The Markets—Continued.

TEA.

Business has been looking up in the tea trade, and following a better demand a good many transactions have been completed in the past week. The enquiry still continues to be for low grades principally, and they are becoming scarce, especially in Japans and Young Hysons; the stocks of low grade Japans are all but exhausted on this market. Higher prices for all kinds from low to medium grades are confidently looked for before next season's business commences. Better grades are rather neglected, especially the finer grades of Red Leaf Congous; merchants have been leaving these severely alone for some time past. The New York market is exceptionally strong, especially in Young Hysons and other greens.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Syrups—Are quiet and steady at the recent advance.

Molasses—Are in fair demand at 42c. to 45c. in bbls.

DRESSED HOGS AND PROVISIONS.

DRESSED HOGS—There has been very little done in dressed hogs during the week. A few small lots have been received by rail. Demand is good for light hogs for butchers' use, but heavy are not so readily taken. All the offerings have been selling at $6.50 to $6.75 per cwt.

PROVISIONS—There are not any large lots moving, but with quite a good retail demand there is a good volume of business doing. Prices show no change, though buyers acting in sympathy with Chicago have been endeavouring to make purchases at easier prices.

MESS PORK—Is dull and unchanged.

BACON—Is in fair demand. Car lots can be bought at 8½c., but for smaller quantities 8¾c. is asked to 9c. for a few sides of long clear. Cumberland is dull but nominally worth about as much as clear as it is wanted for smoking purposes.

LARD—Is steady at 10c. to 10½c. for American and 10½c. to 11c. for Canadian in 50 lb. and 20 lb. pails.

SMOKED MEATS—Are in fair demand, especially hams and rolls, at quotations. The Cincinnati Price Current says there is some further reduction in the marketing of hogs, shown by packing returns for the past week, which aggregate 165,000 hogs for all western points, against 175,000 the preceding week, and 160,000 for corresponding time last year. From March 1 the total is 930,000 hogs, against 695,000 a year ago—increase, 235,000. A considerable proportion of the supply continues of good quality, but various packers report less favourably in this particular. Prices of hogs were generally advanced 5 to 10 cents per 100 pounds during the week, but most centres close about the same as a week ago; the lighter grades at Chicago are a little higher. The current month is expected to show moderate receipts of hogs. The provision trade has not been especially active during the week; values at Chicago, however, were well sustained for some days, becoming weaker toward the close. This turn in the market does not appear to be due to anything of a discouraging nature in the general situation, but to the power of speculative operators to take advantage of any temporary check in the distributive demand to depress values to their advantage. The export movement of hog product the past month has been liberal, the gain over corresponding time last year nearly equalling the gain in manufacture since the first of March. At Chicago the gain in imported stocks of meats for the month is 4,000,000 pounds, while the aggregate is 12,500,000 pounds less than a year ago. In lard there is a gain for the month of 5,700 tierces, while the stock is 34,000 tierces less than a year ago. Barreled pork of all kinds is 16,000 bbls. less than a year ago. The exports of product for the week were considerably in excess of a year ago in both meats and lard. Compared with a week ago the close at Chicago shows a decline of 52½ cents on pork, 12½ cents per 100 pounds on lard, and 17½ cents on short rib sides, for May delivery. Present values average about 9 per cent. lower than a year ago.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—The receipts all this week have been unusually light. It now appears that there is very little butter held by the country merchants or in farmers' hands, the receipts from these sources being nearly all new-made butter. Some commission merchants have had no consignments at all this week. Others have had to bring a few lots from the east. Prices in consequence have ruled very firm. Creameries have been selling at 26c. to 28c. and sometimes 29c. In dairies nearly all the offerings have been from the east. These as well as western have sold at 21c. to 24c. per lb. Very few mediums are offering; the few that have come forward have found a sale at 16c. to 20c. Rolls have also been in light supply and have sold at 20c. to 24c. for large and 25c. to 28c. for good to choice pounds and 30c. for fancy. Reference is made in another column to the butter situation.

CHEESE—Was dull and easy all week. Further declines in the British markets have made buyers somewhat indifferent. Jobbers have bought a few small lots of September at 11c. Small lots are nominally unchanged.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

APPLES—There is a good demand for good stock at $1.50 to $2 per bbl. Medium to good is moving in lots at 80c. to $1.25. For fancy barrels, $2.25 to $2.50 is asked.

BEANS—Continue steady at $1.25 to $1.50 per bushel in small lots. No round lots moving.

DRIED APPLES—No improvement in the demand as yet reported. Retailers are not buying, and the few lots that are coming in on consignment have been picked up by jobbers at about 3c. For retail lots 3½c. to 3¾c. is asked. Evaporated are nominal at 5½c. to 6c. in car lots, and 6½c. to 7c. in smaller quantities.

THE CANADA SUGAR REFINING CO'Y [LIMITED],

MONTREAL,

Offer for sale all grades of REFINED SUGARS and SYRUPS of the well-known brand of

Redpath

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

JOHN BAKER EDWARDS, P.L.D., D.C.L., F.C.S.,

Public Analyst for the District of Montreal, and Professor of Chemistry.

CHEMICALLAB ORATORY, MEDICAL FACULTY, MCGILL UNIVERSITY.

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have taken and tested a sample of your "EXTRA GRANULATED" Sugar, and find that it yielded 99·88 per cent. of Pure Sugar. It is practically as pure and good a Sugar as can be manufactured

Yours truly,

G. P. GIRDWOOD.

The Markets – Continued.

EGGS—Receipts are fairly large, and the market is steady. American eggs continue to arrive, and are selling at the same prices as Canadian, namely, 11½ to 12c. New York advices are still very unfavorable, and no Canadians are going there. Our buyers in the country are somewhat above the level of the American markets, and we should not be surprised to see a reduction in their buying prices, unless States prices improve. Many of them are packing rather than sell at present prices. It is generally expected that a temporary improvement in prices may occur during the Easter week, and dealers are stacking up in preparation therefor. There is a danger, however, of overdoing this. There are still a few limed and held eggs offering, but there is no sale for them. The last quotation reported was 4c.

HAY AND STRAW—Holders of hay find very little encouragement in the situation. They have been rushing in supplies hoping to clear out their stocks as soon as possible. The result is that there is much more hay here than can be disposed of promptly. In fact sellers have considerable difficulty in getting rid of their consignments. Large bales of timothy have been moving at $13 to $14, and choice small bales have changed hands at $14.50. Mixed is very slow at $11 to $13. Straw steady and unchanged at $7.50 to $8.50.

HIDES AND SKINS—Receipts are light. There is a fair demand for cured hides at 5c. to 5½c. as to quality, and of green at 2¾c. to 4¾c. Sheep skins are dull but firm at $1.25 to $1.50. Calfskins are dull at 5c. to 6c.

HOPS—The defeat of the Scott Act has inspired brewers with more confidence, and they have been making more inquiries as to hops during the past few days. No important sales have transpired. New are held at 20c. to 25c. as to quality. Yearlings are dull at 12c. to 17c.

MAPLE SYRUP AND SUGAR—Supplies are now coming forward more freely. Demand is good. Syrup is moving at 80c. to $1 per imperial gallon. Sugar remains at 9c. to 10c.

ONIONS—Very flat, at 50c. to $1.25 per barrel as to quality.

POTATOES—Continue very much depressed. Outside lots are offering at 16c. to 20c. f.o.b., and on the track to arrive at 20c. to 25c. Dealers are selling out of store at 30c. to 35c.

POULTRY—Is dull and slow. A few lots of frozen turkeys sold at 11c. and geese at 8c. No country shipments of fresh reported.

SEEDS—Are unchanged, at $1.90 to $2.10 for timothy and $5.50 to $5.75 for clover.

FLOUR—Dull, with no demand. Dealers find it hard to make sales owing to the large amount of American flour offering offering.

BRAN—Not much doing. Prices remain at $12.50 on the track and $10 f.o.b. at the mills in the west.

WHEAT—Dull and lower. Buyers are holding off expecting a further decline. On the Northern and Midland No. 2 is worth about $1.05, and in the west $1 to $1.04.

RYE—Offered at 59c. outside.

BARLEY—Dull and nominally unchanged. A rather better feeling prevails. City maltsters are making more enquiries owing to lighter offerings on the street, and the probabilities of a better demand consequent on the defeat of the Scott Act. Present holders are figuring on the cost of carrying stock over to next season, rather than sell on the present basis.

PEAS—In fair demand at 55c. to 56c. at north and west points. A lot was reported to have sold at a lake port at 59c.

OATS—Dull and weak under heavy offering and a belief that there are a great many more to be rushed out as soon as a buyer can be found. A London speculator is reported to hold 100,000 bushels. Light white and fair mixed sold to-day at 32c. on the track.

GREEN FRUIT.

There is a fairly good trade being done in green fruit, and quite a marked improvement over that of last week. There are good stocks to choose from.

Oranges—Messinas are arriving in quantities, but the stock is rather poor and sales slow. They are quoted $3 per box. A few Floridas are arriving, and the sales are very good at $4 to $4.50 per box; shipments are likely to be light. The demand for valencias is light and they are moving slowly at $5 to $5.25 per case. California oranges are in fair demand at $4 per case.

Lemons—Messina have a fair enquiry but are not very active, and are quoted at $3 to $3.25 per box. Palermos rather slow at $3.50 to $4 per box.

Bananas—Yellows are arriving in large quantities and are somewhat lower, being quoted at $1.50 to $1.75 per bunch. Small lots of reds are in and bring $2 to $2.50 per bunch.

FISH.

There is nothing doing in fish except in British Columbia salmon, which are moving off pretty well. They are quoted at 18c. to 20c. There is a large supply of trout and white fish expected in next week. Fresh ciscoes are selling at $3 to $4 per 100. Fresh lake herring are quoted at $2.25 to $2.50 per 100. Haddock, 4c. to 5½c.

COAL OIL.

Market is quiet. Quotations are per gallon, Canadian refined, 13c. to 14c.; carbon safety, 16½c. to 17c.; Canadian water white, 19c to 20c.; American water white, 25c.; photogene, 27c.; American prime white, 27c.

LOBSTER PACKING.

The New York Commercial Bulletin says: "Lobster packing will be resumed on the shores of Maine this coming season. Two years have elapsed since the industry was suspended by the Fish Commissioner, the fish in the meantime having been permitted to increase and attain a reasonable size. What the pack will probably be is a question unanswerable, various authorities placing their estimates at 20,000 to 40,000 cases. This quantity, it is thought, will not add materially to the total pack of the entire coast, as the Provincial canneries have been packing less annually for several seasons past, and it is considered certain that their product will again show a falling off this year in comparison with last. This season is going out with a bare market, hence prices for future deliveries are quoted with considerable strength."

THE SUGAR SITUATION.

The past ten days has witnessed the most exciting sugar market since 1876–7. Refiners both in the United States and England for want of immediate supplies, have been competing with each other in nearly all the cane producing markets. So much so has this been the case that the result is a most remarkable advance, with which the trade generally have been unable to keep pace, and consequently some have considered it unwarranted ; however, a consideration of the facts prove that the present ruling prices are only the outcome of the very strong statistical position of supplies throughout the world.

It had been expected up to the excited period that the beet crop would, in some measure, harmonize the statistical position, and that the deficiency of production of cane sugar would be regulated by the surplus beet crop, but all the excess of the latter that has been talked of seems to have disappeared notwithstanding it was supposed to comprise some 300,000 to 400,000 tons on a total estimate yield of 2,750,000 tons. The belief that the world's available supplies, from now until next October, will barely meet actual requirements of consumption, is now generally admitted. And with the fact that the stocks in the United States are 394 hhds. and 400,571 bags, against 4,480 hhds. and 1,752,632 bags for the corresponding period last year, the United Kingdom 153,821 tons, against 228,395 tons, with Havanna and Matanzas 78,043 tons, against 84,468 tons respectively, and the consumption for the same time has considerably increased, it will be readily seen that the whole position rests upon its merits. In Canada the situation is especially a strong one. Earlier in the season it was argued, and not without reason, that with one of the largest refiners again competing for this year's trade, competition would be so keen as to prevent a higher range of values. When, however, it is known that, with perhaps one exception, all the refiners have been caught short of raws, and are now forced to look for supplies at the higher prices ruling, this argument is removed.

Another and most important factor to be noted is, that up to this date last year Canada imported from the United States, in raw sugars, 4,347 tons, against 1,014 tons this, a deficiency of 2,333 tons, or say equal to 16,000 barrels. This great deficiency in raw must naturally be supplied with refined, consequently it would appear that holders' views of a very much higher market as the season advances and demand increases will almost certainly be realized.

BANKRUPT STOCKS.

The discussion now taking place in trade journals regarding the present method of disposing of bankrupt stocks, it is hoped, will bear good fruit. Country dealers have been loud in their complaints against the unfair competition they meet with from speculators in bankrupt stocks. The cry is universal from retail dealers in town, village and country against the evil. No remedy appears possible, so long as wholesale men give unlimited credit to inexperienced men all over the country. A man sells his farm and embarks in storekeeping ; pays cash for his first purchase, gets credit, and in a few months succumbs to the inevitable. He has paid for his experience. So has the wholesale dealer. The next act is the sale of his stock en bloc, at fifty cents on the dollar, to some speculator, who at once paralyzes legitimate trade by retailing to all and sundry at less than the solvent dealer, who wishes to remain solvent, can do, and trade in that line in that place is demoralized so long as the bankrupt stock lasts. This style of business is going on all the time in all parts of the country. Surely this is not for the benefit of the wholesale merchant, and it is certainly an injury to the retail trader whose struggle for existence is made all the more difficult by such unfair competition from speculators. Various remedies have been suggested, all more or less objectionable. Bankrupt stocks must be disposed of, and the present system of selling en bloc to the highest bidder seems the most convenient way for the assignee ; and he, at all events, has nothing to lose, but most likely will be the gainer by giving speculators a chance to ruin others in trade. The wholesale dealers' profits are made from solvent traders, and the interest of the latter should be their first care. The policy of the wholesale man should be to place bankrupt stocks on the shelves of the regular dealers, and not in the hands of speculators. To do this bankrupt stocks should be assorted and sold in job lots, so that all the dealers in the place may have a chance to buy a part ; and by having a stock thus divided up and kept within the regular trade the tendency to undersell will be lessened. Very few retail storekeepers want to buy a full bankrupt stock, but most of them would buy such lines as they could handle, and would pay more for what they require than if forced to buy goods not required. The difference in prices thus obtained will counterbalance the extra cost and trouble of dividing up the bankrupt stock. Any ordinary stock could be disposed of in small job lots by auction in a few days, and if any goods remained as unsalable to local merchants then let such be sold for what they will bring to the outside public.

STANDARD FRUIT AND VEGETABLE PACKAGES.

At the meeting of the City Council, Monday, permission was given to the Markets and Health Committee to bring in a by-law at the next meeting, amending the by-law governing the sale of fruits and vegetables, as suggested by the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association. The by-law will come up at the meeting of the Council the week after next. There is no doubt but that it will be passed. Inspector Awde informs THE GROCER that he will at once take steps to enforce it. He will post notices in the market, giving all a chance to conform to the by-law. He will then prosecute all offenders to the utmost extent of the law.

It is stated that the Department of Inland Revenue is considering the advisability of making standard weights and sizes of packages for fruit and vegetables. The City Solicitor wrote the Minister suggesting that he adopt similar weights and sizes on all imported packages. In reply the Minister admits that such a change would be in the interest of consumers, but that it is not likely that anything will be done this session of the House.

THE COMBINES BILL.

Mr. Clarke Wallace's Combines Bill came before the Banking and Commerce Committee of the House of Commons Friday last. There were deputations present from Toronto, Hamilton and Montreal Boards of Trade, among them being W. D. Matthews, John I. Davidson and Edgar A. Wills—President, Vice-President and Secretary of the Toronto Board of Trade; Wm. Ince, President of the Dominion Wholesale Grocers' Guild; J. J. Kenny, President of the Toronto Fire Underwriters' Association; Hugh Blain and Robt. McLean, Toronto; W. H. Gillard and Geo. Bristol, Hamilton; C. Choprit, President Montreal Grocers' Association; R. Hersey, D. Morrice, D. L. Lockerby, H. Watson, Wm. Latley, G. F. C. Smith, J. C. Wilson, Montreal. Messrs. B. B. Osler, Q.C., and Joseph Duhamel, Q.C., appeared as counsel for the bodies represented.

Mr. W. D. Matthews was the first to address the Committee. He said that the Toronto Board of Trade had given this matter due consideration, and had been almost unanimous against any legislation of this kind. It was felt that this Bill originated from a misapprehension as to the extent and nature of combinations in this country. The opinion formed had been gathered largely from reports that had reached us from Great Britain and the United States with regard to combinations. It was admitted that there were associations to decide prices and lines of credit. But that was not a trust or combination in the same sense as combinations were known on the other side. It was merely a trade arrangement. The Bill proposed to prevent combinations to increase the price of articles. If it was against the law to combine to increase the price, it should be equally illegal to combine to cause an undue reduction in the price. He held that more injury would be caused by an undue decrease in the price of an article than by an increase in the price.

Mr. Wm. Ince said that the report of the Anti-Combines Committee should not have much weight, because every effort was made to prevent those who favoured trade organization from giving evidence. It struck him that the examination of witnesses was conducted more for the purpose of making out a case against the combines than to elicit information upon the subject. He had absolutely to force his evidence upon the Committee. He was not the only one who had noticed that, and, therefore, he thought the report was not worthy of the weight that had been given to it. As regards the grocers' trade, he could only say that the combinations were for the protection of business. They had not advanced any prices to an abnormal extent. If a Bill of this kind were passed, even in the less objectionable form in which it was amended, the Bill was far from having the object intended. It would be a measure to restrain trade. Under the proposed Bill every agreement between two persons would make an unlawful combination. A man might be punished by two years' imprisonment for doing what was perfectly proper. He strongly protested against the measure being placed on the statute books.

Mr. Hugh Blain said that the salt arrangement, of which so much complaint was made, was no combination at all. One firm had bought up all the output. That was not a combination. It was a monopoly. It would be impossible to legislate against that, because it was an arrangement that entered into every transaction of life. If any man were sufficiently enterprising to buy up any commodity and make money out of it, no one could complain. The combinations had fixed standard grades of articles, and, therefore, protected the consumers. If the salt people had made a fairly reasonable combination, there would have been no need for a monopoly at all. Previous to the tobacco agreement that article had been slaughtered for the purpose of securing purchasers for other articles. Travellers had been compelled to offer tobacco below cost for the purpose of getting other orders. When the wholesalers agreed upon a certain price, granulated sugar was held out below cost to secure customers. The profits on these articles were barely enough to cover the handling. The sugar agreement was effected to prevent the slaughtering of that article. None of these combinations were iniquitous, as had been stated by Mr. Wallace. The moment a combination fixed an abnormal price it would collapse from inherent weakness.

After considerable discussion the preamble of the Bill was agreed to, and the Committee adjourned until Tuesday.

On Tuesday Mr. B. B. Osler, Q.C., addressed the Committee on behalf of the Toronto Board of Trade. He suggested several amendments to make the measure more workable, and prevent it as far as possible from restricting trade. As those prosecuted for misdemeanors would have to be tried before consumers, and to a certain extent it would be one class against another, he suggested an amendment to the effect that a preliminary trial be granted the accused to see whether the act was an unlawful one or not, as the Bill provided that the crime committed must be an unlawful one. He suggested another amendment, that a person shall be a witness in his own behalf, and also that the accused should have the option of being tried by a judge without the intervention of a jury, and that an appeal to the Supreme Courts should be allowed. Other amendments were that the party committing the misdemeanor alone should be tried, and that no case could be prosecuted without first obtaining the sanction of the Attorney-General of the province in which the offence was committed.

The only amendments adopted were those allowing the accused to testify on his own behalf, and the option of trial by judge. The Bill was then adopted by the Committee and reported to the House where it will come up for discussion.

WANTED BUSINESS REFORM.

The wholesale dry goods merchants of this city are a class of men who have lately shown great activity in looking after and correcting, as far as possible, abuses that have long existed in the trade. A common grievance with them has been the returning of goods by retailers, goods which have been ordered by the latter and delivered to them according to order. A retail merchant, through business inability or inexperience, or other causes, finds that he has bought more goods than he can sell, and that, unless he can get rid of them in some way, they are likely to remain on his shelves, a dead loss to him. He immediately ships such goods back to the wholesale merchant from whom they were purchased and asks to have their value credited to him. The wholesaler, in most cases, is entirely defenceless against this species of imposition. The competition in the business is so great that he generally prefers to receive the goods back rather than lose a customer. This system has been going on for a long time, and at the last meeting of the dry goods section of the Toronto Board of Trade, it was decided to send a circular to the retail trade stating that the wholesale merchants will no longer take back goods that have been deliberately bought by the retailer and delivered to him in good condition.

Another question that has been discussed by the dry goods men is this. Hardly a season passes without the indulgence of creditors being asked on the ground of the retail merchant's assets being swept away by fire without any insurance, or insufficient insurance, being affected. The losses imposed upon creditors have been serious, indeed, so serious, that it was resolved no longer to stand them. Another circular, therefore, has been issued by the dry goods section to the effect that hereafter no indulgence on this ground will be granted. It is held, and rightly, that insurance upon stock, chattels and buildings should be, at least, sixty per cent. of their value, or that insurance should be effected to the full amount of a retail dealer's liabilities for merchandise, so that the creditors may be in no jeopardy from this cause. This latter notice has also been sent out by the wholesale grocers of Toronto and will probably reach the hands of sixteen thousand merchants throughout the country. The remarks contained therein appeal to every merchant in the Dominion and should certainly be acted upon. They are not binding upon the wholesalers, but are more in the form of suggestions to the retail trade, calling attention to the abuses that have been and are now permitted. These circulars are likely to have some effect, but whether the good will be done that is desired and expected by the wholesale men interested is an open question.

CUSTOMS DECISIONS.

The following decisions were rendered by the Board of Customs in March :

Adams' composition for cleaning and polishing furniture, 30 per cent.

Brass, sheet, stamped or figured, cut into narrow strips, 30 per cent.

Equitable Record, 1 cent each.

Harness soap, 25 per cent.

Jelly tumblers with tin covers, 5 cents a dozen, and 30 per cent.

"Masolene" furniture polish, etc., $1.90 per imperial gallon.

Patent brocaded seating, an imitation of hair cloth, 32½ per cent.

Time detectors, 35 per cent.

CANNED GOODS PACKERS.

A special meeting of the Canadian Canned Goods Packers' Association was held at the Walker House, on Tuesday. There was a large attendance. Mr. Wellington Boulter, Picton, President, was in the chair. Among the others present were : Messrs. A. E. Carpenter, Ontario Canning Co., Hamilton ; B. R. Nelles, Grimsby ; W. P. Innes, Simcoe Canning Co., Simcoe ; W. A. Ferguson and Roger Chrysler, Delhi Canning Co.; D. Marshall, Aylmer Canning Co. ; Harry M. Sheppard, Phœnix Canning Co., Welland ; H. I. Matthews, Lakeport Preserving Co. ; James Anning, A. C. Miller & Co. ; Picton. There was a large amount of important business transacted. Reports were presented showing that the stock of leading staples had been very much reduced, which encouraged the members to maintain the recent advance in prices. Manufacturers of labels and box shooks submitted offers for supplies at special rates to the members of the association, but no definite action was taken. Messrs. Marshall and Matthews were appointed auditors. Among other matters which were decided upon were : "That all claims for reclamations must be made within ninety days from the date of the invoice ; and that this rule be put upon the invoices ; and that all new labels have the monogram "C. P. A." stamped upon them.

A number of arrangements were made for the coming season's pack. A report was presented showing that, owing to the serious depression which existed in the trade, one out of every three fruit and vegetable packers had failed during the present season.

GIVING NEW LIFE.

By a recent decision of Judge Blatchford, of the Supreme Court, many patents which were considered as expired will be revived, and cases based upon contrary decisions, now pending in the lower courts, will be settled or dismissed. The decision was made in the case of the Bate Refrigerating Co. vs. G. H. Hammond & Co., and is of vital importance to owners of patents that have been secured in foreign countries before being issued here. The statute of the United States provides that, if a patent is taken out in a foreign country previous to its issuance here, it shall expire at the same time that it runs out in the foreign country. But the statutes of other nations provide variously for renewals and extensions, and it had been held that the life of the American patent was limited to the expiration of the first original term of the foreign. In this case the patent was issued in Canada for a term of five years, with the privilege of two renewals of five years each, in accordance with Canadian patent law. Renewal was neglected, and the question arose whether the patent issued in this country expired at the end of the first Canadian term, or could live to the end of the third—the full fifteen years allowed through original grant and renewals. The case was appealed from the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Massachusetts, wherein it was held that the patent expired at the end of the first term. The Supreme Court, through Judge Blatchford, decided that the patent would not expire until the end of the third term ; and laid down the rule that the lifetime of an American patent, first taken out in a foreign country, will extend to the termination of the final renewal provided for the foreign patent, even though it had not been renewed. The decision of the lower court was thus reversed and the case remanded.—[Kansas City Implement Journal.

MECHANICAL TRAINING.

Boys who have undergone mechanical training in the appropriate department in Girard College, Philadelphia, have comparatively little difficulty in securing good places in which to commence business. This statement is confirmed by the superintendent of mechanical instruction. Said T. Mason Mitchel, the gentleman referred to : "There are boys in South America, who have gone from here, earning $2500 and $3000 a year. They are all through the West, in New York and the Eastern States. The agent whose business it is to obtain places for the boys, has very little trouble now, and we have many demands for the boys. They generally leave when they are about 15 or 16 years old, and with the knowledge they have obtained in this department many of them secure positions in workshops and manufactories paying them $4 or $5 a week. After that the boy must work out his future for himself. The trade of machinist seems to have the preference among the boys, and to this calling more go than either to wood-working, foundry-work or mechanical drawing. The advantage of school-taught mechanics gives the boy a standing upon entering workshops much above the raw beginner, and if he has proved a worthy student his acquirements are soon discovered, and his time under instruction in the shop is shortened, and he is generally paid much higher wages."

MAKING THE COLORS MATCH.

Some Vesey Street painters were relating their experience the other day, when one said : "I took a contract to paint a wagon for a fruit dealer. The dealer was very particular, and insisted that the vehicle should be the exact color of an orange. What was I to do? I did not have the necessary colors to make that tint, and that was not the worst of it ; I did not have the money to buy them. But I painted the wagon. I called the dealer in to look at it. 'That is not what I ordered ; that is not an orange color. I will send you an orange so that you can match the exact shade I want.' The orange came, and I confess there was considerable difference. After contrasting the orange with the wagon, and the wagon with the orange, I came to the conclusion that it would be easier to paint the orange than the cart, and I had just about enough paint left to do that. In a few days I sent word that the job was finished. The dealer said : 'That is not right. You don't call that orange?' 'That is about as near as I can get it,' I replied, and held up the orange. He looked at the orange and then at the wagon. They were identical ; the same paint covered both. I had painted the orange to match the wagon. 'Well, I must be getting color-blind,' he said as he reluctantly paid for the job.—New York Telegram.

HIS SHONE BEST.—"Let your light so shine, etc.," said the minister as the plates were passed about the church. "John," said Mrs. Fairfax, "what made you put $2 on the plate?" (This was after church.) "Old Jones, the gas man, threw down a dollar bill. My electric light is twice as good as his any day in the week."

TWO STORES.

A gentleman outfitting at the opening of the spring season went into one of the leading shoe stores of a metropolitan city and selected a pair of shoes which were marked six dollars. The shoes proved a good fit and in every way a desirable article. A ten dollar gold piece was tendered in payment for the purchase, and change in the sum of $4.60 was returned the purchaser. In explanation of the apparent discrepancy in finances the salesman said: "We are now holding our annual discount sale. The extra sixty cents you have received is the ten per cent. discount on the purchase price of your shoes." Here was a pleasant surprise for the gentleman, and one that would not soon be forgotten.

The store next door was a tailor's. His display of new spring goods was very attractive, and the prices were perhaps lower as a general thing than those of other tradesmen in his line. Spring suits were marked from $20 and upwards. The gentleman decided on a suit, but in making a settlement found that an "extra had been charged against him on account of the style of cut of the coat." The contrast in the policy of these two stores is very strong, and these two instances show very clearly the vast difference in ideas of management which will be found in the retail stores of all the trading towns of the country. All other things being equal, the shoe dealer seems to be on the road to success. He makes a friend of every customer. He gets the confidence of his trade and keeps it. The tailor must soon go through a very uncomfortable experience. In the natural order of things he soon must find that his customers are mistrustful, and it is but a step from doubt and mistrust to dissatisfaction. Dissatisfaction means loss of trade, and loss of trade ultimately is a ruined business.—[Grocer and Canner.

STARTING IN BUSINESS.

There is a universal desire on the part of young clerks and employees in general to get into a business of their own at the earliest possible time. Of every three who leave a salaried position in the store or shop, two would have done better by remaining on salary; and the third doesn't find his business career leading through a pathway strewn with roses. No; far from it in many cases. Some find themselves burdened with responsibilities and cares they had never dreamed of in building their air castles of a future business career. We do not wish to discourage the young man who can see his way clear, and whom the community needs in some business calling, but there are many to whom it certainly never occurs that there are a few things as much needed as capital. One of the few is a thorough and practical knowledge of the business to be entered into; one is industry; one is firmness; another is quick and correct judgment of human nature in all its phases; and still another is the capacity for making innumerable friends. If you possess all of these requisites, then your success in business is assured. We have on various occasions known men—good, clever men—to go into a new town, among strangers, open a store of new goods, and after running several months or a year or two, sell out at a heavy loss, or pull up stakes and shift to some other town at a still heavier loss and try it over. Often the same result would follow after removal to another town. In the majority of such cases it is self-evident that something is lacking, and it can almost invariably be traced to the above-mentioned qualification. Starting a new business is too often equivalent to building another fence around the farm ten feet outside of the old fence, which already answers every purpose for which it was built. This is a condition which exists throughout the greater part of the west—business in nearly every line overcrowded. The evils of the situation, or the lack of economy we might say more correctly, is the rental of two stores when one could answer, double the amount of capital tied up that is actually necessary, and double work in keeping two stocks in order instead of one. If you possess the ability to conduct a business of your own, by remaining with a good established business on salary that same ability will sooner or later promote you to the position of junior partner or manager. Men in high salaried positions have the easiest positions, in our estimation, and their contentment is to be envied.

COMMERCIAL TRAVELLERS.

There are travellers and travellers it has been truly said, and we might repeat the word a dozen times and yet not represent all the different kinds of commercial salesmen on the road to-day. We intend to devote a little of our space each month for a while to our friends of the gripsack, and if we hurt anyone's feelings we want them to step right up and say so. Sell your own goods for your own firm and let opposition alone. There is, perhaps, no more pernicious habit amongst travelling men than that of crying down other travellers or opposition houses. Any buyer of ordinary intelligence understands the motive that prompts the words, and if he believes them at all he not only takes a large grain of salt with them, but is tempted to distrust the backbiter in what he says about his own firm and his own goods. We have heard of instances where the customers not only did not believe the stories, but actually put off buying until the scandalized firm's representative had called upon them in order that they might judge for themselves whether the stories had any truth in them or not. In this way the malicious traveller gave his opposition a free advertisement, when by keeping quiet he could have sold his own goods instead. First-class travellers will perhaps feel hurt at these remarks, but they need not, for the cap does not fit their heads. Tricks of this kind are only practised by fifth-rate men. We have heard of many cases of this kind lately and would warn the trade against such men.

BUSINESS ADVERTISING.

What is said to be the largest theatrical advertisement on record is that just placed by Mr. Henry Irving, in the London "Era." It occupies sixty columns, or twelve pages of that paper. It is a monument to Mr. Irving's enterprise as a theatrical manager, and is one manifestation of that business skill which has brought to him success in the department of pecuniary as well as artistic effort. In speaking of this matter the Boston Herald says: "The Napoleonic system in advertising has never failed to produce good results. When we use this adjective we of course assume that advertising is applied with judgment, rather than recklessly. There are the proper mediums for it, and there is the proper method of appealing to the public in what an advertisement embodies. No man has ever employed it in this way, on however large a scale, without realizing ample returns from the operation."

Some merchants argue that "everybody knows" them and therefore they do not need advertising. "Everybody knows" Mr. Irving, but he has the good sense to realize that the way to keep a snowball going is to roll it.

BE PROMPT IN APPOINTMENTS.

The Manufacturer's Gazette thinks there is nothing more damaging to a business than to be found wanting in the matter of promptness in filling orders. A great many firms will promise to have an order at a certain time, when they are confident in their own minds that it will be almost an utter impossibility to do so. This is done to secure the orders, but cannot fail of a damaging effect in the future. It is just as important that an order be filled at the time agreed as that any other engagement or appointment be kept. The man who arranges for a meeting with another at a certain time is expected to be on time. In these days of great enterprise and push, every business man has his time fully taken, and promptness in keeping an appointment is an important matter to him. Just so it is in filling orders. Promptness is as much to the credit of a concern as is the quality of the work or the material used.

The American Grocer points out some of the fraudulent brands of "olive oil," most of it being cotton seed oil, pure and simple. Among the brands are "F. P. Deveret," "L. McCaire & Cie, Bordeaux," "J. Simoniere, Marseilles," "S. Pradi, Marseilles," etc. We would advise our readers to be wide awake when buying olive oil.

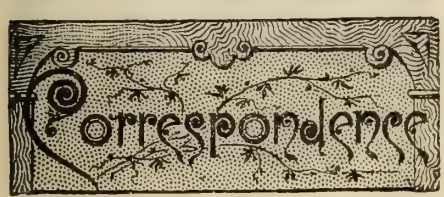
NOTES FOR RETAILERS.

Make your store attractive and display your goods judiciously.

Teach your clerks to be polite and agreeable to customers, and attention to business at all times. The best way to do this is to set them the example.

If you can possibly avoid it, never allow any one to leave your store dissatisfied either with your goods or your actions. A customer who spends a dime in your place of business to-day, and is suited with what he gets, will be likely to call on you when he has a dollar in place of the dime.

Many retailers do not have the same opportunities to advertise their stock that is possessed by their brethren in the large cities, and are compelled to depend largely on the display they can make of their goods, in order to introduce them to the notice of their customers. Be particular about this. A clean, attractive, well kept store will always draw trade.—American Merchant.



We invite correspondence from readers in every section on subjects pertaining to the trade, and shall be pleased to answer questions of general interest in this department. We require with each letter the name and address of the sender, not necessarily for publication, unless agreeable to writers, but for our own protection.

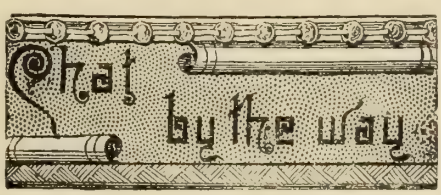
HAMILTON, April 15, 1889.

DEAR SIR,—I have read every letter in your valuable paper on bankrupt stocks and compromises, and in my opinion there is too much truth in those letters to be allowed to pass unnoticed by the wholesale trade. They all agree that the evil is a bad one, and that something should be done to remedy it. Now, sir, while I am free to admit that it is a difficult matter to arrange, still I am strongly of the opinion that it is possible to remedy the great evil. The letter in THE GROCER of March 22nd, signed "J. F. T." has some good points in it which I believe could be worked out to good advantage. Then why is it delayed? Why don't the wholesalers or Boards of Trade take hold of it and call a convention of the retailers, as has been suggested by some, and discuss the question.

The trade is in a terrible state, and from what I learn from the many travellers throughout the country (and they have the best chance of knowing), the evil is getting worse. I notice the circular that you published in THE GROCER of 22nd ult., that is being distributed around Hanover. Why, sir, I could send you hundreds of just such dodgers from nearly every town in the country. Still the wholesalers pay no attention to it; yet they expect us to pay them one hundred cents on the $. Now, sir, the time has come that something must be done, and I think that every retailer should at once rise and demand that a convention be called at once, and at least try if there can be some arrangements made to remedy the evil and protect the retailers from such unjust dealings. By so doing they would show that they were willing to do what they could to protect their customers. It is nothing better than highway robbery for the wholesalers to sell their goods and then say to one man, you must pay us one hundred cents on the dollar, and to another, you pay us forty cents on the $ and you can go on and slaughter the goods and swamp those other fellows that paid us up in full.

Since you have so kindly allowed correspondence in your journal on this great question (for I claim that it is the greatest question before the country to-day), I hope that every retailer will write his opinion and urge that a convention be called at once, and never give up until we get our rights, for as it is now, there is nothing right nor honest about it, and it requires a man with a strong determination for honesty to resist the temptation that is held out to him in the compromise business.

MERCHANT.



TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

Secretary's Address:

474 PARLIAMENT STREET,
Toronto, Ontario.

Mr. D. Donald, of the Donald Produce Co., of Norwich, Ont., favored THE GROCER with a call this week.

The Longford Manufacturing Co.'s goods are becoming very popular all over the country, giving as they do complete satisfaction wherever used. They have now established agencies in Winnipeg, Montreal, Woodstock and at other places. Their Toronto agency is in charge of Mr. R. S. McIndoe.

A new style of milk cart has been patented by Mr. Thomas Hardy of this city, which is being used already by not only milkmen, but with slight variations by other tradespeople, as butchers and grocers. Its advantage over the ordinary city delivery wagon is that by means of a cranked axle, the body is let down to within a short distance of the ground and the back is open to allow the driver to step out without having to climb over the wheel. Thus the driver can, if so inclined, stand on the back step while driving.

Mr. John Brown, of the Citizens' Milling Co., called at THE GROCER office and showed declarations from R. S. Boothe, the bookkeeper, and James Jackes, the assistant bookkeeper to the effect that they had never sold flour to private individuals in the city, excepting to the partners or immediate employees, and from Thomas Kirk, the teamster, that he had not delivered flour to any private individuals, excepting members of the firm or employees. Mr. Brown will ask for permission to be present at the next meeting of the association to explain his position. He says he voluntarily gave up his retail branch two years ago and has never sold to consumers since. He will do all he can to forward the views of the association.

An important change has taken place in the wholesale grocery trade. The John Stuart, Son & Co., Ld., Hamilton, has amalgamated with Alex. Harvey & Co. The change was brought about by the retirement of Mr. John Stuart, who found it impossible to give his attention to it, so much of his time being taken up with his other interests. His son, Mr. John J. Stuart, who is at the head of the new firm, has practically managed the company's business for some years past. He now has associated with him Mr. Alex. Harvey and Robert N. Sterling, who are also well known in business circles. The style of the new firm will be Stuart, Harvey & Co. It starts out under very favorable auspices, succeeding as it does to one of the best wholesale grocery businesses in Canada. No doubt the new firm will not only maintain but extend it, as all three are possessed of more than ordinary business ability, and have the enterprise necessary to make it a success.

BUILD UP YOUR TEA TRADE.

Speaking at a meeting of retail grocers in New York, Mr. Callanan, a leading retailer, said: "Retail grocers do not pay enough attention to the quality of their tea and coffee. Nine-tenths of the competition of the tea stores, about which so many complaints are made, is due to this neglect. If my firm had always looked after tea and coffee as we do now, our competitors in the same street would not have been able to build up the business they have. My interests are identical with those of smaller retailers, and the country is large enough for us all. 'Less cabbage and more tea' is a good motto for grocers to adopt, and it will pay them. The important articles to build up and keep a good trade are tea, coffee, butter and flour. Flour is not very profitable, but it is absolutely necessary. The other three articles are profitable, and every pound of good tea that a man sells helps to build up his reputation.

I see also the statement in another article that 90 per cent. of the grocers who sell fruits and vegetable lose money by them. That is true.

Another mistake of grocers is to keep on giving salesmen orders, instead of going themselves to the different wholesalers and seeing where they can do the best, and testing themselves the tea and coffee they buy. If a salesman comes round you a good deal and you get confidence in him, he will put goods on you that he ought not to, in most cases. You should take no man's word about the quality of what you buy, but test it yourselves."

HOW TO SECURE CUSTOMERS.

A grocery firm in New Brunswick has adopted a plan of securing custom similar to that suggested in THE GROCER over a year ago. We cannot illustrate the method better than by quoting the circular which lies before us. It is headed "A Novel Proposition," and reads as follows:

You have often heard of people living on the interest of what they owe; and you have no doubt as often heard people say that if they could only collect interest on what money they must spend instead of what they can save they would get rich. Well, that is exactly what we propose: to pay you interest on what you spend, and good big interest at that. A novel proposition, indeed! But examine the Rebate Card handed you herewith, and it will be made clear at once.

Our Rebate Card will save you four per cent. on all purchases, besides securing you the very lowest cash prices it is possible to obtain. "We lead in low prices," and in addition offer you this special rebate on cash business. A cash business is the cheapest to the merchant as well as to the customer. We propose to give cash buyers part of what they save us, and, to encourage the system, the larger part. Thus you become partners with us, to a certain extent, in the business, sharing the extra profits made by conducting it on the cheapest plan. This is simple justice. The reason it was not done before was the lack of a practical method of keeping the account. This the Rebate Card furnishes. All you have to do is to hand it to the salesman and have the amount of your purchase checked off, and when the figures are all gone, receive your rebate, a clear gain. Try is surest of all ways to make money by saving it. Respectfully, etc.,

This circular has been mailed to nearly every family in the city, and with it a card with marginal numerals from 5 cents to $1, the total amount aggregating $25. In the centre of the card is printed: "Blank & Co.'s Four Per Cent. Rebate Card, presented to ————. Pay cash and save $1. $1 in trade will be paid as a rebate on this card, when goods to the amount of $25 have been purchased in cash. Always present card to salesmen, and have amount of each purchase punched out." It is reported that the scheme is working to a charm, as the firm referred to sells as cheaply as any concern in the city, independently of the four per cent. dividend.

☞ "A Newspaper Advertisement may seldom be read, still it makes the name and business of the man familiar, and its presence in the columns of a paper inspires confidence in the stability of the enterprise."

BOTH TOOK CHANCES.—Irate father—"Young man, I am amazed, astounded, sir, that you should seek to marry my daughter on so short an acquaintance. You are almost a stranger to her."

The young man—"Well, she don't take any more chances than I do. She's almost a stranger to me, too."

"Look here," said an Austin dude to a newspaper reporter, "you tell me a couple of good jokes. I want to get them off as original, you know, at a little social gathering to-night. I'll lend you $5 if you do." "I don't think it will work," replied the newspaper man pensively. "Why not?" "I am so blamed poor that if I am found with $5 on my person I'll be suspected of having stolen them; and you are so blamed stupid that if you get off a good joke everybody will suspect you right off."

TORONTO, April, 18, 1889.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

Apples—The export season is about over now, and very little is doing in apples for shipment to the old country. A few small lots are being sent from outside points, but none are being shipped from the city. It is, besides, hard to keep the apples in good condition for shipment. They are offering here at $1 to $1.50 per bbl. There is still a very fair demand for apples for local consumption, but the trade is not of the dimensions noticeable a few weeks since. They are selling for $2 to $2.50 per bbl. The farmers are bringing in quite a number of loose apples, but their good stock appears to be about exhausted, and as a consequence nearly all the offerings are of poor quality. Loose will run from 75c. to $1.75 per bbl.

Beans—Trade lots are moving slowly at $1.20 to $1.30 per bushel, while smaller quantities can be bought at $1.40 to $1.60.

Dried apples—Slow, and hard to sell at any price. Dealers do not seem inclined to pay over 3c. for anything, while they are selling to the retailers at 3½c. to 3¾c. Evaporated are offering in car lots at 5½c. without bids; smaller quantities can be bought at 6½c. to 7c.

Eggs—The supply is ample and prices are steady. Dealers are getting 11½c. on lots of five cases and upwards, while 12c. is asked for single cases. Round lots can be bought at 11c. In New York prices are firmer at 11c. to 12c.

Hay and Straw—Mixed hay and timothy in large bales are dragging a little, but choice timothy in small bales is steady and in fair demand at $14. Large bales rule at $12.50 to $13.50. Mixed is slow at $10 to $12 on the track. Straw quiet at $6.50 to $7.60.

Hides and Skins—Dull and unchanged. Cured are offering at 5¼c. to 5½c. for good to choice quality. Sheepskins are quiet but in good demand at $1.25 to $1.50. Calfskins are being taken by the dealers at 5c. to 6c.; cured are slow.

Hops—New are offering at 20c. to 25c. as to quality. Demand is fair.

Maple Syrup—Demand good and prices steady at 80c. to 95c. per gallon.

Onions—Slow. Good natives are held at $1 to $1.25 per bbl.

Potatoes—The supply continues to be in excess of the demand and prices are easy at 20c. to 25c. on the track. Small lots are passing out of store at 30c. to 35c. Outside car loads have sold at 16c. f. o. b.

Seeds—There is a good demand for timothy at $1.70 to $1.90. Red clover is also selling well at $4.95 for prime to $5.10 for choice. Alsike runs from $6.60 to $9 as to quality.

PROVISIONS.

There has been very little change in the market for hog products since last review. American lard has been selling at lower prices; in some instances large pails have gone out at 9¾c.; Canadian is steady at 10½c. to 11c. Mess Pork is quiet at quotations. Bacon has been moving at 8½c. to 8¾c. as to quantity. There has been a fair enquiry for smoked meats, and hams have been taken at 11c. to 11½c., and rolls at 10c. to 10½c. The Cincinnati Price Current says: Western Packing operations again show some reduction, the returns indicating a total of 155,000 hogs for the week, compared with 165,000 the preceding week, making a total of 1,085,000 since March 1. Corresponding week last year was the same as the past week, 155,000 hogs; total for the season 850,000. Present increase over last year 235,000 hogs. Quality generally good. Prices have averaged lower, closing about 10c. per 100 pounds below a week ago at most centres. Farmers now busily engaged in the work of the season. The marketing will increase a little later, but it does not appear likely that up to the 1st of July it will show much if any gain over corresponding time last year; some increase may be counted upon, as also somewhat heavier average weight. The provision market maintained a good front for some days, but on Monday the bear interest at Chicago got in some effective work, and the market has since been quite unsettled, continuing to manifest weakness, selling lower at the close for May delivery than at any previous time this season. Aside from the cheapness of corn there is nothing in sight in the general situation of affairs to legitimately produce depression in the trade. But such a fact ceases to have force in the course of values for speculative commodities, and holders of product are powerless to avert results prejudicial to their interests due to such unnatural influences. It is not the selling of the product in existence that disturbs the market and values so much as the offerings in great volume of that which does not exist, and not expected to be produced. The domestic distribution of hog product is for the moment slackened more or less by the unsettled condition of values. The week's exports were fairly liberal, although not indicating a gain over corresponding week last year. Values at Chicago at the close are on the basis of about $4.50 for hogs, against $5.35 a year ago, a difference of 19 per cent. The average selling price of hogs at Chicago appears to be about $4.75 per 100 pounds gross.

DRESSED HOGS

Receipts have been light for some days past, and under a good demand prices have been firmer. Most of the offerings have been taken at $6.80 to $7.

DAIRY PRODUCE.

BUTTER—The supply is still largely sufficient for the demand, although there has been an increase. A few small lots of American creameries have also been received. They appear to have varied very much in quality, for prices ranged from 21c. to 25c. There is a fair amount of Canadian creamery in the market, but it is not selling with as much freedom as a few days ago. Prices remain the same as before at 26c. to 28c. There is a ready sale for good dairies and prices are steady at 20c. to 24c. The best demand is for rolls, which are firm at 21c. to 24c. for good large, and 23c. to 28c. for pounds, as to quality. Not much business reported in medium butters. Prices range from 15 to 18c.

CHEESE—Dull and unchanged. Cables are easier.

GROCERIES.

CANNED GOODS.

The market has developed no new feature. Packers are holding firm at 90c.; wholesale houses are refusing to buy at that price, fearing that the packers will not remain firm. As all the large holders are in the Association it seems probable that there will be no cutting. Stocks in wholesale hands are light, and all will have to buy within a few weeks. Some houses are asking a slight advance. In tomatoes there has been a large sale of part of Burgess stock, consisting of about 6,500 cases of Ontario, Erie and Clark's pack. The terms are private. The purchasers were Smith & Keighley. There has been a good demand for tomatoes, and prices range from 90c. to $1.10, but one house has made a few sales at 75c. Peas are steady, with a fair demand at 90c. to $1.20.

Fruits are moving out with considerable freedom, and prices are steady, excepting on gallon apples, which are a shade easier.

Fish is steady and unchanged.

COFFEES.

There is but little to note in this market. Sales are being made at former prices. Outside markets are about steady on Rios and Santos, but all mild grades are held with considerable firmness.

☞ The articles contained in this Review are written by experienced representatives of the GROCER, are wholly unbiassed, and are an accurate reflex of the market.

DRIED FRUITS.

Currants are moving quietly at steady prices, ranging from 5⅛c. to 5½c. for barrels.

Dates are dull and unchanged.

Figs are also moving slowly.

Prunes are fairly active, especially the better grades. Low grades are easy.

Raisins are unchanged. All good Valencias are firm at 6¼c. to 6½c. Sultanas are steady, but Malagas are easy.

Peels are quiet and unchanged. Mail advices to hand from Leghorn, under date of 1st inst., furnish the following information: "Candied citron is more inquired for, with some few sales reported for shipment to the United States at the parity of 53s per cwt. f. o. b. Candied orange and lemon peel have been contracted for in limited quantities at 32s and 30s respectively, f. o. b. Olive oil rules firm, with a marked upward tendency for the best eating grades, owing principally to purchases that are daily being made on speculation, indications leading to the belief that the next crop will be a very small one, and probably not so good as the last in point of quality.

SUGARS.

Since the last issue of THE GROCER, the sugar market has passed through a most excited period and prices here have advanced ⅞c. to 1c. per lb. Granulated is now 8½c. at the refineries, and 8⅞c. to 9c. in retailers lots, while all other white sugars have advanced proportionately. Yellows are now held from 6¾c. up, on the spot. Demand has been light all week, though wholesalers have been buying more freely. Several large sales have gone through at the advanced prices. Raws, of which there are only a few Jamaicas held on this market, are higher, being now held at 6¼c. in hogsheads. Further reference is made to the sugar situation in another column.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Syrups are steadily held at the recent advance, but the demand is light. In molasses there is a fair movement at former prices.

TEA.

The local market has been unusually quiet in the past week, with little demand and few transactions. Some low grade Japans that were offered cheap have been snapped up and a few transactions in Young Hyson's have taken place, but most of the other kinds have been neglected. A better demand may be looked for shortly and increased business in the lower grades of Young Hysons, now that nearly everything in the shape of low Japans has been cleared out.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

FLOUR—Dull and easy. Straight rollers are offering at $4.80, and extras at $4.50 without buyers.

BRAN—Not much demand. Cars offered on the track at $12.

WHEAT—The demand is very light. Millers are holding off. Prices are again lower. On the spot No. 2 red and spring is offering at $1.06 and $1.05, with buyers about $1.03 to $1.04. In the West, fall wheat can be bought at $1. Not much doing in Manitoba wheats; rail shipments have ceased, future shipments will be by water. No. 1 hard has changed hands at $1.28 on the track, and No. 1 frosted at $1 on the track. No. 3 frosted is offering at 72c. on the track without buyers.

BARLEY—The feeling is rather easier on more liberal offerings. Inquiry light.

PEAS—Steady, with fair demand. Dealers are purchasing at outside points at 56c.

OATS—Are steadier at the moment, but the feeling is weak. Sales are being made mostly at 31c. for good mixed, with the range of prices 30c. to 32c.

☞ The review of the markets published in the GROCER AND GENERAL STOREKEEPER is based upon information gained from personal application to both seller and buyer, as far as possible and quotations here given reflect, in most cases, the actual prices paid.

THE CANADA SUGAR REFINING CO'Y [LIMITED],

MONTREAL,

Offer for sale all grades of REFINED SUGARS and SYRUPS of the well-known brand of

Redpath

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

JOHN BAKER EDWARDS, P.L D., D.C.L., F.C.S.,

Public Analyst for the District of Montreal, and Professor of Chemistry.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY, MEDICAL FACULTY, MCGILL UNIVERSITY.

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have taken and tested a sample of your "EXTRA GRANULATED" Sugar, and find that it yielded 99·88 per cent. of Pure Sugar. It is practically as pure and good a Sugar as can be manufactured

Yours truly,

G. P. GIRDWOOD.

MONTREAL, April 17, 1889.

BUTTER.

The scarcity of old stock has induced the importation of several lots of States creamery, which have sold at 21c. to 22c. duty paid, besides which some common ladle packed has been received, but such has found no sale, and some of it may be sent back. The lower ports trade has taken the bulk of the offerings of States. Receipts of new have been light, but the scarcity of old will undoubtedly tend to stimulate production, especially when importations have to be made. Local trade has been fair.

CANNED GOODS.

In canned goods there has been no improvement in regard to business owing to the continued slow demand, and the market has ruled quiet with only a small jobbing trade, and prices have remained steady all round. The prospects for the future at present are poor, and holders generally do not look for any change until retail dealers work off the stock already on hand. Lobsters are firm at the recent advance, with few lots offering at $6 per case. The stock of mackerel is very light and values have been well maintained at $5. Salmon is unchanged at $1.70 per dozen. Tomatoes are slow at 90c. to $1 per dozen. Corn is steady at $1.30 to $1.40 for the Erie and Aylmer brand. Peas have ruled quiet and steady at $1.20 per dozen. Canned fruits have been neglected and dull. There has been little enquiry for Armour's meats.

CHEESE.

The first sale of new cheese was made at Brockville at 10c., but none had reached here yesterday. Export business has ceased, as stocks are exhausted, but with a total export of 225,000 boxes reported since the close of navigation, it appears that stocks at that time were underestimated. Prices here now represent local trade values.

Finest fall	11c. @ 11¼c.
Fine do	10¼c. — 10½c.
Medium	9 c. — 10c.

FLOUR.

Continued slow and easy with trade light and demand slow. Holders would shade quotations for round lots, but buyers manifest no interest. Patent winter, $5.70 to $5.85 ; patent spring, $6.10 to $6.45 ; straight roller, $5.15 to $5.35 ; extra, $5 to $5.10 ; superfine, $4.20 to $4.70; city strong baker's, $6; strong baker's, $5.50 to $5.75 ; strong baker's, bags, $2.60 to $2.65 ; superfine, bags, $2 to $2.25 ; extras, bags, $2.30 to $2.50 ; oatmeal, standard, per bag, $1.90 ; oatmeal, granulated, per bag, $2.

GRAIN.

The market continued very quiet, there being no movement of importance. Offerings of wheat were light and values unchanged. Peas were firmly held. Oats and barley unchanged. No. 1 hard Manitoba, $1.25 to $1.28 ; No. 2 hard Manitoba, $1.23 to $1.25 ; peas, 72½c. to 75c. per 66 lbs. afloat ; oats, 31½c. to 32c. ; barley, 50c.

MAPLE SYRUP AND SUGAR.

Syrup has been in large supply and fair demand at 50c. to 75c. per gallon as to quality, with sugar steady at 6c. to 8c. per lb.

MOLASSES.

The market for molasses is in a strong position at present owing to the light stocks held here and in New York, there being not a gallon in bond, and not 200 hogsheads in the latter city, which is something that has not been seen before in an experience of many years. The volume of business transacted here has been small on account of the light offerings and holders are looking for a higher range in prices soon, but at present we quote Barbadoes at 40c., Trinidad at 32c. and 33c., and Antigua at 34c.

SUGARS.

The feature of the sugar market has been the continued strong and excited cables from abroad which have caused considerable excitement in this market, and a very strong feeling has prevailed among refiners, and since our last report prices have advanced 5/8c. on granulated, to 8 3/8c., and ¼c. to ½c. on yellows, to 6¾c. to 7⅛c. as to quality at the factory. The demand has been good and an active business has been transacted at the advance. A private cable from Greenock reports the market excited and 2s. higher. Another from London says, "the market here extremely excited and prices have risen 2s." Later private despatches from New York quote granulated at 8½c. A late private cable from London says market easier for best, but cane not likely to be influenced by it.

SYRUP.

The feeling in the syrup market has been strong owing to the strong and excited sugar markets, and prices have an upward tendency although no change in values has taken place, but refiners expect that as soon as the demand improves prices will advance. Business during the week has been quiet, and only a few lots have changed hands at 3¾c. and 4c.

TEA AND COFFEE.

The demand for teas has been fair, and the market has ruled fairly active and firm, with a larger volume of business, and some fair-sized lots have changed hands at better prices. Stocks here are not large, and with continued strong advices from New York holders generally are looking forward to a more active market and higher prices. There has been a fair inquiry for coffee, and a number of small lots have changed hands at firm prices. We quote : Mocha, 27c. and 30c. ; Java, 22c. and 27c.. and Rio, 17c. and 20c.

OILS.

There has been a good demand for oils, and the market has been more active with a larger volume of business. Some round lots of Newfoundland cod have been sold at 40c., but small lots are quoted higher. New seal oil is quoted higher than a year ago, although the catch has been much larger, and prices for round lots are at 49c., but small quantities could not be bought less than 50c. to 52½c. Linseed raw is unchanged at 57c., and pale seal at 45c. to 47½c.

HOG PRODUCTS.

Trade in hog products has been of a quiet character. Canadian pork is held up as present prices are unsatisfactory to packers and the bulk of the trade is in western stock, but not great at that. There has been a fair movement in lard at steady prices, while meats have been steady.

EGGS.

Although considerable business has been done in eggs offerings have continued heavy and prices low. Some lines of cooking stock have been sold at 7½c. to 9c., but the quality was not desirable. States stock has continued in liberal supply and tends to keep the market depressed. Car loads of Canadian for future delivery have sold at 12¼c. Altogether the market is over supplied, even though the consumption at this particular season is heavy. We quote, fresh 12c. to 12½c., held stock 9c. to 11c., and inferior stock 7½c. to 8½c. per dozen.

SPECIAL TO OUR READERS.

As the design of THE CANADIAN GROCER is to benefit mutually all interested in the business, we would request all parties ordering goods or making purchases of any description from houses advertising with us to mention in their letter that such advertisement was noticed in THE CANADIAN GROCER.

BUSINESS SYSTEM.

No person can open a business and succeed unless he or she has either capital or a thorough knowledge of the business. If capital is to the fore, a much larger expenditure than was first intended will be encountered and disappointment ensue, over-ordering of goods will be certain to take place, and inside of two years double the amount of goods will accumulate on the shelves, in the show cases, in the drawers, in fact stowed away for want of room to show them, when nothing of the kind was at first even thought of. After stock taking comes the pruning knife. Novelties are to be dealt with very briefly. Nothing is to be ordered but barely what is necessary to bring the stock into selling condition ; but new and very beautiful goods are continually on the market, and some purchases must be made to meet trade wants and certain competition. At the end of another year stock is taken and found to be not much reduced, and the result is very likely to be that the capital has either bought the experience and brought to the surface the necessary business qualities (if any are there) or a sell out at a sacrifice will take place. Very little need be said of him who undertakes a business with neither capital or a knowledge of it. The result is very likely to be failure, unless he should develop remarkable business qualities and show to the wholesale trade that he has the capacity to carry him through. To him who has a thorough knowledge of all the details of the retail trade success is most likely to crown his efforts under the usual conditions of trade. The present keen competition in the wholesale trade does much to sustain a retail dealer of this character. To ensure success in this case there are certain necessary conditions which must be observed —close personal attention to all the details, close calculation of the daily cost of running the business, light, fuel, rent, freights, postage, etc., not forgetting the cost of living and living within income, and, if possible, boarding your clerks and knowing where they are at night, selecting the best and having no more than are necessary. There are many little matters which a good clerk will know intuitively ; such as showing goods to the best advantage, dressing the windows sufficiently often and changing the dress every two or three days, and keeping the glass perfectly clean. The show cases need the same attention in every particular that the windows require ; in fact everything in and about needs to be kept scrupulously neat and in as perfect order as possible.

THE WASTE OF COMPETITION.

The following from the pen of Mr. Erastus Wiman, on "The Waste of Competition," is a welcome contribution to a subject which is engaging the attention of "men who think." It could hardly appear at a more opportune time than when the question is being dealt with by the Dominion Parliament, although we must confess that, judging from the treatment of the Anti-Combines Bill at Ottawa, we fear the number of members of the House of Commons who can be safely so classed are few. Thoughtful people are everywhere asking, Where is all this competition going to end? The very forces which every day are being added for the extension of trade are but accumulated co-action for a still fiercer struggle in the field of competition. With the steady increase in the cost of doing business is marching side by side the equally steady decrease in profits. The conflux of the two portends disaster. From the ruin will spring the "survival of the fittest," in the form of either trusts or monopolies. We are inclined to think the danger ahead is monopoly, and at present can see no escape, unless it be by making common cause by just such "trade agreements" as the wholesale grocers have now in force, and the justice of which every one admits :—

In response to a request to suggest some reform that would accomplish a good purpose, it no doubt would be considered rank heresy if one, for instance, should advocate the universal regulation of competition. Yet there is no luxury which the American people are finding quite so expensive to day as that of unbridled competition. The outcry which is made against combination, drifting into trusts, corners and agreements to regulate prices, is so blinding that the real mischiefs resulting from unrestricted competition are lost sight of. We talk of losses as resulting from speculation; we are thunderstruck with the expenses from business extravagance, in rentals, clerk hire, and from the cost of living, losses by bad debts, interest charges, etc., but all these expenses and losses sink into insignifiance compared with the losses resulting from injudicious and hopeless competition. There are whole groups of industries, there are great ranges of interests, whose profits are paralyzed by an insane attempt to make money by cutting prices.

The worst part of it, too, is that the public are in no wise benefited. It costs, for instance, more to keep up two establishments in a small town than it does one, and yet the business often to be done is barely sufficient for one. Who pays the expenses of the second concern? Somebody does, for the children have to be fed and educated, the wife dressed, the pew rent paid, the horses provided for, and all other expenses carried. According to Edward Atkinson, of Boston, whose insight into economic matters is a national advantage, it costs more in some places to deliver bread by the baker after it leaves the oven than it does to grow the grain, grind it into flour, transport it to the point of consumption, and bake it into loaves. Now, if two baker's carts are employed in the delivery of the bread, where one would just as speedily perform the task, the cost of delivery is just double that of all it has hitherto cost to produce and handle the grain and the flour. Who is is benefited by the additional baker's cart? Certainly not the first baker. For probably all the profit which he had hoped to make disappears with the advent of the second baker, who, in turn, finds that, like the Irishman's goose, "what was a little too much for one is not quite enough for two." The only way the two bakers can continue to exist is to make the public pay the additional expense, which of course in the end they do. So that, in this case as in ten thousand others, competition does not cheapen, but begets an added burden to the cost of existence.

It will not do to argue that competition is not a blessed thing; yet those who have gone through the mill can hardly pull themselves together and aver that it is. For instance, those who netted a loss of fifty millions of dollars, sunk out of sight in the West Shore Railway, must have had an eye-opener as to the cost of competition, and have reached a conclusion that competition in the construction of railways is at least a dangerous business. On the other hand, in addition to the direct loss of the West Shore investors, the shareholders in the New York Central and Hudson River road have had hung about their necks for all time a burden in the shape of interest on another fifty millions of dollars for the privilege of making forever secure the monopoly against competition within their precinct of transportation. Are the public any better off for, first, having among them lost fifty millions of dollars by foreclosure, and then being relied upon to pay just enough greater transportation charges in order to liquidate the interest on the remaining fifty millions of dollars as long as grass grows and water runs?

Turning from efforts of competition on a gigantic scale, exemplified in the railroad situation throughout the country to-day, involving millions and millions in the aggregate, and imperilling the income of thousands of investors, let us return to more trivial matters and ask, for instance, what money has ever been made in handling sugar, the world over, till within the last few months? How many team loads of sugar have been hauled up hill and down dale without a cent of profit? How many thousands of millions of pounds have been weighed and papered and twined by hundreds of thousands without a cent—a solitary cent—of profit? Who is the better off for all of this sacrifice? Take the vast salt interest over this broad land. Salt, even more than sugar, is as essential as air and water, and a fair profit should be had for handling the vast output of this important article of commerce. It is unreasonable to expect that the price should be continuously kept so low that there would not be a vestige of return for all the labour, all the capital and all the risk involved. Yet not only is there no profit in the salt business as a whole, but owing to the absence of any gain the oldest and most wasteful methods of making salt are adhered to. No one will put any capital into a business so cut up that by no possibility can it yield a fair interest; and economies which by combination of interests, introduction of new modes and the employment of fresh capital, might be produced are denied to the public, who are in no sense benefited by a senseless competition, while the manufacturers shuffle along, disgusted and disheartened at the prospect.

Does anyone suppose that petroleum would be as cheap as it is to-day if the Standard Oil Co. had not existed? This vast monopoly has been most persistently abused, but it has done more to help the world toward a cheap and safe artificial light, and thus done more for mankind, than all the contributions of its detractors combined. The early and wide distribution of American petroleum throughout the civilized universe, the perfect safety of an article which in less careful hands might have been most dangerous, the infinite variety of uses to which its product has been devoted, and above all, their cheapness, are testimonies to the beneficial success of the greatest of combinations in one of the chiefest essentials of existence. In the matter of transportation of petroleum through the facility of pipe lines, conveying by the law of gravity the raw material from the point of production to the point of manufacture and distribution, a saving has been effected of stupendous proportions for the eventual benefit of the public. Far more has, in this new mode of freighting, been achieved by combination than was ever possible to competition. For the expenditure of the thirty millions necessary to provide these pipe lines would have been out of the range of possibilities for a score of competitors. The more the competitors, the less the likelihood of such a beneficent result.

But not alone in petroleum are the benefits of combination in the matter of price and quality seen. The range of advantage is surprisingly large, as admirably shown in a series of striking comparisons by my friend, Mr. Frank B. Thurber, before the State Senate Committee on Trusts, and more fully amplified in his philosophic speech before the Merchants' Association at their recent banquet in Boston. The position of Mr. Thurber on this matter of industrial combinations is a most significant indication of the oscillation of the pendulum of thought on this subject. He was the spirited and successful leader of the anti-monopoly movement in the Empire State, and was then just as sincere as he is now, in his thoughtful and intelligent appreciation of the necessities of combination, for the good of the people, as for those more directly concerned.

No one should belittle the dangers of monopoly. But it is just as unwise to forget the evils of rampant and unsafe competition. What is the remedy as between the two evils? Perhaps some mode of safety providing for about one-third of the community would meet the bill. It would certainly pay two-thirds of the traders of the land to board and lodge the remaining one-third, if they would simply get out of business and cease to annoy and impoverish by expensive competition. If one third of the railways, one-third of the manufacturers and one-third of the stores and offices were to cease to do business to-morrow, the other two-thirds could better afford to keep the parties concerned at the best hotels in the land, and let them go to the theatre every night, than stand the terrible expense which undue and injudicious competition now creates. In the end the public pay for all these extraordinary expenses incident to competition. One way or another the obligations must be met. Failure, loss and disaster may come and do come to individuals in the meantime; but in the great balancing up of a series of years the accounts are all squared in the clearing house of the purse of the public. It must be so, or business would come to a standstill; but meantime it is not a problem that calls for reform, this unlicensed expensive and disastrous saturnalia of competition?

It would not be surprising if the writer of these lines should be metaphorically hung, drawn and quartered for presuming to crowd so much heresy into a space so short; but he will have the gratification of knowing that not a few thinking men agree with him in thus giving expression to what in the minds of a vast number of people must be a latent thought.

A BIG PURCHASE.

There has been a good deal of talk, both in the grocery trade and among the public generally, over the reported purchase of the St. Leon Water property by Messrs. Eby, Blain & Co., wholesale grocers, of this city. The report is, however, not altogether correct. The springs have for some time past been controlled by Messrs. James Good & Co., of this city, and Mr. Langlois, of Quebec. For lack of capital, however, the business has never been properly developed. Messrs. Eby, Blain & Co. saw that the character of the water was established beyond all doubt, and decided to invest the necessary capital to place it properly on the market. It is needless to say that it will be a success, as all this firm's previous investments have been. Mr. Eby returned from Quebec on Tuesday, having completed all arrangements for taking over the property. They will act as wholesale agents for the Dominion and will carry on the business in connection with their wholesale grocery. The property comprises about 28 acres, situated about 50 miles below Montreal. It is a delightful summer resort. There is a fine large sanitarium on the grounds which was erected at a cost of over $60,000.

NO COMPROMISE!

A prominent wholesaler in this city, in conversation with the writer, the other day, remarked that, so far as he had been able to ascertain, the general feeling among the merchants of Montreal, was not to accept of any compromise, since, added he, though occasionally the innocent and unfortunate may suffer, it cannot, under ordinary circumstances, be otherwise than that some one should occupy that position in the general interest. He went on to say that everywhere complaint was made that too many persons were able to set up in business. The fact of there being too many caused some to go to the wall, and, upon the principle of the survival of the fittest, the least eligible of the parties concerned failed. As a rule the man who became insolvent, had erred in some way or other. If he had not wilfully failed, he had been guilty of mistakes of some kind which had been prejudicial to parties other than himself. Such persons ought to be weeded out in the same way as, in thinning his plants, the gardener always plucked up and threw aside those which were the worst. Commerce was a field in which only the fittest could thrive. Then why fill it up to the detriment of those who would most certainly, under ordinary circumstances, achieve the best results? The man with whom a compromise had been effected had been specially favoured at the expense of his more worthy competitor against whom he could not contend upon equal conditions. There should, he thought, be a fair field and no favour. If a man failed of success let him retire so that other parties might have a chance, and possibly, after he had learned by experience what he did not know before, his opportunity might come again. Meantime, he for one would never vote for a compromise, although he might continue to be outvoted at meetings of creditors.—[Montreal Trade Review.

WHAT DEBT HAS DONE.

The Bible distinctly says the borrower is the servant of the lender. It is a bad state of things when you have to go down some other street to escape meeting some one whom you owe. If young men knew what is the despotism of being in debt more of them would keep out of it. What did debt do for Lord Bacon, with a mind towering above the centuries? It induced him to take bribes and convict himself as a criminal before all ages. What did debt do for Walter Scott? Broken-hearted at Abbotsford. Kept him writing until his hand gave out in paralysis to keep the sheriff away from his pictures and statuary. Better for him if he had minded the maxim which he had chiseled over the fireplace at Abbotsford, "Waste not, want not."

In our cities there are families that move every May day to get into proximity to other grocers and meat shops and apothecaries. They owe everybody within half a mile of where they now live, and next May they will move into a distant part of the city, finding a new lot of victims. Meanwhile you, the honest family in the new house, are bothered day by day by the knocking at the door of disappointed bakers, and butchers, and dry goods dealers, and newspaper carriers, and you are asked where your predecessor is. You do not know. It was arranged you should not know. Meanwhile your predecessor has gone to some distant part of the city, and the people who have had anything to sell have sent their wagons and stopped there to solicit the "valuable" custom of the new neighbour, and he, the new neighbour, with great complacency and with an air of affluence, orders the finest steaks and the highest priced sugars, and the best of the canned fruits, and, perhaps all the newspapers. And the debts will keep on accumulating until he gets his goods on the 30th of next April in the furniture cart.

Now, let me say, if there are any such persons in the house, if you have any regard for your own convenience, you had better remove to some greatly distant part of the city. It is too bad that, having had all the trouble of consuming the goods, you should also have the trouble of being dunned! And let me say that if you find that this pictures your own photograph, instead of being in church you ought to be in the penitentiary! No wonder that so many of our merchants fail in business. They are swindled into bankruptcy by these wandering Arabs, these nomads of city life. They cheat the grocer out of the green apples which make them sick, the physician who attends their distress, and the undertaker who fits them out for departure from the neighbourhood where they owe everybody when they pay the debt of nature, the only debt they ever do pay!

Now our young men are coming up in this depraved state of commercial ethics, and I am solicitous about them. I want to warn them against being slaughtered on the sharp edge of debt. You want many things you have not, my young friends. You shall have them if you have patience and honesty and industry. Certain lines of conduct always lead out to certain successes.

Bring me a young man and tell me what his physical health is, and what his mental calibre, and what his habits, and I will tell you what will be his destiny for this world, and his destiny for the world to come, and I will not make five inaccurate prophecies out of five hundred. All this makes me solicitous in regard to young men, and I want to make them nervous in regard to the contraction of unpayable debts. I give you a parapraph from my own experience.—[Talmage.

TIN PLATES.

The changes for the better that are taking place in the quality of tin plates will not only be welcomed by the manufacturer of tinware, but by the housewife and all users of the article.

The use of tin plate, or goods manufactured from tin plates, has become so extensive that every one will be somewhat interested in its improvement.

For the last few years it has become almost impossible to procure an article of tinware that would last more than a few weeks, or months at the farthest, and the result has been that for cooking utensils enamelled or granite ware has very largely supplanted tinware for this purpose.

Now that the tin plate manufacturers are coming back to the old style of plates, principally brought about by the efforts of some of the leading American importers, we may expect to see the old time bright and cleanly-looking tin utensils adorning the kitchen walls.

The low price at which tinware can be manufactured and sold, even when the best quality of tin plates are used, brings it within the purchasing power of the poorest, so that there will always be a good demand for it. This will be increased as the quality of the plates are improved, and the consumer's confidence once more regained.

For roofing purposes it has been extensively used. Roofs covered with tin plates forty, fifty and sixty years ago are good to-day. The same will not be said of the plates that have been used for this purpose during the last ten years.

The quantity of tinware that can be bought to-day for $1 would surprise the old time tinsmith, who would consider $2.70 about a fair price for a wash boiler. What would he think of the following incident related by an exchange. "A few days ago a woman and her two small boys got on a St. Louis 'bob tail' street car. The former was carrying in one hand a coal scuttle, and in the other a large tin bucket; the little fellows were manfully struggling at each end of a wash boiler, and all these articles were filled with smaller pieces of tinware. The boiler was placed on the front platform of the car, greatly to the driver's annoyance and disgust, and the coal scuttle and tin bucket were set in the middle of the aisle, where they called forth imprecations from each new male passenger by successfully tripping him up. If indignant looks could kill, that woman would have been a corpse before riding five blocks, but all unconscious of the bitter feelings she was engendering, she excitedly related to an inoffensive and defenceless fellow passenger the bargains she had made, as follows: 'The entoire lot cost me but two dollars an' siventy cints, an' it's an ilegant bargan, for it's as dacent a poile of tinware as can be found in the counthry.' And so on, until the passengers almost wished they might die. Nevertheless it is a good demonstration oeth f remarkable cheapness of cheap tinware, when a street car load can be purchased for less than $3."

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association was held in Mr. Mills' office Tuesday evening. Nothing of importance was transacted.

Honey bees have been experimented with to some extent in Manitoba and the Territories with good results. Though the summer season is short here, yet the days are long and clear, and the bees can work almost continuously. There is very little damp, cloudy weather in this country, consequently the bees are able to get in as much work here in the course of a summer as they could in some countries where the summer season is considerably longer. The natural flora of our prairies is also very favorable to bee culture. No doubt honey will soon be produced in this country in abundance.

MANUAL TRAINING.

The subject of industrial training is treated thoughtfully in a report to the Pennsylvania Legislature by a commissioner appointed by that body, comprising the presidents of the Pennsylvania State College, the president of Girard College and others well qualified to investigate the subject. The commission prepared a Bill for the general introduction and maintenance of a system of manual training in connection with the public schools, and ask for an appropriation of $500,000 to carry their scheme into execution.

The new movement for popularizing manual training as a part of public school instruction, the report states, began about ten years ago with the establishment of the St. Louis Manual Training School. Since that time, but particularly within the last five years, it has spread very rapidly, until it has come to be a factor of the greatest importance in public education in many parts of the country. An account of the most important institutions of this kind in the United States appears in the appendix to the commissioner's report. Some of these institutions are of a special character, privately supported, and others form a branch of the general school system, or of a special course in connection with one or more schools. The manual training schools introduce into their curriculum the same educational studies as are found in other schools, and aim thus to develop the intellectual faculties not less than the physical. In the same way shop-work, when introduced as a part of the prescribed course of any public school, is not allowed to diminish the amount of attention given to other studies; and it is found that the school time which would thus at first sight appear to be lost to those studies is fully made up and often more than made up by the increased freshness, aptitude and mental alertness which the pupil acquires from his manual exercises. The commission are persuaded that manual training processes in the public schools have become well enough established to enable any community to enter upon them intelligently and successfully; that the training involves no great expense or difficulty, and that it should be introduced as rapidly as possible into every grade, beginning with kindergarten work. It will not diminish the vigor and efficiency of the public schools, but will increase both ; it will not divert our children away from industrial pursuits, but direct them toward them ; it will not result in the teaching of trades by the public schools, but will train the body of youth intelligently prepared to enter upon all trades ; it will not interfere with the highest intellectual training of those who are designed for professional pursuits, but will give a body of common knowledge and common skill which will be of incalculable value to the students of all professions ; it will not lower the standard of instruction, but will elevate it ; and apart from its influence on the schools, it will help to give dignity and efficiency to every form of useful labor. Wherever an attempt has been made to introduce manual training into public schools—whether in a special school, as in Philadelphia, or in the general system, as in New York, New Haven and many other places—whether it has been supported by appropriations from the municipal treasury or by private contributions of public-spirited citizens, the result has been the same; teachers, pupils and parents vie with each other in their testimony to its healthful and beneficial influence.—[Iron Age.

A PERAMBULATING ADVERTISEMENT.

Among the many facilities that modern competition compels the retail grocer to adopt perhaps the most important is the delivery wagon. Not only is it a necessity in a business of any magnitude, but it answers the purpose of an advertisement, and when an establishment can boast of several wagons, it is certain that the proprietor's name and business will be kept from dying out of the public memory. No doubt many of our enterprising and successful retailers fully appreciate the fact that many ways of advertising are open to them, of which among the least expensive is a handsome vehicle for the delivery of goods, but, judging by some specimens that daily appear in Hudson Street, in view of our office windows, the trade generally regard their wagons as a means of fetching and carrying goods, purely and simply. Otherwise surely they would take pains to renovate the vehicles. Paint is cheap now-a-days, and the dingy rattle-traps that many grocers employ could be made respectable if not attractive with a single coat of a tasteful color. Consider the disadvantage you labor under, reader, in sending out goods in a vehicle that offends the eye. Your store may be a wonder in point of decorative beauty, the quality and arrangement of your goods may be attractive in the highest degree, but where one person enters your store a thousand will see your waggon, and if its appearance repels them they may judge you and your business by this single specimen of your facilities. It is the aim of all ambitious merchants to draw custom in every possible manner. No merchant ever was known to admit that trade was too brisk, and in every business there is a greater or less percentage of loss of custom from various causes during the year. Therefore no means should be neglected that promises to bring new business to the store. While the delivery service should first of all be efficient, the vehicles should be made as attractive as possible. The owner's name ought to be legibly displayed, with his address and business. Some of the most successful manufacturers make a point of getting up their trucks and wagons in the highest style of the painter's art, displaying novel designs, and even landscapes and figure painting. They find it pays, even when the outlay has been heavy. The painting of a number of wagons in a peculiar color or colors, producing a striking and novel effect, is practised by some business men. These being soon recognized as peculiar to that merchant or manufacturer, become admirable yet comparatively inexpensive advertisements. A practice that is common among the dry goods stores—that of putting the drivers of delivery wagons into neat uniforms—has been found to work well, and might be tried with good results by our first-class retail grocers. In this respect, however, as in many other points, the grocery trade lingers years behind the dry goods men. But with the increasing competition of modern business and the spread of the influence of the trade press, the grocery trade may yet be spurred on to a level with the most progressive merchants in other lines.—[Merchants' Review.

WHAT CONSTITUTES A SET OF STOVE FURNITURE.

An interesting discussion is in progress in The Metal Worker as to "what constitutes a set of stove furniture?" It is a question we very often hear asked in Canada. There are a few articles which commonly go with a stove, but from competition and other causes this list is very often, unnecessarily we think, increased. Our friends on the other side of the line appear to be suffering from the same cause, for one of them in his letter says : "One difficulty encountered is the fact that the average customer considers when a cook stove is purchased the furniture is given with the stove, and if one dealer gives 15 articles and another 51, it simply shows which dealer is the most generous. As the law makers have never decided what articles should be given with a stove, it would be a good plan for the stove dealers in every town to agree on a list and all give the same. If the number of articles is what draws trade, by including a few quarts of clothes pins and a box of matches the average customer should be satisfied, from a mathematical view at least. The following list would appear to include all that is necessary to properly furnish a stove :—

1 copper-bottom wash-boiler.	1 dipper.
1 copper-bottom tea-kettle.	1 skimmer.
1 steamer.	2 square pans
1 dripping pan.	1 biscuit cutter.
1 coffee-pot.	1 pot.
2 basins.	1 kettle.
	1 spider.

Another writer says : We have a price for the stove alone, which is generally the dealer's list at present rates of discount, and also a price for the stove with furniture. Our first inquiry of a customer is whether he wants a No. 8 or No. 9 wood or coal stove, with or without the furniture. We get our furniture off the manufacturers, and have it put up one set in a box and labelled. Hollow-ware is not put into the box, as we found it was too heavy to pack with the tinware. This method saves a great deal of annoyance, as when a sale is made the teamster puts on to the truck one stove, one box of furniture, one piece of pipe, the necessary hollow-ware, and the thing is done. Under the old system we had to run from the wareroom, to the garret in order to pick up a set, which, as we sell, consists of a wash boiler, dish-pan, tea-kettle, steamer, coffee-pot, tea-pot, dipper, soup, ladle, skimmer, 2-quart pan, 3-pint pan, 3 pie plates, two pot covers, two fluted cake pans, one dust pan, one grater, one B cutter, two drip pans, one fire shovel, one spider, one pot, one kettle, and the poker, lifter and scraper, which come in oven of stove. Sets like this cost $4.90 for No. 8, and $5.30 for No. 9. We get $8 additional for a stove with furniture, or deduct this amount if furniture is not taken.

A HARDWARE DRUMMER.

Not long ago a drummer for a hardware house started out. He was a giant in strength. He had two strong grips (or hand bags) made, and in them he put up iron samples weighing about 185 pounds in each. He would alight from a train with his two innocent-looking grips, and the hotel porter would make a rush for him.

"Right this way for the Hardcase House. Carry the grips up to the hotel, boss?"

"Yes," Smith would say (his name was Smith). He would then hand the two grips to that porter, and let go as soon as he saw the unsuspecting victim had hold of them. There would be a wild flourish of feet, a loud crash, and the porter would go down as if he had been shot.

"What are you throwing my grips around in that manner for?" Smith would yell, as if mad.

The porter would jump up, thinking he had stumbled, apologize, and make a grab at the grips. Then he would pull away until his suspender straps would break, and would say, "B-b-boss, what are these things? I can't lift 'em."

Smith would take hold of them lightly, gently lift them up, and say : "Oh, well, if you don't want to carry them I'll go to the other hotel."

Then, calling the other porter, he would give them to him. Of course the other fellow would take hold of them with a smile and a firm grip, only to go down on the platform in defeat with a thump. Then he would rise, look at the grip, gaze at Smith awhile, then leave, muttering something about voodooism. Smith would then throw them into a wagon and go up to a hotel.

At the door he would call a bell-boy, and as he pushed his way through the crowd he would hand them to the poor, over-worked boy, and the crowd would be astonished to see him go down with those grips, the fall making a noise that sounded like a freight train wreck, and shook the house. Smith would pick them up himself, and remark to the landlord that it was a shame to overwork his help in any such manner, and he would then walk toward the register, and the landlord would then rush up to him and say :

"Why, them boys are lazy. Here give me your grip, sir," and he would take them.

Of course Smith's remarks attracted all eyes, and as the landlord got a good hold of the handles Smith would let go suddenly. The spectators would be astonished to see the landlord's back suddenly hump itself like a cat on a back fence, his eyes bulge out like marbles on a mud wall, and then see him fall full length between those grips with a crash that brought people out across the way. He would get up slowly, rub his back, walk around the grips, and then go and swear, as Smith would take them up and then put them on the counter.

Then the fun would begin. The clerk grabbed one of them to set it off the counter, and it would'nt move. He looked astonished, and then spit on his hands and tried to lift it, as his face turned red and knots swelled upon his forehead. But that grip wouldn't move. Then all the crowd would try their hand, and finally all swear it was some trick. Smith would then lift it off gently, and ask them what ailed them. This would make the crowd feel his arms, and they found out he had muscles like rocks for hardness. Then it dawned on them that Smith had heavy grips for a sell, and they were correct.

BANKRUPT STOCKS.

Mr. F. W. Vanluven, one of Stuart, Harvey & Co's travellers, in a letter written from Owen Sound, asking us to change the address of his paper, says :—I value THE GROCER very highly ; it seems to me it improves with each issue, or I can find something new to admire in it. Glad to see the stand you are taking on all the live trade questions of the day. I have watched with very great interest the discussion in your columns regarding compromises and bankrupt stocks, and I am in hopes something practical and beneficial will result in the end.

In talking with retail merchants, I find they pronounce very strongly against the indiscriminate granting of compromises and the disposition that is made of bankrupt stocks. As has been remarked before, these are certainly great evils, but I'm afraid all this talk will end in smoke. Why don't storekeepers all over take the matter into hand, and strike while the iron is hot. Let us have something practical ; let there be some definite action. I do not pretend to be able to offer any suggestions myself, but I should like to see some satisfactory solution reached. To my mind one of the best suggestions yet given was contained in your last issue, in an editorial regarding "bankrupt stocks," viz.: that such stocks "should be assorted and sold in job lots to the highest bidder, so that all the dealers in the place may have a chance to buy a part." As has been urged, retail merchants should organize themselves into associations in every town and village of any size. In questions like this, affecting the interests of the store-keeper, nothing can be accomplished without organized, united and determined effort. In conclusion I hope this discussion will continue, and that wholesale merchants, who are already organized in their own interests, will be compelled to take this matter in hand.

The Markets

TORONTO, April 25, 1889.

GROCERIES.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been a fair demand for most seasonable lines, but prices are the same. Tomatoes are selling freely, especially the low-priced ones, of which there appear to be a few thousand cases on the market ; but as the consumptive demand is very active it is quite probable that all the cheap goods will soon be worked off. Statistically the position is favourable to higher prices, and holders of good brands will no doubt get the full prices asked before the close of the present season. Values range from 75c. to $1.10, according to the brand. Corn is steady and unchanged. A few sales have been made by packers at 90c., and on Wednesday last a lot of about 1,500 cases was sold at less. Another lot was offered at 82½c., but afterwards withdrawn, and is now held at 90c. Stocks in jobbers' hands are beginning to run low, and they will have to replenish within two or three weeks, when an advance may be expected, as packers say they will not sell under 90c.

Peas are steady and in good demand at 90c. to $1.10.

There is also a fair movement in fruits, including peaches, pears and plums. Apples are slow and easy.

COFFEES.

On the spot a quiet trade at steady prices is reported. Rios are jobbing at 21c., and selling in a retail way at 22c. Stocks of all kinds are very light here. Nothing definite can be learned regarding the Rio coffee crop, but the News says that it will be next to impossible to export 4,500,000 bags during the present crop.

CREAM OF TARTAR.

Prices here are stiffening. Foreign markets are higher, and advancing.

DRIED FRUIT.

There is very little of importance to note in this market. Demand is light, and prices are unchanged. Currants are getting into smaller compass, and spot stocks are held firmly at quotations. Prunes are moving with considerable freedom, considering the influences operating against them, namely, cheap domestic fruit.

Raisins are in fair request. Valencias are scarce and very firm at 6¼c. to 6½c. Elemes are offering more freely, and selling fairly well at 6¼c. in the absence of prime Valencias.

The following stock of dried fruit was held in England 31st ult.

	1889.	1888.
Currants—London, tons	7,679	9,883
Liverpool, tons	4,500	4,566
Total, tons	12,179	14,449
Raisins—Valencia, tons	554	1,589
Eleme and Chesme, tons	717	437
Sultana, tons	1,783	1,658
Figs—Skeleton cases	1,050	317
bags	1,271	8,871
Dates—Boxes	66,715	64,979
Skins	21,668	23,451

SUGARS.

Retailers continue to buy very sparingly—that is, those of them who were not fortunate enough to lay in stocks before the rise commenced. Some of them claim to have enough to carry them into August next, but these are very few in number. There appears to be a feeling among many that prices will soon decline, as is usually the case after a rapid advance such as the present. With this view we cannot agree. In the present instance the advance has been quite legitimate, being due to the scarcity of raws all over the world. The price now is not abnormally high ; the last few years of depression have accustomed consumers to a low range of prices, but raws are still below the average of the last forty years, and for several years before the depression granulated was selling at 1c. per pound higher than now. The visible supply of sugar in the world, according to latest mail and telegraph dates is 994,088 tons, against 1,229,028 tons this time last year. Advices from all producing countries are strong, and prices are advancing. In Canada the Wholesale Grocers' Guild reduced the prices of granulated ⅛c. on Saturday last. This, however, was not due to any weakness in the market, but to a misunderstanding. The St. Lawrence Refinery put up granulated to 8½c. in Montreal on Tuesday, thinking that the Canada had done the same. The Guild advanced to 8⅞ to 9c. The change was not made, but the Guild could not conveniently rectify the error until Saturday. As the Canada has since advanced to 8½c., we are certain of an advance in the wholesale price on or before Saturday of at least ⅛c., if not more. The St. Lawrence advanced whites ⅛c. yesterday. Yellows are strong, and advancing. The lowest price quoted by refiners is 7¼ c., but wholesale houses continue to sell from 6¾c. up.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Syrups are higher and stronger. Molasses have also advanced and are now firm. Barbadoes are selling at 40c. to 42c. in puncheons and 43c. to 45c. in barrels. The same quotations will also apply to Porto Rico's. Outside markets have advanced about 3c. to 5c.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—The supply of good butter is barely sufficient for the demand. The latter part of last week brought in an increased supply, especially of fresh western and northern rolls, and prices eased off about one cent. Receipts, however, during the first few days of this week have not been so liberal, and prices are steadier at the moment. The market is, however, in such a condition that a slight increase would break prices at any moment. A few lots of American have arrived, but they were not received with much favour, and it is doubtful if further importations will be made, excepting at lower prices. New York dealers have been offering good imitation creamery, f.o.b., there at 14c. During the past few days large rolls have been selling freely at 20c. to 24c. for good choice quality ; pound rolls have sold up to 27c. and 28c. Medium quality large rolls have been quiet at 17c. to 19c. ; only a few have arrived. Receipts of dairy tubs have been light, and most of them are last season's make ; the best have brought about 22c. to 23c., while common sold down to 16c. Creameries are dragging ; they are too high priced for buyers ; dealers have been getting 27c. to 28c. for them, but they are now offering at 25c. to 26c.

CHEESE—New are selling in a small way on the spot at about 11c., and at the factory a few small lots have changed hands at 10c. Old are nominally unchanged, but holders are endeavouring to work them off by offering at lower prices. Finest seem to be selling about 11c. to 11½.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

APPLES—The market has been quiet all week and prices have been easier. Nothing is doing in an export way. Late mail advices from Great Britain are unfavourable. On the spot a few consignments are coming forward from country shippers and sales are being made at 75c. to $1.50 as to quality.

BEANS—Demand is light. Small lots are moved at $1.40 to $1.60 for good to prime stock with a few fancy at $1.80. Jobbing lots sold at $1.35.

DRIED APPLES—Not many consignments are coming and these few are hard to sell. Retailers are not buying many and jobbers are not willing to pay over 2¾c. to 3c. for them. Retail lots are nominal at 3½c. Evaporated are also dull and weak. Car lots are offered on the spot at 5c., and smaller quantities at 6c. to 6½c.

EGGS — The Egg Dealers' Association dropped prices on the spot to 11c. on Monday and the general trade are gradually coming down to that basis, though a few of them are still getting 11½c. to 12c. Receipts are not superabundant, all offering being wanted. There is still an occasional car of American offered.

HAY AND STRAW—There is a pretty slow market for all kinds of hay excepting choice timothy in small bales. For this quality there is a ready sale at $14 on the track. Other grades range from $12 to $13.50. Mixed are quoted at $10 to $11.50. Straw is quiet at $7.50 to $9.50.

HIDES AND SKINS—Movement of all kinds is light and prices are the same. Green hides are quoted at 2¾c. to 4¾c. as to grade and 5¼c. to 5½c. for choice to best cured. Sheepskins are dull at $1.25 to $1.50. Calfskins are more plentiful and dealers are buying at 5c. to 6c.

MAPLE SYRUP—Receipts are increasing and the market is beginning to show signs of a glut. Prices are lower at 90c. to $1 per gallon.

MEATS — The market is rather firmer. Dressed beef is selling by the carcase at 5½c. to 6½c. Mutton is scarce and firm at 7c. to 9c. with lamb at 10c. to 11c. Veal easy at 5c. to 7c.

ONIONS—Slow. Choice natives are selling in barrels at $1 to $1.25.

POTATOES—As farmers are busy with spring work, deliveries have fallen off and the market is steadier. Cars are moving outside at 18c. and appear to be worth about 25c. on the track. Smaller quantities are selling out of store at 30c. to 35c. but they can be bought at less than this on the street.

SEEDS—In active demand at former prices. Timothy is quoted at $1.75 to $1.90; clover at $4.95 to $5.10; and Alsike at $6.60 to $9. Tares are higher at $1.50 per bushel.

COAL OIL.

Coal Oil is unchanged. Refined is selling at 13c. to 14c.; Carbon Safety at 16c. to 17c.; Canadian water white at 19c. to 20c.; American at 24c. to 25c.; Prime white at 23c., and Photogene at 27c.

PROVISIONS.

There is a quiet, steady demand for most lines, but for smoked meats there has been quite an active inquiry during the past few days. There is an easier feeling in the market though there has been no actual change in values. Smoked hams have been taken at 11c. to 12c.; rolls at 10½c., and backs and bellies at 11c. to 11½c. Long clear bacon is quiet at 8½c. in tons, and 8¾c. to 9c. in cases and sides. Mess pork dull and unchanged. Lard steady; Canadian is selling in tubs at 10½c., and in pails at 11c., while American butter tubs can be bought for 9¾c., tubs 10c. and pails 10½c.

The Cincinnati Price Current says:—This is the fourth week in which a reduction is shown in the number of hogs handled by Western packers, the returns indicating 140,000, against 155,000 the preceding week, and 140,000 for the corresponding week last year. From March 1st the total is 1,225,000, against 990,000 a year ago. This moderate movement has been due partly to the fact that farmers are especially busy just now and partly to the encroachments upon supplies by the earlier marketing of stock, made ready by the unusual favourableness of the latter part of the winter for fattening operations, and thus disposed of in advance of the usual order of things. It is not likely, however, that supplies will soon be enlarged, although it does not appear at all clear that for the next ten weeks, there will be an especially larger number marketed than for the corresponding time last year. The quality of hogs is generally excellent, although weights are reported lighter in the west While there have been 235,000 more hogs slaughtered than last year in the West since March 1, the position of product is much more favourable than a year ago, as may be illustrated in the following approximations:—

	1889. Pounds.	1888. Pounds.
Product in West, March 1	365,000,000	404,000,000
Manufactured since March 1	220,000,000	173,000,000
Supply	585,000,000	577,000,000
Exports since March 1	103,000,000	71,000,000
Consumption since March 1	135,000,000	135,000,000
Disposed of	238,000,000	206,000,000
Remaining	347,000,000	371,000,000

In this calculation the domestic consumption is not reckoned as greater than last year, which is conservative ground. Values about 15 per cent. lower than a year ago. Stocks in the East smaller than a year ago. All this, however, may not be regarded as evidence that prices may be greatly advanced in the near future, for the course of values does not depend on the statistical position of speculative products.

FLOUR AND GRAIN

The market has been generally dull and depressed all week, excepting in oats and barley, which have been slightly firmer.

FLOUR—There is a fair local demand, but prices are lower, and millers find it harder to make sales. No transactions in inspected flours have been reported during the week, but several cars of mill brands sold within our quotations.

BRAN—Is lower, owing to more liberal offerings. Sales were made last week at $10 on the track, and to-day buyers can get car-load lots at $10 to $10.50.

WHEAT—Buyers are holding off, owing to the decline in Chicago and other outside markets. Sellers have been pretty firm until the past day or two, when they have come down in their views. No. 2 red is selling on the spot at $1.05, and spring and white are not worth over $1.03 to $1.04. On the Northern and Midland white and red are held at $1.04, and spring at $1.05. Manitoba wheats are dull and lower; No. 1 hard is offering at $1.27, and No. 1 frosted at $1.

BARLEY—There has been a little better inquiry, and several lots have changed hands. Prices have advanced about 1c. on a week ago. No. 3 extras have sold at equal to 47c. here, and No. 2 at equal to 52c. No. 1 is held on the spot at 56c. to 57c.

CORN.—In fair demand at 43c. to 45c. on the track.

PEAS—Steady, and in good demand at 55c. outside.

OATS—Firmer, and in good demand. The advance is due, to some extent, to speculation, and it is expected that prices will recede somewhat. Good mixed and white have been selling on the track at 32c. to 33c.

OATMEAL—Dull and easy at quotations. The attempt to re-form the Oatmeal Millers' Association has fallen through.

☞ The articles contained in this Review are written by experienced representatives of the GROCER, are wholly unbiassed, and are an accurate reflex of the market.

MONTREAL, April 24, 1889.

BUTTER.

There has been a fair trade in butter at steady prices. Stocks of old are practically exhausted, and good States creamery has had a fair sale at 19c. to 22c., with an odd lot at 23c. Some lots of States stale creamery and dairy and ladle packed are offering but such have no sale, and will probably be shipped back. Receipts of new have not increased much and have met a ready sale:

New dairy	24c. — 26c.
Creamery finest	26c. @ 27c.
" fair to good	23c. — 25c.
Townships, finest	22c. — 23c.
" fair to good	20c. — 21c.
Morrisburg	19c. — 20c.
Brockville	18½c.— 19c.
Western	17½c. — 18c.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been no improvements in business in canned goods. The demand has continued slow and the market has ruled quiet, but a weaker feeling has prevailed in some lines. The demand for new salmon has been fair and sales of car load lots for future delivery are reported at $1.67½ per dozen. There has been a good inquiry for lobsters on spot, but as there is only old stock offering, buyers prefer to wait, as new packed are expected in a few days. Tomatoes have been weak and sound lots have been offered at 85c. to 90c., with small quantities up to 95c. per dozen for the Windsor brand, while other brands are selling as low as 75c. per dozen. Erie and Aylmer corn has also ruled weak and declined to 90c. to 95c. per dozen, with common brands at 80c. Peas have been moving slow and prices are lower at $1.10 to $1.15 per dozen. The demand for canned fruits has continued slow and prices are unchanged.

CHEESE.

Trade in cheese has continued limited to local and will remain so until new goods are offered in sufficient quantity. The prospects for the coming season indicate low prices for the early make, especially as the provision trade abroad has suffered heavy losses within the past four months. Some shippers returned this week and report the Liverpool trade in bad shape.

Finest fall	10¼c. @ 11 c.
Fine do	10 c. — 10½c.
Medium	9¼c. — 9¾c.

FRUIT.

In this market a fair volume of business has been accomplished for this season of the year, but no large lines have changed hands owing to the fact that buyers generally are waiting for the direct steamer and in the meantime are only buying from hand to mouth. The demand for raisins has been quiet and prices steady at 5¾c. to 6c. Currants have also been quiet at 4¾c. to 5¼c. Oranges have been well inquired for and strong and a considerable advance in prices has taken place, sales of Valencia being made at $5.50 to $5.75, and Florida at $5.50 to $6. Lemons have been moving fairly well at $2.50 to $3 as to quality.

MAPLE SYRUP AND SUGAR.

Prices have declined owing to large offerings. Syrup 50c. to 85c. per gallon as to quality, sugar, 6c. to 7½c. per lb.

SUGAR.

The continued strong and exciting cables from abroad on raw sugar, which report a further advance in prices owing to the light stocks held everywhere, and fears of a short supply have caused considerable excitement among refiners here. A very strong feeling has prevailed, and prices have advanced ⅛c. on granulated to 8½c., while yellows have improved ¼c. to ⅜c., to 7c. @ 7½c., as to quality, at the factory. The stock of yellows is small, for which there is a good inquiry at above prices. The demand has been good and the volume of business transacted large, including several round lots of granulated at full prices. Latest private cables from London say: "Market advancing, but 23s 6d., f.o.b. Speculation wild." A despatch from New York says: "The London market continues very excited, but 23s. to 24s.

THE CANADA SUGAR REFINING CO'Y [LIMITED],

MONTREAL,

Offer for sale all grades of REFINED SUGARS and SYRUPS of the well-known brand of

Redpath

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

JOHN BAKER EDWARDS, P.L.D., D.C.L., F.C.S.,

Public Analyst for the District of Montreal, and Professor of Chemistry.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY, MEDICAL FACULTY, MCGILL UNIVERSITY.

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have taken and tested a sample of your "EXTRA GRANULATED" Sugar, and find that it yielded 99·88 per cent. of Pure Sugar. It is practically as pure and good a Sugar as can be manufactured.

Yours truly,

G. P. GIRDWOOD.

The Markets—Continued.

MOLASSES.

Owing to the continued strong advices from the Islands where a further advance in prices has taken place, along with reports of a short crop, and in sympathy with the strong sugar market there has been considerable excitement here, and the market has been active and very strong with prices fully 2½c. to 5c. per gallon higher than a week ago. The demand has been brisk and a large trade has been transacted, including sales of 2,000 puncheons Barbadoes at 42½c. to 45c.

SYRUP.

Since our last the demand for syrup has been active, and the market has ruled strong in sympathy with the sugar market, and prices are fully ¼c to ½c. higher. The volume of business accomplished has been large, and the supply has been well bought up, with little stock now offering. Prices are firm at 4½c., with prospects of a further advance on account of the light stock in refiners' hands.

TEA AND COFFEE.

There has been no important feature in the tea market to note, and the market has been quiet with only a small volume of business owing to the slow demand as buyers generally have ample supplies on hand for the present, and holders generally do not look for much improvement for some little time. The feeling in the market is firm on account of the continued strong advices from New York and prices have been well maintained. The coffee business has also been quiet, there being only a moderate demand for small lots at steady prices. We quote: Mocha, 27c. and 30c.; Java, 22c. and 27c.; and Rio, 17c. and 20c.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

The flour market has ruled dull and inactive, with trade confined to local wants, although to-day demand was slightly better owing to the opening of navigation. Prices have shown a tendency to weaken and may be called 10c. to 20c. lower than last week. Offerings of grades below choice have continued heavy and considerable States flour is in store here, which will have to be exported as it cannot be sold on this market. Choice Manitoba strong bakers has dropped to $5.80 to $5.90, and best Hungarian patent to $6.15 to $6.25. Other grades are in ample supply and easy. Oatmeal dull and unchanged.

Patent winter	$5 50 @ $5 75
Patent spring	5 75 — 6 25
Straight roller	5 00 — 5 15
Extra	4 90 — 5 00
Superfine	4 25 — 4 50
City strong bakers'	5 80 — 5 90
Strong bakers'	5 50 — 5 60
Superfine bags	2 00 — 2 25
Extra, bags	2 30 — 2 50
Oatmeal, standard, (per bag)	0 00 — 1 90
Oatmeal, granulated (per bag)	0 00 — 2 00

The grain market has developed a weak tone and to-day it showed an inclination to further decline, but business reported has been light, although it is understood that considerable has been done for future delivery. Manitoba wheat has declined materially, No. 1 hard being offered freely at $1.25 without buyers. Peas also have weakened, while oats and barley have remained unchanged. No. 1 hard Manitoba, $1.18 to $1.20; No. 2 do. $1.16 to $1.18; peas, 72c. to 74c. per 66 lbs. afloat; oats, 31½c. to 32c.; corn, 45c. to 46c. in bond; barley, 50c.

HOG PRODUCTS.

In provisions, pork has declined about 25c. per barrel without stimulating trade. Canada short cut has been sold down to $16, and western to $15.25, with mess at $14.75. Lard and meats have remained without substantial change.

Canadian short cut, per bbl	$16 00 @ $16 50
Mess pork, western	14 75 — 15 00
Short cut, western	15 25 — 15 50
Hams, per lb	0 11 — 0 11½
Hams, green	0 08½ — 0 00
Flanks, green	0 08½ — 0 00
Lard, western, per lb	0 09¼ — 0 09¾
Lard, Canadian	0 09½ — 0 09¾
Bacon	0 10 — 0 10¾
Tallow	0 06¼ — 0 06½

EGGS.

There has been a fair business in eggs, but latterly demand has fallen off. Supplies have continued heavy and prices have made no improvement. Fresh have been selling at 12c. to 12½c., and held stock at whatever can be got.

☞ The Grocer does not utter predictions, but aims simply to give accurate reports of the markets as they are.

SPECIAL TO OUR READERS.

As the design of THE CANADIAN GROCER is to benefit mutually all interested in the business, we would request all parties ordering goods or making purchases of any description from houses advertising with us to mention in their letter that such advertisement was noticed in THE CANADIAN GROCER.

THE SUGAR SITUATION.

The editor of THE GROCER has received several letters during the week from retailers, asking for inside information on the sugar market. Some of them do not appear to comprehend the situation. One thinks that the advance is entirely due to the operations of the wholesale grocers' sugar agreement, and seems to be of the opinion that when the Combines Bill passes in the House of Commons that prices will be sure to drop to their former level. The advance in this market has been entirely due to the advance in the prices of raw, beet and cane. Last fall an article appeared in THE GROCER, drawing attention to the statistical position of sugar. It was pointed out that the consumption was exceeding the supply, and that by spring there was every probability of a very considerable advance in prices. This has come, and very suddenly, too. In February beet was quoted in London at 13s. 6d., and on Saturday last it had advanced to 23s. 3d., a rise of 10s. 3d. in a little over two months.

M. Licht, the best statistical authority, makes the total supply of sugar of the world 971,000 tons against 1,323,719 tons a year ago. The cane crops of Java and Brazil are considerably below last year, while that of Cuba, it is estimated, will be 200,000 tons short. The best crop will also be much below first estimate. M. Licht in a recent circular presents the following statement showing the position of sugar on September 1st, the commencement of the sugar trade year.

SEPTEMBER 1.

	1888-89.	1887-88.	1886-87.	1885-86.
Beet sugar production	2,725,000	2,451,950	2,730,206	2,219,973
Cane sugar production	2,315 000	2,501,735	2,371,221	2,119,100
Stocks on Sept. 1.	540,193	612,814	752,655	851,240
Total supply	5,580,193	5,566,499	5,854,082	5,190,313
Stock Aug. 31	480,193	540,193	612,814	752,655
Consumption.....	5,100,000	5,026,306	5,241,268	4,437,658

There seems to be very little doubt but that present prices will be maintained until September or October if they will not go higher. They are not yet as high as they were in 1879, when the position was about the same as it is to-day. At that time beet touched 30s. in London, while to-day it is as stated above, 23s. 3d. Latest cables are strong and private advices say the tendency is still upward.

THE COMBINES BILL.

The Combines Bill passed through the Senate with a few amendments. The chief amendments were by the insertion of the words "unduly" and "unreasonably" before such sentences as "limit facilities," "lessen the production," "enhance the price," etc. A new clause was added permitting appeal to the highest court in the province where the conviction is made, and making the evidence taken at the trial a part of the record. The Bill came up in the House of Commons on Tuesday and was passed without much discussion, as the supporters feared that any delay in proceedings would cause it to be dropped for this session. There is now a difference of opinion as to what the effect of the Bill really is.

STANDARD WEIGHT FOR SALT.

The Inland Revenue Department are watching the Canadian salt manufacturers. A law came into force last fall making a standard weight for barrels of salt of 300 lbs. gross and 280 lbs. net with an allowance of five per cent. off the 280 lbs. within 20 days for soakage. Some of the salt manufacturers have not been complying with the law, and in consequence there have been several seizures. The first was made at Kingston, and shortly afterwards a special officer was sent up to the wells. He ascertained what shipments were being made and on their arrival at destination each barrel was weighed. In one shipment every barrel was found to be underweight. The several lots seized are now being held for instructions. It is expected that a special officer will be here in a few days to take action.

To comply with the law a barrel of salt must weigh 286 pounds within 20 days after shipment.

PRICES OF SUGAR.

Boston grocers get a good profit on white sugars, and there is no reason why Canadian grocers should not follow their example and arrange for a profit. Boston grocers' profits run from ¼c. to ¾c. per lb. At the suggestion of several leading merchants of this city we give the wholesale prices of sugars to-day and also what the retail price should be on this market.

PRICES OF SCHOOL BOOKS.

A Board of Arbitration has been considering the question of whether the present prices of school books are too high. Judge Morgan presides, and he has associated with him Messrs. James Bain, jun., the Librarian, and Richard Brown. The arbitration has been sitting in the Education Department. A number of witnesses have given evidence, and the arbitration is now considering its report. The general impression expressed by the trade is that there will be no change.

SELLING PRICES OF INKS.

Hitherto Stephens' inks have been selling at various prices, each house having one of its own. This was not satisfactory to the buyer, who was never sure that he was getting the best price. An arrangement has now been made by the wholesale stationers to get uniform prices, which are as follows :

Quarts	$7 20
Pints	4 80
Half pints	2 40
Quarter pints	1 20

BOOKS AND STATIONERY.

Immediate trade is dull, excepting in some special lines of seasonable goods, which are quite active. The baseball and rubber ball season has opened very well. Jobbers and retailers have never done such an extensive business in Standard balls as this season. On the other hand, dealers in lacrosse sticks report a slow trade. Some houses, in fact, have cleared out their entire stock at lower prices in order to get them out of the way. It does not follow that they are bad stock. On the other hand, there will be a very good demand for them in some parts of the country. Orders for Christmas goods so far have been ahead of last year. Christmas cards and booklets have been selling particularly well. There is every probability of very great competition in 12mo standard books and poets this year. The wholesale prices are now about one-half what they were three years ago, and consequently double the quantity will have to be sold to make the same profit. Other standard books such as Chamber's Encyclopædia, show similar reductions.

To all appearances the bottom has nearly fallen out of the book trade, and with it the profits of the trade.

LOOK AFTER THE STOCK.

To run out of goods generally means certain loss of trade to the retail merchant, and yet if the complaints of consumers are to be credited, this is not an uncommon occurrence even in stores of the highest class. When several brands of an article are kept in stock, the temporary absence of one of them may not be a matter of moment ; a brand of similar quality and price can usually be substituted to the perfect satisfaction of the consumer. But in the small stores, where assortments are not so large, to run out of a brand is a more serious matter. In no single respect, perhaps, is the business capacity of a merchant more clearly evinced than in keeping up the stock to the proper point. Even when memorandums or stock books are used to register the articles needed, considerable embarrassment is felt if proper attention is not given to the work. It requires constant vigilance and a good memory on the part of the storekeeper, and too much attention cannot well be given to this important feature of the business. Just as soon as an article is discovered to be sold out, the fact should be recorded and an order sent to the wholesaler. Undoubtedly many merchants handicap themselves in this manner, forgetting the annoyance felt by consumers when their regular storekeeper cannot duplicate their orders. An extensive stock is not so essential as a well assorted stock and one that is never allowed to run down. Large dealers use stock books to register the ebb and flow of assortments, while smaller dealers often rely upon memorandum slips. Both plans have their merits, but it is useless to adopt either unless the stock is daily examined and its deficiencies promptly registered.

ART IN WINDOWS.

"Let me dress my window and I don't care who writes my advertisement."

Thus observed a shrewd New York merchant recently. Whether he was correct in his view of importance of window dressing or not, a glance at the steady stream of humanity that stopped for a minute or more to gaze into his well-filled window, and only moved on in obedience to the policeman's orders, seemed to give the color of truth to his observation. The show window has become an important factor in the retail trade, and the merchant who fails to grasp the point with both hands, as it were, is sure to realize his blunder sooner or later.

In this big town window dressing has become an art, and a high art, too, and like all arts it takes its particular features from its surroundings. For instance, the window of Eighth avenue, beyond which meridian this art becomes a mere travesty unworthy of the name, differs as much from the display made on upper Broadway as the gaudy canvas of an auction differs from the chaste production of a European master. The same diversity is noted between the hodge-podge windows in Kleine Deutschland, at the other end of the shoppers' continent along the eastern borders of Tompkins' square, and the artistic exhibition made by the wealthy dealers of Fifth avenue.

Between these longitudinal limits this art has many phases as the people for whose tastes it is pursued. The skilful window dresser, true artist that he is, seldom errs in suiting his wares to his customers. It would not be profitable for him to blunder, and his is not the only case where artists' lines have been drawn by golden rule.

ON SALESMANSHIP.

Lately a dinner was given to its salesmen by a prominent New York house. Afterwards, by invitation, several of the prominent heads of departments and salesmen discussed the question of salesmanship. Some of the definitions and illustrations we reproduce :

There are three very essential elements for a salesman's success. They are ambition, pluck and common sense. Ambition first, for without it one might as well sit quietly down and, Micawber-like, wait patiently for something to turn up ; this will, in all likelihood, occur if he waits long enough—even though a headstone be required to locate the position of his toes when "turned up" for the last time. Pluck next, for the reason that this article is never found without some ambition, and one is absolutely necessary for the success of the other, while progress is the result of the two combined, requiring force, perseverance and push, as well as theory and aim. And last comes common sense—an article that cannot be bought or sold, but may be cultivated where fertile soil abounds, and the sunny rays of judgment are not shut out ; every salesman is supposed to own a little of it, but nobody is ever credited with being overstocked, and a lack of this necessity will always carry with it a guarantee of failure.

A man need not be a college graduate to become a successful salesman, at the same time a good education certainly ought to greatly enhance his prospects of success. I knew a salesman, however, who could neither write legibly or spell the simplest words correctly, but had good, common sense and carried down weight with every argument he used ; he talked intelligently and got there every time, where the fluent speaker and polished representative frequently failed to even make an impression.

I have seen a salesman enter a man's store for the first time and state that he wanted to see the proprietor, and on being told that he was back in the office, but would be disengaged shortly, deliberately push his way through a crowd of a half-dozen who were waiting their turn, and stepping up to the proprietor, who was, perhaps, in consultation with other gentlemen over important matters, thrust his card in between them with the remark, "Will you kindly look at my line of goods, sir ; I only have a little time, as I am anxious to catch the next train." He was not detained, but dismissed in a very few words.

I have known another salesman to enter a man's store with two or three satchels, carefully place them on one side and stand idly by for two or three hours without having made known his business, and finally, when his presence had become irksome to the dealer, was given an opportunity to state his business, only to be told that the dealer had given his order to the salesman who just went out.

On the other hand, there are many ways in which the salesman can employ his time while waiting for an interview with the buyer. I know of one successful salesman who claims that he makes his best points by cultivating the clerk's friendship and confidence. He would select the one whom he thought to be the head clerk, get him into conversation, learn the peculiarities of the employer's trade, find out what kind of goods the dealer makes a specialty of or had a strong competition on, and thus be able to talk intelligently to the buyer when the time came. He would start in with the clerk by inferring that he was one of the firm, or seemed to have the responsibility of the whole business on his shoulder ; a little flattery goes a long way sometimes, and even though a man knows that you are flattering him, it pleases him just the same; he invites an expression of opinion in regard to the quality of the cigar, for example, and to give him the benefit of his judgment as to what its value is. A clerk who smokes, as a rule, thinks he knows it all, and does not hesitate to do as requested. He gives his opinion and the salesman is apparently astonished at the soundness of his judgment, stating that he "hit it square on the head the first time," adding that he was the only man among a great many experts who knew precisely what the article was worth; he then induces him to smoke a cigar that he is anxious to introduce, gets him to agree with him as to the quality and merit of the article, convinces him that it is better than anything he has in stock at the same price, and through the clerk's assistance succeeds in inducing the dealer to give him a sample order.

One would say that the man who is capable of building up and retaining a certain line of trade, should be equally able to manage an equal business for himself; this does not necessarily follow. It is an axiom in commerce that "goods well bought are half sold," but the converse of its proposition is not true. "Goods well sold are not always well bought." I believe it is the experience of most great mercantile houses that there are more successful sellers than buyers. The experience of the late A. T. Stewart in this regard is not to be passed idly by. He had in his employ very many salesmen who could dispose of anything that was in stock. They had been in business or themselves and were swept under by the pitiless law of the survival of the fittest. They were not close buyers, and hence were always at a disadvantage.—[American Grocer.

NEGLECTING INSURANCE.

The question of compromising with creditors is one which is just at present attracting a great deal of attention in Eastern Canada. The trade journals and also many of the newspapers have taken up the discussion, and very strong reasons have been urged against the system. Many leading wholesale dealers have also spoken strongly against the practice. Here in Western Canada the custom of making compromises with creditors has certainly been carried to excess, and many temporary settlements of this nature have been made, which should never have been considered. Still, it is very hard to lay down any cast-iron rule against compromising, and especially so in a new country like this. There is one cause for asking compromises, however, which should never be considered. Reference is made to instances where retail dealers become insolvent from losses occasioned by fire, in cases where the merchant has neglected to protect himself by insurance. The merchant who wilfully neglects to protect himself by insurance is not deserving of sympathy when he meets with a loss from fire which renders him unable to meet his obligations. The Dominion Wholesale Grocers' Guild have been considering this question, and they have passed the following motion:

The losses sustained by fire having been found to be most serious, and an evil requiring united action, the members of the Guild have agreed that they will not consent to accept any compromise from their customers where it is found that the failure has been caused through insufficient insurance, and they have further agreed that the insurance carried on the stock, chattels and buildings, must be, at least, sixty per cent. of their value.

This is an example which could be followed to advantage by wholesalers generally, here as well as in the East. The retail dealer who buys for cash, or who has his affairs in such a position that he can meet his liabilities, even should he lose his stock by fire, of course is free to do as he may think best. But the dealer who carries a large stock of goods on credit, and who knows that the loss or serious damage of his stock from fire would render him unable to meet his liabilities, is morally bound to protect himself and his creditors with insurance. His neglect to do so may be looked upon as something bordering on dishonesty. Aside from the moral aspect of the case, the man who neglects to insure shows himself incapable, from a business point of view, and hardly a proper subject for a compromise.—[Winnipeg Commercial.

CLEAN UP YOUR STORES.

Now that the warm weather is coming on and vegetable and animal matter about your stores and premises is liable to decompose and become offensive, it would be a wise movement to clean out your cellars thoroughly, rearrange your goods in the store, paint your shelves, kalsomine your walls, and thoroughly renovate your premises. It can readily be done before the spring rush begins. It will give your place a more attractive appearance. You and your clerks can do most of the work yourselves and at very little cost of time or labor. It will make your store much more attractive, particularly to ladies, will draw customers, help to increase your business, and add to your prosperity. Do not put the matter off, but attend to it at once; there is no more appropriate time in the whole year to put your house in order than at the present moment.

THE PREVENTION OF THEFT.

Many merchants have endeavoured to devise a plan so that abstraction of money by employees would be impossible. An expert bookkeeper says: "The main thing for an employer to do is to keep a sufficient bar between the bookkeeper and the money. If the bookkeeper is also the cashier this is hard to effect, and the door to embezzlement is wide open. Collusion with another employee is only resorted to in extreme cases. Secrets are dangerous and most genteel thieves do not care to risk the confidence of another person. If the cash can be got in hand without the knowledge of anybody, the theft is so facilitated and the possibility of detection so minimized as to remove fear and scruples. This is, in brief, the history of all embezzlements. Hence no bookkeeper should be allowed to handle money or audit accounts for the cashier to pay. The system of checks or division of work is excellent, but it is new, and there are few plans now in use that have not weak points where they are least expected. The initial point of most wrong doing is that employers lose caution. An employee of long standing is not suspected. His word is taken when it ought not to be. The habit of lumping things together is tolerated—in short, temptation is practically placed in the bookkeeper's way, when legitimate means of determination and limitation of power would prevent the evil. Next to providing sufficient checks, one of the best means for employers to adopt as a safeguard is to give adequate pay to their help. It is next to folly to put a man in a position where he has the keeping, practically, of a fortune at a meagre salary, wholly disproportionate to his services and his responsibilities. Yet this is commonly done. It has been shown that the largest percentage of small embezzlements spring from this very cause. While the opportunities for the abstraction of funds are not so great in a country store where, in many cases, the owner keeps his own books, they are frequent enough to make the hints given by this expert bookkeeper useful.—[American Storekeeper.

THE BEST PAPER IN CANADA.

Mr. W. J. Parker, general merchant of Waverley, Ont., in a letter to a wholesale house, says: "We have been subscribers to that useful journal, The Canadian Grocer, since its first issue. We also get the two next best papers, the Toronto daily Mail and Globe."

RETAILERS' ADVERTISING.

The subject of advertising is one of the most fruitful for the newspaper writer, and probably will continue to be so as long as trading endures. It is natural that it should be so, especially with regard to the trade press, as not only is advertising one of the principal means of support of even the most prosperous and most widely circulated journals, but their readers look to them for advice in the matter and generally eagerly adopt any novelties that their journals may suggest. We have before referred to the fact that the retail grocery trade do not as a rule take advantage of all their opportunities for reaching and attracting the attention of the public, but there can be no question as to the improvement in this respect during the past few years. The retail grocer and general storekeeper of to-day is certainly spending more money and displaying more enterprise and ingenuity in advertising his wares than his predecessors. There are many well-meaning dealers, however, who, thoroughly inspired with the spirit of modern progress, yet lack the necessary knowledge, and waste time and money in useless channels, or rely too much upon one kind of advertising. All methods of reaching the public attention have their merits, but while probably the most expensive in its first cost certainly the channel offered by the local newspapers is the most efficient. But much depends upon the reading matter contained in an advertisement, its quantity, arrangement and style of type. It is good policy to adopt some trade mark or design that by constant repetition impresses itself upon the memory of the reader. Many successful advertisers use their own portraits for this purpose, and while the plan savors of inordinate vanity, it certainly answers satisfactorily, as when well advertised, the eye of the consumer is caught by the portrait involuntarily, and although he may not stop to read all of the text of the announcement, he connects the likeness with the goods advertised whenever the ad. comes under his eye. Other advertisers, notably a Philadelphia drygoods dealer, rely entirely upon peculiar styles of type which is invariably used in their advertisements, coupled with an original style of address; this method has proved very successful in attracting new customers. It is well for the retail grocer to make a specialty of some article, such as a superior tea, for instance. His advertising, whether in the form of circulars, pamphlets, gutter snipes or newspapers, should call particular attention to the good value of the tea. A cut of a tea chest with words describing the quality and the storekeeper's name may be used with good results, but it should appear in every ad., upon all of the grocer's printed matter, and also on the sign and delivery wagon, so that the public is led to connect the name of that dealer invariably with fine or low-priced tea. Cuts of coffee and spice canisters can be used in a similar manner, and canned goods packages and butter tubs also. Whatever the specialty may be it should be inseparable in the consumer's mind from the advertiser's name. Leaflets which cost comparatively little can be used to advantage by placing one or two in every package that leaves the store, but this plan is not of great value in attracting new trade, as they generally meet the eyes of regular customers only. The show window offers the cheapest method of attracting new trade, but it can only appeal to the passer-by. For people at a distance other forms of advertising are needed, such as the postal card, the mailed circular and the newspaper announcement. Whichever form is chosen only the persevering merchant can expect brilliant results. The fruits of advertising are not always immediately enjoyed, but eventually the advertiser will reap the benefit. The constant reiteration of the statement that So-and-So's goods are the best, like the steady dripping of water upon a stone, makes so decided an impression upon the average mind that finally it is accepted as Gospel truth. Witness the fortunes amassed by the patent medicine men, whose nostrums often are as deleterious as they are cried up to be specific.

Instead of advertising the cheapness of their sugar, an article which hardly pays for the trouble of handling, and the consumption of which by the average family cannot be greatly increased, the retail trade might better turn their efforts to pushing the luxuries handled by them, for the sale of such articles is profitable and their consumption can be increased almost indefinitely.—[Merchants' Review.

NOTES FOR GROCERS.

I called upon a grocer who made a pretentious display of goods in front of his store. He had an abundance of all new vegetables and eggs by the dozens of cases. It was a case of overdoing the display. Less goods and more care in selection would have been better. It is not always the quantity that takes the eye; quality and novelty go hand in hand to attract attention. Five barrels or baskets of fine smooth looking potatoes are better than a load of grubby and ill-shaped ones for display. A few baskets of bright, clean looking eggs will attract more attention than a dozen cases of dusty and dirty looking ones. The season is approaching when flies will begin to get in their fine work on canned and fancy goods generally displayed in show windows. I would advise that such goods be removed to the shelves inside the store, after very carefully wrapping them in very thin tissue paper; by so doing you will find that these goods will look as bright as when you unpacked them out of the boxes they came in when you offer them for sale later on. The show window during the spring and summer season can be made to look very beautiful by a display of early fruits and vegetables, tastefully arranged. More people will stop to look at such a window than if you had it stacked with canned goods, tea chest, etc. There is another advantage, they are away from the dust of the street and the busy fingers of "samplers."

When I go into a grocery store and find that there is not a platform scale in the place, I measure my man instantly. How does he know that the goods he buys are correct in weight? Does he place such implicit confidence in the parties with whom he trades that he feels satisfied that he is getting what he pays for? Did he ever hear of mistakes made by help? Do not his clerks sometimes make them? Oh, yes. Then how can he feel all right about the matter? I know of many instances of where butter bought of firms of undoubted honesty, was short in weight. How is the grocer who has no scales large enough to weigh such articles going to protect himself? Then there are many grocers who have platform scales who keep them more for ornament than for use. They are oftener used to weigh customers and strangers on than goods that need looking after. I have seen a barrel of granulated sugar that was marked fifty pounds more than it contained. It might have been a mistake, and had the grocer been careless and without a platform scale, he would have been some money out of pocket. The advice given by the Advocate to weigh, count, measure or gauge every article bought, if properly heeded, would save many hundreds of dollars yearly to grocers. No grocery store is complete that is minus a scale large enough to weigh a barrel of sugar, and no grocer can be sure, who does not weigh all goods bought by weight.—[Retail Grocer's Advocate.

KINGSTON RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

KINGSTON, April 24th, 1889.

DEAR SIR,—The regular meeting of the K. R. G. A. was held in Mechanics' Hall, Kingston, Thursday last. Although the number of grocers present was not as large as desirable, on account of the many other meetings being held elsewhere, yet a more enthusiastic and business-like meeting has not been held since the foundation of the society.

There were present among others Messrs. S. Loynes, J. Thornton, P. Haffner, B. J. Leahy, J. Gilbert, N. E. Runians, E. F. Chapman, D. Gibson, F. X. Lachance, T. R. Carnovsky, H. Sharpe, S. W. May, L. Murphy. Mr. Loynes, Vice-President, occupied the chair.

Minutes were read and confirmed and four new members were added to the list.

The principal subjects discussed were the holding of a monster pic-nic on the grounds of the Crystal Palace; the report of the ten o'clock market by-law; also that the D. B. list be printed so that a copy may be placed in the hands of every member.

Committees were appointed to attend to the above. The committee to arrange matters for the proposed pic-nic consists of the following gentlemen: A. McLean, N. E. Runians, T. R. Carnovsky, D. Gibson, D. Cowper, J. Crawford (President), J. J. Behan, J. S. Shaw, J. McCullough, O. C. Elliott, B. J. Leahy, J. Gilbert, S. Loynes.

As retail grocers' associations are of vital importance, not only to the retailer but largely to wholesalers, some may ask why? Well, because where they exist less credit will be given and what is will only be given to honest customers who intend to pay for what they get. Consequently, grocers will be on a better footing; be better able to meet their liabilities than formerly, and therefore the wholesale trade will be in clover again. We are going to shake them in. Great Scott! don't mistake me; I have no reference to that new puzzle just out, but merely want to show that retail grocers' associations are of greater benefit to them than combinations, and all we ask in return at present from them is a generous recognition by way of a "gift" towards our pic-nic which will be held some time in July or August.

I read with deep interest the doings of our big brother, the Toronto R. G. A., and hope the Wagging (on) committee will not "tire" in the duties assigned them but bring forward a report that will do them credit; it will no doubt be lengthy and occupy a great part of the Secretary's time in the "delivery" of it. "Wheel" see in your next issue.

Yours truly,

J. GILBERT, Secretary.

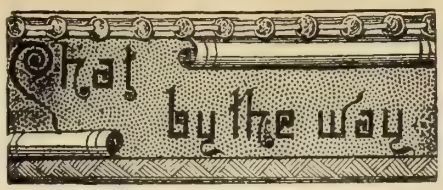
[The remarks made by Mr. Gilbert, the energetic secretary of the Kingston association, are endorsed by the wholesale trade. They know that when retailers are organized a much better feeling prevails among them and in this way many trade grievances are righted. We have no doubt but that both wholesale merchants and manufacturers will contribute liberally to swell the prize list, as they have always done so in the past. The custom in Toronto is to send a circular to each wholesale merchant and manufacturer, saying that a pic-nic will be held and that they will be happy to receive any contributions. At the same time the members of the committee call on as many as they can. We will expect to hear something shortly from Bro. Thackray about his waggon prize.—ED. GROCER.]

WASHBOARDS.

The cheapest and the best, these are the two points which every grocer seeks for and expects to get when he is purchasing his washboards, and these two advantages can be obtained in only one way, that is, by purchasing goods which are made in factories where the latest improvements in machinery are used, and where the quantity manufactured is large enough to require the purchase of materials in large quantities and to allow for the proper distribution of the labour. The factory of Taylor, Scott & Co., in this city, is just such a one as above described. The machinery all new and of the latest design, the whole lay-out of the building such as to assure the least possible labour in the manufacture of goods, and the ability to buy material in large lots from first hands. This firm make a specialty of the "Northern Queen" washboard, a magnificent board, whose only difficulty, up to a late date, was its high price, caused by duties and freights from the United States. Now that the Canadian right has passed into the hands of Taylor, Scott & Co., and that they are manufacturing here in a style to compare favourably with anything in the United States, the probability is that the board will be sold at the popular 25 cent price. In which case it is bound to take the market. This firm also manufacture the old "Globe" washboard, which has had in the past and is having even now a first-class sale.

The one noticeable point about the boards turned out by Taylor, Scott & Co., is their finish. No rough corners, no carelessly put together work, no saw-edges. The fact is, that in order to secure the good will of the consumer the firm have every bit of their wood work sandpapered, on special machines manufactured for that purpose.

The Customs authorities yesterday seized a car load of salt shipped from Courtwright to a city dealer, alleging that out of 100 barrels sent there were 67 short in weight.



TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

Secretary's Address:—
474 PARLIAMENT STREET,
Toronto, Ontario.

A. A. Corrie, grocer, Winnipeg, is giving up business.

R. Beauchamp, fish and fruit dealer, Victoria, B.C., has sold out.

Mr. G. W. Lowe has moved from No. 24 Queen St. East to No. 34.

Robt. Kerr, grocer and butcher, Rapid City, contemplates selling out.

R. B. Richardson, general storekeeper, Cowichan, B. C., has sold out.

R. Buker has opened in fruits and confectionery at Norman, Rat Portage.

J. W. Lang & Co. have received advices of spring shipments of fine port wines.

Mr. T. O. Leonard, Detroit, Canadian agent of the Oswego Starch Works, was here last week.

Eby, Blain & Co. are offering a crystal refined sugar which resembles Demerara very much. It is made from a high grade raw. It is held at 7⅝c.

W. B. Wright has bought out the general store business carried on by Palmer Bros. at Broadview, Assa. Mr. Palmer will move to Vancouver to join his brothers there.

It is reported from China that the natives are making a strong effort to produce a better quality of tea, and that there is a fair prospect that the new season's supply will show good results attained.

The extremely low price of cloves has, as expected, finally attracted speculative attention abroad, and dispatches received on Friday announce an advance in London of 1d., with a continued active and buoyant market at the close.

The majority of the city trade and many of our out-of-town readers will remember the enormous cat that always welcomed them in John Hawley's private office on Front Street. They will regret to learn that Tom has disappeared. So far a liberal reward has not brought him back.

The partnership existing between W. H. Lyon, K. Mackenzie and E. Powis, under the style and firm of Lyon, Mackenzie & Powis, wholesale grocers and provision merchants, Winnipeg, terminated by limitation of time on 1st April last. The business will be continued by Kenneth Mackenzie and Edmund Powis, under the style of Mackenzie, Powis & Co.

The demand for Kingsford's Oswego Starch continues to grow in Canada and is giving satisfaction wherever used. Mr. Kingsford makes it a feature of his business never to allow any starch to leave the works that is not strictly first-class in every respect. This no doubt accounts for its popularity. It is handled almost exclusively by the leading dealers in the States.

The Editor of the American Grocer is still under the fire of several of our exchanges for having attempted to give his readers an accurate statement of the pack of canned goods in the States and Canada. If he takes as great pains to get at the pack of the States as he does that of Canada, and we are sure he does, his statistics are as complete as it is possible to get them. The course of the market proves to some extent that his estimates are as nearly correct as necessary.

What baking powder shall we use? Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder is made from 99 per cent. Crystal Cream Tartar and English Soda, hence is the best that can be made.

In the International Series Counter Check Books, manufactured by Morton & Co., 3 and 5 Adelaide Street East, Toronto, merchants are guaranteed in their use by letters patent. Samples are furnished free of the best check book yet introduced. Thousands Grocers will notice the advertisement this week of A. Watts & Co., Brantford. Ivory Bar soap is very popular all over the Dominion. Any who have ever used it keep it in stock as one of their best selling brands. Those not having it should order, as it is sure to build up the trade of any grocer handling it. Their Honey brand for the toilet is also superior to many of the high-scented soaps on the market. Grocers should sell this soap to the hotels in their towns, as it gives universal satisfaction.

The Markets

TORONTO, May 2, 1889.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—Receipts have again commenced to increase, and buyers are looking for lower prices in consequence. So far, however, all offering has been wanted, and prices have been maintained. Buyers are only taking small quantities, just sufficient to supply immediate wants. The grass is coming on well in the country and increased receipts are expected from now on. Large rolls have been selling mostly at 20c. to 21c. in large cases and barrels. Small packages have gone at 21c. to 23c. for choice to fine. Very few medium are offering, and there is an active demand for them from bakers, owing to the scarcity of tubs. Sales were made to day for cooking purposes at 18c. Dairy tubs are very scarce ; only a few are coming in ; they are selling mostly at 20c. to 23c. There are a few lots of low grades in the market which appear to be unsalable, although offered at 12½c. They are not good enough for bakers and not cheap enough for grease. Creameries are pretty well cleared out, holders having been forcing sales to get rid of them ; transactions have been mostly at 24c. to 25c. It is seldom that the floors of the commission houses have been so thoroughly cleared of butter as they now are. Some houses have not a single package in their possession.

CHEESE—Demand is light. Septembers and other old cheese are being offered at lower prices to clean up. New is also easier at 10¼c. to 10½c.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

BEANS—Demand is light. Small lots of ordinary white are going out of store at $1.40 to $1.50. Round lots are quoted at $1.25 to $1.30.

DRIED APPLES—Receipts are light and prices remain as before. Most of the offerings are being taken by one or two houses for shipment. They are buying mostly at 3c. though it is said some purchases have been made at 2¾c. A number of holders are making arrangements to carry them over until next fall or winter. Evaporated are selling in a small way at 6c. to 6½c. and in round lots at 5c. to 5½c.

EGGS—Receipts have been falling off during this week. The advance of the buying price in the country to 10c. does not appear to have stimulated the receipts. On the spot commission houses are firm at 11½c. to 12c.

HAY AND STRAW—The market for hay is steadier owing to the lighter offerings. Choice timothy is in good demand at $13.50 to $14 on the track. Ordinary is moving at $12 to $13. Mixed is quiet at $9 to $11. Several lots of damaged timothy have changed hands at $7 to $8. Straw is slow at $7 to $8.

HOPS—Demand is light and prices are unchanged at 20c. to 24c. for new.

MAPLE SYRUP AND SUGAR—Prices are declining. Demand is falling off and the supply increasing. Holders are anxious to realize and have been offering to sell at lower prices to clear out stock. To-day's quotations were : syrup, 85c. to 95c. per imperial gallon ; sugar, 7½c. to 8c. per lb.

MEATS—Yearling lambs are scarce and firm at 10c. to 11c. per lb. Mutton rules at 7c. to 8c. Beef is easier at 6c. to 6¾c. by the carcase. Veal rules at 7c. to 8c.

ONIONS—Dull and easy. Choice natives are selling at $1 to $1.25 per bbl., but there are a large number of inferior offering. A lot of 24 barrels sold yesterday at 10c. each.

POTATOES—There is no improvement in the market. Offerings are still in excess of the demand. On the spot dealers are selling out of store at 35c. They are quoted on the track at 25c., and sales have been made outside at 18c. f.o.b.

POULTRY—Very little coming in. The market is supplied chiefly with a few barrels from Montreal. Choice turkeys have been selling at 14c. per lb., and chickens at 75c. a pair.

SEEDS—Demand continues active, but as the close of the season is drawing near, those dealers who have large stocks are making an effort to close out. Prices are consequently easier. In clover prime is quoted at $4.75 to $4.80, and choice at $4.85 to $4.95 ; alsike at $6.60 for good, $7.20 to $7.50 for prime, $8.10 to $8.40 for choice, $8.70 to $9 for extra choice to fancy. Timothy, extra prime, $1.68 to $1.75 ; choice, $1.78 to $1.82 ; Hungarian, choice, 79c. Tares, $1.45 to $1.50.

GRAIN AND FLOUR.

These markets have been dull and rather easier this week. Flour has met with a very slow sale. Owing to the liberal offerings and heavy stocks held in the east, any transactions made have been at lower prices.

BRAN—Has also declined, though at the moment local mills are endeavouring to get better prices. Cars can be bought at $10 on the track, but smaller lots are held at $11 to $11.50.

WHEAT—Quiet at lower prices. In the west sales have been made at 95c. to 98c., and on the Northern and Midland at $1.02 to $1.04. Manitoba No. 1 hard is offering to arrive in May at $1.20, but spot is held at $1.24, with buyers about $1.22.

BARLEY—Has been more enquired for and prices are about 1c. higher.

PEAS—Dull at about 60c. to 65c. on the spot. Cars are quoted outside at $54c. to 55c.

OATS—Are rather firmer. Sales have been made outside at 28c. to 30c. for good mixed and white, and on the track at 32c. to 33c.

OATMEAL—Dull and unchanged. Movement is chiefly in small lots at quotations.

GREEN FRUIT.

The past week has shown a decided falling off in the volume of business done in all lines. The unfavourable weather has militated greatly against any active trade being done, and this will account for the slowness which is the chief characteristic of the market this week. The centennial in the States has so used up supplies in New York that prices there have gone up. In fact, in some lines more is being paid there than merchants here could get for the same stock, and consequently hardly any fresh supplies have been received lately, and stocks on hand, with the exception of bananas, are getting rather low. In Montreal, on the 8th inst., there will be held large fruit sales of Messina oranges and lemons. A good many of the local dealers will likely go there to replenish their stocks, and in the meantime it is hardly probable that fresh supplies will be received from New York in any quantity. Prices for both oranges and lemons here will need revising after the sale. Very few Valencia oranges are being received, although there is quite an active demand for them. They remain unchanged this week at $6 to $7 per case. Messinas are in very slow request and even the small stock now on hand is quite adequate for the demands of the trade. They are quoted at $3 to $3.50 per box. The demand for Californias is of fair proportions, and there is at present no over-stock. They are selling at $4 per box. No Floridas are in the market and they are no longer quotable. The lemon market has developed a stronger feeling this week and an advance of about 50c. per box on Messinas is noted. Stocks of Messinas are not very ample and no fresh arrivals have been received. They are going at $3 to $4 per box, with, however, but a limited enquiry. Pineapples are scarce and are running all the way from $2.50 to $4 per dozen, according to quality and size. No great demand exists for them, in fact the trade is actually quiet. Bananas are still coming in quite freely, but the sale has fallen off considerably, thanks to the inclement weather. They are quoted as high as $2 per bunch, and as low as $1 per bunch, according to quality.

FISH.

There is no more activity noticed as yet in the fish trade, business still being of a very limited nature. The demand for sea fish is gradually falling off, and is likely to be less. Fresh haddock and cod fish are selling fairly well at 7c. per lb., and steak cod is quoted at 9c. There is a small supply of fresh Lake Winnipeg trout and white fish, and they are quoted at 6½c. per lb., with a fair enquiry. Larger shipments are on the way. There is a good sale for salmon at 20c. to 25c. The supply is not very large. Fresh ciscoes are selling at $3 to $4 per 100. Frozen are out of the market. Sarnia herring are being received in moderate quantities, and are moving at $2.50 per 100. Flounders are out of the market. Lake Ontario white fish are in moderately active request at 10c. to 12c. per lb. No more oysters are being received, trade in them being over.

SALT.

Demand improving. Canadian in sacks is selling at 70c. in car lots, and in small quantities at 85c. to 90c. Barrels are worth $1.30 on the track and $1.40 in small quantities. Dairy in sacks is worth $1.75 and in quarters 45c. to 50c.; demand is light. Toronto Salt Works report sales of two cars of coarse on the track at 70c., and two cars of barrels at $1.30.

HIDES, SKINS, TALLOW AND WOOL.

HIDES—The market continues quiet. The supply has fallen off but it is still amply sufficent for the demand. Prices are unchanged. Cured have been selling in car loads at 5¼c. Green remain as before at 2¾c. to 4¾c.

SKINS—Very few wool skins are coming in; prices are the same as before, at $1.25 to $1.50. There is a fair supply of calfskins, but the market is very dull, with no demand for cured. Green are moving at 5c to 6c.

TALLOW—Is considerably weaker. Dealers are buying rough at 2c., and rendered at 5½c. to 5¼c., and reselling at 6c. to 6¼c.

WOOL—Nothing doing in fleece. Stocks of pulled are very low, the demand having been very good. Prices are unchanged.

The Markets—Continued.

GROCERIES.

Demand for all kinds of goods has been light this week, but there has been an increased movement in sugars which bids fair to assume larger proportions within the next couple of weeks. Sugars are higher, but beyond this there is no change in the markets.

CANNED GOODS.

The retail demand has been light this week, but there has been more inquiry from wholesalers to replenish stocks. Several houses have been asking for prices on tomatoes, especially the cheaper brands. Holders, however, are firm, and the lowest figure we hear quoted is 80c. for car loads. Buyers, however, do not appear inclined to go over 75c. In a retail way there has been a fair movement in tomatoes at 85c. to 95c., but a cheaper tomato, at 75c., continues to depress the market to some extent. For the best packs $1.10 is asked. For corn the inside price is 85c. for retailers' lots. The lowest figure asked by packers continues to be 90c. The best packs are held at $1 to $1.10 in a retail way. Peas are going from 80c. to $1.20, according to quality, the top figures being for Boulter's sweet wrinkled and Nelles' sifted and sweet. Peaches are pretty firm, and sales are being made at $3 for gal. 3s and $2.25 for 2s. Apples are slow at $1.90 to $2 for gals. and 80c. to 85c. for 3s. Demand for salmon and other canned fish is increasing. Salmon is moving at $1.70 to $1.75, and lobsters at $1.35 for ordinary to $1.75 for Star. Canned meats are also beginning to display more activity.

COFFEE.

Local market shows no change on a week ago. Rios are in good demand and are selling at 21c. to 22c. Mild grades are very firm; Jamaicas have sold at 22c., Mochas at 27½c. to 28c., and choice Javas at 26c. The situation in Rios and Santos is considered strong; the visible supply on April 1 was 3,332,153 bags, against 2,890,266 bags same time last year, 4,148,323 in 1887, 4,686,202 in 1886, and 5,242,273 in 1885. Manufacturers do not report any change in roasted during the week.

☞ The GROCER is everywhere acknowledged as an authority, and its market quotations are accepted as official.

DRIED FRUITS.

Currants are offering at easier prices to reduce stocks. Fine Filiatra can be bought at 5c. to 5¼c. Patras and Vostizzias are scarce; sales of the latter were reported to-day at 7½c. Dates are quiet at 6c. Figs are selling freely at 4c. up. Prunes were steady and in fair demand; hogsheads sold at 4½c. Raisins are quiet. Valencias are firm, and some holders have advanced the price of fine to 6½c. to 7c.; second quality can be bought at 5¼c. to 5½c. Sultanas are going at 6½c. to 7½c., and Malagas are slow and unchanged.

MOLASSES.

Scarce and firm. Barbadoes are moving at 40c. in puncheons, 42c. in barrels, and 45c. in halves. Fancy bright Porto Rico is held at 48c. in barrels and good at 45c.

SUGARS.

Since last report prices have advanced ¼c., in sympathy with the advance in outside markets. Granulated is now quoted at 9c. to 9⅛c. Retailers have been ordering more freely. The general situation continues buoyant, and there is every prospect of still higher prices. It is generally believed that beet, which is now selling at 22s. in London, will yet reach 30s. On the spot a No. 1 brand can be bought at 7½c., but the majority of holders have nothing under 7¾c. There has been a fair movement in raws. Jamaicas are worth 6½c. to 6¾c., and Demeraras have sold to arrive at 9c.

SYRUPS.

Prices at the refinery continue firm at the advance and the supply is light. Local wholesale houses have not advanced prices yet, as the demand is light. Later purchases, however, will have to get higher figures. To-day 52c. to 65c. per gal. was the prevailing price.

TEA.

Teas have been dull on the local market for the past two weeks, with only a small amount of business transacted. The demand for all kinds has been almost nil, and dealers have shown no inclination to buy except small lines for immediate wants. Last advices from London report an easy market for Congous and little business doing of any kind, though prices continue firm. The New York market continues quiet, but firm. In the auction rooms better prices have been realized this week than last. A letter from Japan, dated Hiogo, 30th March, says the weather there has been quite cold for the time of the year, and although small samples have been shown of the first few buds of new tea, still it is not anticipated that the season will open earlier than usual.

MONTREAL, May 2, 1889.

CANNED GOODS.

The market for canned goods has continued quiet on account of the slow demand, and business has been of a jobbing character. There has been no new feature in the market to note, prices having ruled steady all round. Lobsters were firm at $6 per case. Salmon unchanged at $1.70 per dozen. Tomatoes have been quiet and steady at the recent decline, and prices are quoted at 75c. to 95c. per dozen as to brand. Erie and Aylmer corn has ruled steady at 90c. to 95c. per dozen. Peas have been moving slow at $1.10 to $1.15 per dozen. The demand for canned fruits has been slow, of which the offerings are large, and prices are nominally unchanged. Armour's canned meats have been more inquired for at steady prices.

SUGARS.

Since our last there has been considerable excitement in the sugar market, owing to the large amount of speculation going on outside of refiners, and round lots have changed hands freely. Advices from abroad on raw sugar have been strong, and the market here for the refined article has also ruled strong, although

THE CANADA SUGAR REFINING CO'Y [LIMITED],

MONTREAL,

Offer for sale all grades of REFINED SUGARS and SYRUPS of the well-known brand of

Redpath

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

JOHN BAKER EDWARDS, P.L.D., D.C.L., F.C.S.,

Public Analyst for the District of Montreal, and Professor of Chemistry.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY, MEDICAL FACULTY, MCGILL UNIVERSITY.

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have taken and tested a sample of your "EXTRA GRANULATED" Sugar, and find that it yielded 99·88 per cent. of Pure Sugar. It is practically as pure and good a Sugar as can be manufactured.

Yours truly,

G. P. GIRDWOOD.

The Markets Continued.

no further advance in prices has taken place, but refiners are very firm, and still looking for higher prices. The demand has been good and stocks in refiners hands have been well sold up, and in some cases over sold, which helps to give a very strong tone to the market. Granulated is firmly held at 8⅝c., and yellows at 7⅜c. to 7⅞c. as to quality at the factory. Late advices from New York have been strong, and quote granulated at 8¾c.

SYRUP.

The syrup market is in a very strong position, owing to the fact that both refineries are sold out and the bulk of the stock is now held in single hands, in consequence holders and refiners are strong and looking for higher prices in the near future. The market has been fairly active under a good demand, and sales have been made freely at 4½c.

MOLASSES.

There has been no great activity in the molasses market, business having been quiet to some extent, and we do not hear of any further cargo lots being placed, but the market has had a strong tone owing to the strong advices from the Islands, and report prices firm at 22c., in consequence round lots are held here at 45c. for Barbadoes.

FRUIT.

There has been no improvement in the fruit market, business having continued quiet owing to the slow demand, and the market was without any new feature to note. Valencia raisins were quiet and steady at 5¾c. to 6c., and currants were dull at 4¾c. to 5¼c. The demand for oranges has been fair, and the recent advance has been well maintained. Valencias have sold in fair sized lots at $5.50 to $5.75 per case, and Floridas at $5.50 to $6 per box. Lemons have been changing hands fairly well at $2.50 to $3 per box. Nuts have ruled quiet and steady.

TEA AND COFFEE.

The demand for teas has continued slow, and the market has ruled quiet with only a small jobbing trade at firm prices. Stocks here are not large, and the feeling among holders generally is firm and in some cases higher prices are talked of before the new crop commences to come in, although that is quite a little way off yet. Country and local buyers generally are well supplied and few orders are coming in. In coffee business has been quiet, on account of the limited demand, and prices are steady. We quote : Mocha, 27c. to 30c.; Java, 22c. to 27c.; and Rio, 17c. to 20c.

PRICES OF SUGAR.

Boston grocers get a good profit on white sugars, and there is no reason why Canadian grocers should not follow their example and arrange for a profit. Boston grocers' profits run from ¼c. to ¾c. per lb. At the suggestion of several leading merchants of this city we give the wholesale prices of sugars to-day and also what the retail price should be on this market, if we were getting the same profits as Boston grocers.

THE SALT LAW.

So many seizures have been made lately of salt by the Inland Revenue officers for being underweight, that we give the law in full. Retailers in purchasing should always see that they get the full weight in every barrel. The Act is as follows :—

1. Every barrel of salt packed in bulk, sold or offered for sale, shall contain two hundred and eighty pounds of salt, and every such barrel of salt, sold or offered for sale, shall have the correct gross and net weight thereof marked upon it in a permanent manner.

2. When bags of salt are packed in barrels, the number of bags contained in the barrel and the weight of the aggregate amount of salt shall be marked, stamped or branded on one head of the barrel.

3. The name or the registered trade mark of the packer of the salt, if it is packed in Canada, or the name and address of the importer, if it is packed anywhere else than in Canada, shall be marked, stamped or branded on every barrel of salt sold or offered for sale in Canada.

4. Every person who neglects to comply with any provision of this Act, and every person who sells or offers for sale any salt in contravention of the foregoing provisions of this Act, shall be liable, on summary conviction, to a penalty of not less than ten dollars for each offence; but no deficiency in the weight of salt contained in any package shall be deemed a contravention of this Act unless such deficiency exceeds five per cent., nor shall any penalty be recoverable under this Act unless proceedings for the recovery of the same are instituted within twenty days after delivery of the package of salt in respect of which it is claimed that a contravention of this Act has been committed.

ADULTERATION OF FOOD.

The Department of Inland Revenue has issued its annual report on the working of the Adulteration Act. The commissioner says that at the present time a great pressure is is being exerted towards the establishment of a standard for milk. The chief analyst recommends 3½ per cent. butter fat, and 12 per cent. total solids as a minimum. The commissioner, while admitting the extreme desirability of determining some definite standard, is of opinion that the department has not yet such information as would justify the hope that a standard could be fixed which would be fair to all localities and conditions. Further tests will be made over a wide extent of territory, and it is hoped that before long the department may feel itself justified in recommending some more definite action. The percentage of adulterated samples, more especially of butter, coffee and spices, has largely increased. The latter, while not so serious to the public health as many other adulterations, is, at the best, a commercial fraud, and is so serious in extent that the question of licensing spice mills, and systematically inspecting the product seems to be one which may be urged upon the Government in the not very distant future.

The following is a summary of the samples analyzed by the local analysts :

Name of Sample.	Genuine.	Adulterated.	Doubtful.

THE FALL IN PRICE OF TEA.

While there has lately been a good deal of speculative activity in some directions, notably in sugar, there is one department which has been extremely depressed. Were the tea trade, as in past years, dependent on the statistical position of China tea alone, we should probably have had prices going up by leaps and bounds; but China no longer rules the roost. Between 1879 and 1885 the consumption of China tea gradually declined, and in the last four years it has rapidly fallen off The London Statist says : "Our home consumption from about 10,600,000 lbs. per month in 1879 has dropped to 6,600,000 lbs. per month in 1888. In the same period tea of British growth—that is, India and Ceylon—has risen from about 2,800,000 lbs. per month as an average of the year 1879 to 8,800,000 lbs. in 1888.

The contrast of monthly consumption is remarkable, and is shown below :

	1888. lb	1879. lb.	lb.
China tea	6,600,000	10,600,000	Dec. 4,000,000
India and Ceylon tea	8,800,000	2,800,000	Inc. 6,000,000

As an indication of the depressing character of trade in China tea, we may say that the same quality of China teas which on arrival of the first shipments of current season's teas was sold at 1s. 3d. per lb. has quite recently been offered in the market as low as 9d. per lb. There was a hopeful feeling in market at the time the new season's tea began to arrive, but it has been found that the tea has been of an inferior quality. Being badly cured it has consequently not kept well. The Indian and Ceylon teas of the past season have also been somewhat inferior as to quality, and the only crop which has been both sound and good as to quality has been the Java growth. Undoubtedly the consumer has been secured from a high level of prices, consequent on the shrinkage in the import of China teas by the great development in the Indian and Ceylon descriptions. Thus, in the season of 1885-86 the actual deliveries of Indian tea amounted to 60¾ million lbs., and for the current season, which ends on the 31st May, based on known results of ten months, and estimates of the remaining two months, a delivery of over 90¼ million lbs.is expected. This is approximately an increase of about 50 per cent. in the consumption compared with four years ago ; but the comparison sinks into insignificance with the proportionate increase when we refer to the statistics of Ceylon tea. In the period from 1st June, 1885, to 31st May, 1886, about 3,930,000 lbs. of Ceylon passed into consumption in this country. In the season which ends on the 31st May, 1889, with the known results of ten months, and estimates of April and May, there appears to be every probability of deliveries to the aggregate amount of 23,350,000 lbs., an increase of about 500 per cent. Undoubtedly one great canse of the expansion of consumption which has been going on year by year has been the decline in prices. As the industry develops, the great area planted admits of more economical working, and the use of mechanical appliances admits of more economical production. Probably, in part, the decline which has lately taken place has been due to the comparatively poor quality, as well as to the continuance of savings found practicable in cost of production. Be that as it may, the fact remains that the last week or two teas have been sold at unprecedentedly low prices. For example, the same quality of Indian tea which late in 1881 was sold at 1s. 2½d. per lb. has changed hands quite lately at 7¼d. per lb., which is exactly 50 per cent. fall.

The increase in production of Indian and Ceylon is likely to still further continue, as the exports of Ceylon tea for the new season are expected to be more than 50 per cent. greater than in the previous season ; and the Indian crop available for the United Kingdom is estimated as likely to be 94 million lbs., as against 86 million lbs. available for exportation to the United Kingdom.

We come to the fact that if production of tea continues to increase as it has done the last three or four years new markets must be sought. Some time ago India endeavoured to develop a new market in the United States, but shippers went about their work in a very ill-considered manner ; they flooded a market where Indian tea was scarcely known with such large quantities that it was impossible to dispose of the arrivals ; indeed, the teas so rushed into a new channel not prepared to use them had to be offered by forced sale, and actually a large quantity of what was sent from India to America came to the United Kingdom for consumption. With such experience it is only natural to expect that any development of a new market will be well considered before it is undertaken. There is no reason whatever why the United States and Canada, as well as Europe, should not be open to the consumption of Indian and Ceylon qualities. Of course the United Kingdom stands far and away at the head of tea-consuming countries, followed by the United States and Russia. Considering the population, a very large quantity is taken by the Australasian Colonies, and an appreciable amount by Canada. The consumption per head is largest in the Australasian Colonies and New Zealand, the latter taking the lead with 7.65 lb. per head, followed by the Australian Colonies with 7·50 lbs. per head. India is developing trade with Australasia, but still the bulk of the tea consumed even by those colonies is derived from China."

TORONTO GROCERS.

The executive committee of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association are now at work visiting the members and collecting the current year's dues. The plan in use is probably the very best that could be adopted. Secretary Thackray has each member of the committee down on his list for a different day, and in company with each committeeman visits as many as possible, collects the fee and gives a receipt for the same. He reports considerable success, having met only two retiring members up to the present writing. His action of last week (noted elsewhere) on the tobacco seizures should convince the grocers that their interests are being carefully guarded. There is no doubt but what a very much larger amount of tobacco would have been lost to the trade had he not taken the opportunity, and warned the members of the Association as soon as he did.

DO YOU BELONC TO A TRADE ORCANIZATION ?

If not, why not ? By associated effort much can be accomplished where individual effort will fail. We ask a favorable consideration for the Retail Grocers' Association of this city. They are a power for good in our midst. And if Grocers will only come forward in sufficient numbers the benefits can be largely increased. The committee who are now waiting on the grocers of Toronto are calling only upon grocers who are members, or who have been members in the past, but there are a large number who are still on the outside. To such we would say, send in your name to the secretary, and he will no doubt make a personal call, and give any information that may be wanted. The subscription, $2, should not hold any one back. Grocers, see that the secretary has your name for the next meeting, Monday, May 13th, in the Philharmonic Hall.

SEIZURES OF TOBACCO IN RETAIL CROCERIES.

About three years ago the Inland Revenue Department of Canada came to the conclusion that it was not getting the duty on all tobaccos sold in a retail way. To prevent any fraud in this particular it was decided that tobacco must not be exposed for sale out of the stamped packages received from the manufactures. By this means the payment of duty upon every package was ensured. The presence of the stamp upon the package from which the goods are being sold is regarded as prima facie evidence that the duty has been paid, and the absence of such a stamp as evidence that it has not been paid. When this regulation was adopted the retail grocers and tobacconists were notified. The Department, however, never enforced the law, and it soon became a dead letter. Last week, however, the Department, which had evidently been stirred up, commenced a raid on the retailers and seized all tobaccos not found in the original package. The crusade is now going on, and further seizures may be expected. It is worthy of special note that very few, if any, of the members of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association suffered. This was due to the prompt and energetic action of Mr. J. F. Thackray, the Secretary. Being down town he learned that the Inland Revenue officers were around seizing all tobaccos they could lay their hands on which were not in their original packages. He at once issued a postal card to each member notifying him of the raid, and thus warned them of the impending danger.

The following circular was issued yesterday from the Inland Revenue Department :

SIR,—I beg to draw your attention to the fact that the law relating to the sale of manufactured tobacco requires the dealer to sell all packages properly stamped, and the practice of cutting up the contents of the package and selling the divided portions to be again offered for sale by retail dealers is positively prohibited. I have to request you to conform to this requirement if you have not already done so.

W. C. STRATTON, Collector.

INSTRUCTIONS TO SHIPPERS.

TO SHIPPERS OF ROLL BUTTER.

A practice that should be abolished by country shippers is that of working low grades of packed into roll, and packing them in with fresh made roll, with the intention of palming it all off as fresh-made. The deception is always detected, and such lots are invariably sold at same prices that low grades of packed command. Regarding packages, new tubs or hardwood boxes are the most desirable, and half-barrels or kegs will do equally as well, and these only should be used. Care should also be taken before putting the butter in packages, that all the sides and ends of the packages be lined with new white muslin, thus keeping the butter from defacement by touching the wood. A bad practice is putting the butter up in paper ; this should not be done, as the paper sticks to the butter and damages the appearance. Each roll should be separately placed in a piece of new muslin cloth, washed in warm water to take out the starch, and thoroughly wet in good brine. The rolls should be of moderate size, and not too large. Then, again, the rolls should be of uniform colour, not packing the light and fresh-made with other that has been colored. Mark plainly on each package the correct tare (the gross weight is easily obtained), as it ensures quick returns after sale is made.

A MODEL GROCERY.

THE GROCER has in the past tried to keep its numerous readers posted as to the latest improvements in grocery stores, and will continue to do so in the future, if the trade will help us by supplying the needed information.

The illustration is that of the new block erected by Mr. Robert Barron, at the corner of Yonge and Czar streets. A word in reference to Mr. Barron's business career. He came to Canada from Elgin, Elginshire, Scotland, eighteen years ago, and settled at York Mills, where he was engaged in the manufacture of leather of all kinds. After spending seven years at that place he removed to Toronto and went into the grocery business at the corner of Yonge and Charles streets. Mr. Barron's obliging manner, honesty and good-heartedness soon won him so many friends and good customers that he found the old stand too small to meet his increasing business, and he had a new store erected at a cost of about $12,000. It has a frontage of twenty-five feet, running back on Czar street seventy feet. It is three storeys high with a fine cellar the whole length of the building and is heated throughout with steam. The fittings, which are of the finest material and latest design, cost $1,000, and are a picture of elegance. The counter in particular, is a fine piece of carved work. Underneath the shelves and running the whole length of the store are a row of tilting drawers, above this another row of tea cans manufactured for Mr. Barron by the Victoria Tin Works, which are very neat and tasty and reflect credit on the manufacturers. The shelves are perfection, and with everything neatly arranged on them with a large plate glass mirror in the centre, the effect is quite pleasing.

The stable and driving shed are of brick with stone facing and everything is arranged in modern style.

Mr. Barron is to be complimented on his success in erecting so handsome a building, and THE GROCER wishes him long life to enjoy in his new place.

THE WHOLESALERS' ORGANIZATION.

The Eastern trade journals are discussing the organization of the wholesale merchants in that section of the country. Some advocate such an organization while others oppose it. We think each side endeavor to present the views of the retailers. The wholesale grocers have the same privilege and right to organize that the retailers have. They suffer from abuses as well as other merchants, and if by organizing, they can better the conditions of trade they are certainly foolish not to do so. As for obtaining a legitimate margin on the goods they sell we think they are justified in doing so, and we admire any merchant or body of merchants, whether wholesale or retail, who have manhood enough to stand up for their rights and obtain a margin on the goods they sell; all are in business for one purpose and that is to make money. Capital is worth a certain rate of interest and labor is also worth a remuneration, and a merchant who is forced to sell goods below their actual market value in order to compete with an unscrupulous class is to be pitied. The wholesale merchants must meet their bills with promptness as well as the retailers, and when a bill is due they have a just right to expect and demand payment. If the retail merchants could only perceive this question in its proper light, and would cease to be distrustful of each other they would be able to sell their goods at a better margin than they are at the present time.—[Denver Retail Grocer.

TARIFF ON BEANS.

In a case in which the collector of the Port of New York was plaintiff in error the United States Supreme Court on Monday, April 15th, decided that beans were dutiable at ten per cent. as vegetables. The Circuit Court of the Southern district of New York decided that beans should be admitted free of duty as "seed not otherwise provided for." The collector at first levied duty at twenty per cent. on the ground that they were garden-seed. The Court holds that although beans are often planted as seeds, yet their principal use is as an article of food, and that they should, therefore, be classed as vegetables.

It is reported that the directors of the Beet Root Sugar Factory, at Berthier, have decided not to operate it this season, money having been lost in the operation last year. Moreover, the farmers in the district are no longer growing beets — probably because there were no inducements offered them to do so.

THE COMBINES BILL.

Carried successfully through the Banking and Commerce Committee, untouched by the House of Commons, Mr. Clark Wallace's Anti-Combines Bill has practically met its fate at the hands of the Senate. The measure, it is true, has been passed, but it has been mutilated to an extent as will almost, if not entirely, do away with the alleged benefits that its founder fondly hoped would accrue from it. It is a triumph for the opponents of the Bill, and they seem to feel it so. As amended the Act gives great discretionary powers to the judge in a suit against a combine, and will also make the task of proving an unlawful combination exceedingly difficult. That such a suit can be tried only by a judge and not by a jury is also a satisfaction to those who disbelieved in the measure, for the sympathies of a jury, perhaps almost wholly composed of workingmen, would naturally be against the accused. Despite difficulties in the way, however, numerous suits are likely to arise out of the Bill, to the profit, probably, only of the lawyers.

The intention of the first clause in the Bill has been almost entirely destroyed by the insertion of the word "unduly" in each paragraph of the clause, which, as amended, now reads:—"Every person who conspires, combines, agrees or arranges with any other person, or with any railway, steamship, steamboat or transportation company, unlawfully (a), to unduly limit the facilities for transportation, producing, manufacturing, supplying storing or dealing in any article or commodity which may be a subject of trade or commerce; or (b) to unduly restrain or injure trade or commerce to any such article or commodity; or (c) to unduly prevent, limit or lessen the manufacture or production of any such article or commodity, or to enhance the price thereof; or (d) to unduly prevent or lessen the competition in the production, manufacture, purchase, barter, sale, transportation or supply of any such article or commodity, or in the price of insurance upon person or property, etc."

The proof against any person on trial for any of these offences will be to a great measure in the hands of such persons as it would be the combinsters themselves who are in the best position to say whether or not production has been unduly lessened or trade unduly restrained, and although, of course, the decision rests with the presiding judge, the evidence of the person accused under the Act will be taken into account.

Clause 5, which read, "The foregoing provisions of this Act shall not apply to the exercise of any handicraft or labor, but subject to such exception they shall be construed as if section 22 of the Trades Union Act had not been enacted," was amended to read, "the foregoing provisions of this Act shall be construed the same as if section 22 of the Trades Unions Act had not been enacted."

In regard to this not even the legislators themselves know the exact effect. Some state that under the amended reading the Act will affect labor unions, while others claim that the Act cannot touch the workmen's combination. Another clause has been added to the Act allowing the privilege of appeal from any conviction under the Act to the highest court of appeal in criminal matters in the country.

One effect of the Act will be that more care will be exercised in the formation of combinations. Manufacturers and others will be very cautious in constructing any combine that is likely to oppress the consumer, and while reasonable protective organizations for the benefit of trade will not be injured, it will have a good effect in keeping within bounds some who otherwise would use their combining power to become extortionate. It is possible, though, that the enforcement of the Act may not be attempted.

BUSINESS METHODS.

To say that history repeats itself is but to put in a modified form, that all which is, represents that which was. Hence, by comparing the past with the present, wise people judge of the future. In following this, it is well to say, that all to somewhat this effect, which the greatest writers have expressed, amounts to the fact that man is constantly resolving and changing, till his career is closed.

Therefore, the head of a business firm may say, "I will stop all advertising, and will trust entirely to travellers." And another resolves to cut down the number of his commercials, and put more money into the business announcements of his goods. And still a third cries, "I will go direct to the public." As with the old fable in verse, each is right and wrong.

But there are points which reflection will show true business men to be worthy of note.

There are firms extant which were great, and are now almost unknown. They advertised, and suddenly stopped. In this case, things got by advertising must be by advertising maintained. It is well that the public should be driven to the shops for certain goods; better that the tradesmen should stock and recommend such. Whether for the sake of extra profit or not, these can say, "Here is an article as good as that for which you ask."

Then businesses change hands, and people start in callings, either partly or wholly new to them, and what more natural than that they should turn to their trade organs for articles new and old in their line?

Let a good article be once well taken in hand by the retail trade and the fortune of its owner is secured. And this good feeling of tradesmen is to be got alone by supplying them with articles of first-class quality, at a price by which they can sell at a good profit. It is not true that a respectable tradesman will sell any article, or that he will push any goods solely because he gets a greater profit out of them than from any others. He knows his true policy is to treat each customer as if he were coming into his shop five minutes after the last purchase.

And this bond is only to be secured by the manufacturer making his goods known to the tradesman. Again, the stoppage of a trade announcement means the loss of the seed that has been previously sown this way. Where travellers are kept, such announcement paves the way for them, and where commercials are unknown they form, as far as possible, a substitute for them.

Where a manufacturer finds his trade falling off matters are different. But where business increases he should pause before he suddenly stops old lines. New departures he may make, but he should ponder before he does more.

One suddenly cries "I will have my goods known to the public as So-and-So's are." And to work he goes and stops all he has done before, and done well, to extend his trade.

And another says, "I'll sample the public with my goods," and lo! he thinks he has hit upon something novel. No, this too, has been done. Still, each is wise in his light, and only wrong if he gives up a plan of action which has increased his trade.—[New England Stoves and Hardware.

The trade paper is the best and cheapest advertising medium for the manufacturer or the jobber. If a dealer wants any information about any jobbing house or manufacturer he does not go to a map, a show card, a directory, or his daily paper. He looks through the columns of his trade journal. You can find one, two, or three on the desk of every wide-awake retail dealer in the North-West. To the trade paper he goes for business. He finds the desired information there. He finds facts pertaining to the trade. He finds the names of the houses he does business with, and there, and there only, is where he goes to find them.

A veteran travelling hardware salesman says: "The last decade has witnessed wonderful changes in the country hardware store. I do not refer to the great diversity of lines handled, although it is worthy of favorable mention, but to the arrangement of stocks. A few years ago the majority of country hardware stores looked like junk shops. Kegs of nails would block up the aisles, buckets were hung on plough handles, axes were kept in an old box, and lines were distributed around with similar recklessness. Now as much attention is paid to arranging stocks as in a dry goods store. It is a matter of surprise to me, however, that dealers do not pay more attention to dressing their show windows. I know of no other line that offers better facilities for window displays than hardware, and none that so little attention is paid to. If I ever go into the retail hardware business, and I expect to some day, I will keep one clerk whose business it will be to attend solely to stock and show windows, and I will have a new display at least once a week."

Armour's canned corn beef has advanced $1 on 14s. and 10c. on 2s.

Lobster packing has commenced in New Brunswick. This is the earliest beginning on record.

The Steele Bros. Co. have moved their retail seed department from Front Street to 130–132 King Street East, to make room for their increased wholesale business.

Several of the wholesale grocers have invested in Norton Bros. sugar sample cases for the sample room. They are very neatly made and are a great improvement on the old case.

Some very good value is now to be had on this market in Pecco congous at 43c. to 48c.; a drop of about 5c. in three months. Advices from English tea houses say that prices must advance.

The changes contemplated under the Amended Post-office Act of last session took effect on Wednesday. The charge for dropping letters in the following cities is 2 cents: Toronto, Hamilton, London, Kingston, Ottawa, Montreal, Quebec, St. John, Halifax, Fredericton, Winnipeg and Victoria, these being the cities which have the benefit of a free delivery system by letter carriers. The registration fee for all letters is now 5c., and the weight of letters which will be carried for 3c. or 2c. is increased to one ounce.

Messrs. John Butcher and James H. Falconer, who left here early last month on a trip to Europe, seem to be enjoying themselves thoroughly. They send THE GROCER a long and very interesting letter, which want of space prevents republishing. A concert was given on board ship at which Mr. Falconer was chairman and Mr. Butcher gave a recitation. They met U. S. Senator George West, of New York, who said that he was an Englishman by birth, but although he has been a resident of the United States and been in Congress for three terms, he is still as loyal to the Queen as ever.

Mr. Isaac Wenger, of Ayton, is one of those progressive merchants who come to the front every now and then with something new and something which consumers want and will have, regardless of cost. As is well known, Mr. Wenger is noted for his fine butter and the excellent condition in which he places it on the market. This week his Toronto agent, Mr. R. H. Ramsay, received a small shipment of choice dairy butter, put up in five-pound drums. Each drum resembles a finely finished miniature cheese box.

One of the most attractive of all the vehicles that throng our streets is the handsome turn-out belonging to E. W. Gillet, the well-known manufacturer of Imperial Baking Powder and Yeast cakes. It is costly, highly ornamented and decorated, and a beautiful specimen of artistic workmanship. The immense amount of business now done by this house demands an equipage in keeping with the character and style of their goods. This vehicle is used for the distribution of free sample packages throughout the city, and similar turn-outs are used in other parts of the Province. The volume of business is increasing so rapidly that more conveniences of this kind are demanded and will be supplied in the near future. Now the Imperial is handled by wholesale and retail grocers everywhere, while every day it is becoming more popular as an indispensable article of household use. Mr. Harry Webb, the most fashionable and extensive caterer of Toronto, who tried all other baking powders without reaching the favourable results desired, gave the Imperial a trial, and with such success that he now prefers it above all others. It is the favorite baking powder at the Rossin House and other leading hotels, and among the best families in the city. But it is equally the poor man's favorite, as the sales of the retail grocers abundantly prove. The secret of this wonderful success is the fact that the Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder contains no alum, ammonia, lime, phosphates, or any adulterant or impurity, and therefore does not injure the health. On the contrary, it is an excellent remedy for dyspepsia and kindred diseases of the stomach aggravated by other cheap and deleterious powders. The chemical works where this powder, and also the Royal Yeast Cakes, are made are at 32 and 34 Front Street West, where the latest and most improved machinery for the purpose has been introduced. E. W. Gillett has had a large establishment in the United States for the last thirty-six years, and the one in this city has been established for three years. The excellence of the goods manufactured has won for the firm an enviable reputation, and a success in all parts of the Dominion that is phenomenal. The extensive system of free sample distribution is immediate guarantee of the superiority of this powder, and of its genuineness, for no manufacturer would thus subject his goods to critical examination did he fear any test that may be applied.

RETAILERS' PROFITS.

We would that the work and influence of retail grocers' associations in this country were more steadily thrown in the direction of better profits. Not much has been done by associations in this line if we except the well-directed and successful effort made by the Philadelphia Association to secure the selling of sugar at a uniform price. The preamble to the constitution of these associations generally contains the statement that "we stand on the broad platform of the greatest good to the greatest number. We shall strive in every honorable manner for protection from the abuses of trade: we shall work patiently and eventually enjoy the fruit of our labors."

The trouble with associations here is the same as has been pointed out in the recent annual meeting of associations as existing in England, viz.: that too much attention is given to matters having an indirect bearing upon the general interests of the retail trade. The London Grocer quotes from a recent address of the President of the Liverpool Association referring to this phase of association work:

He had been amused sometimes to see the number of things to which it had already been proposed that grocers' associations should devote their attention. Among these subjects were the readjustment of taxation, including the income-tax (laughter), the stopping of Civil Service trading, the exposure of co-operative fallacies, alteration of the bankruptcy laws, reform of the county courts, debt collecting and wholesale buying. These were some of the things he had seen in their trade journals suggested by speakers at meetings like that as objects which might be undertaken by their association. He thought it would be a great mistake, for those things were altogether outside the range of prudent association effort. All had a bearing on the trade, but it was remote and distant, and other organizations might, and possibly would, take up those matters. There were, however, things which affected their pockets directly, and one of these was selling sugars at a profit,

The matter of retailers' profits is a subject which interests every individual merchant. There can be no objection urged against a live and let live policy, and the direction of associated work in the line of retailers obtaining a "fair price for a good article."

The moral influence of an organization is in itself sufficient to secure a modification of the existing tendency among retailers to promote unhealthy competition.

A few weeks since important meetings were held in England by the grocers of Manchester, Birmingham and Sheffield, to consider the price at which sugar should be sold.

The evils of selling sugar at and below cost were discussed, and also the importance of making consumers acquainted with the sugar situation, and that the prices should be advanced. The following resolution was adopted by the Manchester grocers:

That advertisements be inserted in all the Manchester papers to the effect that all sugars would be sold at a half-penny per pound advance.

The Sheffield and Birmingham grocers agreed to advance the price of sugar a half-penny per pound all around (equal to 1 cent).

We would that our American Associations would hold meetings for the same object, and get before the retail trade by personal appeal, by circular, as well as by a public meeting, the folly of cutting prices, and also facts connected with the cost of doing business, which with the retail grocers throughout the United States averages 8 to 10 cents for every dollar's worth of goods sold. We believe that the confidence of the public in the integrity of the retail trade will be greater when people understand thas dealers are obtaining a fair price for a good article, than when selling a few leading articles at an actual loss and plundering customers on other lines of goods. It was demonstrated in Philadelphia that if the grocers of that city adhered to the plan outlined by the association in regard to selling sugar that $800,000 or more would be added to the profits of retailers which otherwise would be lost.

Some may object that the cutters will continue their ruinous policy under any circumstances, but it has been demonstrated that the combined action of a number of retailers exerts an influence upon jobbers and the makers of proprietary goods sufficient to gain their co-operation for a suppression of the evil. We believe grocers' associations cannot be held together unless they put money in the pockets of their members, and therefore we urge united and determined effort to secure better profits and less attention to matters foreign to the direct object of association work.—[American Grocer.

THE MARKETS

TORONTO, May 9, 1889.

GROCERIES.

After an unusually good spring trade the grocery market has relapsed into a dull position. There is very little doing in anything excepting sugars, which are showing increased signs of activity. As we before pointed out stocks in retailers hands are not as large as many believed some time ago. This week there were enquiries by mail for samples of yellows from dealers who claimed to have enough to carry them into next August.

CANNED GOODS.

There is a fair movement in canned goods of all kinds. Several lots have been shipped to the North-West. Tomatoes seem to be hardening although a small lot of low priced goods is being constantly paraded as a bear argument in the face of sellers. As was the case last week retailers can buy a few cases at 75c. but 78c. was refused for 200 cases, and a bid of 80c. from a wholesale house was refused for a lot of 500 cases 1887 pack. The ruling price is 80c. to $1. Corn and peas are selling at 90c. to $1.20, but mostly about 90c. to $1. In fish there is a fair movement in salmon at $1.70 to $1.75, and in mackerel herring at 90c. to $1. Canned corn beef is advancing. American has advanced $1 on 14s. and 10c. on 2s., while Clark's has gone up 50c. on 14s. and 5c. on 2s.

COFFEES.

There is a good market for Rio coffee and prices are steady at 21c. to 22c. Other grades are firm. The Rio News of April 8th says: "As we have already stated prices in Rio are undoubtedly high, but the position of the bean, according to most reports, is such that consumption must be reduced to meet the supply. We have ridiculed consumption exceeding supply so frequently that when we now are led to believe that the supply is not up to an average, we can hardly be criticised for advancing the hypothesis; consumption will be reduced. As the end of the crop year approaches more nearly, it appears evident that, accepting 5,000,000 bags as a fair estimate for the 1888-89 crop, we shall carry over a considerable quantity from this crop to fill up holes in 1889-90 supply. Telegrams from Santos lead to a belief that the market there is paralyzed."

DRIED FRUIT.

There has been more movement in round lots by wholesale houses who are sorting up stock. In the leading staples, such as currants and Valencia raisins, prices are firm and higher on the choice stock, but low grades can be bought at cheaper prices. Currants can be bought in a retail way from 4¾c. for poor in barrels to 5½c. for choice. Dates are in fair request. Spot stock is light and prices steady at 6c. to 6½c. Figs are dull and prices are the same as before. Prunes are also moving at a slow pace from 4½c. to 5c. in hdds. and kegs up to 10c. for choice cases. In the raisin market there is an increasing scarcity of good canned fruit and 6½c. appears to be about rock bottom for really sound stock. Lower grades can be bought for 5¼c. to 5½c. Fine Sultanas are selling at 8½c. to 9c. Malagas are quiet and easy.

GREEN FRUIT.

A much more active condition of affairs prevails throughout the fruit trade this week than last. The warm weather has stimulated business in all lines, and a good brisk demand can now be seen for almost everything. As anticipated, nearly all the fruit dealers are in Montreal in attendance on the fruit sales there. The fruit which has been offered there this week is said to be of especially fine quality, the Valencia oranges being extra choice. The sale of lemons takes place to-day, and some very fine fruit will be offered. The Toronto merchants will probably arrive from Montreal about Friday, when lemon quotations will have to be revised. Stocks of Valencia oranges have been much enhanced this week by the arrival of the Montreal fruit, and there is now a good supply in the city. A quite good demand exists for the fruit, which is moving very satisfactorily at $5.50 to $7 per case. The fresh fruit is most in request. Messina oranges are in but fair enquiry, and the only moderately large supplies are quite sufficient for the amount of trade doing. They are quoted at $3 to $3.50 per box. The demand for Californias is not of a very active nature; still, on the whole, a fair trade is being done at $4 per box. Montreal stocks not having arrived, the lemon market shows no new feature this week. Messinas are in moderately active demand at $3 to $4 per box. Yesterday and to-day large supplies of pineapples have been received by the different city dealers, and the market at present is very well supplied. There is, however, an active demand, and the supplies are probably none too large for the requirements of the trade. The stock has arrived in good condition. Extra large are quoted at $3.50 to $4 per dozen, large at $3 to $3.50, medium at $2.50 to $3, and small are selling at a round $2 per dozen. Regarding the supply of bananas, what has been said of pineapples applies also to bananas. Receipts have been large, but a good request also exists for them and about all are needed. There are not, however, very many ripe bananas coming in, the bulk of the fruit being green. The best demand is noted for red, yellows being in light enquiry. Red are quoted at $1.50 to $2, and yellows at $1 to $1.50. The latest shipments have been received in very good condition. Bananas have advanced slightly in the New York market.

SUGARS.

There has been an increased inquiry for sugars, especially for the lower grades, from retailers. Inquiries, however, have not resulted in much business, as buyers are looking for some weakness which they naturally expect after such a rapid advance. On the spot, prices are pretty well maintained. In New York the market is dull, but steady. European markets are lower, and dull. On the street here a few round lots have been sold at full prices. One sale showed a net profit of 2⅞c. per barrel. There has been a good inquiry for low grade yellows for early preserving, but as usual there are none too many offering. A few lots, however, have been put on the market, and are selling at 5⅜c. For some years past bright yellows have been in abundant supply during the rhubarb season when darks were wanted but when brights were wanted there seemed to be nothing but low grades to be had. This is to some extent the case now. Fair yellows, are quoted at 7½c. to 7⅝c., and bright at 7¾c. to 8c. Granulated is moving at 9c. to 9⅛c., same as last week.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Syrups are firm. The finer qualities continue to sell freely at 60c. to 65c., but low grades are slow. Molasses in good request on a basis of 44c. to 45c. for Barbadoes and Port Rico, in barrels.

FISH.

Business this week has shown more life than the week previous, and a fair trade appears to be doing. Supplies of fresh fish appear to be coming in more freely and are meeting with a good sale as fast as they arrive. For sea fish the demand is quite slow, having fallen off considerably lately, and but few of them are being handled. Fresh supplies of Lake Winnipeg trout and whitefish are being received almost daily, and they are going out very rapidly. They are easier this week, being quoted at 6c. per lb. Sarnia herring have also declined in price and are selling at $2 per 100, with, however, not a very active demand. There is an adequate supply. Fresh salmon are in plentiful supply, and are moving off well at 20c. to 25c. Lake Ontario and Lake Erie whitefish are selling at 7c. per lb., but there is no great call for them, and while receipts are not very large there is still quite enough on the market. Haddock are slow of sale and remain quotably unchanged at 7c., also fresh codfish, 7c. There are no new varieties of fish expected on the market at present.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

APPLES—A limited amount of business is doing. The local market is taking a few small lots for retailing. For choice to fancy spies prices are firm at $2.25 to $2.50 per bbl., but for ordinary to good stock $1.50 to $2 is the prevailing figure.

BEANS—Not much doing. Commission houses are selling small lots at $1.50 to $1.60 per bush. Trade lots can be bought about $1.25 to $1.30.

DRIED APPLES—Receipts have been light. Country holders in many instances seem inclined to carry their stocks over until next season rather than sell at the present low prices. All consignments are finding a market at 2¾c. to 3c. per lb. There is no retail demand, but buyers are making a few sales up north, and what cannot be sold there are carefully put away for next season. Retailers lots are quoted at 3c. to 3½c. Evaporated are also dull. Round lots can be bought at 5c., but smaller quantities and single cases are quoted at 6c. to 6½c.

EGGS—The advance of ½c. at the latter part of last week has been firmly maintained. Receipts are fair, but there is a very good consumptive demand: as local retailers are selling 2 dozen for 25c. Arrivals are barely sufficient to keep the market going. New York advices say there has been a continued good demand there and with strong Western advices, prices are higher and firm. The improvement is generally considered to have a healthy foundation, as advices from nearly all points indicate moderate shipments with a strong tone to prices. Stocks there are comparatively light.

HAY AND STRAW—There has been a little more business done in hay during this week. A lot of eight cars American prairie grass sold on the track at $9 per ton. Several large lots of choicer timothy in small bales sold at $13 to $14 on the track. The demand is fairly good for fresh pressed, but winter pressed is regarded with suspicion as a good deal of it is opening out; bad mixed is slow selling at $9 to $12. Inferior timothy can be bought as low as $7. Straw quiet, with wheat at $7, and oats at $8.

HIDES AND SKINS—Prices remain the same as before. Cured hides are selling at 5¼c. to 5½c., and dealers are buying green at 2¾c. to 4¾c. Sheepskins dull at $1.25 to $1.50. Calfskins slow at 5c. to 6c. per lb.

HOPS—There has been a fair demand and sales of single bales of new have been made at 21c. to 22c.

MAPLE SYRUP AND SUGAR—Demand decreasing and the feeling weak. Syrups are selling from 90c. to $1 per Imperial gallon. Sugar rules at 7c. to 9c.

ONIONS—Hard to sell. Prime natives are worth about $1 to $1.25 per bbl.

POTATOES—Are dull. Arrivals on track are light, but there are a good many coming in on the street. On the track and to arrive they are offered freely at 25c. Dealers are getting 35c. out of store.

SEEDS—Fair demand at previous prices.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—The butter season has now commenced in earnest. Supplies have been increasing daily since last report, and are now more than sufficient for the demand. Values have in consequence declined, and commission houses have been endeavouring to clear up receipts every night. Buyers have been somewhat indifferent as they are looking for a still further decline. Arrivals during the past few days have not been in as good a condition as could be desired, the warm weather making them soft, mussy and knocking them out of shape. The demand has been entirely local. On Saturday there were some inquiries from Montreal, but a dispatch from there on Tuesday said they were not buyers owing to the hot weather and increased arrivals. Large rolls are selling at 19c. to 20c. for the best, and 17c. to 18c. for good. Quality is generally very fair so far. A lot of 2,000 pounds of choice rolls, in half barrels, sold at 18c. Tuesday. Very few tubs are coming in, and mediums are wanted by bakers, who, not being able to get enough, are taking rolls instead. New York dealers have been offering creamery here; they have been bid 14c. to 15c. here for a few small lots for bakers' use. Canadian creamery is about nominal; there appear to be only a few tubs on the market, and these can be bought for 24c. to 25c.

CHEESE—Has been more active and prices are higher. In Liverpool there has been an advance of about 3s. on the spot, Old cheese has been moving as before, but holders are firm. New is going in small lots at 10c. A letter to THE GROCER from Ingersoll says that all the April make has been bought for export.

PROVISIONS.

There is a steady, regular in and out trade. No large transactions are reported. Prices continue low and leave but little margin of profit to packers. There does not seem to be much prospect for an improvement. Corn is low, the supply of hogs liberal, a good export and domestic demand, and there are comparatively light stocks.

BACON—Long clear is steady with a fair demand. Several ton lots have gone out at 8½c.

LARD—Canadian is getting into smaller compass, and dealers are firmer in price. American is easy at 9¾c. for tubs to 10½c. for small pails.

MESS PORK—Is dull, with very little demand. American can be bought at $15.50, while Canadian is held at $16.25 to $16.50.

SMOKED MEATS—are in good demand. Hams are going out freely at 11c., backs and bellies at 11½c. and shoulders at 10c.

THE CANADA SUGAR REFINING CO'Y [LIMITED],

MONTREAL,

Offer for sale all grades of REFINED SUGARS and SYRUPS of the well-known brand of

Redpath

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

JOHN BAKER EDWARDS, P.L.D., D.C.L., F.C.S.,

Public Analyst for the District of Montreal, and Professor of Chemistry.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY, MEDICAL FACULTY, MCGILL UNIVERSITY.

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have taken and tested a sample of your "EXTRA GRANULATED" Sugar, and find that it yielded 99·88 per cent. of Pure Sugar. It is practically as pure and good a Sugar as can be manufactured.

Yours truly,

G. P. GIRDWOOD.

The Markets – Continued.

DRESSED HOGS.

There are now very few dressed hogs coming in by rail. Owing to warm weather and liberal street receipts prices have declined during the past few days Choice will find buyers at $6.75 ; and heavy at $6.50.

GRAIN AND FLOUR.

This market has been very dull all week. Flour is going out in small lots at about our quotations. Wheat firmed up a little on reports from the West and North-west that the crops were suffering from want of rain and that there had been severe frosts at night. Later advices say they are having rain and prices are easier. Very little doing on the spot. Millers are buying Midland spring wheat at $1.02 to $1.05, as to quality ; on the Northern wheat is moving at $10.1 to $1.02, and in the West at 95c. to $1. Manitoba No. 1 hard wheat is worth about $1.21, and it can be bought to arrive this month at $1.20. Barley is in fair demand, and No. 2 has changed hands on the spot at 54c., and No. 3 extra at 50c. ; not much offering most of the stock is being carried over. Peas dull at 54c. to 55c. outside. Oats steady at 32c. to 33c. on the track for good mixed and white ; a cargo of 12,000 bushels sold Saturday night at 31c. delivered here. Oatmeal dull ; dealers are jobbing standard at $3.80 ; granulated at $4, and rolled at $4.15.

COAL OIL.

Refined is selling at 13c. per gallon ; Carbon Safety at 16c. to 17c ; Canadian water white at 19c. to 20c. ; American water white at 24c. to 25c., and Photogene at 27c.

MONTREAL, May 9, 1889.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been no new feature in the canned goods market, except that a larger volume of business has been transacted between packers and wholesalers, but the demand from retail buyers has continued slow, and the market in this respect has been dull and steady. The demand for salmon has been good owing to the light stock held, and sales were reported of about fifteen car loads of new pack for future delivery at $1.45 per dozen. Lobsters have also been more inquired for, and sales of round lots have been effected at $1.50 per dozen. Tomatoes have been dull and steady at 75c. to 95c. per dozen as to brand. It was stated that packers are large holders, one house alone holding over 8,000 cases ; in consequence the prospects for the coming season's pack do not look very encouraging, and some packers talk of shutting down on account of the large stock of old held over. Corn has ruled quiet and steady at 90c. to 95c. for the Erie and Aylmer brand, and $1.30 to $1.40 for Hoegg's. Peas are unchanged at $1.10 to $1.20 per dozen. Canned fruits have been neglected, and prices are nominal all around. In Armour's canned meats a fair volume of business has been accomplished for this season of the year.

☞ The articles contained in this Review are written by experienced representatives of the GROCER, are wholly unbiassed, and are an accurate reflex of the market.

SUGAR.

There has been nothing of any great importance in the sugar market since our last. The feeling continues firm and prices have been well maintained at the recent advances with indications of a further advance owing to the very light stock held here by refiners. Advices from abroad have been of a quiet character. The volume of business done here has been small owing to the fact that buyers generally are well stocked up for the present. We quote granulated at 8⅜c. and yellows at 7 5-16c. to 7⅞c. as to quality at the factory.

SYRUP.

The market for syrup has been quiet and firm owing to the light offerings from refiners. In consequence trade has been of a jobbing character and few round lots have changed hands as holders are firm and looking for higher prices, but at present values are firmly held at 4½c.

MOLASSES.

In molasses business has been fairly active there being a good demand, and sales of several round lots have been effected to arrive. Stocks here are light, and the market is firm with prices tending upwards owing to the firm advices received from the Island. Holders here are firm at 45c. for Barbadoes.

FRUIT.

The first direct steamer from Gibraltar has arrived, which had on board 32,000 cases of fruit, which consisted principally of oranges and lemons, and were sold by auction. The prices realized were good as the bulk of the cargo was landed in good condition. Dealers generally bought freely, and the most of the offerings were taken at the first day's sale. In Valencia raisins business has continued quiet, and no great improvement is looked for as most buyers are well supplied and prices are steady at 5¾c. to 6c. The demand for currants has also been slow and few sales have been made outside of some small lots at 4¾c. to 5c.

TEA AND COFFEE.

There has been more enquiry for tea and the market has ruled more active with a larger volume of business including several fair sized lots of Japans which have changed hands at good prices. The feeling in the market is firm, and as stocks are not large holders generally are looking forward to a better trade. Orders from the country have been coming in more freely, and travellers report stocks through the country light, but that dealers are only taking sufficient for actual wants as they do not feel inclined to stock up at present. There has been a fair demand for coffee and a larger jobbing trade has been transacted at steady prices. We quote : Mocha, 27c, to 30c. ; Java, 22c. to 27c., and Rio, 17c. to 20c.

☞ "A Newspaper Advertisement may seldom be read, still it makes the name and business of the man familiar, and its presence in the columns of a paper inspires confidence in the stability of the enterprise."

☞ The review of the markets published in the GROCER AND GENERAL STOREKEEPER is based upon information gained from personal application to both seller and buyer, as far as possible and quotations here given reflect, in most cases, the actual prices paid.

STORAGE.

ADVANCES MADE ON STAPLE MERCHANDISE IN STORE.

BUYERS AND SELLERS.

Do not have too many prices, and especially to the same customer.

You should use every effort to increase your house trade and mail orders.

It is not a difficult matter to win the good wishes of a customer, if you treat him sincerely.

The men who succeed best are the men who respect the manhood of every man they meet.

Never refuse "to break packages," unless you are sure that the man's trade will never reach a point where it will pay you for humouring it now.

The retailer when ready for trade should open with the best display of his goods that he can make ; he must entice people to enter his store.

With some customers it is absolutely necessary, in order to hold them, that you "fall" a little on the prices first quoted them. With others your willingness to "cut under" your own price will drive them away.

Encourage your customers to use your office as if it were their own ; have them feel at home in your store ; introduce them to your clerks and salesmen ; each point will be one that will draw them more surely to you when they come to town again.

PRICES OF SUGAR.

Boston grocers get a good profit on white sugars, and there is no reason why Canadian grocers should not follow their example and arrange for a profit. Boston grocers' profits run from ¼c. to ¾c. per lb. At the suggestion of several leading merchants of this city we give the wholesale prices of sugars to-day and also what the retail price should be on this market, if we were getting the same profits as Boston grocers.

KEEP CLEAR OF THEM.

At an informal meeting of creditors held in this city last week, an evil from which the trade is suffering was very clearly demonstrated. The firm in question showed assets of about $4,000 and liabilities of about $6,000. The chief creditors were represented. They were made thoroughly conversant with the case and unanimously urged the firm to assign. On the advice of the solicitor who accompanied them to the meeting, they positively refused to do so, but tried to force a settlement at 30c. on the dollar on the ground that the estate would not realize that sum. Although the meeting had been adjourned from the day before, it broke up in confusion. The insolvents showed a deficit of about $2,000, and clearly had no interest in the estate beyond seeing that full value was realized for the assets. One creditor pointed out that the meeting could have no legal status without an assignment, that he wished to closely question one of the creditors who had only a few days previously grossly misrepresented his affairs, and he stated that in all his business experience he had never known such a villainous outrage to have been perpetrated on a meeting of creditors. The same gentleman said that these needy, second-rate, petty-fogging lawyers in the country did more harm to business than all the bad law on the Statute Book.

We can readily see the great injury to business men, and especially to the retail merchant, by coming in contact with this class of lawyer. A retailer is probably threatened by some impatient wholesaler, and perhaps ashamed to go and consult a well-known barrister. He rushes to one of the class of lawyers referred to above. Immediately a scheme is devised by this rotten limb of the law to ask for a compromise, and the client that went into this plotter's office an honest man goes out with his head full of perplexities and the assurance that he will be pulled through his difficulties to his satisfaction. In order to do this a "statement" has to be "prepared," and of course this must appear as favourable as possible for the insolvent. The beginning is made with just a little misrepresentation, and when the end is reached the unfortunate merchant is as dishonest as his adviser. Stripped not only of his business chances but of his honor and integrity as well, he is turned out into the world an object of reproach by respectable people. The wholesale houses make a bad debt. The retail trade has to compete with bankrupt stock, and the consumer buys in quantities far beyond his actual wants. It seems to us that with the exception of the unfortunate insolvent the consumer is the greatest sufferer. Under the allurement of big bargains, he buys goods that he does not require and that he will never use and that must become an absolute waste. The next greatest sufferers are the remaining retail merchants, whose whole trade is demoralized until the market is relieved of these bankrupt goods.

All this is brought about by consulting a "sharp" lawyer, who has no interest (his client not being considered) except to make fees for himself out of the wreck. When a merchant finds himself in difficulties his manifest duty is to go straight to his largest creditors and consult them. They will advise him to do what is best in his own interest as well as in theirs. The record of the Toronto merchants warrants us in saying he will be dealt with generously. Besides, he will have to come before his creditors some time, and he had much better do so before putting himself in a false position. Whatever he does, let him avoid consulting lawyers, and especially sharp ones, they are in bad odor with the wholesale merchants, and an insolvent attempting to be steered through his troubles in this unsavory way is sure to receive but little consideration from his creditors.

DOING BUSINESS AT A PROFIT.

It is foolish for any storekeeper to continue in business unless he is deriving some profit from it. There is no sense in doing business for the mere glory there is in it, and a man who does not do business at a profit soon finds himself in deep water. Close cutting is ruinous to thousands of retail merchants. Selling below cost for the sake of meeting the competition of a rival is commercial idiocy, not commercial honesty, for no man can long continue to do busines on this basis without running behind and ultimately defrauding his creditors. The way to do business is to conduct it upon a sensible and substantial basis ; to carry a stock of desirable goods ; mark them as low as consistent and adhere firmly to prices. If your neighbour over the way undersells you, let him go on, he will soon bankrupt himself. It is not necessary for you to ruin yourself in order to retain your customers. Give more attention to the buying of your goods. If you can buy cheaper than he can you can afford to undersell him. You will always find it better to conciliate him than to fight him. Close cutting will not increase your trade or his to any great extent, as people rarely buy more than they need for their present necessities. Ruinous competition, therefore, means nothing except the giving of your profits to customers who do not appreciate the favor and who would buy just as much off you and think just as well of you if you sold your goods to them at a reasonable profit.

THE NEW POSTAGE RATES.

The following is a copy of the circular issued by the Postmaster-General in regard to the postage increases, which came into force to-day :

The rate of postage upon letters posted in Canada, addressed to places within the Dominion or in the United States, will be 3 cents per ounce instead of 3 cents per half ounce as heretofore.

Upon drop-letters posted at an office from which letters are delivered by letter carriers, the postage rate will be 2 cents per ounce instead of 1 cent per half ounce. The rate of postage upon drop-letters, except in the cities where free delivery by letter carriers has been established, will be 1 cent per ounce.

The fee for the registration of a letter or other article of mail matter will be 5 cents upon all classes of correspondence passing within the Dominion. For the present and until further instructed the registration fee may be prepaid by using the 2-cent registration, stamps and postage to make up the amount.

Letters insufficiently prepaid will be charged double the deficiency, as heretofore, provided at least a partial prepayment has been made. Letters posted wholly unpaid will be sent to the dead letter office for return to the writer.

CANNED CORN DECOCTIONS.

Thus racily does J. K. Armsby speak of the canned corn outlook in the States : "Corn is very weak and tired, but the quality of the bulk of unsold corn is very poor. Half the trouble in this canned goods business is the quality of the goods packed. More start out to pack food for other people's eating that have no more conception of what a square meal is themselves than a bullfrog has of the theology of John the Baptist. They get up a decoction of stuff in a tin can and start out to sell, and are ready to take their Bible oath that nothing better was ever packed, or ever will be, and yet they have packed a lot of stuff in a can that would make a government mule lay right down in his stall and die before he would eat it. It is largely a question of cooks and tastes, just as a perfect cook will make the reputation of a restaurant and make it profitable almost from the start while a poor one ruins it. So a packer who knows how to pack a fine article of food, rarely lacks buyers for his product after it is once introduced.

"The prospects for the corn packing of 1889 are that it will not be over one-half of 1888. Still, it will be some time before we strike a canned corn famine."

THE SUGAR SITUATION.

The heavy advance that has been established in the world's price of sugar since the 1st of January, or even since before that date, has attracted more than usual attention in the commercial world, and as this advance seems likely to be maintained for some time to come, it may be interesting at the present moment to inquire into the causes that have resulted in the present unique condition of affairs, especially as the most reliable estimates of the yield of the current crop yeai are slightly in excess of the quantity actually produced last year. This gain, however, is due solely to the increased supply that is expected to become available from the European beet crop, for the world's production of cane sugar is found to have fallen below the estimates that were made four months ago. All the large producing countries—Cuba, Brazil and Java—have from different causes decreased their production to an extent that has not been compensated for by the countries showing an increase—Philippine Islands, Mauritius, Demerara and the Sandwich Islands. According to the estimates of Licht, the comparison for three years stands as follows :—

	1888-89.	1887-88.	1886-87.
Cane, tons...	2,311,000	2,501,735	2,371,221
Beet " ...	2,725,000	2,451,950	2,730,206
Total...	5,036,000	4,953,685	5,101,427

The shortage here shown of about 82,000 tons is not of itself sufficient to account for an advance of 1½ cents per pound since the first of January, even when taking into consideration the increase in consumption, for, under normal conditions of the world's available supply, this discrepancy would scarcely be felt or cause such radical changes as have been in progress during the past month. The fact is that present prices and statistical outlook are primarily the result of a small yield during 1887-88, which made it necessary to so far absorb the usual reserves that are carried over from one season to another that the present crop commenced without there being virtually any surplus of old sugar either in consuming or producing countries. The shipments from the island of Cuba alone from September 1 to December 31, 1888, were only 35,000 tons, against 111,000 tons for the corresponding period the previous year, which is equal to a falling off of 76,000 tons from that island before the new season begins, and which becomes all the more serious when the new crop is found to be short. It is, therefore, the result of a small crop the previous season that is making itself felt now, and is likely to become still more serious in its results, for the world has not only used up its normal surplus, but the present crop affords no opportunity for replenishing because it will be barely sufficient to cover the requirements of an increased consumption. Under these circumstances it is easy to foreshadow that prices will gradually advance to a point where they will act as a check upon consumption ; whether that point has yet been reached remains to be seen. Such a condition of affairs is likely to stimulate production, but after two years of short supplies the world will be in a position to absorb an abnormally large crop without bringing depression from oversupply.—[Shipping List.

TEA AND COFFEE.

"In his Budget speech of Monday night," says the Colonial Mail, "the Chancellor of the Exchequer spoke of 'sober beverages,' as he called them, and their influence on the revenue as follows. He said : 'Coffee maintains its character of dull uniformity ; cocoa has yielded £6,000 more than before, and that not on a very large revenue. But coffee is £2,000 less. Coffee will not move ; and here again some experts give an extraordinary and not uninteresting explanation. I give it for what it is worth. They say that cocoa has actually been puffed into its present more satisfactory condition by the energy of ambitious advertisers. "Grateful and comforting" have had their effect. Tea also enjoys with cocoa a vast amount of advertising. Somehow or other coffee has been neglected in that respect ; coffee is dull and never will yield even a small increase, if increase is taken in the estimate, notwithstanding the increase of population. But cocoa, coffee and chicory give only a very small revenue compared with the great item of tea. The total yield is only £328,000, which is as nothing to the £4,628,000 we get from tea. Yet, large as is this revenue from tea, it is again disappointing. There is an increase of only £15,000 over the year before, which is one-third per cent., while the population has increased at the rate of 1 per cent. ; so there is practically a decrease per head in the consumption.'

"He then bore testimony to the excellence of Indian tea as follows : 'Experts account for this deficiency by two circumstances. They suggest, though they do not rest at all strongly upon the point, that a certain amount of tea has been kept back, owing to the expectation and possibility that the duty might be reduced ; and secondly, there is the analogous case in tea with that which I quoted as regards tobacco. I explained last year, and I think my predecessors have done, that Indian tea is to a great extent superseding China tea ; at all events it is competing with it to a constantly greater extent. Indian tea is so much stronger than China tea that again a pound of it goes further, and a larger number of cups of tea may be drunk, notwithstanding the falling off in the revenue and in the consumption of pounds of tea per head. That is an explanation which those who advise me insist is absolutely correct, and while great benefit is derived by India from the export of tea, there is little doubt that it has an effect on our revenue.'

"Mr. Frederick Clifford, Chairman of the Coffee Association, writing on the subject of Mr. Goschen's remarks about coffee, says: 'One cogent reason why "coffee does not move" might have been mentioned by Mr. Goschen on Monday. I mean the adulteration of coffee which the law now permits, and under cover of which, as the annual reports of the Local Government Board's analysts show, the labelled "coffee mixtures" sometimes contain no more than 20 or even 10 per cent. of coffee. As long as the sale of these mixtures is allowed, or the proportions of coffee to the admixture are not required to be specified, so long will the revenue suffer, notwithstanding the equivalent duty on chicory, and coffee growers be discouraged. Another result is that consumers, chiefly among the poorer classes, are shamefully defrauded, and large profits made by retailers and others; while probably nineteen consumers out of twenty do not know the taste of genuine coffee, and believe it to be, when infused, a black, cloying liquid, thick to the mouth, insipid and almost sickly, instead of the most refreshing, gently stimulating, aromatic drink which Nature supplies. Of course people can protect themselves by buying their coffee and chicory separately; but they do not and will not, as experience proves; and the mixtures, which include much cheaper ingredients than chicory, flourish accordingly. Teetotalers might do good service in helping to make popular an eminently temperance beverage. Representatives of working men, again, might consider whether, by further legislation or otherwise, something could not be done to save working men's families from impudent frauds. I can speak for countrymen of ours, growers of coffee in Mysore, Coorg and Ceylon, who produce some of the finest coffee in the world, but are depressed by the facts to which Mr. Goschen refers, and by the public preference (due in some measure to legislation) for grosser and less palatable drinks. A letter by last mail from the honorary Secretary of the North Mysore Planters' Association informs me that they feel strongly, and are acting in concert with other associations of British planters on this question. Of all household beverages, coffee, when pure and well made, is, by its properties, the most attractive substitute for spirituous liquors, and their most formidable rival. And now that public attention has been so pointedly called to it by the revenue returns, I hope that the Chancellor of the Exchequer, aided by the able officers of Excise, will consider whether something cannot be done to promote the consumption of coffee by stricter enactments regulating its sale."

OUR EDITOR.

The so-called Dominion Grocer, issued monthly by Messrs. Lightbound, Ralston & Co. as a sort of catalogue, tries to be "clever" in an effort to pull Mr. Lightbound out of the combination meshes (in which he got himself so absurdly entangled) by charging the editor of the CANADIAN GROCER with verdancy, freshness, etc., all because in a recent issue we expressed the opinion that a wholesale merchant here in an interview sized up his man about correctly. Mr. Lightbound wrote a lot of silly nonsense of an extremely personal character, and our reporter obtained some rather trenchant retorts during an interview of which we expressed our approval. Even an aged editor might well be pardoned for concurring in an opinion endorsed by about 99 per cent. of the entire trade, and the editor of this paper has no apology to make for reflecting the views of others if he believes them sound. We pride ourselves on being a true reflex of public opinion where public opinion is correctly and properly formed, just as we pride ourselves in educating public opinion where it is not correctly formed. We are working in the interest of the grocery trade, both wholesale and retail. Their interests, in our opinion, are largely identical, and our aim is and will be to bring these two branches more closely together as well as cement a closer friendship among the individual members. Our endeavour will be to assist our patrons to furnish food to the consumer by the wisest and best methods, and at the same time we will strive to provide food for thought on all the live questions of the day. We feel quite sure our readers will not pause to enquire as to the tough or tender years of the editor. If we could dignify the catalogue referred to into being regarded as a contemporary we would be rather pleased to see some freshness in its columns. In the meantime the Canadian Grocer is pursuing the "noiseless tenor" of its way and winning "golden opinions from all sorts of people." This substantial encouragement we appreciate and accept as the most complete satisfaction to the proprietors of this journal.

A QUEER SET OF BOOKS.

A correspondent of Stoves and Hardware, of St. Louis, who signed himself "Travelling Tinker," revamps a story current in many quarters and presents it with new features, which entitle it to consideration. The story is told as coming from some one sitting on a soap box or a nail keg in a store telling stories of a winter's evening:—

"Talking about bookkeeping," said he, "the queerest set of books I ever saw was kept by a chap I used to know by the name of Ted Oliver. Ted was as smart as they make 'em, but couldn't read a word, although he knew all about figures, I guess. He was one of the best arithmetickers I ever saw, and could do any sum you gave him without making a mark. Before the war he used to make his money trading round, and about twice a year he'd build a flatboat, load it up with truck, and steer it down the river to New Orleans, sell out the stuff and then sell the flatboat for firewood or lumber, whichever it was best for, and take a steamboat and go back home. Chickens was one of his best things, and he used to always have a lot of them on board, but good smoked side meat was about as good paying.

"When the war came on it stopped that business, and Ted started a store down to the river landing near where I used to live. He knew everybody round that whole country, and he used to trust nearly everybody for anything, and he kept most everything any fellow wanted, but how he kept track of things used to get the fellows that knew he couldn't read, and they tried to get the best of him sometimes, but they couldn't do it. Ted would open his books just like a city bank clerk, first look in front to see where a fellow's account was, and then turn over to it and tell him exactly what he owed every time. But Ted got more than he could do himself in the store, and got me to help him.

For a good while he wouldn't let me see his books, but everything he put down himself. One day a chap come in and bought a grindstone, and Ted put it down, but about three or four months after that when the same fellow wanted to know what he owed, and Ted told him, he reckoned the account wasn't right. Ted said he knew he was right, and the chap asked him what it was he got, and he read off to him a whole lot of things—an axe, a side of meat, a grubbing hoe, some nails, a cheese—and when he comes to the cheese the chap said he'd never bought a cheese from him. Well, after jawing awhile about it, Ted brings out his book and shows him just how he knowed what it was he bought, and there was a picture of everything, with a figure to it, which was the price, and that was the kind of books Ted kept. Well, the axe and the side of meat and the nails and other things the fellow said was all right, but he hadn't got no cheese and he wouldn't pay for it. Just as they was both getting hot over the business, I remembered about the grindstone, and tells them about it, and sure enough that's what the picture was for, but Ted says what fooled him was that he hadn't put a hole in the middle, and so thought it was a cheese. After that I got a good look at Ted's books, and before long I got so I could read them off pretty near as good as he could.

"But the cutest thing about it was what you fellows would call the index. You see, Ted knew all the fellows' names that bought of him, but he couldn't write them down, and he knew where they all lived, too, so what does he do but make a map on the first four pages of his book of the country round them parts, and it was just as snug as if it had been drawed out by a county surveyor. All the roads was down, and the river where it turned round the big head, and Catfish Slough, and the creek that ran up between the hills, and everything that a fellow could go by. He divided the country up into four parts, and had one page on each. So, as he knew where a fellow lived, he just put a number down on the map at that place, and that was the same as the number on the page where he kept the fellow's account, and that's how he could find it easy. There was lots of things, though, that Ted didn't know how to make a picture of, like calico, and molasses, and such like, so he had another book fixed up to show him what the signs for them was in his other book. He'd make a certain kind of mark for calico in this book, and a piece of calico pinned on by it; and for molasses he had a picture of a barrel with the bees flying around it. But one day he got a set-back when he found that the bees was about as bad round the cider and vinegar barrels as they was at the molasses, so when he fixed them he put an apple tree to one and the picture of a sour-looking old woman he'd cut out of the paper to the other, and then put a mark to each, which he used in his other book. Ted got along all right with them books, but I guess he'd be pretty well mixed up if he kept store now, there's so many things a fellow has to keep. I wonder what he'd a-done if he'd kept baseball masks and bustles. Them's pretty near alike you know. But I guess he'd got round it by making some kind of a mark to show where they wear 'em."

ELEVATION OF THE GROCERY STORE.

Another effect of the evolution in our food supply has been elevating the grocery store to be one of the most attractive of shops. Formerly the stock consisted of a few barrels of sugar, molasses and salt meat, with the addition of coffee, tea and spices; and neither in looks nor smell was the grocery store an attractive place. Now, the buyer is greeted with a bewildering variety of package goods, bearing attractive labels, which reach up into the realms of art. Instead of many different kinds of goods weighed out in the same scales, each contaminating the other, more or less, and requiring a large force of clerks, some of whom might weigh or measure too little or too much, the consumer receives packages bearing the guarantee of large establishments, tidily and correctly packed, while the grocer is benefited by no loss of weight, more perfect responsibility of employees of stock, as a given number of packages can be required or the money thereof, and an intelligent boy or girl can serve a customer more quickly, correctly and satisfactorily with package goods than an adult clerk could with goods which have to be put up at the time. A large volume of business can thus be handled with less help, and the grocery store has become one of the brightest and most attractive in the list of shops. — Francis B. Thurber, in Medical Classics.

TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

The regular monthly meeting of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association, was held in Philharmonic Hall, last Monday evening; President Berwick in the chair. Among those present were Messrs. Barron, Thackray, Williamson, Gibson, F. Britton, Mills, McCulloch, Clark, Lindsay, Johnston, Calhoun, Benny, Western and Roberts.

The minutes of the last regular meeting were read and adopted.

The Secretary then read the following letter from the Secretary of the Kingston Association:

KINGSTON, April 24, 1889.

DEAR FRIEND,—I am becoming a nuisance to you, but I can't help it. Your advice is indispensable until our Association is able to walk alone. We are going to try and make some money, which is necessary to give us back bone, and in order to do so we intend holding a monster picnic at the Crystal Palace some time in July or August. Your Association having had a successful one I thought you would be able to give me some pointers. We intend asking the wholesalers for gifts towards games, races, etc. Any information regarding picnic I will be grateful for. I was instructed at our monthly meeting last night to write for information. Hoping to hear from you soon.

I remain your friend,
J. GILBERT.

The following from Dundass & Menhennick, of Ingersoll, is one of many that Secretary Thackray receives, which shows the interest taken in the Toronto Association by outsiders:

INGERSOLL, April 9, 1889.

JOHN F. THACKRAY, ESQ.,
Secretary Grocers' Association, Toronto.

DEAR SIR,—Could you kindly give us an idea of the working of your Association—how it is run? Or if you have any Constitution, would you send us one, or any information in connection with the working of the same, would much oblige. Yours etc.,
DUNDASS & MENHENNICK.

Letters were also read from McLaughlin & Moore and from the Citizens' Milling Co. in answer to one sent out by the secretary asking them to use their influence with the milling interest to stop the practice of selling to consumers. The former firm said in their letter that if it was the wish of the association they would do so. The latter firm asked permission to have their Mr. Brown call and explain things at the next regular meeting.

Mr. Brown, of the Citizens Milling Co., being present, and on being given permission to speak, said that he felt grieved that any member of this association should lay a charge against the Citizens' Milling Co. of selling their flour at retail. They had given up selling retail, and had fought a nine months' boycott to further the interests of the association, said he could produce affidavits to prove that no flour had been sold retail. After thanking the members for their attention and hoping the report would be corrected, Mr. Brown withdrew.

Mr. Saunders said that it had been galling him for years to see some of these large wholesale houses selling retail.

Mr. Gibson said the Citizens' had not been charged individually with selling retail.

It was moved by Mr. Williamson, seconded by Mr. Saunders, that the secretary be instructed to write McLaughlin & Moore that it is the wish of the association that they stop retailing their flour; also that it would be wise to inform the Citizens' Milling Co. that the association was satisfied with their Mr. Brown's explanation.

The secretary presented accounts to the amount of $25.74, which were ordered to be paid.

PRIZE WAGON.

Mr. Berwick, on behalf of the Wagon Committee, said that they had met and decided on the dimensions. The first wagon suitable for a grocer doing a large retail business, having a carrying capacity of 1,000 lbs. and upwards, three springs, with moveable cover, and to cost not more than $125. The second wagon, suitable for a grocer doing a small business and for taking orders, same style as the first named, but to cost not more than $100. He said the committee had advertised it in the daily papers. He had one letter from a man in a Western town, asking for information. Several of the city builders had also been in to see him.

CANVASSING THE CITY.

Secretary Thackray, reported on behalf of the Committee for canvassing the city that the good work was going on, that with two exceptions he had been well received, that all members paid their fees willingly, and those who had not been attending regularly apologised for not doing so and promised to do better in the future. He said that something ought to be done regarding a dead-beat list, that prevention was better than cure. He advised the Association to pay a man's time to visit the grocers of the city once a month and get from them a list of those they could not collect from, and names of their customers who had moved, and their standing, and when he was sending out the regular monthly notice he could enclose these D. B. Circulars, with all information.

COLLECTING AGENCY.

Mr. Mills on behalf of Committee to wait on Bakers' Association said they had been kindly received by the Bakers, who promised to call a meeting to consider it. He said the meeting had been held, but had not heard what their decision was.

ANNUAL PICNIC.

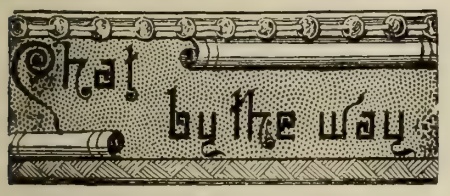
Mr. Clark moved seconded by Mr. Williamson, that the following be appointed to arrange and carry out the Annual Picnic: Messrs. Berwick, F. Britton, Butcher, Barron, Gibson, Mills, Thackray, McCulloch, Binnie, Calhoun, Roberts, Booth and Radcliffe, with the mover and seconder.

This brought Messrs. Gibson and Barron to their feet, who begged leave to decline going on that committee. The President told them to sit down, that they must act, as they could not get on without them.

Mr. Saunders begged leave to draw the attention of the Association to the fact that Williams & Co., of Colborne Street, were selling their pickles and sauces to private individuals. He said they would sell gallons, quarts, pints, or any quantity required. He moved, seconded by Mr. McCulloch, That the Secretary be instructed to write Williams & Co., asking them to discontinue selling to private parties.

Mr. Mills said that in view of the fact that the Inland Revenue were making seizures of tobacco, that the Association petition the Government concerning it. He moved, seconded by Mr. Saunders, That the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association view with regret the action of the Excise department in carrying out the Tobacco regulations as at present –and which when carried out to the letter amount virtually to the prohibition of the sale of tobacco by the smaller retail merchants. The said regulations in our opinion being altogether unnecessary in view of the great care exercised by the officials of the Government in carrying out the law regarding its production and manufacture.

The meeting then adjourned.



TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

Secretary's Address:—
474 PARLIAMENT STREET,
Toronto, Ontario.

Smith & Keighley are offering a special line of Valencia raisins at low prices.

John Gray, formerly a merchant of Kagawong, was in town this week.

Mara & Co., Queen Street west, have been very busy moving during the past few days.

Country retailers are watching with interest the action of the Toronto Retail Grocers' on the prize wagon question.

A change will be noted in the Oswego Starch Co. quotations. The 20 lb. boxes in 1 lb. packages are 8¼c. instead of 8½c.

It is reported that W. C. MacDonald, the tobacco manufacturer, will put up tobacco in smaller packages to suit the local Inland Revenue officers.

A. Haaz & Co., pickle and vinegar manufacturers, Kingston, are erecting a large factory on Bagot Street in that city. It will be completed by August.

Quite a number of the local retailers are giving ten pounds of granulated for one dollar. It is to be hoped that they will continue to do so and that all the others will follow their example. Why should grocers work for nothing?

Mr. Bart Cottam, London, reports increased sales of his Royal Washing Compound. He is also still at the front with his bird seed and bird supplies of all kinds.

Mr. S. Ruthven, of 280 Parliament Street, will move into Mr. R. Barron's old stand at the corner of Yonge and Charles Streets. He is offering his Parliament Street business for sale.

J. W. Lang & Co. are doing an extensive business in special brands of soap. They report large sales of 1889 laundry bar at 45c. They have completed arrangements to put a new 5 lb. bar on the market at 4c. It will be known as the Hollyhock.

Mr. Henry Lindsay, one of the large King Street grocers, in paying his subscription to THE GROCER said that he would not be without it for three times the subscription price, and that he had stopped another paper in the city that he might devote more time to THE GROCER.

Readers of THE GROCER should on no account allow it to pass into the hands of consumers. They know too much about the wholesale prices now. If you want them to read any of the articles cut them out, but always retain the prices current. We have received several subscriptions from farmers, evidently members of the "Grange," but in every case have returned the amounts sent.

Messrs. Swan, Hargrave and Wilson have circulated a petition, which has been signed by the majority of the trade, asking the Inland Revenue Department to rescind the regulation requiring dealers to buy tobacco in the original packages; or if they will not do so, to give the manufacturers three or four months in which to make suitable packages. The petition has been forwarded to the Commissioner by Mr. John I. Davidson.

The Toronto Retail Grocers' Association are to be congratulated on having on their annual picnic committee such men as Messrs. Berwick, Britton, Butcher, Barron, Gibson, Mills, Thackray, McCulloch, Binnie, Calhoun, Roberts, Booth, Radcliffe, Clark and Williamson. The majority of these gentlemen were on the committee last year, and the success of the picnic is all the recommendation they require. Everyone of them are hard workers and have the interests of the Association at heart.

Every retailer ought to visit his jobbing centre once a year at least, twice if possible, and oftener if he can find it convenient. The wholesaler likes to see you, and privately it is a good deal more to your interest than to his. Take or make an opportunity to find out what your jobber is doing at the other end of the line, to form his acquaintance personally, to look over his stock, examine any novelties that present themselves and post yourself generally. Look up your railroad connections, perhaps you might make a little turn on freight rates.

So far as known the only rates yet made on new season's tea in Japan are $43 to $45 per picul, which are much the same as the opening rates of last year, and represent a deal mainly in choice garden pickings, really no criterion of what the regular crop may bring. Possibly small sample lots may be forwarded by the steamer that left Yokohama on May 3, though the regular steamer was not expected to sail before May 11. Settlements at Yokohama amount to 181,800 piculs, against 200,000 piculs, and at Kobe to 137,500 piculs against 142,500 piculs last year, whilst total export from both ports combined show 39,643,297 pounds against 42,978,686 pounds last year.—[New York Bulletin.

Later on this year, says the London Grocer, the home trade will probably have to face the question of the non-arrival of common Congous on other than a trivial scale, and the question for them to solve will be whether India and Ceylon are now able (whatever they may be in the future) to provide a substitute for the very decent clean Saryunes, Yonghows, Seumoos, and other sorts of teas, now selling from 4d. to 4½d. per lb. All these teas brew a very good cup of tea, and when mixed with some of the cheap Indian Pekoe at 7d. per lb. they make a surprisingly good and cheap beverage. These teas are not to be confounded with the rubbish, with a glazy black leaf, of the old common Congou style, which we used to get some years ago, and which was worthless stuff, and of no use for our wants of the present day; but the common Congous lately sold are, many of them, of sappy, clean, fruity flavor, very useful, and low in price.

WHY GROCERS FAIL.

Commenting upon some recent statements as to excessive competition and the frequency of failures in the English retail grocery and provision trades, the New York Commercial Bulletin affirms that precisely similar conditions exist in this department of business in the United States. One of the causes of this unsatisfactory state of things is the practice of selling "leading articles" without profit, in the hope of being able to attract other business of a more lucrative kind. Another error is that of distributing "proprietary" articles without adequate remuneration. A third is the disposition to cut down the prices of other commodities not included in either of the two classes already named, in the hope of attracting a large amount of custom, on the principle of "small profits and quick returns." So long as it was possible by securing large profits in a few special commodities to balance the losses or the insufficient remuneration arising from these methods the retailer was able to do pretty well. The public is, however, becoming more and more enlightened as to the actual cost of these special commodities, and it is now more difficult to get the extra profits. The Bulletin suggests that the best way to cure these evils is to establish friendly associations, with a view to diffusing information and lessening the severity of competition amongst retail distributors.

BARRELS FROM PAPER PULP.

Efforts to make paper barrels were made about 20 years ago, when patents were granted to some parties at New York. Their barrels were made by winding a sheet of paper around a cylinder till it was of sufficient thickness, pasting the layers together as they were wound, and making the heads separately of wood or other substance. The result was a straight, cylinder-shaped barrel, and it was not a success. Various other paper barrels were brought out from time to time, produced by similar processes, all straight cylinders and all practically failures, at least for the general purposes to which barrels are put. In 1873 George W. Laraway, of Port Byron, N. Y., began to experiment with a plan for making a bulged barrel direct from paper pulp. He got out his first barrel in 1874 and obtained a patent for it and for a machine for making it. But though he had demonstrated the possibility of accomplishing the result, and his barrel was perfectly adapted to practical use, it required a much longer time to perfect such machinery as to make the manufacture of the barrels economically practicable. While he was at work on his idea, it happened that J. F. Seiberling, of Akron, O., had been at work on similar lines and with very similar results. Proceedings in the patent-office brought the two men together, and they finally joined their fortunes in working out their plans. The result is that a complete machine is now in running order at their works at Akron that will successfully make paper barrels from paper pulp at the rate of 500 to 600 in 24 hours. The product is a smooth and handsome barrel, practical and simple, and adapted to any use for which a barrel may be desired. It has only five pieces in its construction, is air-tight, strong, stiff and durable, unaffected in any way by dry or damp weather, and admirably adapted for long storage of articles subject to the ravages of insects or vermin.

The material from which the pulp is made is chiefly wheat, oat or rye straw, though any pulp can be utilized. The manufacturers say that the straw grown on one acre of wheat will make from 100 to 150 barrels, while it requires only five barrels to hold the flour made from the wheat of the same acre. If the necessary economy in the manufacture has been reached, as seems probable, it will be seen that the industry of paper-barrel manufacture has a great advantage over wooden barrels, while the barrel itself is apparently much more to be desired on most, if not all, accounts. There is no question, indeed, of the usefulness of the barrel, and the significant fact in the premises is that the gentlemen named have produced a machine that will successfully and economically manufacture it. They will manufacture both machines and barrels, and invite a critical examination of both at their works at Akron.

The pulp is mixed, while being agitated, with a powdered water proofing, and then forced into the machine, and a complete, seamless, water-proof barrel is taken out every two minutes. The water-proofing is a very important part of the process. Mr. Seiberling will adopt the paper barrel in his large flouring mills as soon as the manufacture is fairly under way. One Cleveland house has placed an order for 2000 of the barrels a day, to be used for oil. The pulp barrel has apparently a great future before it.—[Paper World.

TORONTO, May 16, 1889.

Trade has been quiet this week and values of the leading staples have shown no important changes excepting in the case of butter which is declining on increased offerings. Advices from all parts of the country are encouraging. The fall wheat is in excellent condition and the spring crops so far have experienced favourable weather. The fruit trees are in blossom in most sections and there is every prospect of an abundant crop. The money market remains steady at 6 to 7 per cent. on commercial paper and call loans are firmer at 4½ to 5 per cent.

GROCERIES.

CANNED GOODS.

The retail demand is light for fruits and vegetables, but wholesalers have been enquiring for tomatoes and corn as stocks are evidently running low. There have, however, not been any large sales, as they do not want to pay the advance as they think they can buy at old figures. The few sales that have been made have been at the higher range. Tomatoes are selling to the retail trade as before at 75c. to $1.10. Corn is unchanged; a few small lots have changed hands on the street and packers have made small sales at 90c., but the market is of a dragging character. Wholesalers have but very little stock and they are buying from each other and apparently waiting for packers to meet them at better prices than the latter now ask. Retailers have been buying apples more freely at 85c. to 90c. for 3's; gallons are dull. Lobsters are in good demand and firm at $1.65 for Loggies and $1.75 for Sterling. Mackerel herring slow at 90c. and new pack are offering to arrive below this figure. Salmon unchanged.

COFFEE.

There is a fair steady trade at former prices and the market is without any new feature. Rios are selling at 21c. to 22c. The total visible supply of coffee on May 1 was 3,619,157 bags against 2,604,138 bags a year ago.

The Markets – Continued.

DRIED FRUIT.

Currants are moving slowly at 5¼c. to 5½c., and 4¾c. to 5c. for common. Dates are held as before at 6c. for Hallowee in layers and 4½c. for old; stocks here are light and there have been further inquiries from jobbers. Figs are flat. Prunes are dull and slow at 4½c. to 5¼c. for barrelled stock and 7c. to 9c. for cases. Valencia raisins are firm with an upward tendency; prime off-stalk is quoted at 6c. to 6½c., but mostly the latter figure; common grades can be bought at much less. Sultanas quiet and unchanged. Malagas dull.

GREEN FRUIT.

The warm weather has increased the sales of green fruit considerably and a good trade is now being done. Prices are a great deal higher on account of good demand, and there is a large supply on hand. Valencia oranges are moving very satisfactorily at $7 to $8.50 per case. Messina oranges have but fair enquiry and are quoted at $3.50 to $3.75 per box. Catama oranges are quoted at $4 to $4.50. Palermos sell at $4.25 to $4.50 per box. California oranges are not very active at present and are quoted at $4 per box. There is not much doing in lemons but the prices have gone up. Messinas are quoted at $4.50 to $5. Palermo lemons are selling at $3.50 to $4 per box. There is a good supply of pine apples on the market and the demand first class and are quoted at $2 to $3 per doz. Bananas have suddenly became scarce with a slight increase in the price which now is $1.50 to $2 per bunch. Strawberries are beginning to arrive in larger quantities and are somewhat easier. They are quoted at 20c. to 22c. per box.

PEELS.

Demand light, and market is easy at 16c. to 17c. for lemon, 19c. to 20c. for orange, and 29c. to 30c. for citron.

SUGAR.

Demand has been slow all week, and refiners and wholesale houses have been doing business at lower prices. There is, however, no lack of confidence in the situation. The European markets, which were lower last week, have since partly recovered the decline, and are firm. The weakness in the American markets has also disappeared. The statistics indicate a very considerable shortage in the quantities available for the world's consumption up to next crop, with a marked deficiency in cane sugars. The total visible supply at latest dates is 907,159 tons, against 1,220,850 tons a year ago. Some attention is now directed to the probable consumption. This depends upon the price and upon the fruit crop. No doubt the higher prices will curtail the consumption to some extent, but there is every promise of an abundant fruit crop here and in the States. White sugars are unchanged on a basis of 9c. to 9⅛c. for granulated. Yellows are offering ⅛c. lower, at 7¼c., and it is said that some sales are being made below that price. Yesterday refiners dropped white sugars ⅛c., but made no change in yellows. It is likely that wholesale prices will follow the decline on Saturday. In raws there is no change to note. Demerara crystals have been selling at 9c.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Syrups are dull and unchanged, but prices are steady. Molasses firm, with a fair demand. Porto Rico and Barbadoes are moving at 45c. in barrels.

TEAS.

A slightly better demand has prevailed on the local market this week, though trade is still on the quiet side. A few cheap Japans have been offering, and sold only because of their excellent value. There have also been transactions in blacks and greens, but of a limited character. Last advices from London report an easy market for all blacks except lowest grades, which have slightly advanced, but that greens are very firm. The New York market remains about unchanged. The last auctions brought slightly better prices for greens, while Oolongs were easier. A letter from Japan under date of Hiogo, April 12th, says: The weather still continues cold and unsettled, and the general opinion obtain there that the new tea will not come forward quite so soon as in past few years.

GRAIN AND FLOUR.

Flour is dull and easy. Ontario millers are not doing much but there is a good deal of American flour being placed in the East. Bran is lower; cars can be bought at the mills in the West at $8 to $8.50, and on the track at $10 to $10.50. Wheat is dull and lower. Sales are being made on the Northern $1 to $1.02, on the Midland at $1.01 to $1.03 and on the G.T.R. West at 94c. to 97c. Manitoba wheat is dull on a basis of $1.20 for No. 1 hard. Barley is dull but firm. No. 2 has sold this week at 52c. to 53c. and No. 3 extra at 47c. to 48c. Peas are being bought in car lots outside at 53c. to 55c. Oats are lower; demand is dull and offerings liberal. Sales are being made at 30c. to 32c. on the track. Oatmeal is slow at quotations.

FISH.

The fish trade has now fairly opened and a large business is being done, particularly in trout and whitefish. Large supplies of fresh fish are arriving daily which are quickly disposed of. The demand for sea fish has fallen off and but few are handled. Fresh supplies of Lake Winnipeg trout and whitefish are received daily, and are going out rapidly at 6c. per lb. There is a drop in Sarnia herring from $1.80 to $1.75 per 100. The demand is not very active. Fresh salmon are moving off well at 20c. with a plentiful supply. Lake Erie and Lake Ontario whitefish bring 7c. per lb., but there is no great demand for them. Haddock are slow of sale at 7c. No new varieties are expected on the market at present.

COAL OIL.

Steady and unchanged, with Refined at 13c.; Carbon Safety at 17c.; Canadian water white at 19c.; American do. at 25c., and Photogene at 27c.

The Markets – Continued.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

APPLES—Green apples are slow. For good stock, $1.50 to $2 per barrel is asked, while fancy barrels bring as high as $2.50. Dried apples are slow; the retail demand is almost nil; occasional barrels are selling at 3½c.; commission houses are getting a few consignments which they sell on the street at 3c., with a few low grades at 2¾c. Evaporated are also dull; there appear to be a good many boxes held on the market; and there is every prospect of their being carried over to next year; round lots are offering at 5c. and single boxes are held at 6 to 6½c.

BEANS—Dull and unchanged at $1.50 to $1.60 for good hand-picked stock.

EGGS—The market for fresh eggs continues firm and the supply is not any too large for the demand. The combine is selling at 12c., and the commission houses at 12½c. in most instances. Shipments of Canada eggs are now being made to New York from which point advices are favorable. Canadas are selling there at 13½c. to 14c.

HAY AND STRAW—Good fresh packed timothy is firm and in demand at $13.50 to $14 on the track, but other grades are slow. No. 2 timothy is worth about $12 to $13; and mixed $10 to $11. Straw is dull; wheat is worth about $7, and oats $8.

HIDES AND SKINS—Not much doing. Dealers are buying green hides as before at 2¾c. to 4¾c. as to grade, and selling cured at 5¼c. for choice selections. Sheepskins are worth $1.25 to $1.50; and calfskins 5c. to 6c. for green.

HOPS—Are dull at 18c. to 22c. for new. Yearlings are worth about 10c. to 13c. Olds are nominal.

MEATS—There is a fair business doing in dressed meats. Beef is steadier at 5c. to 7c. by the carcase. Veal is selling at 6c. Mutton at 8c. and yearlings at 10c. Dressed hogs are lower and in excessive supply; sales are being made at $6 to $6.75 per cwt.

ONIONS—Hard to sell, and a good many are offering. Recent consignments have had to be repacked, and sometimes it takes five barrels to make one good barrel. Sales are being made at 50c. to 75c. for ordinary, but some holders are getting as high as $1.25 for fancy.

POTATOES—Continue slow. Cars are offered freely to arrive on track at 25c. with buyers at 20c. On the spot dealers are getting 30c. to 35c. out of store.

POULTRY—A few turkeys are selling at 13c., and fowl at 80c. to 90c. a pair.

SEEDS—Quiet and unchanged.

TALLOW—Remains dull at 5½c. to 5¾c.

PROVISIONS.

There has been no change in this market. While the West has developed an easier tendency, there does not appear to be much encouragement for holders for an advance. The run of hogs promises to be quite sufficient for the current demands, which are not so great owing to the low prices of beef.

MESS PORK—Has been dull and prices are unchanged.

LARD—Is steady with holders of Canadian firm at 10½c. to 11c. American is moving at 9¾c. to 10½c.

BACON—A few sides of long clear are going out at 8¾c. while tons are obtainable readily at 8½c.

SMOKED MEATS—Are in fair request. Hams are selling freely at 11c. to 11½c.; rolls at 10c. to 10½c., and backs and bellies at 10½c. to 11c.

The Cincinnati Price-Current in its review of the week says:—There is some further enlargement in the movement of hogs, the total packing in the West for the week showing 190,000 against 175,000 the preceding week. For same time last year the packing was 170,000, showing less than the preceding or succeeding week. The aggregate packing from March 1 is 1,745,000, against 1,510,000 a year ago—increase, 235,000. There is no complaint as to quality of stock being marketed, and the country was probably never more free from maladies among swine. Prices of hogs in leading markets are about the same as a week ago, having declined slightly during this time, and correspondingly improved at most points. The provision markets have been somewhat irregular, showing considerable strength at Chicago at the close, with an advance in mess pork of 52½ cents, lard 12½ cents per 100 pounds, and short rib sides 17½ cents, compared with a week ago. Outside of speculative influences there has nothing occurred during the week to add strength to the situation. While there is a good degree of enquiry from foreign markets, and a fairly good export movement, there is an evident lack of disposition to operate freely beyond current needs, under the uncertainties as to the course of values in our leading markets. At Chicago it is asserted that influential operators are now purchasing product, and that short interests are being liquidated, giving stimulus to values. Whether the strong parties now alleged to be buying are operating from the standpoint of faith in the situation of product on its merit, or to secure a favourable position for effecting sales for future delivery, the trade seems at a loss to determine. There has been so much of disappointment with regard to an upward tendency in values of hog product this season that the class of smaller operators have come to regard with misgiving any signs of a change in that direction. The current domestic distribution of product is not especially active, and advices from the South are not particularly assuring for the near future. It is not unlikely, however, that as the class of smaller speculative operators become convinced that the enlarged runs of hogs in this and next month naturally imply lower prices, that they may find it shaping differently a little later. The exports of product for the week were of fairly good volume, but somewhat short of corresponding week last year.

THE CANADA SUGAR REFINING CO'Y [LIMITED],

MONTREAL,

Offer for sale all grades of REFINED SUGARS and SYRUPS of the well-known brand of

Redpath

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST,

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal:

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday s yield 99·90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

JOHN BAKER EDWARDS, P.L.D., D.C.L., F.C.S.,

Public Analyst for the District of Montreal, and Professor of Chemistry.

CHEMICALLAB ORATORY, MEDICAL FACULTY, MCGILL UNIVERSITY.

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have taken and tested a sample of your "EXTRA GRANULATED" Sugar, and find that it yielded 99·88 per cent. of Pure Sugar. It is practically as pure and good a Sugar as can be manufactured.

Yours truly,

G. P. GIRDWOOD.

The Markets—Continued.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—Receipts have been increasing and are now more than sufficient for the immediate demand. Prices have declined about 2c. on a week ago, and the tendency is still downward. The quality of the butter has been generally very fair, but a portion of it is coming forward in poor condition owing to bad packing. Butter that should bring 18c. per lb. if properly shipped is sometimes hard to sell at 12c. Shippers who do not realize top prices should study the instructions to shippers in another column. Receipts so far have been mostly large rolls. They have been selling as a rule at 17c. for good fair stock. A few small packages of choice have sold readily at 18c. and good mediums at 16c. Pound rolls have been in fair request, and have sold at 18c. to 20c. There are not many tubs coming forward yet. Those coming are all store packed—sweet but mostly streaky in colour. They have sold at 16c. to 17c. There is a good inquiry from bakers for mediums at 12c. to 14c. but they are scarce. Creameries are nominal.

CHEESE — The various cheese Boards throughout the Province are once more in operation. At the meetings this week there have been good sales. At Ingersoll Tuesday 1,200 boxes, first ten days May out of 1,304 offered sold at 9⅛c. On the spot new are going out in a small way at 10¼c. to 10½c. Old are selling at 11c. to 11½c. with a few at 12c.

MONTREAL, May 16, 1889.

CANNED GOODS.

The demand for canned goods on spot has continued slow and the market has been quiet and steady, with no new feature to note. Dealers state the volume of business transacted so far this summer has been the smallest for fifteen years past at the same time. The demand for lobsters and salmon for future delivery has been fair, and further sales have been at $1.50 per dozen for lobsters, and $1.45 f.o.b. at the coast for salmon. The demand for tomatoes has been slow, of which the offerings are large and prices easy at 75c. to 95c. per dozen as to brand. Corn has ruled quiet and steady at 90c. to 96c. for the Erie and Aylmer brand. Peas are dull and unchanged at $1.10 to $1.20 per dozen. Canned fruits of all kinds have been neglected and prices are unchanged all round. The demand for Armour's canned meats has been fair at steady prices.

EGGS.

The receipts of eggs have been larger, for which the demand has only been fair, and the market has ruled quiet and weaker, with prices somewhat lower. Retail dealers generally are well supplied, and the movement will likely be light for some little time. Sales of round lots have been made at 12¾c., with jobbing lots up to 13½c. per dozen.

FRUIT.

The fruit market has been fairly active for some lines, and a larger volume of business has been transacted. The demand for oranges and lemons has been good, of which the offerings are fair and sales have been made freely at $6.50 to $7.50 per case for Valencia oranges, and $3.50 to $4 per box for lemons. The demand for Valencia raisins has been quiet, and only a small jobbing trade has been transacted at 5¾c. to 6c., and currants at 4¾c. to 5¼c. Onions have been in good demand, and some large lines have changed hands at 50c. to 75c. per barrel.

GRAIN AND FLOUR.

The grain market continues very quiet, and so far this season we have not heard of one single sale for export account, which is a very unusual thing. The offerings of Manitoba wheat are fair, and notwithstanding the low prices which are ruling at present millers and shippers show no inclination to buy. Business on the whole is dull and in the absence of any transactions prices are quoted nominal. We quote: No. 1 hard Manitoba, $1.16 to $1.20; No. 2 do., $1.13 to $1.16; peas, 70c. to 72c. per 66 lbs. afloat; oats, 32c. to 33c.; corn, 43c. to 44c. in bond; barley, 50c. to 55c.

Owing to the large stocks of flour and the free offerings by holders the market has a weak tone, and prices are steadily tending downward. The demand is slow, on account of the fact that local dealers have ample supplies on hand, and shippers are holding off as they cannot compete with present prices of American flour. In consequence the market is dull, with little prospect of any improvement just now.

Patent winter	$5 15 @ $5 50
Patent spring	5 50 — 6 00
Straight roller	4 85 — 4 90

Extra bags	2 30 — 2 50
Oatmeal, standard (per bag)	0 00 — 1 90
Oatmeal, granulated (per bag)	0 00 — 2 00

MOLASSES.

The market for molasses has been quiet but firm owing to the fact that buyers generally have filled their wants for the present and we do not hear of any further sales being made for future delivery. Holders are firm, and 45c. is now the inside price for Barbadoes.

SUGAR.

There has been no new feature in the sugar market to note. Stocks continue light in refiners' hands; in consequence, the feeling is firm, and prices have been maintained. Advices from abroad have been of a quiet character, but steady in tone. The demand has been limited, and only a small volume of business has been accomplished, owing to the fact that buyers, as a rule, are well stocked up. Granulated sold at 8⅜c., and yellows at 7 5-16 c. to 7⅞c., as to quality, at the factory.

SYRUP.

In syrup business has been quiet on account of the continued light offerings, and the fact that most of the stock is in single hands. There has been a fair inquiry, and a good jobbing trade has been done, but no large sales have been effected. The market is fine, and prices have an upward tendency. We quote 4½c.

TEA AND COFFEE.

The demand for tea has fallen off considerably during the past week and the market has ruled quiet, with only a small volume of business, but the feeling in the market continues firm owing to the light stock held, and holders generally talk of higher prices. Orders from the country have been small and business on the whole has been slow. In coffee a fair jobbing trade has been transacted at steady prices. We quote: Mocha, 27c. to 30c.; Java, 22c. to 27c., and Rio, 17c. to 20c.

You will live longer if your cook uses only Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder. Always reliable, purest and best.

LESS CABBAGE—MORE TEA.

"How can grocers make more money than they do now?" was asked a grocer, whom we knew to be well posted. "Less cabbage and more tea," was his bluff answer. There is a mountain of truth in his reply. How often does a grocer spend as much time talking "tea" as he does cabbage? Yet he must know, if he understands his business, that it is "tea" that pays a good profit, while often "cabbage" gets away with it. Owners of tea stores which do a dry grocery business with less labor, time and expense are making money, while the grocer who sells fruits and vegetables, kerosene and coal, hardly makes a living. How the owners of tea stores must chuckle and laugh at the grocer, who works hard selling goods that pay little or no profit. Well may "tea" look down on "cabbage." "Tea" is king, "cabbage" is a serf in comparison. If grocers would only put their hard work into selling goods represented by tea, and do less drudgery handling goods represented by "cabbage," they would find out that there would be more money in the business, and when considering the subject of how to make your business pay better, take our friend's advice: "Less cabbage and more tea."—[Retail Grocers' Advocate.

INSTRUCTIONS TO SHIPPERS.

TO SHIPPERS OF ROLL BUTTER.

A practice that should be abolished by country shippers is that of working low grades of packed into roll, and packing them in with fresh made roll, with the intention of palming it all off as fresh-made. The deception is always detected, and such lots are invariably sold at same prices that low grades of packed command. Regarding packages, new tubs or hardwood boxes are the most desirable, and half-barrels or kegs will do equally as well, and these only should be used. Care should also be taken before putting the butter in packages, that all the sides and ends of the packages be lined with new white muslin, thus keeping the butter from defacement by touching the wood. A bad practice is putting the butter up in paper; this should not be done, as the paper sticks to the butter and damages the appearance. Each roll should be separately placed in a piece of new muslin cloth, washed in warm water to take out the starch, and thoroughly wet in good brine. The rolls should be of moderate size, and not too large. Then, again, the rolls should be of uniform colour, not packing the light and fresh-made with other that has been colored. Mark plainly on each package the correct tare (the gross weight is easily obtained), as it ensures quick returns after sale is made.

TO SHIPPERS OF DRESSED HOGS.
